The North Shore in Colonial Days—the Roads

By KATHERINE GAUSS

IT is not only in the day of the automobile that the townsfolk complain about the bad roads, but as long ago as 1789 the worthy people of this section were murmuring about the rough and rocky ways. And it is most interesting to know about the North Shore roads which nowadays have reached such perfection of smoothness. Long, long ago, a party of Salem people who went visiting to Eastern Point said that Gloucester was the most rocky parish known, and the roads were horrible. After a visit to Daniel Rogers rough farm at the tip of Eastern Point one of the party remarks the fact that "the return to town was heart rending and the trip was made on foot as we dreaded the ride back through such dangerous passes." In the evening this same party ventured out to attend a gathering in the same town which is described thusly: "there were 6 candles, 12 ladies, 7 gentlemen, a black fiddler for 2 shillings, a fifer for a shilling, sixpence. Both sexes partook of the grog provided." Not much like the affairs of today on the good old Eastern Point.

A little description found in Dr. Bentley's wonderful diary is worth the while reading, as it describes so well and fully the North Shore of about 1799. One day with a party of men Bentley went down along the old Chebacco road, which was rough and tiresome, and after a short stop in the town of Gloucester, they went on a little journey about the Cape. He says: "We found the road through Cape Ann woods much assisted by the new road, but there remains one and a half miles yet unfinished to remind the traveller what that road once was and has lately been." A trip was made up the Squam river and he describes Sand Beach, which supplied ail the shore with sand for the use of families from Boston to Portsmouth. At bar rocks near Squam bar he saw a beacon upon which was hoisted a lantern in foul weather to aid the fishermen in passing the bar without mishap. He describes quite minutely the mooring of boats called Jebacco boats, so-called because that type of boat was first built in that part of Ipswich. "They perforate a large stone and raise a tree with its roots, stripped of its branches, and then slide the stone over the stock of the tree upon the root. The root prevents the stone from a separation and this is carried and sunk in a convenient place the top remaining like a post above water. The fish houses are at the head of these coves, and from the number of sunken trees we may see that nearly 300 boats belong to this body of water."

Later as fishing is spoken of he says: "Eels came down in abundance and the alewives striving to ascend being tossed back by the water, great numbers were taken without the labour of dipping into the stream. It is but lately the alewives have been led into this course and it is said that $2000 was expended in Cape Ann for alewives as bait from Jebacco and other towns. There fish also attract larger fish."

The next day the trip was resumed and Dr. Bentley first observes that "we stopped in the Harbour to be shaved by a woman named Becky, who in due form exercises all the functions of a barber. She has her shop decorated with all the pictures which belong to such place of resort from the meanest black print to the best engraving, with all the songs which are in the taste of the varied multitude of her customers. It was a solitary example of a woman in this employment. She shaves well but has few attractions of her sex." He further describes the houses of the town as small and of two stories and generally painted. The doors were commonly placed on the side so as to afford a good front room and back kitchen, with a bedroom back of the front entry. The school-houses were neat and in repair but the churches were rotting from lack of care. The people were of very decent appearance, with florid complexions and uncommon neatness in their dress.

"The road from Squam to Upper Town Mills over the two Squam hills, was in a very neglected state and by far the worst of any we found upon the island. It is so easy to pass up the river and the distance is so much less that men always in their boats never think of stretching three miles over the worst roads when they can sail pleasantly only one mile. At leisure we examined the Tide Mill and found few improvements in the construction. The water wheel is upon the new plan of side boards and flats instead of the old floats tunnelled upon shafts. The shoot was open and the clack was by iron claps on wood instead of open iron, and the spout was short and trough narrow. Near the cove was a perpetual spring which is conveyed in a wooden spout so as readily to afford any quantity of the freshest water, although a lot runs to waste into the sea."

The last day of this expedition was spent viewing Cape Ann as a military location. "The military character of Cape Ann is established. On a point of land, they can afford to employ the greatest hospitality towards all who visit them, and forming all their pleasures among themselves they must be fond of social institutions. They excell in their parties, in their clubs and also in their military parades. A late proof has been given that their artillery house is beyond example in the country. It is two stories high, in the lower there is all the arrangement of an arsenal or a laboratory. Their own two brass field pieces and two iron nine pounds, with all the apparatus are disposed in the best order. In the front is a piazza and the building has folding doors which open under it and form a full communication with it. Over the piazza is a balustrade and place to accommodate a large company and the apartment of the second story is provided for a hall of entertainment. In the front is suspended a bell given to call them to dinner. "We do not know just what may have happened to stir the old doctor up, but as a parting remark about Cape Ann he is said to have remarked that "In no place can they so easily combine for any social pleasure, in no place can they pursue pleasure with so little interruption and yet they have all the jealousies, competitions and even enmities belonging to little towns and to human nature. How unhappy it is that such an air of disipation should appear in so lovely a place in which they could give to themselves any manners they pleased."

Passing through Ipswich on his way back to Salem Dr. Bentley says, "The road to Ipswich is laid without any regard to distance, and remains as it suited the accommodation of the first inhabitants. Zigzagging towards their little groups of houses. Ipswich continues to neglect all its mercantile advantages. Not a vessel sails to any foreign port. Not even the fishery, from which Beverly profits, is regarded. In Ipswich some few persons are building but the houses are too much neglected and their mossy tops are more numerous than in any other part of New England. They have distinguished themselves and they only wait for the angel of enterprise to descend into their waters and then all will probably step in and be cured. There is a decency of character in Ipswich and they have some of the best land in the county."

After this memorable trip Dr. Bentley settled down in Salem again, and many came to his home to hear of the things that had been seen, for in those days few stirred from their home town and this little journey to Cape Ann seemed like a prodigious undertaking, and they were well content to hear their good friend describe its good and bad points, without themselves going to investigate.

Steps and Perrons

MARY HARROD NORTHEND

NO one feature of landscape architecture and gardening, save the planting, is capable of such varied and interesting treatment as steps. Until recent times the greater part of this study was for outdoor, not indoor steps—a problem of landscape architecture, rather than architecture. Indeed the splendid possibilities of interior staircases were learned by architects first from the garden courtyard stairways of Genoa during the Renaissance. Stairways remain a serious problem in gardens and housegrounds laid out on any but flat ground.

Where the need is self-evident it is really difficult to build stairways that do not look appropriate. Ordinarily a direct solution of the problem is more or less picturesque. The material has little to do with the effect. Even wood, which is so hopelessly mean and stupid in the cheaper forms of construction, lends itself to attractive results. Wood should be sparingly used for garden steps, however. It rots quickly and warps out of shape. It soon looks shabby. Unless constantly repaired, nails pull out, supports weaken and accidents may follow. No one can afford to run that risk.

Log steps or perrons are useful at times, in woods or wild land where stone is not available. They should be made of locust, chestnut or red cedar. Straight clean logs should be selected an inch or more large in diameter than the required depth for the riser, but never less than five inches. It is well to hew off two sides so that the finished top and front will be nearly flat. Do not use the saw, which suggests the sophistication that log steps are used to avoid. They may be any desired length. Dig away the surface of the bank on which the steps are to go, to such a depth that the ends of the finished steps will not be above the ground.

Near both ends on what is to be the riser cut grooves vertically.  $1\frac{1}{2}$  inches to 2 inches deep and 3 to 4 inches wide. Then beginning at the bottom, lay the logs upon the bank where the steps are desired taking care to get their horizontal and vertical dimensions parallel. In the grooves drive down pegs, made to fit and long enough to be fixed firmly in the ground, into which they should go not less than  $1\frac{1}{4}$  feet. The pegs should be spiked to the logs and the tops cut off to fit the log surface. When in place, fill in the step behind each log. If a dry clean step is wanted, use gravel well pounded down, and, if the soil is heavy, take care that there is an opening left under each log to drain the water. In some cases good soil may be used at the ends, where plants can be grown. But in the middle or near the rail, if a rail is used, the steps should be kept clean in order to avoid the appearance as well as real danger of being tripped up.

Perrons not only of logs as described, but of stone and concrete are desirable when the slope is so gradual that, if spaced evenly, the treads would be twenty inches or more wide. They are much easier and cheaper to construct than solid heavy steps and often look better. The treads may be filled in with gravel, or with other materials. In Italy where this mode of construction has always been much used, one sees treads of small stones often fixed in mosaic patterns; of stone slabs, which may or may not be of the same material as the perrons; of concrete, tile and brick. In American gardens they are used infrequently as yet, but will undoubtedly be more seen as times goes on. The best example which I know is in the branching staircase leading down to the lower pool at Mr. Harold McCormick's estate in Lake forest, Ill., where Mr. Charles Platt has used brick for the treads, set in a simple pattern.

Steps or perrons spaced regularly more than twenty inches apart are annoying to climb, however, and should be rarely used. Either you must take two or three odd sized paces or uncomfortably stretch. Whichever you do, you stub your toe as well. Where feasible, it is better to group the steps, leaving platforms between. Where there are only three or four such landings, it makes little difference how they are arranged. Where there are more, the double repetition—three steps up and two ahead, or whatever it happens to be—becomes very trying, however. Some relief should be given, such as an enlarged platform with a bench, where the ascent may be broken for a moment.

Another thing to be avoided is too long a straight flight of steps. The mere sight of an extended stairway is enough to dampen the ardor of all but the incorrigibly youthful. Joy becomes work. Not without reason have long flights been associated with penance. Fifteen consecutive steps in a straight line should be the limit.

Where the elevation to be overcome is so great it would be better to take up part of the height with branching or curving divisions: the object being so to arrange them that the eye estimates each division as a task complete in itself which may be undertaken without suspicion of fatigue. Where utilitarianism alone is the object sought, perhaps this attention to the psychology of step climbing would be unwarranted. But gardens and pleasure grounds should please in all things,—offend in nothing; which is sufficient justification for this discussion.

In old gardens steps were often of granite blocks. The beds were generally laid out on nearly level ground. Where the house was placed on a higher level nearby,

Belgian Hand-Made Laces

To Assist the Commission of Relief in Belgium

One of the principal industries in Belgium that has suffered from the effects of the conflict now being waged is that of lace-making. The Commission of Relief in Belgium through its headquarters in New York has brought thousands of dollars worth of the finest laces into this country for quick disposal.

This house in company with five other prominent Boston stores have undertaken to dispose of several thousands dollars worth of the pick of the finest pieces in the entire collection, at remarkable values. Each piece has a war seal attached, placed on it by the Commission which vouches for its authenticity as a part of this collection.

This Exhibition is Being Held on the Second Floor, Main Store and will Consist of

NECKWEAR---HANDKERCHIEFS---SCARFS

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. P. Wichfeld (Mrs. Clarence Moore) returned to Pride's Crossing, Monday, from San Francisco, being called home somewhat earlier than planned by the serious illness of Mrs. Wichfeld's mother, Mrs. E. C. Swift of "Swiftmoor."

The Oliver Ames family arrived the past week at their home in Pride's Crossing, after spending the early season at North Easton, as usual.

The Henry C. Fricks opened "Eagle Rock," their beautiful Pride's Crossing home, this week. The family has been late in settling for the summer because of some changes being made to the house.

The Charles Burrall Pikes of "Bergholt," West Manchester, have as their guest for a few weeks Mrs. Pike's niece, Miss Annette Shelden of Detroit, Mich. Mrs. Pike's mother, Mrs. R. A. Alger, widow of the late Sen. Alger, of Detroit, is coming on in July to spend the rest of the season. The Pikes were of those attending the Yale-Harvard races at New London last week. A pretty sight on the grounds at "Bergholt" is the family pets—two snow-white West Highland terriers, so near alike that a casual observer can detect no distinguishing marks at all.

PRIDE'S CROSSING

BEVERLY FARMS

MAGNOLIA

NEARLY 150 people gathered in Mrs. Robert S. Bradley's home at Pride's Crossing Monday afternoon to hear Mrs. Robert Grant of Nahant read letters from countries at war. The Fuller sisters generously contributed their services and gave a group of beautiful English folk war songs. The proceeds of the meeting will be used by the North Shore branch of the French Wounded Emergency Fund to buy supplies from the headquarters in Boston to be used in the work now being done twice a week at Mrs. Denégre's coach house. The letters that Mrs. Grant read were from people representing all walks of life, some collected from friends or through friends, and some which she had received personally. They were mostly from the allies, with the exception of the first which was from the German viewpoint. One particularly interesting one was from a French woman to her son in this country, urging him to return to France at once, as four brothers had been killed in battle and she wanted no cowards in their family. Another from Ireland showed that all resentment against England was quelled and that the English and Irish were one in their struggle. A most touching letter told of the funeral of Mme. Depage, that gentle, high bred Belgian woman, who had enlisted the sympathies of so many Americans for the Belgian Red Cross work. Other incidents of the Lusitania were mentioned. Interesting and pathetic accounts of the young wounded soldiers that the ambulances meet at the trains; stories of the bombardment of cities; the horrors of the aeroplanes and the uncanny feeling that death may descend from above at any time; the fearful life in the trenches and the horrors that were chiefly responsible to liquor were given in letters from eye-witnesses. The sentiment of one letter was that the flag should be hoisted and not put at half mast for the brave boys. One writer said he had not seen an old soldier, for all were young—the flower of the country. The songs given by the Fuller sisters expressed the feeling of the peasants in England and Scotland about the wars of 200 years ago, and one, a most touching Scotch version was the "Lament of Women for the Battle of Flodden." The group closed with the following number, a pathetic chant from a soul in each of the warring countries, which was beautifully given by the sweet singers with their harp accompaniment.

Five Souls.

FIRST SOUL.

I was a Peasant of the Polish Plain;
I left by plough—because the message ran:
Russia, in danger, needed every man to save her from the Teuton; and was slain
I gave my life for freedom. This I know
For those who bade me fight had told me so.

SECOND SOUL.

I was a Tyrolese—a mountaineer;
I gladly left my mountain home to fight
Against the brutal, treacherous Mascovite;
And died in Poland on a Cossack spear—
I gave my life out.

THIRD SOUL.

I worked at Lyons at my weaver's loom
When suddenly the Prussian despot hurled
His feon blow at France and at the world;
Then I went forth to Belgium and my doom—
I gave my life out.

FOURTH SOUL.

I owned a vineyard by the wooded Main
Until the Fatherland, begirt by foes
Lusting her downfall, called me, and I rose—
Swift to the call—and died in fair Lorraine.
I gave my life out.

FIFTH SOUL.

I worked in a great ship yard, by the Clyde,
There came a sudden word of wars declared,
Of Belgium, peaceful, helpless, unprepared,
Asking our aid. I joined the ranks, and died.
I gave my life for freedom. This I know—
For those who bade me fight had told me so.

(By W. N. Ewer, London.)

Small silk French flags marked the driveways leading to the Bradley estate and were also used as decorations in the parlors. Mrs. Grant's sister, Miss Galt, was connected with the hospital work in France for some time the past winter.

The Industrial School for crippled and deformed children of Boston opened its summer salesroom in Manchester, 28 Central street, last Wednesday. This is the sixth season for the little shop in Manchester. Many novelties are offered for sale, and as the pupils are enabled by the money earned in making these articles to wholly or in part support themselves, it is hoped that the generous patronage of past seasons will be continued this year. Some especially pretty things are shown in the sewing department. The smocking on infants dresses, the lace doilies, towels with pretty designs, many pretty articles for baby's use are just a few things noted among the great display of fancy articles. The cane and basketry department shows some unique flower baskets, sandwich and piazza baskets, shirtwaist boxes and boudoir sets. In the wood-working department are such useful articles as twine holders, beach backs, dress hangers and wooden toys. All of the articles are marked plainly with very reasonable prices, and if one is not ready to purchase now he may place his order for a later delivery. The articles are all made by pupils in the trade classes and manual training classes who, as soon as they are proficient, are paid for their work. The committee on industrial training include Dr. Joshua C. Hubbard, Mrs. H. G. O. Colby, Mrs. Philip Gardner, Miss Helen Little, Mrs. Philip Little, E. L. Kent, Mrs. E. L. Kent, Mrs. George S. IN the presence of hundreds of members of society from Philadelphia, New York, Boston and Washington, Miss Marie Louise Wanamaker, daughter of Rodman Wanamaker and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, was married to Gurnee Munn, son of Mrs. Charles A. Munn, of Washington and Manchester. The Rev. John W. Williams, rector of All Saints' Church, performed the ceremony at noon Monday in St. Mark's Protestant Episcopal church. Following it there was a reception and breakfast at Lindenhurst, the country place of Mr. and Mrs. John Wanamaker near Jenkintown. Perfect arrangements had been made for the wedding, which was one of the most notable ever celebrated in Philadelphia. Gifts of infinite variety and of great value were received by the bridal couple, among them a silver service of more than five hundred pieces from the bride's father. The bride and bridegroom were particularly interested also in a gift from the President of the United States. Mr. Wilson sent a gold and amethyst pin. Miss Wanamaker, who was a debutante of the season just closing, was beautiful as a bride. Her attendants also might have been chosen for their good looks, for it was said St. Mark's has seldom seen a prettier group. Mr. Munn was attended as best man by his brother, Charles A. Munn, who married Miss Mary Astor Paul several years ago. Miss Wanamaker had her sister, Mrs. Arturo DeHeeren, and her cousin, Miss Mary Brown Warburton, as her principal attendants. Mrs. DeHeeren, before her marriage which took place abroad, was Miss Fernanda Wanamaker. The bridesmaids were Miss Katherine H. Kremer, Miss Edwina Elkins Bruner, Miss Margaret Berwind, Miss Gretchen Clay and Miss Mary Alice Clay, of Philadelphia, and Miss Frances Moore, of Washington and Pride's Crossing. The ushers were Ector O. Munn and

The flower girl and page were Pauline Munn, niece of the bridegroom, and Rodman Arturo de Heeren, nephew of the bride. The bride's gown came from London, as did the wedding cake, which was four and a half feet high and thirty inches in diameter at the base. Both were brought from England by the bride's brother, who arrived in this country last Friday. Another gown had been prepared in this country in the event of some accident happening to the imported costume. Mr. and Mrs. Munn are to spend most of the summer on the North Shore.

ATENTION is called to the advertisement of the Navy Festival in aid of the Navy Y. M. C. A. of Boston, which is to be held on the Haven estate at Beverly Farms on Wednesday, July 21st, from 11 a. m. to 10 p. m. If Wednesday is stormy, the Festival will be postponed to the following day. What the Navy Y. M. C. A. is trying to do is to take care of the sailors who come ashore in large numbers from the men-of-war in port. These men on shore leave are subject to all sorts of the worst kinds of temptations and it is well worth while giving them a chance to keep out of trouble. The Navy Y. M. C. A. gives them a good clean bed and a cordial welcome but it wants to do more. The institution is very much handicapped by lack of space in its present quarters and is very anxious to erect a new adequate building. The Festival is being held primarily to raise money for this purpose and everybody on the North Shore is urged to come and help make it a success. Seats or tables for the cabaret in the evening may now be engaged by applying to Mr. Francis H. Appleton, Jr., Treasurer, Beverly Farms.

Admirers of Pekingese and Pomeranians can see some fine grown dogs and cunning little puppies over at Wenham Neck, Dodge street, on the T. C. Hollander estate where A. H. Pembroke has them for sale. Among them are several that took prizes in Lynn the past winter, some having been imported from Mrs. Ashton Cross in England and some that Mr. Pembroke brought from England himself. Among the Pomeranians are the sable, black, blue and brown varieties, while red predominates in the Pekingese. These rare little dogs have found their way into many North Shore homes. Miss Frances Whitman of New York has recently purchased a Pekingese of Mr. Pembroke.

DELIGHTFULLY informal and enjoyable was the dance at the Oceanside Tuesday evening. It was the first of the season and was a most impromptu affair. Miss Isabella Wadsworth of Philadelphia, who lives at Magnolia, had a birthday that day—she was twenty-one—and on the same day “Chet” Lockwood of Washington, who lives at the Oceanside, had a birthday also. Someone suggested how nice it would be to have a little dance, and so the consent of the management was readily obtained at the last minute to remove the large rug from the parlor. The orchestra—since then enlarged to full season capacity—played some pretty and catchy dance music for the score or more young people who were informally asked in. They all had a most enjoyable time and added a touch of real life to the otherwise quiet evening.

Admiral and Mrs. Edward Farmer and maid of Boston are welcomed back to the Oceanside this week.

Another New York arrival to register on Tuesday was Mrs. Albert Bierstadt, who lives at the Plaza hotel. She is in East Flume cottage, one of the Oceanside group, and plans to remain all season. Other members of her family will come later.

The first dance of the season at the Oceanside is scheduled for Saturday evening, and these will continue until the season draws to a close. Next Monday evening—on the holiday—another dance is announced.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Booth of Burlington, Vt.—a bridal couple—have been spending a few days at the Oceanside this week.

Among the popular young matrons to return to Magnolia this week for the season, is Mrs. Gerald Bramwell of Boston, who with Mr. Bramwell and their son and nurse will have an apartment in Highland cottage for the summer.

WENHAM Village Improvement society, which is composed of many prominent women in both the summer colony and the all-the-year-round colony, had its origin as long ago as 1890 and is now starting on a prosperous season. The object of the society has always been to make Wenham a clean and attractive little place. So in the early days they undertook the cleaning up of waste places, planted trees and ornamental shrubs and have been foremost in the effort to exterminate tree pests. Other lines of activity were then taken up by the society. They saw that work along the lines of manual training would be beneficial and interesting. This side of the work has grown so that last summer two sewing schools were maintained, one at Wenham Neck and one in the village. The financial support of the society for several years was raised by an annual fair. But a happy thought came to the loyal workers one day. Why not take advantage of one of the most interesting social customs of old Japan? Why not have a place where one could drink no ordinary cup of tea and be a convenient social center for the summer colony? So the Wenham tea room "At the Sign of the Tabby Cat and the Tea-Kettle" was opened in a small but cosy house next to the village church. The house is now a charming mixture of arbor and enclosure and attracts many tourists. The Woman's Exchange is an interesting feature of the place. It contains a collection of gift shop novelties as well as articles made in Wenham. Some of the specialties of the place are quilted silk puffs, crib quilts and inexpensive dinner cards and favors for children's parties. This season, owing to the new manager, Mrs. Philip Downes of Boston, delicious cakes, candies and other home-made concoctions are for sale. An interesting social feature of the tea house is that some of the members of the summer colony and other members of the society are always present as hostesses on afternoons. The following are hostesses for this summer on afternoons. The following are hostesses for this summer:

Monday, Miss Mary Burnham, Mrs. William Trout, Miss Aleline Wilkins; Tuesday, Mrs. C. D. Sias, Mrs. Frank McGee, Mrs. J. H. Gifford; Wednesday, Mrs. J. B. Pickett, Mrs. B. W. Currier; Thursday, Miss Helen Burnham, Mrs. C. T. Parker, Miss Marion Dodge; Friday, Mrs. Alanson Daniels, Mrs. E. R. Anderson, Mrs. E. B. Cole; Saturday, Mrs. B. H. Tracy, Mrs. John Wallace. The Village Improvement society has had three presidents since its formation. They have been Miss Adeline Wilkins, Mrs. Thomas Pingree and Miss Helen Burnham, who is now president. Wenham and its tea house rank third in the state in the opinion of the A. O. A. Last season a report was sent to the society stating that Wenham was excelled only by Concord and Grafton.

At the T. C. Hollander home, "Craigstone," in Wenham Neck, a large party of guests was entertained over the last week-end. This Friday Mr. Hollander partially closes "Craigstone" and leaves for a ten-weeks' sojourn on Mystery Island. His home in Wenham is peculiarly interesting, standing as it does on the highest hill in the vicinity, the view and surroundings are of special interest. From the veranda ten or more of the fine homes in Wenham and Hamilton are clearly discerned. The house, which is a low rambling structure of cement and brown shingles in the Elizabethan style of architecture, has many interesting features seen in English houses. The open courtway formed by blasting out rocks, the cheerful sun-parlor with its fine view, and the gothic ball-room, a room of fine proportions and containing a pipe-organ, are some of the pleasing features of the place. The grounds are artistically laid out in flowers and shrubs among the trees. Just now and until rose time pansies are uppermost at "Craigstone."

The Brown Owl tea room serves lunch and afternoon tea every day except Sunday. Tel. Marblehead 12. adv.

IPSWICH kiddies owned the beach at "Castle Hill" last Monday. Thirteen hundred strong, accompanied by their teachers, they took boats early in the morning for their annual picnic on the beautiful estate of Richard T. Crane, Jr., of Chicago. Master Cornelius Crane was really the host, his tenth birthday coming on Tuesday, and assisted by his sister, Miss Florence and little cousins, Florence and Harlow Higinbotham, this proved to be one of the most delightful of the Crane picnics. Games were enjoyed upon the beach and ice-cream and other refreshments were served there also. The ride to and from Ipswich is always much enjoyed. The Crane home lies about four miles from Ipswich. The house is an immense stone structure standing on a high hill seeming to dominate the vast expanse of water, sand dunes and salt marshes by which it is surrounded. The cement barns with their tile roofs at the foot of the hill, which are in process of construction, are almost a little village in appearance. A fine swimming pool and reservoir are very ornamental cement structures on the place. A rose garden, which is Mrs. Crane's special care, will soon be in its prime. The Cranes and the Harlow D. Higinbothams were among the Ipswich people who attended the Yale-Harvard races.

"Cottonfield," the home of Rev. Roland Cotton Smith has been opened this week by its new tenants, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Reece of Boston.

The Henry N. Berry family of Lynn are occupying the William G. Thayer house, "Holiday Hill" off Top Tree road. The Thayers of Southboro have been spending their summers at Dark Harbor, Me., lately.

New-comers in Ipswich are the J. S. Copley Greens of Boston, who are in the Wadley house on Newmark street.

Dr. Herman F. Vickery and family of "Island Hill," Argilla road are spending the summer on a trip to the Pacific. Their place is rented to the Ellery Sedgwicks of Boston.

The Edward R. Nash family of Brookline, will arrive at their home on "Red Top Farm," Argilla road, by July 4.

New-comers on Argilla road are the Horace A. Davis family of Brookline, who have purchased the Jenkins place, formerly a part of the Searle estate.

Among other arrivals on Argilla road are the Dr. Eugene A. Crocketts, who are now planning a six weeks' trip to other resorts; Mrs. F. B. Harrington, who has one of the most noticeable houses on the road; the Dr. J. D. Barneys; Mrs. H. A. Rogers; Mrs. Mary A. Lord of New York; Dr. W. B. Robbins; Dr. E. W. Taylor; Charles Sprague; Arthur A. Shurtleff, the landscape architect of Boston. On the Shurtleff place is an old Dutch windmill which is worth going miles to see, not only for its artistic beauty, but to see it in actual use. Other new-comers to the Argilla colony who have now arrived, are the J. B. Warners in the Ayer house and his sons, R. S. Warner in the Wendell house and Langdon Warner in the Richardson house.

Y<sup>e</sup> Burnham House is a perfectly wonderful old place to stop for luncheon, tea or dinner. Everything is so quaint and refined at this old house on Linebrook road, just outside of the village of Ipswich. Its patronage for several seasons has come chiefly from Magnolia, Manchester and nearby resorts and it is also the rendezvous for Rye Beach and other New Hampshire sojourners. The place is tastefully decorated with antique furnishings, all of which are for sale. Especially noticeable this year is a marvelous collection of dishes of y<sup>e</sup> olden time, many of which were used by historic people, some interesting ones being used by Paul Revere. Rare old pieces of furniture are also noted. A visit at the old house on a cold or wet day is worth while for then blazing wood fires are in order in the big, dark roomy fire places which are equipped with all of the paraphernalia used in the time of the Pilgrim fathers. These rooms, dimly lighted by candles and old fashioned lanterns give such an unusual atmosphere to a dinner or bridge party, that they are much sought after by the society folk who wish to have an unusual social affair.

Y<sup>e</sup> Rogers Manse was selected this year as the banqueting place for the Ipswich High school. The affair took place last night. On Wednesday evening a banquet was given by a large number of newspaper men from Boston. The Manse is an ideal place in which to hold banquets, its private and general dining rooms being so attractive and the parlor, one of the quaintest places imaginable with its old time furniture, is proving as much of a social center as the Swiss chalet dancing casino.

New Ocean House, Swampscott

THE busy social life of the New Ocean House at Swampscott has begun and this season's gay program promises to rival the attractive events of past years which have provided for the hundreds of guests such unsurpassable entertainment and enjoyment. The management has made elaborate plans for the large number of guests expected during the months of July and August and the season will be one continuous round of pleasure.

For the month of July nearly all the reservations in the main hotel have been made and the management is anticipating one of the biggest seasons on record. A large number of the season guests have already arrived and the tennis courts, the golf links and bathing beach, as well as the tea-dances are all attracting their full quotas of pleasure-seekers. The hops in the evening have already become extremely popular even at this early date.

The first formal ball on Saturday evening will usher in the gay festivities of July. Cards have been sent to hundreds of guests residing in the exclusive colony along the North Shore and present indications point to an evening of splendid entertainments. The New Ocean House orchestra of which Mr. Frederick L. Mahn is director will furnish the music on that occasion. Mr. Mahn and his orchestra are very popular with the music-lovers of the hotel this year as they have been in the past and their playing is as delightful as it is distinctive.

Another delightful event of the early season will be the first of the series of children's parties planned for Wednesday, July 7th. MYOPIA HUNT CLUB at Hamilton is now the rendezvous for many golf and polo devotees, who are enjoying the quiet life at the club before the season is at its height. Among the players most frequently seen now are Judge Moore, Dudley Rogers, Thomas Pierce, F. B. Fay, Herbert M. Sears, and Charles Rice and his sons from Ipswich. An interesting sight now is in the morning from 5 to 7 when the thirty couples of hounds are out for exercise. The layer out of the fox trails is busy now, before the pony drag season opens for the young folk of the club, Aug. 1, in finding suitable trails through the state and in New Hampshire also. The pony drags will meet three times a week during August. Trails will be prepared by putting anise over the ground, the hounds following it eagerly, thus giving the young folk an experience in following the hounds and preparing them for the real experience of fox trailing which their elders enjoy in September and later. Last season Miss Emma Mandell was the enthusiastic master of the pony drags.

This Saturday the arrival of season guests will be marked and the holiday will formally open the much-anticipated summer season of 1915.

Hart, a connoisseur and collector of rare prints and valuable etchings, came from Boston to the "Salad Bowl" tea-house, 90 Middle street, Gloucester. Etchings by David Young Cameron, the noted Scotch etcher were the center of attraction. Mr. Hart is the son of a prominent artist. EAST GLOUCESTER. There is much activity in this locality, for with the advancing holiday, the people are coming by the scores on every train, to take up their accommodations at the various hotels. The Hawthorne Inn will be crowded on the holiday, the majority of the guests to remain for the season.

The Rockaway hotel at Rocky Neck will be crowded to every available spot where a guest can be accommodated. The Field and Forest club of Boston will have its three days' excursion at the Rockaway. The 75 or more guests will arrive on the noon boat from Boston on Saturday and will stay till Tuesday. Besides the large number of the Rockaway's annual guests, who are coming, within the next few days, the house will be filled to overflowing and accommodations are being sought by Proprietor Publicover from private residences in the vicinity of Rocky Neck. An especially interesting evening is promised for the coming Sunday, when a big musicale will be held in the large reception room of the hotel. Arthur C. Wilson, the well known teacher of vocal music in Boston and critic on the Boston Globe, will bring down nine fine professional singers from Boston to take part in the program. Mr. Wilson is stopping at the Rockaway much of the time, and he has the cabin studio in the Pagoda Rocks in front of the hotel, where he is to give instruction this summer. Guests at the hotel and invited guests will have the pleasure of hearing the concert.

The Hawthorne Inn ferry will stop at the Rockaway float hereafter on its regular trips to and from the city proper landing. People at the Rocky Neck colony will appreciate this convenience arranged by Capt. Merchant and Prop. Publicover.

Professor W. H. Pabodie of Cincinnati, O., accompanied by his wife are at the Rockaway for the season. They have been at the Rockaway for a great many seasons. Professor Pabodie, who is a graduate of Brown University, Providence, R. I., came east in time to attend the 60th annual reunion of his class. Professor Pabodie prepared ex-President William H. Taft for his college career at Yale.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Olmstead of Chattanooga, Tenn., are enjoying an extended sojourn at the Rockaway.

The Misses Cynthia and Rosaline Fuller of England, who are prominent as artists of the highest class in English folk dances and songs, are guests at the Hawthorne Inn.

Miss Louisa P. Merritt of North Scituate is stopping at the Rockaway. Miss Merritt has rented her fine old Colonial house at North Scituate. East Gloucester is by no means strange to her as she has visited here other seasons and has painted the scenery hereabouts. Miss Merritt has traveled abroad extensively.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. Kuntz of Newton are spending their honeymoon at the Rockaway. Mr. Kuntz is principal of the Newton High school.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sabine Potter of San Francisco, Cal., have been the guests of Mr. Potter's mother and sister, Mrs. Mary Potter and Miss Mary Potter, both whom are season guests at the Rockaway.

The Hawthorne Inn has over 125 guests at the present time and by next week nearly every room will be occupied. Everything will be taken for the holiday. Proprietor Stacy generally finds some accommodation for people who come seeking rooms, but fortunate indeed does a sojourner consider himself when it is possible to take up what some guest has made vacant.

The Inn dances will be in the casino on Monday and Saturday.

Capt. Gibson, U. S. N., of New York is a guest at the Hawthorne Inn.

Late annual guests of the Hawthorne Inn include: Mrs. W. St. John Butler, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Stelle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. # EDITORIAL

THE QUESTION of military preparedness will not down despite all of the preachments of the peace-at-any-price party. The time has long since passed when this nation can depend upon its volunteer recruits to meet a situation when it arises. The government should address itself seriously to the problem in order to meet a problem of this nature. It is already an acknowledged fact that there are not enough officers in the regular employ of the government to properly equip and train raw recruits. War in these days is a highly scientific game and exactness and discipline are as necessary as love of country, loyalty and bravery. There are two sides to the military preparedness argument. The peace propagandists believe that the preparation of Germany precipitated the war and the militarists say that if Great Britain had been armed, trained and prepared the war never would have begun. Militarism is undesirable. War is not a wholesome or helpful institution and it is to be avoided insofar as possible with honor. America does not wish war. It has no sympathy with "jingoes," but there is an honorable middle ground. America cannot afford to neglect its military problem.

THE ATTENTION of the readers of the BREEZE is called to a poem printed in the columns of this issue that is published by the courtesy of Mrs. Robert S. Bradley at whose home on Monday the poem was sung at a meeting in the interest of the French Emergency Fund. Its pathetic tone is touching. The work of the Emergency Fund is increasingly great and its efforts should be supported. The opportunity is great and the labor is one of love. The sympathy which we all have in the losses of our friends beyond the sea should take some tangible form.

PAUL REVERE FROTHINGHAM, well known to the North Shore, and who has on many occasions preached in the Manchester church during the summer months in other years, has been honored by Harvard University by the Degree of Doctor of Divinity. The degree is worthily bestowed. Harvard never bestows its degrees wantonly or without a just appreciation of merit.

THE London Daily Mail paid a just and honorable tribute to the skill and character of the American aeroplane inventor when it suggests that the English Government secure his services, for "he is the world's best authority on aeroplanes and a singularly disinterested and uncommercial inventor."

A SHORT YEAR AGO and the whole North Shore was shocked by the catastrophe that befel the City of Salem and was busily at work in reclamation and relief work. Salem has come back in a wonderful way in the short year, but, alas! fair Lafayette street can not so quickly regain its beauty.

CALIFORNIA HAS CHARMS that are undeniable, but the North Shore has attractions during the summer that are unequalled the world over.

THE SIGNS READ that Germany will make a favorable reply to the American note. It would appear to be untenable for the German Government to provoke war with America. It has been falsely reasoned that when the war is over America will have gained such a lead over the other warring nations that America by remaining at peace will have gained what Germany sought by war. To place all the nations on an equal footing when the war is over it is asserted that Germany will wish America to be involved in the losses and the destruction of war. But who will finance the work of reconstruction in the old world when the war ends? By war Germany may be able to prevent the United States from shipping arms and ammunition to the Allies. This will be a distinct gain, but in other ways Germany will lose more. At the present time America wishes peace and national policy demands it and it would seem that Germany should also desire peace; but who knows what the war lords may do? The next move is in their hands and America cannot think until it has an answer.

THE COUNCIL of Harvard University has conferred the highest honorary degree it can bestow upon Ambassador Herrick for his efficient humanitarian work in France. There is a human interest in his honor, in as much as in his earlier days, because of the leanness of his purse, he was forced to turn his back upon Harvard and seek another college. An ambition of a life-time was satisfied in an unusual and fitting way.

ONE OF THE SHORTCOMINGS of the American military situation is the isolation of the militia from the national military authority. The powers of the Governors of the individual states is too great in this respect. Some plan should be agreed upon whereby all state military forces might become a part and under the direction of the federal military authority and subject to its inspection and standards. In no other way can progress be made.

A LOCAL NORTH SHORE aeroplane builder is working his shops to their capacity to fill government orders from abroad. It is evident that the aeroplane has demonstrated its effectiveness in war. It has demonstrated that it is efficient over and above the Zeppelin beyond a doubt. It is time, however, that our own government did something to develop a nucleus of skilled aeroplane operators.

THE PEACEFUL SCENE at the High School graduation and the telling constructive address made by the speaker were a marked contrast to the conscription barracks of old England and France to which the young men of those countries are fleeing today.

AMERICA NOW HAS an opportunity to repay the obligation that accrued when France so loyally helped this nation during the dark days of the Revolutionary War. Nations easily forget. Will America?

THE AUTOMOBILE is a great asset to America, but the blood tax that it exacts is not altogether pleasant.

THE TEUTON APPEARS to be winning in the west with uncanny persistence. Russia, however, has never counted on this being a short war. The older men of this generation remember the failures and defeats of the earlier years of the rebellion. It was not until after five years of hard and bitter struggle that victory was won. In the earlier days the South won because it was prepared. Germany is now winning because of a similar advantage. Americans are beginning to realize the seriousness of the fray and its probable duration.

PRESIDENT LOWELL was painstakingly neutral, as became him as the official leader of America's leading eastern university, but our own Major Higginson was painstakingly sympathetic with the Allies; as to Prussian militarism he will have none of it. Major Higginson is a pronounced militarist, but in the interests of peace. He is no "jingo"; he knows too well the fatality of war and its havoc.

THE PASTOR of a Beverly church preached on the seriousness of life to the graduating class of the Beverly High school. At the age at which young people graduate from High school the theme was timely. Young folks are too slow in appreciating that phase of life.

THE PRESIDENT HAS EARNED his recreation days in Cornish, but with a Mexican and a German and a British problem on his hands and in his mind the least that he expects to obtain is freedom from the heat of Washington.

VETERANS from all over the North Shore will gather at Beverly Farms Sunday to commemorate fifty years of peace. It is a pronounced fact that as a rule the G. A. R. men are opposed to war and are interested in peace; but it is not peace at any price: Peace with honor.

THE MAIMING of a pedestrian may be the accident of a moment, but flight is criminal cowardice.

ALL THE WORLD now knows where Cornish, New Hampshire, is.

AMERICA HAS BEEN manufacturing munitions of war and will continue to make them. Ethically America is culpable in so doing, but if the nation is to be legally and strictly neutral what else can we do. To put an embargo on arms would be a decided assistance to the cause of Germany and thus actually a partisan activity. America cannot stop munitions of war being sent to either Germany or the Allies without violating its professed neutrality.

WAR DOES NOT compare favorably with hell. There is a rational quality and administration of justice in the old doctrine of Puritanism in which the horrors of the inferno were administered equitably for wrongs done. There is nothing rational about war. The havoc and horrors fall with insane injustice upon the weak, the poor, the innocent and the honorable.

A TRAINING SCHOOL for officers for the American army is to be held at Plattsburg this summer. This will afford aspiring young men an opportunity to spend a pleasant vacation month and to equip themselves against the day when their country may require their services.

AMERICA WITH EVERY opportunity which peace presents has not been able to supply the demands made upon it for military arms and supplies. What if America were at war? What a plight the nation would be in merely to provide weapons of war!

The Park Board have had a bath house removed from the beach and placed on Masconomo Park, part of it to be used as a bath house for the boys, and part as a tool house. A float is being placed off the park, just beyond the landing for the exclusive use of the younger boys. The board feels this will relieve the pressure on the town bath-house at the beach somewhat, as well as being more convenient for many who would not go to the beach if this were provided. The float will be placed in the dredged section just off the park, so that swimming can be indulged in all the time.

Master Earle Duclow of Beverly is the guest of his cousin Miss Lillian Lucas for a few days.

Principal and Mrs. A. L. Saben have gone to Winchester, N. H., for the summer.

CONCERNING MANCHESTER BOY

From the weekly paper published at Breckenridge, Colo., we reprint the following concerning Frank S. Sinnicks of Manchester, who recently went to that country. The article says:

"Frank S. Sinnicks, mining engineer of Boston, Mass. is in Breckenridge in the interests of the Rilla Mining Co. Mr. Sinnicks is associated with Samuel Klous, one of the principal owners of the property. This is his first visit to this country and we are pleased to state that from what he has already seen of this district he is very favorably impressed. He visited the Rilla property Thursday and is returning there Monday to remain two or three weeks to make an extensive examination of the mine and the adjacent properties to report on same and to supervise the installation of the Rilla's new plant."

NORUMBEGA PARK

Thousands are availing themselves of the warm weather to trolley out to this beautiful park at Auburndale-on-the-Charles, where the cool breezes ever refresh. Overlooking the canoeing on the river is the famous Grape Arbor Cafe, where the cuisine and service is of the best. Orchestra concerts are given here every afternoon and evening. This week in the magnificent steel covered open air theatre, an excellent vaudeville program is the attraction and judging from the enthusiastic reception, is pleasing to all.

"THE MEISTERSINGERS" AT B. F.
KEITH'S

"The Meistersingers," New England's most famous male singing organization will commence its fifth consecutive summer season at B. F. Keith's Theatre on Monday afternoon, July 5th, in their very newest and most elaborate scenic spectacle, "The Flag Station." This new production shows The Meistersingers in the White Mountains of New Hampshire. The scene is laid at a lonely flag station on the line of the Boston and Maine Railroad, and some very unusual and effective scenic and mechanical effects are introduced. The Meistersingers will be heard in an entirely new and popular program of solos, quartets and concerted numbers, everyone of them new, and some novel effects in staging are introduced. Surrounding The Meistersingers will be a very strong show.

MOUNT VERNON, THE HOME OF WASHINGTON

(By J. E. Jones, with 33 illustrations.
U. S. Press Association, Washington,
D. C. $1 net.)

THE beauties of Mount Vernon, and a short account of its interesting history are written about in an exceptionally delightful way in the above-named book of about fifty pages. The author shows himself to be thoroughly acquainted with the subject, and in an easy manner takes one from Washington to Mount Vernon, there to depict in detail the well-marked points of the greatest object of interest. Although the book is written from a literary standpoint, as is evidenced by a concise and graceful style, it would well act as a guide for the pilgrim visiting Mount Vernon for the first time, and especially so for the visitor who has a deep regard for the traditions which clothe the nation's greatest shrine.

Each visitor will be better and wiser for the reading of this volume, and in laying it aside will surely be impressed with great feelings of reverence for the founder of this republic. The volume is not only valuable for its educational matter, and as a thoroughly good guide, but also as an example of fine book-making. The execution is perfect; the printers' art never better shown, and the illustrations are such as to command the admiration of all. It contains exceptionally well executed half tones of the Mount Vernon Home, the Potomac, the grounds, as also of George and Martha Washington. In the description of the parts of the house, the out-buildings, and the various utensils, the manner of living at Mount Vernon 100 years ago is plainly painted, and the difficulties clearly set forth by comparison with the unbounded resources of our own time.

The story of Washington never can be told too often. His spirit should ever permeate the people of the land. The great work he did, stands as an example for all time, and his devotion to his country, his self-sacrificing, his long enduring toil, and above all his exalted patriotism, will ever make him the exemplar of the nation. He is truthfully portrayed by the author of this little book. It is a book all should read—From the Washington Herald, Apr. 17, 1915. (Any bookseller will get this for you, or it will be sent postpaid by the publishers, upon receipt of one dollar.) adv.

It would seem that some provision could be made whereby at least part of the big crowd that attend the band mer, could sit down. The cost of a few settees, that could be moved to the Common on band concert nights

Nolan, the famous wicklow piper and

SALEM C. E. UNION.

The annual business meeting of the Salem Christian Endeavor Union, with election and installation of officers, took place Monday evening in the Crombie St. church, Salem. Sixteen societies were represented.

The officers and chairmen were installed by Rev. A. G. Warner of Manchester, who illustrated his remarks with fitting stories, and said in part, that it was not a dead work that was being taken up, but a live one, and those chosen to serve in official capacity should be proud of the fact and worthy of the work. He urged the others if they had any criticism, to bring it to the officers and not to their friends, thus helping and making the work more effective.

MANCHESTER CHURCHES

The services at the Baptist church Sunday will have special reference to the subject of patriotism. In the morning Rev. A. G. Warner will have as his subject "Fifty Years of National Peace." His evening subject will be "The Glorious Fourth." Special patriotic music at both services.

Dr. Howard N. Brown of King's chapel, Boston, will preach Sunday, July 4, at the First Unitarian church, Masconomo st. Service at 11 o'clock. Communion after service.

HOSPITAL CHARITY WORK

The Gloucester Hospital Ladies Aid society, in going over the records and books of the Gloucester Hospital to determine the extent of the charity work done by the management and what provision it would be necessary to make in the way of finances for the Ladies Aid society to carry on future work they have taken over and assumed, find a remarkable showing. On the basis of $8.00 per week for the bed patients and $1.00 per call for the out patients, there has been invested in charity patients the sum of $75,776.00, during the last twelve years, exclusive of surgical operations, or a yearly charge of $6314, amounting to $526.00 per month, or an average daily charity dispensation of $17.53 since the establishment of the institution in 1903.

This would practically mean the expenditure of a sum of $6314. annually by the Ladies Aid society which amounts to 6% interest on a Fund of $105,200.00. It is expected that the Fund Raising Campaign, being conducted by the society will result in at least one half the proposed benefit fund.

MANCHESTER BASEBALL

LOCAL BOYS KEEP UP FAST WORK AND TRIM LYMAN'S AGAIN

The Lyman N. A. of Beverly came back at Manchester for a second game, last Saturday, after the close game of two weeks previous, but despite the fact they brought a better pitcher, they were unable to puncture Manchester's almost clean slate of this season. Their pitcher was one of the best that has appeared in Manchester this season. In fact he allowed only five hits, and that means something when Manchester's sluggers are considered. Manchester bunched her hits and played faster all around ball than the Lymans and that is why the score was 7-3 in favor of Manchester.

O'Leary kept up his good work at the bat and in his fielding. It was in the fifth inning that he came to the bat with the bases full and sent a beauty out between first and second, scoring two men.

Gray cut off several near runs by his sharp fielding in center. Robinson, the center fielder of the Lymans made the star catch of the day when he caught a one-hander from Collins that looked good for two or three bases. The score:

ways a hard one. They won the last two years, but this year—things may be different.

Whoever is writing the baseball dope for the Beverly Times, must have a sore spot somewhere for Manchester. No matter what happens Manchester always gets a knock. This is the latest:

"Bob" Dunbar, as a catcher on the Beverly team years ago, certainly was a good baskstop, but he certainly does not know the first thing about umpiring a ball game. This was proven on Saturday afternoon, when he officiated at the Lyman N. A. of Beverly and Manchester town team game where he gave decisions that if they happened in the big leagues, would send the ump out of town. It was Dunbar who beat the Lymans Saturday and not the Manchester team. The score was something like 7 to 4 in favor of the Manchester team.

"The one team that will beat Manchester is the Beverly Farms team, who are anxious to play Manchester for fun, money, or marbles. John O'Neill played a fast game for the Lymans as did "Red" Robinson, while O'Leary was the real big noise for the Manchester nine."

Anybody who saw last Saturday's game, and knows Fred Dunbar can see the ridiculous side of this. No more honest a man ever umpired a game than Fred Dunbar. The whole trouble is,—Manchester has a good team. The team won out last year, and this year thus far nothing has been able to touch it. When a team is beaten, why not take the medicine and swallow it, without all this after-talk.

EQUAL SUFRAGE NEWS

The greatest victory for Suffragists in Massachusetts, thus far, and an important event for all Massachusetts women, was the Convention of Federated Women's Clubs (Mass) last week, where a resolution endorsing Woman Suffrage in this state was carried by a vote of 203 to 99,—or more than two to one. This splendid majority among representative women is a good omen for the ultimate triumph of the Suffrage cause, and makes it ridiculous for the opponents ever to say again that "80 per cent. of the women of Mass. are opposed to Suffrage." It was a pity that the Antis did not take their defeat gracefully, like good sports, but perhaps that was too much to ask of them, for they had made frantic efforts to stop the measure, which all proved futile. On the other hand, Mrs. Gilson, (Vice President of the Federation and State Organizer for the Suffrage Ass'n) has graciously borne testimony to the fact that, in the Convention, the Antis behaved in a perfectly dignified manner, and Mrs. Maud Wood Park reported that there were no personalities, in spite of the strong feeling naturally roused by so important a question. This testimony is as encouraging as the vote itself! We need no longer fear that women cannot face and discuss the most serious subjects with dignity, nor that the Federation of Clubs will go to pieces because it has endorsed patriotism in the form of Suffrage.

Almost at the same moment, the National Ass'n of Nurses, in convention at San Francisco, also endorsed Woman Suffrage. And every few days now we hear of another local Grange in Mass. endorsing Equal Suffrage. So the good work and good news go on.

Essex County Suffragists held an important conference at Salem Wil-lows on Saturday last, including luncheon at the Juniper Point Inn. Mrs. Mahony of Lawrence, the County chairman, presided, and interesting and encouraging reports from the long list of Essex Co. leagues were heard, the best of all being from Lynn. Mrs. Gilson (who has taken Mrs. Pinkham's place for the summer) gave an inspiring account of the victory at Marion. A very unexpected but pleasant episode occurred: a gathering of men of the Prudential Life Insurance Co. were also lunching at the Inn, and they drew up and sent in to the Suffrage meeting a resolution endorsing Woman Suffrage! They also cheered "Votes for Women" as our delegates entered the dinner room, and almost every one of them signed the Suffrage cards. It seemed an excellent omen for Essex County!

The Manchester Equal Suffrage League has accepted the cordial invitation of the Fourth of July Comm. to be represented in the Manchester parade on the morning of the Fifth. The Gloucester League is also planning a fine demonstration in which it invites Manchester Suffragists to take part.

Everything, in short, is now so cheerful and hopeful for Suffragists, that we can all endorse the message from headquarters which urges us, when the Antis repeat and increase their unjust accusations and slanders, (as they undoubtedly will, for they are in bitter mood) to be patient and dismayed.

CARNIVAL OF FLOWERS AT MANCHESTER CHURCH

The "Carnival of the Flowers" was successfully given at the Baptist church, Manchester, Wednesday evening, June 23, by a company of 80 children from the Sunday School under the direction and training of Mrs. Warner, G. Allyn Browne of Gloucester, organist.

Address of Welcome, Miss Ruth Bullock; Young People's chorus, "Creation's Voices Sweetly Sing;" Quartet, "The Carnival of the Flowers;" Song by Rose Maidens, "Hark to the Song;" Young People's chorus, "Gladness breathes around us;" Solo, "Wake up Daisy Folk," Myrtle Lethbridge; Song, "Look Up, Be Glad," by the Daisies; Young People's chorus, "Serve God With a Perfect Heart;" Solo, "Our Colors," Henrietta Stanley; Recitation, "Flowers Bells are Ringing," by the nine flower bearers; Young People's chorus, "Greeting the Children's Hour;" Trio and chorus, "The Earth is the Lord's;" "Sunbeams," eight members of primary department; Young People's chorus, "Hosanna to God."

Spring appeared with Love, Joy, Purity and Memory all in special and appropriate costume, to hold a Carnival of Flowers as a festival of Love for "the Rose of Sharon." For queen the white rose is chosen because it comes nearer to Him beside whose perfectness all else looks stained and dim.

Marches, drills and the appearance of the "Buds of Promise" were interesting features. Weaving in and out through the whole Cantata were the thoughts of loving service and praise to God. The message of hope and cheer was brought by the "Angel of the Flowers" accompanied by the "Sunbeams" and ushered by Children's Day and the Pansy guards and "Color bearers" all attractive in their unique and beautiful costumes.

The message of the entire entertainment was one of encouragement.

"Here's a magazine offers prizes to ladies for telling how they helped their husbands make money."

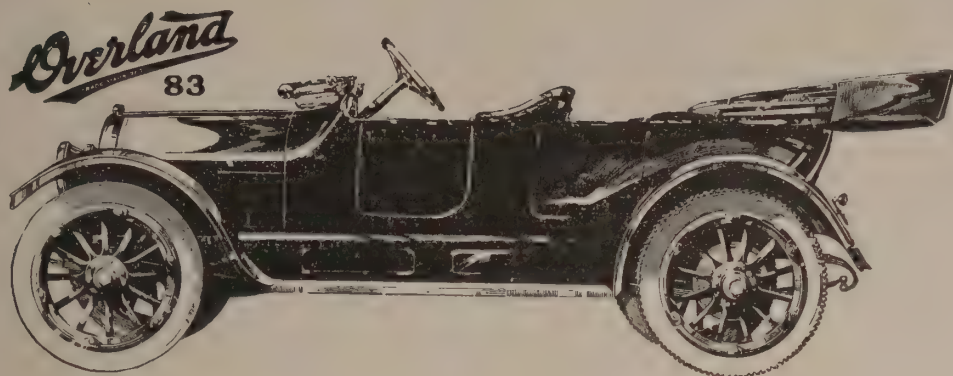

"If they were telling how they helped spend money," snorted her ungallant husband, "you'd take first prize."

Last Saturday afternoon was opening afternoon at the New Bungalow on Mrs. A. C. Thornton's estate and about fifty persons were present to hear the program given by the piano pupils of Miss Alma Edwards and by the other members of the club of girls which is to have its headquarters there. The program was interesting and varied and the way in which it was carried out reflected great credit on those in charge. Mrs. H. C. Foster is to have control of the club and present indications are that it will successfully fill a need in the community.

Mrs. Abbie Story left Tuesday on a several months' visit to Skagway, Alaska, where she will be the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Story. Mr. Story is the promoter of the Ruby Silver mine at Skagway. Mrs. Story went from here to Winchester where she joined Mr. and Mrs. Edward Foster and their family with whom she will motor to Skagway. The Foster family will return east by way of the exposition at San Francisco.

Miss Marion Story was one of the fortunate young women to win a trip to the Exposition in the Journal contest, and she will leave July 15 for San Francisco. Miss Story has been employed in the postoffice here for several years and the support which she has received in her district (No. 6) must have been quite gratifying to her as a testimony of the friendly feeling not only of Magnolia people, but of people in the nearby towns.

A Celebration Dance which will be free to members and their lady friends is to be given at the Men's club-house tomorrow (Saturday) evening, July 3. Admittance to non-members is 50 cents. Next Wednesday evening a benefit dance for the Sons of Veterans is to be held at the club. Music for both occasions by Carey's orchestra. The moving picture show was held Thursday this week instead of Friday, the regular date, but will be on Friday night of next week. An unusually good program is anticipated for that date. Wednesday and Saturday are Ladies' nights when the ladies may use the bowling alleys for 10 cents a string. Ladies may bowl any afternoon for 5 cents a string. The list of members is quite long for this time of year and is growing rapidly. There are now nearly seventy men who belong to the club. The membership fee is $1.00. The rooms are renting fast this season and practically all will be filled by next week. Everyone is looking forward to the return of the manager, Rev. Frederick J.

Libby, who has been in Northfield for a few days, on Monday the 5th.

The Women's clubhouse on the Shore road is one of the busiest places in town this year. Ten of the eleven rooms are rented for the season and there are already nine Boston women down for the summer. The membership is now nearly 125 and everyone is enjoying the clubhouse and its beautiful situation to the fullest extent. The house is splendidly located overlooking Magnolia beach and the porch, which has been made gay with porch boxes this week, makes an attractive spot for reading, sewing, or chatting. The sewing room with its two machines is quite in demand and the assembly room has been the scene of a number of pleasant gatherings. There were eight tables at whist last week, Mrs. Margaret Murphy and Miss Lizzie Becks winning the first and second prizes. Sunday evening a Victor concert was held and Wednesday evening was the first Gentlemen's Night of the season. It was a very pretty party, mountain laurel being used for the decorations. Music was furnished by Carey's orchestra, and ice-cream and sweet crackers were served at intermission. Another whist party was held last evening and a Victor concert will be given Sunday evening from 9 to 10 o'clock. A Patriotic Party in observance of the Fourth will be held at the clubhouse Monday evening, July 5. All members are invited to be present. Members are requested to leave their names at the office in order to join the dressmaking, sweater and scarf knitting and embroidery classes which will begin the second week in July.

Sunday morning, being July 4th, a patriotic service will be held at the Village church and the pastor, Rev. Dr. Walter S. Eaton, will preach on "The Hand of God in American History." The morning service will be followed by the communion service. The evening service will open at 8.15 and the pastor's sermon will be "Ephraim's Cake Half Baked." 8.15 will be the time for the evening service throughout the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kelly and their family have come down from Boston and are settled at their cottage on Raymond street for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Welsh and family have a cottage on Norman avenue this summer. They had the Ross cottage on Englewood road last year.

There was a combination of a shifty wind and a little rain to mar the regatta of the Eastern Yacht club at Marblehead last Saturday. A miniature lighting storm gave the skippers something to think about for a while, but the meet was a success, nevertheless. The yachts winning: Class P, Britomart; Bar Harbor 31-footers, Vera III.; Boston Yacht Club first special rating, Tyro; sonderklasse, Cima; class R, Huskie II.; Marblehead 17-footers, Sarampus; Manchester 17-footers, Kiowa II.; Corinthian Y. C. 15-footers, Half Moon.

Today the fleet of the Eastern Y. C. of Marblehead start the Marblehead to Portland cruise.

Starting on the morning of Sunday, July 18, from Gloucester, the Boston Y. C. fleet will take their cruise, this year the course to lie as far east as Camden, Me. Two years ago the members and guests had a wonderful time in the harbors below

Boothbay and that prompted a similar trip this year. The start will be made early in the morning, at 4.30. The itinerary is as follows:

Saturday, July 17—Rendezvous at Gloucester, anchoring off Hawthorne Inn.

Sunday, July 18—Racing run, Gloucester to Peak Island.

Tuesday, July 20—Racing run, Peak Island to Christmas Cove.

Wednesday, July 21—Racing run, Christmas Cove to Rockland.

Thursday, July 22—Racing run, Rockland to Bucks Harbor.

Friday, July 23—Racing run, Bucks Harbor to Camden.

The strike of the caddies at the Myopia Hunt club shows that the youngsters have a keen appreciation of the value of their labors. Although it was reported that the golf committee had reached an agreement with the caddies on Sunday, the following day the boys did not report at the links, it is said the strikers ask 75 cents for each round of the 18-hole course. Heretofore they received 40 cents on week days and 50 cents on Sundays and holidays.

BEVERLY FARMS

At the meeting of the school committee held Tuesday evening a number of business affairs pertaining to the Beverly Farms school for next year was transacted. Owing to the increase of railroad fares it is recommended that instead of the pupils going to Beverly it is desired to establish a domestic science kitchen at the Beverly Farms school. This recommendation was adopted. Miss Sara E. Piper is to be transferred from the Farms to the South school; Miss Mary E. Lowd from the 1st to the 3rd grade; Miss Carrie Giddings from the 4th to the 5th and 6th grade; Miss G. Florence Swanson from the 6th to the 7th grade. A new teacher at the Beverly Cove school next September will be Miss Henrietta Townsend, a former Beverly Farms young lady and a graduate from the Salem Normal, and who has been teaching at West Bridgewater at a salary of $500.

Miss Anna Sherrin, who was graduated from Mt. St. Joseph's Academy at Brighton last week, will spend the summer at Beverly Farms and is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Connolly.

The G. A. R. Post and the W. R. Corps of Essex have been given invitations to attend the patriotic services with the patriotic orders of the Farms, which will be held at the local Baptist church on Sunday, at 5.30 p. m.

Many people have enjoyed the bathing at West beach the past week, the water being quite warm.

A change has been made for the ball game at the playgrounds tomorrow afternoon. The Lynn Gas and Electric team, one of the best semi-pro teams, will be the opponents of the Farms team. This team takes the place of the Peabody team as stated in another column.

The choir of St. John's church is preparing for a two weeks' outing at a camp at Pleasant View, near Watch Hill, R. I. H. E. Miller will have charge of the camp. This was built a few years ago for Christ Church of Norwich, Conn., and is considered a very excellent camp.

A LIVE CHURCH

SPECIAL PATRIOTIC SERVICES AT BEVERLY FARMS BAPTIST CHURCH

The graduating class of the Beverly High school attended the Beverly Farms Baptist church last Sunday evening and the minister, Rev. Clarence Strong Pond preached to a full church on "The Seriousness of Life," taking his text from the gospel: One thing thou lackest, go and sell all that thou hast and give to the poor and take up thy cross and follow me." The minister emphasized the seriousness of life and the fatality of leaning on education, wealth, position, power or inheritance for happiness. Real life was enjoyed only as one took up the cross of life and bore it with determination and courage. Tomorrow evening the Italian class will present an interesting program of beginner's exercises. All friends of the church are invited. Mr. Loreto Tessicinni will preside, Miss Louisa P. Loring will play two piano solos, the Mayor of Beverly and the minister will make short addresses. A secretary from the Italian embassy will attend. On Sunday morning the minister will preach on the "Transforming Power of Thought." Sunday afternoon at five thirty there will be a special patriotic service at which service the department commander of the Massachusetts G. A. R., A. K. Knowles will speak. Hon. Guy A. Ham of Boston will deliver a patriotic address. This will be a religious service to commemorate the fifty years of peace since the war for the preservation of the union. The Ladies Sewing circle will hold their annual fair on Thursday, July 8,

In the early morning there will be a parade, all kinds of features are invited to enter. At 9.30 there will be a ball game on the playgrounds between the Beverly Farms team and a strong out of town team and it is likely that there will also be a game in the afternoon. At the beach in the afternoon there will be the usual horse events and athletic sports. In the evening $200 worth of fireworks will be set off and the pier illuminated. During the afternoon and evening the Beverly Farms band will furnish music. Anyone who wishes to contribute may send in their subscription to Benj. F. Everybody is cordially invited to take part in the parade on the morning of July 4th, which starts shortly after 6 o'clock from Depot square. In the past there has been a tendency to "let the other fellow do it," while most people just looked on and criticized. This year the committee wants everybody to enter, no matter how simple the make-up. Prizes will be given the best features.

The baccalaureate service of the graduating class of the Beverly High school was held at the Beverly Farms Baptist church last Sunday evening. Rev. Clarence S. Pond, the pastor, preached to the High School students from the theme, "The Seriousness of Life." The whole service was one of interest and profit.

Owing to the weak condition of the West Beach pier it is found inadvisable to use it on the evening of July 4th to set off the fireworks display. Through the kindness of Mr. George Lee, permission has been given the use of a portion of the Lee estate for this purpose. A platform will be erected on the rocks facing the beach and the display given from this point. Many think this new location will be even more sightly than the pier.

Improvements in Central square have been completed. The new road surface is certainly a fine piece of work, giving the square a very neat and attractive appearance. In the center has been set up one of the new "white way" electric lights, which is the cause of much favorable comment.

Beverly Farms people are looking forward with much pleasure to Thursday evening, July 8th, when the St. Mary's Dramatic club presents to the public the laughable farce, "The Café Chantant," by a cast of 35 people under the direction of Mrs. John J. Shea and assisted by six other well known ladies and the Ladies orchestra. The entertainment will be given at Neighbors hall, following which there will be dancing.

Among the divorces granted by Judge Jenney is that of Nellie E. Borden of Beverly Farms vs. Victor Borden of Boston. The custody of Edith is given to the mother and Robert to the father.

Beverly Farms at last has got the "movies." Mr. Crowley of Danvers has leased Neighbors hall for every Wednesday evening during the summer for this purpose. Last Wednesday evening, the first night, there was a large audience present who enjoyed a seven reel show which lasted nearly two hours.

Miss Mary E. White, proprietor of Beverly Farms' only dry-goods store, on West st., who recently was operated upon at the Beverly Hospital, is reported to be getting along very nicely.

Cornelius T. Shea and John J. Bresnahan have been granted jitney licenses and they are doing business around Beverly Farms.

Last Saturday afternoon at the playgrounds the Beverly Farms ball team won its third straight game, their opponents being the fast Orioles of Danvers. The score was 15 to 3. The home team was altogether too strong for the visitors. Tomorrow afternoon the crack Belmonts of Peabody will play while on Monday the Knights of King Arthur of Gloucester will play here in the morning, and Ipswich probably in the afternoon.

Fred Bunce and family have moved to Revere. Mr. Bunce has been a resident of Beverly Farms for many years.

Much sentiment is being expressed for the setting up somewhere in Central square, or the Library lot, the flag pole which was recently removed from Central square, and toward this end a petition has been sent in to the city government. This is really the only public flag-pole in this section. It was given to the city by popular subscription and it is quite evident that the Farms people still want to see from a central location, Old

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest
St. Jacobs Oil

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 25 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly!

RETAIL STORE OF DANIEL LOW & CO., SALEM, MASS.

THE purpose of this advertisement is to welcome you to Salem, and particularly to invite you to visit our Retail Store, which our friends are good enough to speak of as "the most interesting Store on the North Shore."

Our Retail Store is located in Town House Square, in the very heart of Salem, where once stood the Town Pump made famous by Hawthorne. Nearby are many of the points of historic interest, the locations of which are shown on our new Visitors' Map.

Whether your stay on the North Shore is for a day, a week or for all Summer, we know you can spend part of your time pleasantly and profitably in our Store. You will find it a place that will delight your heart, with its spirit of hospitality and its wide variety of interesting and unusual wares—at the most unexpectedly moderate prices!

We want you to consider this a personal invitation to visit our Store as often as you have the desire, and to make it your headquarters when shopping or sight-seeing in Salem. Come in and look around in a leisurely fashion; our clerks are expected to serve you, but not to disturb you in the least if you wish merely to look around or to meet a friend or wait for a car. Our Store is a Salem institution, dedicated to your service.

When the "North Shore Summer family" begins to gather for the season, one of the first trips of many of the residents is to "Daniel Low's." From the beginning of the Summer season until September our Store has almost a social aspect. It is headquarters for visitors and shoppers. Friends meet here, automobiles call for their owners (automobiles are allowed to stand at our Washington street door), tourists stop to see "Daniel Low's" on their way through Salem. It is our pleasure to entertain people from all parts of the World and to help make their stay in Salem enjoyable.

The Colonial Room is always a centre of interest. It is beautiful in its appointments, the handsome pieces of mahogany furniture furnishing a rich setting for the various displays of silver, cut glass and china. The wall paper is a reproduction of the paper in a famous old Roxbury mansion. The five zones are represented, with their typical vegetations, in wonderful colorings.

Our old gold and silver counter (where genuine gold and silver antiques can often be picked up for a song); the original canvas of "The Gift," the picture reproduced on the cover of our catalog; and the Colonial Cut Glass Room, are all of interest to the visitors.

Our Store is within easy motoring distance of all of the North Shore resorts; all trolley lines pass our doors and the Boston & Maine Railroad Station is but two minutes' walk. We hope that whenever you visit us you will feel the homelike spirit for which our Store is noted; and we think you will congratulate yourself upon having access to a shop where you can find so many unique and out-of-the-ordinary articles for gifts and for personal use, at prices so helpfully moderate.

Send for a copy of our New Map of Salem for motorists and tourists, showing places of historic interest. It is free.

Our Earliest North Shore Inhabitants

FREDERICK MORSE CUTLER

NOT Conant's company, nor Endicott's. Not the gallant Norsemen under the viking Thorwald. But the men who slew Thorwald and broke up his settlement, the Indians. From them come our finest names—Nahant (the island), Saugus (the small outlet), Conomo (mountain-point), Agawam (fish-curing place). What manner of men were they?

Although our land titles are originally derived from the Indians, it is fair to claim that they did not themselves recognize private property rights in real estate. For they were thorough-going communists. No Indian would think of conveying to another person any right in the land beyond a right to share in common enjoyment of wild-game and garden. When "The Hawk" deeded Wenham to the white men, he had one idea in mind; while the purchasers had an entirely different understanding of the transaction.

Passaconaway was the greatest chief of the Pennacook confederacy; and our North Shore Indians were Pennacooks. From the distant foothills of the White Mts., down the Merrimac valley, and even as far as Salem, extended the territory of this tribe. By blood and language they were related to the Massachusetts and Nipmucks to the southward. But politically their sympathies lay with the French and the Canadians. After King Philip's war they removed to St. Francis, in Quebec; and became for one hundred years a thorn in our fathers' side. And we might note in passing that descendants of these Indians yet reside in the same section of Quebec. One would expect large numbers inhabiting so great a stretch of territory; but in point of fact there were less than 2,500. How helpless these red men were in the presence of the white invaders! In 1619 a fishing vessel landed a sick sailor or two—left them here to die of small pox. The result was an epidemic of that dread disease amongst the Indians, which nearly depopulated eastern Massachusetts. Because of this, the Pilgrims found just one Indian remaining alive in Plymouth. While Conant and Endicott discovered a nearly similar situation in Salem.

Some who regard "the clan" as a Scottish institution, should have visited primeval America. "The Hawk" at Ipswich was chief of an Indian clan, named after their location, the Agawams. They were a small portion of the Pennacook ("at the bottom of the hill") nation or confederacy. Chieftains were elective; but only representatives of certain "first families" were eligible to have their names on the ballot at the primary or caucus. It happens that they gave us the word, "caucus." Owing to embarrassing uncertainty concerning family relations, they followed the custom prevalent among barbarians everywhere, barbarians in the stone or the bronze age, and traced descent through the mother. "The Hawk" was elected chief, not because of his father; but because he was his mother's son.

Arrowheads, spearheads and tomahawks have been so frequently dug up in Essex county, that we feel quite familiar with the Indian's methods of hunting or waging war. Yet mighty hunter that he was, he did not scorn the humble trap. In fact he taught the white man how to snare game. From the boy scouts we learn how he made fire by revolving one stick on another. The bow, however, used by the boys, is of Eskimo and not Indian origin. Snowshoes, toboggans, canoes, and bows and arrows were implements of the hunt; while pemmican, jerked beef and parched corn meal were the huntsman's diet.

A race which first used corn, beans, pumpkins and maple sugar ought to have lived high. But when we realize that the red housewife had no kitchen stove on which to cook, no milk, no butter, no eggs, and no flour; we again to suspect limitations. Think of managing a kitchen without stove, milk, butter, eggs, or flour. The roughest camping party of whites would not be contented twenty-four hours under such conditions. Boiling, broiling and roasting may be the most wholesome and hygienic methods of preparing food; but if we were permanently restricted to them, we would unanimously condemn hygiene. Very hospitable was our Indian. But we should lose our appetites when we discovered the Indian's primitive method of dish-washing. Only one domestic animal did the red men possess, the dog. And he felt such appreciation for this faunal treasure, that he entrusted to the dog the important duty of dish-washing, or more accurately dish-licking.

Jaunty khaki costumes are on sale today everywhere, advertised as Indian clothes. On the fact of it one would almost envy the red man and maiden. But investigation discloses that all kinds of cloth originated with the white man. Buckskin and blankets were all the Indian had before he "was discovered." And the blanket consisted of strips of skin and fur woven alternately with strips of shredded bark or long grass. No wonder the Indian acquired the habit of "making his skin do."

At the wild west show one sees picturesque villages consisting of conical wig-wams. Enthusiastic architects have ventured the opinion that civilized man might profitably sit at the Indian's feet and learn lessons in graceful building. But Agawam did not consist entirely of conical wig-wams. The houses were all light and temporary in construction, owing to the necessity of leaving them after a few months, and moving to fresh fields. The reasons for such frequent removals were many; and although small, so pointed as to make their bites felt. The Indian entirely lacked carbolic acid and sulphur naphthol, he was wretchedly deficient in domestic sanitation, and of course knew nothing of soap. Moreover it is easier to move than to clean house. So the wigwams were all of light construction. But so far from all being artistic, they must have resembled the huts which boys erect in the woods, or those built by construction gangs along a new railroad. If the builder forgot to provide a smoke hole, never mind. The family could breathe up the smoke, and so get rid of it.

One North Shore institution is of Indian origin—the clam bake. Let us pause a moment and meditate upon this, our indebtedness. Everywhere along the back part of clam beaches we can find piles of charred shells showing where the red men feasted. We agree that his taste was irreproachable in this matter. But "tell it not in Gath," amongst "The Hawk's" clam shells near Ipswich, historical excavators have been shocked to find burned human bones intermingled with the shell-fish remains. You can see them for yourself at the Ipswich Historical Society. Alas Moschanonett required strong flavor for his clams.

In conclusion the subject is actually almost limitless) let us make a comparison which can by no possibility be odious to our earliest inhabitants. What were the Indian's strong points? Stand up, friends, and testify. First he was brave; fear and he were strangers. No enemy that he understood could scare him. Second he was true; he never said one thing while meaning something different. Your property and your reputation were both safe with him. Nor would he desert you when you were in trouble. Third, he was hardy; neither fatigue nor hardship could daunt him. The Indian has many enthusiastic admirers today. The more one studies, the more one must admire. Yea, the simple red men of the forest can teach us. "Spartan" is the word we customarily employ to designate these heroic qualities, these marks of real manhood. When Ernest Thompson Seton was writing his chapter on the Indians, he termed them "The Spartans of the West," and we feel that the designation is appropriate.

"The Declaration of Independence."

"When in the Course of Human Events—"

OUR nation is counting up its birthdays with the coming of the Glorious Fourth each year, and is fast making progress in its second century. But while the Fourth of July in this year of 1915 makes us a nation 139 years old, we are still in our infancy. As we grow older the prevailing sentiment of the people seems to favor more civilized methods of celebrating our natal day—a sign that we have come to realize that noise is not patriotism, nor lawlessness liberty. True love of country does not consist in reviving memories of past injuries, or parading the fact that we conquered our enemies—it means honoring the flag with our best manhood and womanhood.

The picture opposite is from an old engraving of the famous painting of Trumbull's, "The Declaration of Independence." At the table sits John Hancock, President of the Continental Congress. The Committee of Five standing before him are Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Roger Sherman and Robert L. Livingstone.

Of his best loved work, "The Declaration," Trumbull wrote to Thomas Jefferson in 1823: "The event was great beyond all others in the history of man; the actors in it were men who not only by that act, but by the consistent and undeviating patriotism of their subsequent conduct deserve to live in the memory of mankind to the end of time; and I thank God that I have possessed calmness of mind and steadiness of purpose to complete this memorial of such men and such an act."

"Proclaim Liberty Throughout the Land—"

FEW relics of Revolutionary times and the seven years' war for freedom are more treasured than the "Liberty Bell" which proclaimed for two hours, the sounds of jubilee from the belfry of the old State House in Philadelphia, on the afternoon of July 4, 1776, at the adoption of the Declaration of Independence. There the Colonial Congress had been in session, solemnly deliberating on the affairs of the country, and on that day in particular, there were grave portends of some decisive act on its part—decisive of the country's destiny for weal or woe. The final and memorable act came, and thus it was, of course, that this bell was the first in the United States rung in honor of that great event. Tradition, or history, shows that this bell was imported from England for the State House in 1752, but became cracked on the first trial after it was hung. It was recast in Philadelphia in 1753; but on the approach of the British to Philadelphia in 1777, the bell was taken down and removed to a place of safety.

The next year the steeple itself, having become decayed, was taken down, and a simple belfry or tower substituted.

Singular, and appropriate, surely, upon fillets around its crown, cast there twenty-three years before Congress met in the State House, are the Scripture words, "Proclaim liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

The size of this national relic and treasure is a matter, of course, of only secondary moment; but, as every item pertaining to what is invested with such memorable associations can scarcely be regarded as inconsequential or devoid of interest, it may be stated that the bell measures just four feet in diameter at the lip, and is three inches thick at the heaviest part.

NORTH SHORE GRILL tea garden, at Magnolia, opened for the season Tuesday, July 6th, and many of the North Shore summer colony were there. The outside dancing floor which proved so popular last summer, is still a great attraction and many who tried out the floor passed a most pleasant afternoon. Another feature this summer is the orchestra which plays directly in the garden. Those entertaining at dinner Monday night were Mr. and Mrs. William H. Coolidge and party of six; J. W. Cox and party of six; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graves of New York and party of four; Lieut. A. A. Kibben, U. S. S. New Jersey, party of four; Russell L. Steinert, party of six. Mr. and Mrs. David H. Taylor of New York gave a dinner for Mr. and Mrs. George L. Bromwell and Mr. and Mrs. Edw. C. Wetmore, all from the New Ocean House, Swampscott. Among those noticed having tea were Mr. and Mrs. Allyn M. Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Culbert, Sydney E. Hutchinson, Miss A. Bellows, Mrs. W. Carew, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Greer, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tewksbury, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Porter, Jr., Mrs. Gordan Means, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blaine, Mr. and Mrs. John Barry Ryan, Mrs. John Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Wickes, Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond and party of four; Mrs. Lucius Sargent, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Beal.

Among the new-comers to the North Shore this year is Mrs. W. G. Fitch of New York, who is at the Daniels cottage, Beverly Farms, formerly occupied by the E. Lawrence Whites. Mrs. Fitch has a beautiful place at Greenwich, Ct., but she forsook the associations with that this year so as to be with friends on the North Shore. Mrs. Fitch is in deep mourning, having lost her husband and son within the last two years.

Mrs. Henry Stephen of Detroit arrived last Saturday and is settled for the third season in the Paine house at Pride's Crossing.

Mrs. Franklin Haven of Beverly Farms is entertaining her cousin, Miss Endicott of Boston.

Dr. and Mrs. James Marsh Jackson, who have been spending the early summer on the South Shore, plan to arrive at their summer home in Beverly Farms the coming week.

A SERIES of nine races has been arranged for the Manchester One-Design boats, for a cup offered by Mrs. William Lowell Putnam, the first race being sailed Wednesday. The boats are to be sailed by the boys alone, and no older ones are to be allowed to assist. The result of the race Wednesday follows:

1. Kiowa II	J. A. Jeffries	1:12:12
2. Meddler II	L. Mortimer Pratt	1:13:15
3. Asteria	C. E. Hodges, Jr.	1:13:50
4. Tulip	Thomas Cabot	1:15:00
5. Palmetto	Thomas Taylor, Jr.	1:15:30
6. Teal	William Dexter	1:15:50
7. White-Wing	Francis Cummings	1:16:15
8. Shad	Mason Sears	1:17:50
9. Ketchup	Augustus Putnam	1:21:58

Mrs. L. C. Fenno of Rowley gave a children's party this week at her beautiful year around home.

The George B. Pooles of Chestnut Hill are now settled for their first season on Mingo beach hill, Hale street.

Miss Anna P. Jackson of Pride's Crossing has been entertaining Miss Isa Gray for a few weeks.

The "kiddies" tea party at Green Gables, under the direction of Mr. Paul Jones Chute, with dancing by little Muriel Crowell, who charmed all with her clever dancing, was a huge success. Over thirty little folk turned out for the first party of the series. The novel favours were enjoyed not only by the kiddies, but by their elders. Every Tuesday afternoon one of these delightful parties will be held at Green Gables, and some clever children will give costume dances for the little guests. Next Friday, July 16, at 7 o'clock, a dinner dance will be given. Songs and dances will be given by Miss Margaret MacDonough, who was chosen by the Boston Herald in a recent beauty contest as the most beautiful girl in New England. Miss Melba Proctor of Eastern Point will give costume dances. Guests at Green Gables of the past week include Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Goffe, Kansas City; Chas. W. Kinney, Chicago; George B. Ryder, Mrs. E. S. Welden, Dr. Savage, Boston; F. H. Jenkin, Mrs. W. O. Mitchell, the Misses Mitchell, E. O. Hiler, Boston; Roger Upton, Marblehead; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. LeBerquet, Miss Arnold, Haverhill.

The Mass. Federation of Women's Clubs and Equal Suffrage

Editor of the North Shore Breeze,

Dear Sir:

The passage of the resolution favoring woman suffrage at the recent meeting of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's clubs requires explanation lest it mislead.

The endorsement of the resolution was not given by the 65,000 club women as implied, but by only 203 out of the 397 members registered, who, though delegates, were uninstructed by the clubs which they represented so that their votes are only an expression of their individual opinions. The chairman's ruling that all "delegates whether under direct instructions or not are entitled to vote if they wish to do so" is calculated to give the impression that they voted as representing all of their club members, but this is not true, for delegate after delegate reported that owing to the arrival of the notice of the resolution the clubs which they represented had sent them away uninstructed and that they did not consider themselves justified in voting as representing their clubs. Moreover, the 99 opposing votes cast by those members who objected to the resolution did not represent nearly the full number voting, as the tellers disagreed in their count of these votes, and the recount was made after many of the opposing members had left the hall.

The introduction of the suffrage resolution at the annual meeting was planned by the governing board of the Federated clubs, which is almost wholly made up of suffragists, some time beforehand, but the notice that the resolution would be so introduced was sent to the presidents of the various clubs only during this month of June after every club in the state had closed its doors for the summer, and could not be brought together. This precluded the possibility of the clubs taking any action on the resolution. Many suffragists, however, being aware of the likelihood of its introduction, asked to be sent as delegates and were appointed before most of the presidents of the various clubs understood the situation. As the delegates are apportioned among the clubs at the rate of two for the first hundred members or less and one for every succeeding hundred, among the smaller clubs the full number of delegates sent were thus not infrequently suffragists, not from the conviction of the club but through this ruse. In spite of this careful preparation so many anti-suffragists rallied to the meeting, and the situation seemed so threatening to the machine suffragists, that it is understood that many more delegates were hurried down from suffrage organizations at the last minute in order to swell their numbers.

There is grave doubt whether the resolution was constitutional, but the chair backed by her board ruled that it was, and though the constitution of the Federation forbids partisan organizations from belonging to it, many suffrage clubs have joined it during the past year, giving some nominal outside work as the reason for their incorporation. The packing of a meeting of this kind is a perfectly simple thing to do for anyone could organize a club and thereby acquire two delegates in the convention. The Anti-Suffrage association with its 130 local committees could, had it chosen, have taken similar action, but it was left for the suffragists to break up the valuable public work of the Federated clubs by preventing their ever again being the non-partisan body—including in itself so many different kinds of women—which has done so much good work for the state.

Two women representing two of the larger clubs got up and asked that the thousand or more women whom they together represented should be subtracted from the total number in the Federation before any statement of the number represented was issued to the press, because they did not consider it honorable for them to vote as representing their clubs when these clubs had not been able to instruct them how they wanted the vote cast. These women were not alone in their action—others representing even larger numbers felt and acted in the same way, and Mrs. Mulligan, the former president of the Federation, protested formally, and her protest, which is spread upon the records of the Federation, is as follows:

"Mrs. Mulligan protests against this action being represented to the papers as an expression of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs of 65,000 members."

The Federated clubs of California took similar action in May of this year, and in consequence of this action on the 9th day of June the Ebell club, representing over 1500 women, the second largest club in the country and called the parent of the women's clubs in California, formally withdrew from the State Federation. If this could happen in California, where women already have the suffrage, how much more disastrous will the resolution passed in Marion prove to the influence of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs.

THE songs by the Fuller sisters Monday of last week at Mrs. Robert S. Bradley's, Pride's Crossing, at a meeting for the benefit of the North Shore branch of the French Wounded Emergency Fund,—expressed the feeling of the peasants in England and Scotland about the wars of 200 years ago. The group closed with the following number, a pathetic chant from a soul in each of the warring countries, which was beautifully given by the sweet singers with their harp accompaniment:

Five Souls.

FIRST SOUL.

I was a Peasant of the Polish Plain;
I left by plough—because the message ran:
Russia, in danger, needed every man
To save her from the Teuton; and was slain.
I gave my life for freedom.
This I know—
For those who bade me fight had told me so.

SECOND SOUL.

I was a Tyrolese—a mountaineer;
I gladly left my mountain home to fight
Against the brutal, treacherous Mascovite;
And died in Poland on a Cossack spear.
I gave my life for freedom.
This I know—
For those who bade me fight had told me so.

THIRD SOUL.

I worked at Lyons at my weaver's loom,
When suddenly the Prussian despot hurled
His felon blow at France and at the world;
Then I went forth to Belgium and my doom—

I gave my life for freedom.
This I know—

For those who bade me fight had told me so.

FOURTH SOUL.

I owned a vineyard by the wooded Main
Until the Fatherland, begirt by foes
Lusting her downfall, called me, and I rose—
Swift to the call—and died in fair Lorraine.
I gave my life for freedom.
This I know—

For those who bade me fight had told me so.

FIFTH SOUL.

I worked in a great shipyard, by the Clyde,
There came a sudden word of wars declared,
Of Belgium, peaceful, helpless, unprepared,
Asking our aid. I joined the ranks, and died.
I gave my life for freedom.
This I know—

For those who bade me fight had told me so.

(By W. N. Ewer, London.)

IF the enthusiasm and co-operation which are being shown by the organizers and friends of the coming Navy Y. M. C. A. festival at Beverly Farms are properly backed up by the weather, then July 21st should prove a red letter day on the North Shore. In the first place, Miss Haven has given the use of her field, beautifully situated near the sea on West Street, within two minutes' walk of the Beverly Farms station. Besides this, the United States Government, through the friendly medium of the Naval officials at the Charlestown Navy Yard, will send down a detachment of marines and bluejackets, with two marine bands, to take part in the entertainment. Last, but not least, the following ladies have undertaken the work of the various booths:—

MILLINERY BOOTH: Mrs. George von L. Meyer, Miss Julia Meyer, Mrs. Raymond Rodgers, Miss Julia Appleton, Miss Sybil Appleton, Mrs. James Parker, Jr., and Mrs. George von L. Meyer, Jr.

FARM PRODUCTS: Mrs. Walter D. Denegre, Mrs. Francis Meredyth Whitehouse, Mrs. James H. Proctor, Mrs. William H. Moore, and Mrs. Samuel A. Culbertson.

TABLE AND HOUSEHOLD UTENSILS: Mrs. R. S. Bradley, Miss Helen Burnham, Mrs. C. E. Cotting, Mrs. H. G. O. Colby, Mrs. George M. Cushing, Mrs. Edward L. Kent, Mrs. Gordon Prince and Mrs. John L. Thorndike.

FLOWERS: Miss Margaret Thomas and Miss Helen Frick, managers; Miss Ella Snelling, Miss Ethel Cummings, Miss Eleanor Higginson, Miss Elizabeth Beal, Miss Pauline Fenno and Miss Ellen Curtis, flower girls.

AFTERNOON TEA: Mrs. Homer B. Richardson, Mrs. Boylston A. Beal, Mrs. R. Paul Snelling, Mrs. Timothee Adamowski and Mrs. Louis Bacon.

CHILDREN'S TOYS: Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge, Mrs. Francis L. Higginson, Jr., Mrs. Nathaniel S. Simpkins, Jr., and Miss Mary Curtis.

SPORTING CLOTHES: Miss Elise Ames, Miss Olivia Ames, Miss Grace Brooks and Miss Phyllis Sears.

BABIES' CLOTHES: Mrs. C. M. Amory, Mrs. Reginald Boardman, Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, 2nd, and Miss Lillian Mitchell.

PIAZZA AND GARDEN ACCESSORIES: Miss Evelyn R. Sturgis, Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby, Miss A. M. Sturgis, Mrs. Francis L. Higginson, Mrs. Neal Rantoul, Mrs. T. Jefferson Coolidge, Jr., and Mrs. J. A. Lowell Blake.

PILLOWS AND BAGS: Mrs. Hendricks H. Whitman.

CANDY AND CAKE: Mrs. E. Laurence White.

LAMPSHADES: Mrs. Augustus P. Gardner.

GRAB: Mrs. Livingstone Davis, Miss Teresa D. Weld and Miss Louisa Weld.

BRIDGE: Mrs. Alfred Codman, Mrs. A. Henry Higginson and Mrs. Oliver Turner.

In addition to the above, a number of young girls will act as waitresses under direction of Miss Elaine Denegre, and assistance of every sort is being given by the young men of the summer colony. The festival will last all day and there will be music, military drills, athletic contests, dancing, with tea in the afternoon and a cabaret in the evening,—besides the usual accompaniment of booths and side shows. The festival is being held to raise money for the fund for the building which the Naval Y. M. C. A. hopes to build in the neighborhood of the Charlestown Navy Yard. The Navy Y. M. C. A. is an organization which provides occupation, recreation and friendly surroundings for sailors and marines of the U. S. Navy on shore leave, and has large and adequate establishments in the neighborhood of most of the Navy Yards of the country. It is national in its scope and is affiliated with, but not controlled by, the local Y. M. C. A. In Charlestown its equipment is woefully insufficient to meet the needs of a large and important navy yard, and the committee in charge of the Boston branch is raising funds for the necessary building. This committee consists of a number of well known Boston men among whom are Messrs. von L. Meyer, Charles K. Cummings, Charles M. Amory, Francis H. Appleton, Jr., Nathaniel Simpkins, Jr., Dr. Marshal Fabyan and other residents of the North Shore.

The sewing for the French Wounded Emergency cause will be thoroughly organized by another week at the Oceanside Annex, Magnolia. Nearly all of the ladies in the Magnolia colony turned out to the first meeting, Tuesday morning. In order to supply material a contribution of fifty cents a week is asked. The ladies are having a hard time in finding a sewing machine that can be donated for the summer.

Brownland Cottages at Old Neck, Manchester, were the scene of much entertaining over the holiday. Hon. Davis Cooke of Philadelphia came on with his daughter, Mrs. M. L. Cook, for the season. Miss Loring spent the week-end with her parents, the Thatcher Loring, and has left with a party of friends for a two months' trip to California. Miss Marion Greeley has spent the week in New York. The Misses Sohler entertained their niece, Miss Metcalf of the Theodore Metcalf family of Boston, over the holiday. Miss Gertrude White of Boston will come to her apartments at Brownlands, July 16.

BEVERLY has the honor of being chosen this season as the summer seat of two foreign embassies, the British and the Italian, the embassy of Great Britain being located at the cottage owned by Miss Fannie Powell Mason off Prince street at the Cove and that of Italy at the Pitch Pine hall cottage owned by Arthur F. Luke of Brookline at Beverly Farms. With matters of diplomatic importance likely to arise at any time in regard to the European situation, both ambassadors are keeping in close touch with Washington and special telegraph and telephone wires have been placed at their disposal. Sir Cecil Spring-Rice the British ambassador and Lady Spring-Rice were among the arrivals of last week and find much to delight them at their new summer home. It is on the picturesque Beverly shore, far from the travelled way, secluded and delightful. It has a fine frontage on the beach and while the cottage is perhaps not as showy as some of its neighbors, it is comfortable and homelike and the ambassador and his charming wife are much pleased with it. It is expected that, later in the season, when the diplomatic tension lessens a bit, there will be considerable entertaining at the embassy and in turn there will be much entertaining done in honor of the ambassador and his wife. The attachés of the embassy will be at the Farms and Manchester for the summer. While the Italian ambassador, Count Macchi Di Cellere and the Countess are living at Beverly Farms, with a retinue of some forty servants, and under-secretaries, the official work connected with the embassy is handled at a cottage on the grounds of the Masconomo hotel, Manchester, where one of the several attachés live. Another secretary lives on Sea st., Manchester.

OCEANSIDE HOTEL MAGNOLIA

OCEANSIDE HOTEL, Magnolia, had a little over four hundred guests registered last night—quite a village in itself—and this number will be increased by Sunday, it is expected, to nearly five hundred. The booking for July and August would indicate a full house the rest of the summer, and full house with the Oceanside, with its twenty cottages and the big Annex, means 750 people and more. The Oceanside season is to be a brilliant one; that was expected months ago,—now it is growing into a reality. The weather has kept the season back a little, but even the weather has been unable to make this year's registration at the Oceanside on a par with last year's; the season has been running ahead of last year every day from fifty to seventy guests and last night the actual house-count was nearly a hundred ahead of last year.

The greater proportion of Oceanside guests are here for the season; there is very little of the transient business. Most of the guests are families settled for the entire season or the greater part of it. A great many New York people have been among this week's arrivals, and not a few from points farther away.

Mrs. Francis L. Potts of Philadelphia, who has been spending the early summer at Bryn Mawr, Pa., has joined the Philadelphia people at the Oceanside for July. Mrs. Potts, who was Miss Carrie de H. Harrison, has been in the habit of spending her summers abroad and this is her first prolonged stay on the North Shore.

Mrs. C. Gray Dinsmore, and maid, New York city, arrived at the Oceanside last Saturday to spend July.

One of the most charming young matrons at Magnolia this summer is Mrs. Robert Graves of New York. Mrs. Graves was Mrs. Kingsley Swan (Mabel L. Miller) previous to her marriage a year ago last March at Brooklyn to Mr. Graves of the famous wall paper establishment of that name. Mrs. Graves was most attractive at the dance the other night in a beautiful white lace gown.

Tuesday's arrivals at the Oceanside included Mrs. Clarence F. McMurray, and daughter, Miss M. McMurray and maid. They have apartments in Centre cottage for the season.

July guests at the Oceanside include Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Bridge and family of Newton.

Mrs. E. J. Post of New York city has registered at the Oceanside for a month's stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Rhodes and children of Brookline are at the Oceanside for a visit, and have rooms in Highland cottage.

From Atlanta, Ga., this week have arrived Mrs. R. W. Johnston and two children and maid, and Mrs. Johnston's mother Mrs. A. A. Thomas and maid. They are to remain all season. They have an apartment in Highland cottage.

Bostonians to arrive at the Oceanside within the last few days include Miss E. M. Harris of Charles River Square, and Miss Mary T. Sawyer, the latter to remain through July. Miss Harris is a new-corner here. Mrs. A. E. Smith of Worcester, who registered Wednesday is a friend of Miss Harris.

Old-time guests to return to the Oceanside this week include Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Hood—the latter of sarsaparilla fame—and Miss Wilder of Lowell. They are here for the season, and have rooms in Highland cottage.

Miss Mary E. Hobart and Mrs. Ellicott Fisher are among the Philadelphians to register at the Oceanside within the last day or two.

Curtain Holders—A quaint reminder of mid-Victorian days, decorated in bright colors. Price per pair $3.50.

Door Knocker—It is designed with either a pear or apple in natural colors. It is gaining quickly in popularity. Putting the knocker on the guest room door is decidedly the vogue. Price $2.50 each.

BY the redecoration and enlargement of our Magnolia shop we are able to exhibit the season's newest ideas in china, glassware and decorative objects to the utmost advantage. A personal visit will convince you that this is the place to obtain prizes, favors and gifts of unusual charm and distinction.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Miller and daughter, Miss Marion Miller of Buffalo, N. Y., have returned to Magnolia this week for the season. They have apartments in Seacrest cottage, one the most delightfully located of the Oceanside group, near the water's edge. Mr. Miller is an ardent golfer and plays in the tournaments at the Essex County club every Saturday through the season.

Miss Adelaid L. Cutler of Brookline is a new-comer to the Oceanside this season. She will remain through July.

Mrs. J. W. Tillinghast and daughter, Mrs. Longstreet of Albany, N. Y., have come to Magnolia to spend July at the Oceanside.

Philadelphians to arrive at Magnolia this week for the season include Mr. and Mrs. John B. Morgan, and maid, who have apartments in Overlook, one of the Oceanside cottages.

Mrs. Mathew Semple and daughter, Miss Helen Semple and maid of Philadelphia are spending the summer at the Oceanside hotel. They have apartments in Highland cottage for the entire season. Mrs. Semple and daughter, while new-comers to the Oceanside, are not new to the North Shore as the family have lived for many years at Beverly Farms.

Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Perry of Boston are among the week's arrivals at Magnolia. They are at the Oceanside for the season.

Mrs. A. Moore Richard and two daughters, Misses Alice and Eloine Richard of New York city have been welcome additions to the Oceanside colony this week. The Misses Richard take a prominent part in the social activities at the hotel and were of those to take up the new dances last season. They have an apartment in Wilkins cottage for the summer.

NEW YORK ADDRESS:
381 FIFTH AVENUE

Albert Latscha of New York has arrived at Magnolia, which means that dancing has taken on new life, for Mr. Latscha's interpretation of the new steps during his season at Magnolia last year made him most popular with all the matrons, young and old, as well as with the younger girls and boys. He is to be at the Oceanside all summer and will give private instruction in the Annex. Mr. Latscha danced the new fox trot the other evening with Miss Dorothy Nicols of New York, who was most attractive in a white lace dress with colored sash. This is the first time the dance has been seen at Magnolia, as it was danced at Palm Beach and in New York the past season, and it is sure to become the rage. Miss Rosamond Lancaster of Worcester was also noticed dancing with Mr. Latscha, also Mrs. Graves, who is a beautiful dancer.

Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Tiffany of Baltimore are among the week's arrivals at the Oceanside. They are to remain throughout the season. They are the parents of Mrs. Gordon Abbott of Boston, whose summer home is at Manchester.

Willis B. Allen and Mrs. William Aug. Allen of 477 Commonwealth ave., Boston, are among the recent arrivals at the Oceanside for the season.

Mrs. Sarah E. Ford of Cambridge is another arrival at the Oceanside to remain through the season.

Mrs. L. B. Shaw and daughter, Miss Shaw are among the many New York city people to register at the Oceanside this week for the season. They have rooms in Perkins cottage.

Mrs. C. R. Mason and friend, Mrs. O. M. Fernald of Williamstown, are at Magnolia to spend July at the Oceanside. Mrs. Mason is mother-in-law of President Garfield of Williams College.

NEW OCEAN HOUSE, Swampscott.—The first formal ball, the children's party and the inauguration of the daily Thés Dansants were the principal social events of the past week at the New Ocean House at Swampscott. The formal ball was a perfect radiance of splendor and beauty, several hundred guests of the New Ocean House and their friends from the exclusive cottage colony along the North Shore being present. The ladies in the gathering were gowned in the most striking and costly creations from the shops of famous American and European modistes.

The children's party on Wednesday was a decided success, the little ones offering an attractive program which included aesthetic dancing of the most graceful type. The concluding dance of the afternoon by Miss Gloria Geisinger of St. Louis was particularly striking. The dancing was under the direction of Mr. J. Jefferson Richards, the Back Bay dancing instructor.

The tea dances which were an attractive feature of the social activities of the past season at the New Ocean House have come into even greater favor among the guests this season. Because of their pronounced popularity, it has been decided to continue them each afternoon in the Tango Room of the New Ocean House for guests and their friends. SWAMPSCOTT cottage life is moderately quiet, the social life centering about the hotels. The cool weather up to a week ago undoubtedly had something to do with the quietness of this section, but now that real summer weather has made its presence known, things are expected to take on a rosier hue socially.

The Lincoln house is prospering under the direct management of Roy K. and Charles Bergengren of Lynn, the owners. This is the second year these men have had the Lincoln and the first under their personal management. With several important changes in the physical appearance of the house, they are starting on a promising season.

The Tedesco Country club is the hub around which Swampscott seems to turn socially and many dinner and bridge parties find their way to this pleasurable summer retreat. George Dempsey, formerly a summer resident of Clifton, entertained a number of friends at the Tedesco recently, having among his guests Gov. David I. Walsh. Two new tennis courts are being laid out at the club, which with the other half-dozen courts makes ideal provision for the lovers of this sport. The miniature golf course laid out in the rear of the clubhouse is proving a real attraction for the many ladies who frequent the club.

The Oakland house, situated on Puritan road, is the mecca of vacationists to the Swampscott shore. It is making a specialty this summer of catering to the motor trade and its ballroom, built new last year, is being rented for private parties along the upper shore.

CLIFTON cottagers are practically all on the shore now for the season's frolic with bathing, motoring, golf and the kindred outdoor sports in prospect for the next two months. Few additions to the colony were noted the last few days.

Independence Day at Clifton Heights was a busy one. There was a feature parade in the morning, with Standley Sinsheimer, a summer resident, as drum major in picturesque costume. Clarence Colby and Russell Ellis formed a troop of "cavalry" and Mrs. Caroline Hitchcock was the goddess of liberty. Herbert D. Foss of Cambridge, another of the summer visitors, was a pseudo chief of police. After the parade an election was held for "mayor" of the Heights, the candidates being Miss Geraldine Jones, as a suffragist; E. B. Badger, for temperance; and E. R. Ellis, total abstinence. Miss Jones won by a large majority. One of the first matters that will probably come before the new mayor is the charge by William H. Howard against H. D. Foss for serving as police officer without proper authority.

Mr. and Mrs. Stickney of Grand Rapids, Mich., are at the Sydney F. Dreyfus house for the season. Mr. Dreyfus deserts Clifton this summer, in favor of Weston, away from the North Shore.

A new tennis court is being constructed on the summer property of Guy Merrill on Rockaway avenue, Clifton.

The Kelsey bungalow on Sea View avenue has been rented to Charles M. Spofford through the Chapman agency. Mr. Spofford is expected to remain on the shore until early in October.

The Clifton Heights casino is open for the season and lovers of l'art terpsichore are now having their wants filled.

Charles L. Eaton of Malden, who occupies "Seven Gables" at Clifton, is planning an extended visit this summer at Belgrade Lake, Me.

NAHANT hotels seem to be doing more than an average of business, compared with some other sections of the North Shore. The Tudor, Edgehill and Rockledge all have good-sized houses. Social activities, as usual at Nahant, center about the conservative Nahant club. Golf and tennis are the only sporting events in the summer colony there. Dinner parties and bridge at the club are other diversions.

Mrs. Robert Amory of Beacon street, Boston, and her daughters, who were all settled at Nahant for the summer, are now in the country. They had to desert

The Hotel Rock-Mere on the mainland had a full house over the holiday and has retained a large part of its guests for July. Among those for a stay there are Mr. and Mrs. P. Coleman Dupont, the powder manufacturer of Wilmington, Del. Mrs. Dupont is down permanently for a long stay, while her husband spends as much time as he can away from business on the shore. With them are their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilson, also of Wilmington. Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Robinson of Boston have charge of the dancing at the Rock-Mere this season and have arranged some parties which should be a delight to the colony about the hotel. The first Thé Dansant of the Rock-Mere season will come next Wednesday.

CAPE ANN. The holiday brought large numbers of summer sojourners to the Cape Ann shores. The season is now booming and the months of July and August promise to be lively both in a business and social way. The main street presents a busy scene these days, for scores of automobiles are making their way up and down the lines of stores and the latter are almost constantly filled with patrons from the summer colony. The season has been rather late owing to the cool weather conditions and there are numerous cottages yet on the list for rentals, but inquiries are reaching the real estate dealers daily now and these desirable estates will most probably contain tenants who will remain very late. So remarkably beautiful are the charms of late September and October on old Cape Ann, that the summer sojourner is becoming more acquainted with them and consequently prolongs his stay here. The large number of guests remaining at the Oceanside hotel at Magnolia last autumn and also those stopping over at the Hawthorne Inn at Eastern Point and the Moorland and Thorwald hotels at Bass Rocks show that autumn at the seaside is becoming more popular.

The holiday on Cape Ann proved very enjoyable to the visiting contingent as well as the citizens. Cape Ann Day as arranged by Wingaersheek Tribe of Red Men was a grand success. The street parade in the morning was attractive. The jackies from the U. S. S. Georgia, which was in port in honor of Cape Ann Day, showed off to excellent advantage, as well as the handsome floats and the fraternal organizations in their regalia. The attractions at Stage Fort Park both in the afternoon and evening were viewed by thousands of people. The shower at noon was disappointing, but the sky cleared during the afternoon and hearts were made glad again, especially those of young America, who anticipated the events.

Carnation Day, in Gloucester, under the auspices of the District Nursing association comes on next Saturday, July 10. The spirit of charity will prevail on that day and it is expected that many thousands of flowers will be sold for the benefit of this noble branch of hospital work. Everyone is invited to cooperate.

A social event which local residents and summer visitors will patronize, is the Greek play "Endymon," which will be given for the benefit of the Alumni of the Nurses of the Addison Gilbert Hospital, on the hospital grounds, on July 22, afternoon and evening. The cast, entirely of girls will take the male and female roles and special costumes are being designed in Boston. There will be elaborate lighting effects, while several dances will be introduced during the performance. Miss Sally Shute is directing the play and Lester Crowe has charge of the dances.

Gloucester harbor presented a gala scene on Sunday and the holiday, the U. S. S. Georgia being at anchor in the outer harbor, while steam yachts and sail pleasure crafts were at anchor. The Georgia was ablaze with lights from stem to stern and water line to turret, while the ships searchlights made a magnificent display on those two evenings.

The Sawyer Free Library which has been under the process of enlarging and improving since last December, opened its doors for the inspection of the public last week. This beautiful colonial building is attracting the summer residents. The hand carved staircase and the splendid woodwork have received finishing applied by experts along this line. A large addition at the rear contains the stack room where 20,000 new volumes are shelved and a fine fireproof basement where newspaper files are kept. The Dewey system is being used in the library. Besides the stack room on the first floor are the reading and delivery room, the reference and waiting rooms across the hall, the children's reading room on the second floor, above the delivery room, and the rooms of the Gloucester Associated Charities and the room of the library directors across the hall on the second floor. In the reading room may be found books by standard authors, teachers' books, standard poetry, history, Underwood's Tours with stereoscope; old fiction from the former collection, the shelves being changed every two weeks. The Gloucester collection, containing the works of Kipling, Phelps-Ward, Connolly and others, has been shelved for the convenience of summer residents. Flemished oak furniture is in both the reading room and the children's department. A clock is needed in the reading room on the first floor and it is hoped that someone will donate a colonial clock to be in keeping with the fine interior. For the benefit of the summer population we print the hours for receiving books: The library will be open daily, week days from 9 a. m. till 9 p. m.; on Sundays, 2 p. m. till 9 p. m., for reading or reference; no books delivered; children's reading room open from 9 a. m. till 8 p. m. daily; not open Sundays. Entrance of adults department on Middle street; children's room on Dale avenue. Miss Rachel S. Webber is the head librarian.

EAST GLOUCESTER. The last few days brought a great many sojourners to the various hotels and the majority of the great rush on the week-end are stopping for the season. During the visit of the U. S. S. Georgia in port over the holiday season, many of the ship's officers were joined by their wives from Newport and sections along the North and South shores and visited various resorts, the majority being at the Hawthorne Inn. The holiday passed rather quietly and weather conditions interfered extensively with fireworks display. The first ball of the season at the Hawthorne Inn was the leading event on Monday evening, in the spacious casino, attended by 300 people from the Inn and cottages.

The Field and Forest club of Boston held a week-end excursion at the Hotel Rockaway. The party numbering nearly a hundred people came down on the noon boat from Boston on Saturday and remained at the hotel till late Monday afternoon. Boating, bathing and fishing were indulged in, and a dance was held on Saturday night.

Yearly subscription to North Shore Breeze, $2.00.

EASTERN POINT. The estate of ex-Congressman Sloat T. Fassett located on the cliffs at Grape Vine Cove will be occupied this season by the James C. Farrells of Albany, N. Y., who are expected soon. The house was leased through the MacEachern agency.

Professor George Raymer of the Mining Engineering faculty at Harvard college, in company with his wife, is stopping at the Carpenter cottage near the Gate Lodge, Eastern Point.

An interesting affair on Tuesday evening was the charming reading of Hans Anderson's fairy tales by Miss Marie L. Shedlock of London, England, at the Fairview hotel. ANNISQUAM. The Annisquam Yacht club has begun its schedule of social events and the season will be a lively one. Last Saturday afternoon the clubhouse was open and tea was served and on the holiday afternoon a tea was held when the Imperial orchestra rendered music and the large number of people present spent an enjoyable time. "Rockledge," the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Booth of Cambridge, at Annisquam, was a pretty scene on last Friday afternoon, when their little daughter, Elizabeth Booth observed her ninth birthday. The decorations were of beautiful pink roses and green and the gathering of twelve little rosebuds of the colony made an attractive picture. Elizabeth van Law of Mexico was the guest whose home is the farthest away from Annisquam. Games were indulged in, and refreshments were served at a charmingly decorated table, with the brilliantly lighted birthday cake and pink rose adornments.

Mrs. William M. Jelly of Norwood Heights colony, Annisquam, entertained a party of 18 ladies from the Old Ladies' Home in Salem, Tuesday afternoon of last week. Some of the trustees and directors of the Home accompanied the elderly ladies, making the party 24. The trip was made by attractive automobiles which were loaned for the occasion. The oldest lady in the party was 95 years of age and another was 94 years old. The day was thoroughly enjoyed with the thoughtful hostess at her summer house. IPSWICH residents on Argilla road had planned a pretty affair for the holiday which had to be postponed on account of the rain. The affair was to have been a play-let, "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" given on the grounds of Dr. Joseph L. Goodale's summer residence, the little participants being the children of the summer colony. The proceeds of the entertainment which will be given at some other time will be for the benefit of the school garden movement in Ipswich. About 60 little gardens may be seen now on the public playgrounds. The garden work is especially looked after by Mrs. Walter E. Hayward of Top Tree hill.

Ipswich had an unusually interesting parade last Monday. Herbert W. Mason of Candlewood Farm was Chief Marshall and many others of the summer residents turned out and took part in the morning's program. The Knights of Columbus drew the first prize on their fine float; the Ipswich Grange won second prize; the Red Men third and the fourth went to the Knights of Pythias. Francis R. Appleton and Dr. E. A. Crockett were among the judges. In the company of riders were seen Francis A. Wood, Miss Julia Appleton and Miss Amy Stanford, who held a suffrage banner.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dolliver Stanford of Summit, N. J., are now going to make their present home in the Garrett house on Linebrook road, their year around home. Their daughter, Miss Amy, is keenly interested in suffrage.

At Y<sup>e</sup> Burnham House there were many parties entertained over the holiday and week-end. Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hyde of New York entertained a party of five. Miss Isabel McGowan of the Magnolia colony has been entertaining Indianapolis friends at tea recently.

Mrs. Grace Gould of Heartbreak road entertained the Washington Winslow club at her home last Tuesday. Dinner and a musical entertainment were enjoyed.

Ipswich has a most interesting group of artists, who have made its pastoral and idyllic scenery the subject of many of their strikingly original themes. The beautiful old town has many ancient charms, and somewhat isolated by the vast salt marshes which surround it, it has always been a favorite retreat for artists who came hither by the score to feast upon the beauty of the countryside. The Ipswich river which rambles down from the inland hills, cuts the town into various sections, and then wanders through the marshes out to sea, has been a favorite subject with many artists. Some have chosen views of the quiet winding streets, shaded by great elms and bordered by many fine old houses. The group of Ipswich artists who claim the place as their summer home and all the year round abode is composed of Arthur W. Dow of "Bayberry Hill," Theodore Wendel of Argilla road, Henry R. Kenyon, off Labor-in-vain road, Miss Elsie Heard of So. Main street and Frank H. Richardson of "Meadow View," County road. These artists formerly held summer exhibitions of their work in some central place in Ipswich to which visiting artists also were asked to contribute. This has not been carried out lately although there has been some thought of doing it for a philanthropic purpose this summer. Prof. and Mrs. Arthur W. Dow of New York are now settled in their summer home. Prof. Dow is at the head of the Fine Arts department in Columbia University. He returned to New York July 1, to make plans for the summer school at the university. He formerly conducted summer classes in Ipswich. In Ipswich he works in a rustic barn-like studio away from the cottage in a secluded spot. Theodore Wendel lives the year around on Argilla road. He is a landscape artist and a member of the Artists Guild of the Fenway studio in Boston. Mrs. Wendel was Miss Lena Stone of Ipswich. Mr. Wendel's studio is out in the open anywhere. Henry R. Kenyon has made Ipswich his home for about 15 years. He paints landscapes principally and has exhibited in the New York Academy of Art. Miss Elsie Heard, daughter of Mrs. John Heard, Sr., of So. Main street, is a portrait artist, who has always lived in Ipswich. Frank H. Richardson has lived in Ipswich about 15 years. He and Mr. Kenyon have their studios in connection with their homes. Mr. Richardson keeps open a Boston studio during the winter. He has recently closed his year's work with an exhibition in the Twentieth Century club, showing both landscape and portrait subjects. His latest portrait is one of the late William H. Niles of Lynn, president, Essex Bar association.

Mrs. Wilson Shannon Dunn of New York arrived this week at Windmill Hill Farm, Ipswich, to spend the season with her sister, Miss C. B. Dobson. Miss Dobson has been entertaining a party of young friends the past ten days. They were Miss Katherine Fitch, Charles Parker and Harry Jewett of Pepperell; Miss Susan Burd and Theodore Burd of West Medford; Miss Katherine Pratt and Wendell Taber of Chestnut Hill. Last Friday night Miss Dobson entertained at Y<sup>e</sup> Rogers Manse in honor of Miss Eleonore Richardson of Ipswich. Besides her house party other guests were Miss Mary Wendel of Argilla road, the Misses Margaret and Frances Townsend of Argilla road, the Misses Anna and Martha Relatives present were the W. J. Norwoods of Ipswich, and a sister, Mrs. L. K. Ross of Dover. Mrs. Shepherd of Dover was also a guest.

The flowers surrounding the house of the George E. Barnards at "River Bend Farm" are showing a wealth of color now. The long beds on the terrace near the house are particularly noticeable, also a hedge of wild roses of wonderful size along the front driveway.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Richardson of "Meadow View" gave a tea last Thursday afternoon for their daughter, Miss Eleonore. Although it was the rainiest day of the season, which somewhat interfered with the plans of the tea which had been arranged for the garden, between two and three hundred guests were received. Dancing was enjoyed in the evening. The tea tables were presided over during the afternoon by Mrs. Charles B. Dyer, Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. George E. Barnard, Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, Miss Susan Brown and Mrs. Henry R. Kenyon assisted by Miss Dorothy Kelly, Miss Barbara Campbell, the Misses Bailey and Miss Marion Safford. HAMILTON, with its many beautiful estates and artistic homes, may well be proud of its newest addition—the charming and quaint cottage into which Miss Natalie Matthews will move sometime in July. Miss Matthews is now with her father the Hon. Nathan Matthews at “Black Brook Farm.” Her new home is at the corner of Main street and Farms road, just across from the picturesque big white church in Hamilton. It is new and yet old, for over 200 years ago it was built and was known as the old Whipple house for years. Then about 100 years ago it was bought by a Daniel Brown who kept a tavern and post-office in it for many years. After being closed a long time it was purchased last year by Mr. Matthews and has been completely remodeled along its original style of architecture. The windows with small leaded panes and opening like French windows are very noticeable. Then the house is finished in natural oak outside and partially within, and the yard is enclosed with a high picket fence matching the house in finish. The quaint old doorway and massive big chimney give the place the appearance of y<sup>e</sup> olden time in a very realistic manner.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Tuckerman of Main street have been spending several weeks in New York. Mrs. Tuckerman returned last week in order to attend the conference being held in Cambridge, but has since returned to New York.

The children of the George C. Vaughns on Gardner street have a most delightful play fellow in “Teddy” their big brown and buff Newfoundland dog that has the most friendly disposition imaginable for really such a ferocious looking companion.

Yearly subscription to North Shore Breeze, $2.00.

Mrs. Richard Palmer Waters of Lakeside, Wenham, is entertaining Mrs. Philip Johnson of Boston for a few weeks.

WENHAM’S tea house has been the scene of several delightful luncheon parties lately. The Fortnightly Luncheon club, which meets at the various homes of the members during the summer season chose the tea house for a luncheon last Thursday. Covers were placed for twelve. The members present were Mrs. Charles G. Rice and Mrs. James Howe Proctor of Ipswich; Mrs. Frederick J. Alley, Mrs. Charles F. Ayer, Mrs. George S. Mandell and Mrs. Wolcott Howe Johnson of Hamilton; the Misses Helen and Mary Burnham and Mrs. Charles Thorndyke Parker of Wenham; Mrs. Thomas W. Pierce of Topsfield and her guest, Mrs. John H. Janeway of New York. Mrs. John A. Burnham of Wenham was with her daughters, the Misses Burnham.

Miss Eleanor Cole of “Brookly Farm” was hostess to an enjoyable little luncheon of five covers at the Wenham tea house this Tuesday in honor of Mrs. Frederick Hostetter of Virginia, who is spending some time on the North Shore. Miss Ann Wentworth Sheafe of Chestnut Hill has been a recent guest at “Brookby Farm.”

Mrs. Gerard Bement of Beverly Farms gave a luncheon of twelve covers on the holiday at the Myopia Hunt club.

Prof. C. E. Doner of Framingham Normal, and family have taken a cottage at Swanzey, N. H., for the summer. Their home by Wenham lake is now occupied by the Edward H. Saxtons of Brookline.

The third meeting of the season of Mrs. Ward’s popular class in current events was held this Wednesday at “Overlook” the home of Mrs. John A. Burnham, at Wenham. The ladies of the Hamilton and Wenham colonies are always eager to hear the week’s events discussed in the charming manner for which Mrs. Ward is noted, and the meetings are largely attended.

The Newhall cottage at Wenham lake has been taken by the J. E. Ryans of Boston and the Matthew Hopkins of Bay State road, Boston.

THE TRUE SPIRIT of our national holiday was apparent along our shore during the patriotic week-end that began on Saturday, the third, and continued through Monday, the fifth. On Sunday afternoon the veterans of the Civil War who live in Manchester, Beverly Farms and Beverly united in celebrating the fifteenth anniversary of the peace that came after Appomatox. Colonel Charles Lawrence Peirson of Pride's in a short and powerful speech at that service made a true and forceful statement when he said: "Fifty years of Peace? And what of it? Four years of war! Which period now seems the longer to those who can remember both? Time in its gentler moods moves so much more rapidly than in the harsher ones that the distinction is nearly lost. The lessons the Civil War taught have helped the nation during the years of peace which have followed. It taught the world that our flag and our nationality must be respected. It showed the necessity of discipline and of preparation, and that deeds rank words in emergencies. It teaches that peace conferences must have the musket behind them. It leads us to pray not simply for peace in the present world conflict, but that the right may prevail and peace follow. In warfare, as in everything else, there is a decent and brutal side. To fight until the last armed foe expires or surrenders is proper, but do not commit murder by attacking unarmed people, and call it war. The Civil War was the result of a difference which could not be settled by any milder course. Free labor and slave labor could no longer exist in the same nation, and slavery came to its end as one of the results of war. Our sheltered lives for fifty years is another of its results. Call war what you please, use General Sherman's epithet if you will, but hold it as our last means of defence, and respect it as such. Establish a thorough preparedness for it in materials and in men trained to their use, and trust the result to a Higher Power." In this strong speech Colonel Peirson recognizes the havoc and horrors of war and its undesirability. He unites the gentle and beautiful spirit of kindness and peace with the stern and determined force of character that right shall not be sacrificed for comfort and principle for policy and expediency. Peace, indeed, is desirable, but not at the expense of righteousness; hence says the Colonel: "It leads us to pray not simply for peace in the present world struggle, but that the right may prevail and peace follow. All believe in the doctrine of peace, but the nation that will have peace must be prepared to defend and assert its views. . . . Peace conferences to be effective must have the musket behind them." It is more than evident that America must in the future be more careful of its naval and military preparedness. Colonel Peirson unites in his speech the sound principles of peace and the same doctrine of efficient preparedness. America has been too complacent in the past. It is high time to awake!

IT WAS A NOVEL SCHEME that a local church evolved to entertain the Italians of the community with an Americanization service the night before the Fourth.

TO EARN ONE'S LIVING is not a high aim; to make a life is a goal worthy of anyone.

TO THE ORDINARY CITIZEN who is accustomed to settle his difference with his fellow citizens with despatch the long period of time that has elapsed since the first message was sent to Germany and particularly since the last message was sent seem unnecessary. Germany ought to answer up quick and sharp. Every day that goes by minimizes the probability of a negative answer from Germany. It is a matter of fact rather than words that Germany has practically answered the claims made by us. Not a ship has been attacked that has been opened to criticism. Until the full details came the Armenian incident was disconcerting, but the facts have proven that the American men aboard were in the employ of the management and that the cargo was contraband. America does not wish war with Germany, but it will not shrink from any of the responsibilities of its honor.

ADMIRAL VON TRUPPEL of Germany has diagnosed the sentiment in America quite accurately when he says, "it is undeniable in spite of President Wilson's unquestionable desire to reach a peaceful solution of the problem that the sympathies of the majority of Americans are on the side of England and that only a spark might be necessary under certain conditions to kindle this feeling into a hostile outbreak." German thinkers are weighing the situation. It is unlikely that they will affront America in the reply.

THE ARRIVAL of the Anglo-Californian in Queens-town Monday after four hours' flight from a submarine adds another thrilling story to the annals of the four. With nine dead on her decks, the captain kept the bridge until he, too, was shot, and then his son took command. By cool seamanship the captain and his son were able to thwart the determination of the submarine. It is a striking story of bravery, fortitude, and heroism.

THE FOLIAGE AND VEGETATION of the shore have been luxuriant all through the spring. The rains of the week have thoroughly drenched the soil. There are prospects for some weeks of the gardens doing well if they only have sun. The season is about a week behind, and the rains have not helped the anxious gardeners.

THE SPIRIT OF PHILANTHROPY counts more than desultory giving. A gift given with a spirit involves purpose, and a purpose, once conceived, is executed if it takes years. Small gifts given frequently by many is doing the philanthropic work of the generation.

A CHEERFUL MAN is a delight to all who know him, but a grouch is an abomination of desolations. His room is more desirable than his departing spirit.

ABOUT HOW MUCH would that rain be worth in dollars despite the damages done and holiday plans upset?

A GLORIOUS FOURTH and a rainy Fifth.

GUY HAM Made a strong appeal for American patriotism at the Beverly Farms gathering on the holiday. This is the first time that that strong speaker has been heard hereabouts and his clear-cut thought, well executed paragraphs and carefully matured sentiments mark him as a public leader of rare ability. We predict a bright and a successful future for him. His candidacy for Lieutenant-Governor is gaining ground rapidly, and if Massachusetts selects him it will have elected a leader of ability who may be trusted with the reins of office.

EVERY EFFORT is being made in certain quarters to eliminate the jitney from the streets of cities by ordinances. There is no question that there is justice in the demands that are being made to safeguard the public against accidents caused by jitneys in operation. Some solution of the problem is inevitable. The jitney has won a place and the public is likely to fight for them. The transportation companies are facing a strong competitor.

HAVE YOU READ the ten commandments of the summer time written by a versatile clergyman? They read well and are doubtless needed, but their forced imitation of the Ten Commandments that have made the Hebrew nation seems undesirable, and, while not irreverent, perhaps the temptation to parody so great a series of instructive commands is, to say the least, not in good taste.

AS A RULE, business men do not enjoy the inroads that holidays make upon their interests. The holiday breaks up the routine and it is at least a week before business operates normally. But such breaks, as undesirable as they first appear, are essentially good for all.

COUNT NOT THE DOLLARS involved, count the cost in thought, energy, time, life and spirit. These are the mighty counters of life. Dollars have as much to do with real life as the dollar prices in the ledger to the commodities they represent.

BEVERLY FARMS ought to be able to find some place for the historic old flagpole. It has stood in its place for twenty years, paid for by public subscription and presented by the city. A place should be found for it, quickly.

MANCHESTER AND BEVERLY FARMS celebrated the Fourth of July in a fitting and enthusiastic manner. It was a quiet Fourth, however, in Beverly.

ONE YEAR has nearly sped and the German and English navies have not met in a great naval struggle. Germany keeps to the shore.

ONE MORE MONTH only and the war is one year old. Where are the dreamers who have thought three months the limit.

PEAS AND THE FOURTH OF JULY have become a fixed association of thoughts, and thrifty gardeners are usually able to win.

A TWO MONTHS' VACATION is just long enough to unfit a strong man to play the game well for the other ten months.

"ALL FOR A LITTLE piece of land" was the succinct characterization of the war by a young Italian-American.

THE Y. M. C. A. has been an effective agent in all lines of work in the field chosen for its endeavors. But no branch has done more effective work with peculiarly needed field for operation than the Navy Y. M. C. A. It is a great enterprise, and it should have the support of the philanthropic people of the Shore. Next week the Haven estate is to be thrown open, and on the spacious grounds the people of the Shore are to have a Naval Festival. All the roads ought to lead to Beverly Farms on Wednesday, the twenty-first.

THE RAINS of the last week have been unprecedented in the annals of the weather bureau. The weather was undesirable. The fields and gardens needed much water, but the rains of the week have been too heavy. If that rain could only have been evenly precipitated the owners of gardens would be much pleased. As it is the water has done much harm and many garden plants have suffered.

THE YOUNG REPUBLIC has had another holiday. The nation is still young, but it has learned a great deal in its day, and at present it looks as though it might be able to learn a great deal more. America has an enviable place among the nations of the world, but America must be humble.

A GOOD WAY to obtain peace and keep it is to be always prepared to fight for it. There is a militarism that breeds war and strife, and there is a militarism that prepares against war that peace may be held. War is our last defence.

GENERAL WOOD'S SUGGESTION for military training schools during the summer is an excellent idea. The school at Plattsburg this summer should be a success from all signs of the times. Harvard men are enthused and a large delegation is assured.

IT'S A LONG, LONG WAY to the long week-end at Labor Day, but the lovers of the good summer time wish it were longer.

WITH THE FOURTH falling on the Sabbath, the churches united in their efforts to suitably commemorate the day.

IT COUNTS from whence a man came, but it is immeasurably more important for one to know whither he is going.

LEISURE WITHOUT a purpose is a curse. Leisure with a high aim and determination makes an opportunity.

A DOLLAR GIVEN does not take the taint from its origin.

Playing with Paul Tewksbury of Woodland, as guests of H. S. Hall and W. S. Cook, at the Salem Golf club Saturday afternoon, Francis Ouimet, national and state amateur champion, bettered his own record of 74 and set a new mark that will probably stand for some time. Ouimet's first round of 39 was nothing wonderful but his second, a beautifully played 33, represents golf of an almost unbeatable kind, two under the par for the course.

ANNUAL GAME WITH DORCHESTER TEAM WON BY MANCHESTER

Harold Grover, backed by strong batting and sharp fielding support on the part of the rest of the Manchester team, added another—the sixth—to his string of victories for the local team in the annual Fourth of July game last Monday with the strong Samec club of Dorchester. The Samecs have played here four years. They have won two and lost two. Last year it was Manchester's game until the last inning when the visitors broke through for the winning run.

Grover was in splendid form Monday. He struck out twenty men, several times retiring the Samec hard hitters in the one, two, three order. He allowed only one hit,—in the 6th inning. The man got as far as third, but no farther. Anderson was the only man to do this in the whole game, for the Dorchesterites, and that was because of a wild pitch. Two of the Samecs' reached 2d, and only five got a vision of the first sack.

Jackie Gray's batting and base-running and the batting of Grover and Perkins were the features of the game. Out of the ten hits off Anderson and Monahan, Grover got two doubles and a single, Perkins two singles and a double and Gray a single and a three bagger. Gray stole a total of six bases.

Manchester played two of her substitutes,—Walen at short, and Crafts in the left field, and Joe Donovan of Beverly Farms, a new man, held down the third sack. Walen accepted two of the three chances, fielding two hard balls perfectly. Crafts showed up well, too, coming across with one safe hit, and showing good form at base running.

Donovan was to have played short, and probably will play that position—his natural game—next Saturday. O'Leary did not come, through some mis-understanding on account of the weather, so Donovan was placed on third. Bond was unable to play Monday because of other duties.

Manchester's first run came in the second inning. Harold Grover at the bat was good for a two base hit. Jackie Gray was next man up and he lammed it in the brook. Grover walked home and Jackie would have come home hadn't Whorf jumped in to the brook, waist deep, after the ball. Jack was on third and there he remained, as the next three men up failed to deliver a hit.

The next run came in the fourth inning, with Gray again the ring-leader in the assault. Anderson remembered Jackie's vicious swing that sent the ball into the brook, so gave him a free ride to first. He subsequently stole second, then third, and finally stole home for another tally for Manchester.

It was in the next inning that Manchester got two runs. O'Connell, Manchester's crack second baseman was presented with a pass. Collins sacrificed, advancing O'Connell to second. Perkins, who had already been good for a double and a single came to the bat and sent a beauty out in deep left field. If he had been faster he would have been safe on second, but he was called out on a close decision after a perfect throw-in by Whorf. O'Connell, however, had scored. With two out and the bases empty Grover came to the bat. He was given a great hand by the crowd. He thanked the crowd for their applause by sending out a beautiful two-bagger. Jackie Gray was good for a hit, that advanced Grover to third. Gray kept up his record by stealing second, and Crafts, was safe on first on a short in-field hit that the first baseman ought to have fielded easily. Grover, meantime, had got home. Walen was out, second baseman to first.

Manchester's last run came in the seventh. It was a gift from the pitchers. Jackie Gray again drew a pass (Anderson had visions of another splash in the brook), and was no sooner on first than he made a safe steal to second. Crafts drew a base on balls. Gray stole third and was safe even if the third baseman walked on Jackie's face. Crafts stole second and in the meanwhile Walen had been given first on balls. Gray was caught off third. Donovan struck out. McCarthy was given a pass by Monahan, who had been called in from the field to replace Anderson. O'Connell came up, with bases full, and was handed a pass, thus forcing home Crafts. Collins struck out, retiring the side.

In the game with the Boston Y. M. C. A. Saturday the regular line-up will play, with the exception of short, which will be covered by Donovan. Manchester expects her hardest game of this season tomorrow.

MANCHESTER'S RECORD

The Manchester baseball team has made a remarkably fine record in the last two years—a showing any team may be proud of. Last year only two games were lost and this year not a game has been lost, and only six runs have been scored in the six games played, while Manchester has rolled up a total of 59 runs in the same six games. While Harold Grover's pitching is the best feature of the Manchester team's playing, it is generally conceded that Manchester has one of the best combinations of hard hitters of any of the semi-pro teams in Essex County. Grover himself is one of the hardest hitters.

Manchester's infield, with the exception of the shortstop, is as fast as any team that ever played here, and the outfield is a hard combination to break through. This year's team is the same as last year with the exception of "Cy" Perkins, the former New England leaguer, the mainstay of the Beverly Farms team the last two years, behind the bat, and O'Connell on second. O'Connell is a genuine ball player. He is good at batting, a perfect fielder and a good base runner. He can also pitch, if necessary.

This year's record:

INSTRUCTOR OF GIRLS AT BEACH

The committee from the Manchester Woman's club was most fortunate in securing the services of Miss Jean Dallett of Media, Pa., for the position of instructor for girls at the beach.

Miss Dallett is a graduate of the Sargent school for physical training in the class of 1915 and also a graduate of Miss Falhauder's Normal school of dancing at Cambridge. She comes to Manchester recommended by Dr. Sargent as being one of his most successful graduates and was given the honor of being camp councillor at the big Sargent camp.

She has had much experience in teaching children, being head instructor at the playground camp at Harrisburg, Pa., last summer and has also specialized in dancing.

The work at the Manchester beach was started on Tuesday, July 6, with good attendance and much enthusiasm. Swimming, games, dancing and first aid will all find an important place in her summer schedule. —D.

Editor the Breeze:

It may be just possible that our judges of the parade of July 4 expect us to accept the flattery of honorable mention. We have long been aware of the fact that we are an honorable body and we felt proud that we were allowed to follow in line with our Grand Army Veterans,—they who gave to the Town the liberty which we so much enjoy. A PARTICIPANT.

Editor The Breezes

The general public gets very much enthused at this time of year over the children of the town and what is best to do for their pleasure and comfort. The first thought that arises is "Singing Beach for them," with games and instructors, which seems quite out of place. When the beach was taken over by the town it was established that this resort should not be a place of amusement, but rather a place for rest and recreation for the tired and weary; a place where they might go with their families and enjoy that which they were being deprived of all along the shore,—the beautiful sand and breezes from old ocean which Nature designed for them. It would seem that a certain element are striving to deprive such from the class of people who are entitled to its enjoyment.

The young people have a playground provided by the town, with instructor and equipment for their pleasure, and if we have got to have "safety first" and instructors established, let the town do it in a proper way, by installing a swimming pool and play-ground at Masconomo park, where Nature has provided the spot and place, with water at an even temperature at all times, thus giving the classes a privilege each for their enjoyment in their respective way,—quiet and rest at the beautiful Singing Beach, and the swimming pool and play-ground at Masconomo Park, and as fine a ball field as anywhere in the vicinity, with the beautiful park adjoining all. —J. S. R.

Gone Flat Again!

No sharp report. Just the gradually perceptible jolting that tells of a leaky tube gone flat again. Hot, shadeless road and a dusty, dirty job.

That's the story of the needless puncture so common with cheap, machine-made tubes that leak around valves and become porous in service.

The way to avoid these unnecessary punctures is to equip your car with Kelly-Springfield Tubes, which are made slowly and painstakingly by hand and out of real rubber.

Kelly-Springfield Tires are made the same way. Use them with Kelly-Springfield Tubes and you will add increased tire mileage to freedom from needless tube troubles.

That's why the tubes and tires we sell are

MAGNOLIA

The Gloucester Sons of Veterans held a very successful dance at the Men's clubhouse Wednesday evening. The hall was effectively trimmed with the American colors. Mrs. Frank Marchant of West Gloucester was the chairman of the committee for arrangements and to her much of the credit for the success of the party is due. The date of the next dance at the Men's club is next Wednesday evening, July 14, when Carey's orchestra of three pieces will furnish the music. A particularly interesting motion picture program, "The Pageant of San Francisco," will be shown at the club tonight and will doubtless attract a record attendance. The pageant will depict the most thrilling and most noteworthy historical events in the life of San Francisco and will cover a period of more than two centuries concluding with an impressive panoramic view showing the whole Panama-Pacific exposition with a beautiful background of the Californian hills. The event of perhaps the greatest interest at the Men's club just now is the Cabaret show which will be given Saturday evening of next week, July 17. Everyone who attended the cabaret show of last season still remember the unequalled success and is anxious to see the show this season which promises to be even better than that of last year. The restaurant is filling rapidly and the à la carte service is giving excellent satisfaction. The scheme of giving bowlers a ticket entitling them to free use of the bowling alleys for the remainder of the season upon payment of $5.00 either by single strings or in a lump sum is quite popular. To encourage team bowling 5 cups have been offered for the best individual scores made by members of teams during July.

At the invitation of Mrs. A. C. Thornton the women of Magnolia will meet at the new bungalow Thursday afternoon of each week to make garments for the war sufferers across the sea. The materials will be furnished and the garments will be cut and ready to make. Another interesting charity is that for the benefit of the emergency hospital in the north of France. About 80 women met at Annex of the Oceanside Tuesday morning for this work and they will meet one morning of each week during the summer. Rolling bandages etc., is the special line of work they have taken up. Mrs. Frank S. Chick of the summer colony is one of the leaders in the movement.

Miss Priscilla Quigley of Boston has been the guest of Miss Mary Kelly at the latter's home on Raymond street.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE NEWS.

The Manchester Equal Suffrage League, responding to the cordial invitation of the Fourth of July Committee, entered a motor-car in the parade, which of course bore the Suffrage banner and carried out the scheme of yellow in flowers, etc. Mrs. Leach decorated the car. Miss Florence Leach and a group of little girls rode in the car, wearing becoming yellow hats and scattering golden flowers and a few yellow leaflets with golden words throughout the route of the parade. Among those in the car were the young daughters of Mrs. Frederick Dumaine of Coolidge Point, and two little Stanley granddaughters, one of the tots waving an American flag and the other a "Votes for Women" flag,—which was symbolic! They all received many compliments, and someone said that, on this gray and foggy morning, the Suffrage car looked like a burst of sunshine! It was noticed that the Antis did not appear in the parade; but how should they appear in a Fourth of July celebration, when they are opposing liberty, equality and Independence? When the Reel Men's "Boston Tea Party" float went by, (a remarkably good one) we remembered that patriots had really performed those antics in the cause of "No taxation without representation"; and we wondered why all patriots today cannot see that women are making a much more dignified demonstration in the same cause! But when we think of tax-payers we think also of working women.

The Mass. W. Suff. Ass'n offers a prize of $15. for the best photograph of any Suffrage activity, received before Sept. 1, also ten consolation prizes of $1.00 each for the ten next best. The pictures should be printed, or developed, and sent in to 585 Boylston St., as soon as possible, for they may be used in various ways.

Have you seen the Suffrage Bluebirds which are now flying all over this state? The bluebird is the symbol of happiness and his new waistcoat is the symbol of our golden hope, which shall bring happiness to many.

JOHN A. OBER

John A. Ober, building inspector for the city of Beverly, died suddenly at his home, Rial Side, Beverly, early yesterday morning at the age of 58 years. He had not been in good health for some time and about a year ago was seriously ill recovering sufficiently to resume his duties as inspector of buildings. He was born and brought up in Beverly Farms and always lived here up to a few years ago. A carpenter by trade he was associated with his uncles, the Messrs. I. & E. H. Ober, which firm for years did a big carpentry business along the North Shore, and many of the older mansions of the summer residents are their handiwork. At the time of their death, Mr. Ober became interested in the hardware business and the firm of Woodward & Ober was conducted on Cabot st., Beverly, for some time. Mr. Ober's interest in carpentry, however, took him back to that occupation and a few years ago when Beverly created the new office of Building Inspector it was conceded that Mr. Ober was just the man and he accepted the position. He had always been interested in public affairs and served in the old Common Council for two years, a representative from Ward 6. He was a member of Bass River Lodge, I. O. O. F., and a benefit member of the John West Colony, Pilgrim Fathers. Besides a wife he leaves a son, J. Larcom Ober, who at the time of his father's death was at Key West, Fla. Funeral services will be held from the Beverly Farms Baptist church, Saturday afternoon.

Many Beverly Farms fans plan to see the baseball game at Manchester tomorrow afternoon between the Manchesters and the Boston Y. M. C. A. As Manchester is as yet unbeaten this year and as the Boston Y. M. C. The game starts at 3 o'clock. Joe Donovan will play short on the Manchester team.

The Fourth of July Committee wish to express its sincere thanks to all who aided in making the celebration at Beverly Farms last Monday a success. ## NORUMBEGA PARK

Undoubtedly the recent rains provoked most of us by spoiling our plans for pleasure, but Nature has benefited and today the floral display at Norumbega is the finest that has been shown for years. Especially attractive are the flower beds leading into the band court. In the famous open air theatre, this week another of those mirth producing comedies is the attraction. "Let George Do It" is the name of this fun maker, being based on the cartoons of world-wide fame by George McManus, supported by a cast of extraordinary ability and terpsichorean artists.

"Be keerful about buttin' in," said Uncle Eben, "even when you know a man is wrong. De chances are dat he knowed it befo' you."

Do not worry; eat three square meals a day; say your prayers; be courteous to your creditors; keep your digestion good; exercise; go slow, and go easy.—Abraham Lincoln.

An aim in life is the only fortune worth the finding; and is not to be found in foreign lands, but in the heart itself.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

"Yes mum; twelve jurors and one judge."

OLD-TIME COLD CURE— DRINK HOT TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking up a cold.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

The Terpsichorean Call

By HELEN CHRISTENE HOERLE

SYLVIA KNOX carefully selected another chocolate from the box at her elbow, punched the pillow behind her head into a comfortable angle and resumed her reading.

Mrs. Japreth Knox sat in the big bay window busily sorting silks for a new pillow top. Neither mother nor daughter spoke and the silence was broken only by the occasional honk of a motor car and the roaring of the ocean considerably dimmed by the distance.

Suddenly the girl threw the magazine with an exclamation of dismay as the clock chimed three. Then she looked up hastily to see if her all too evident agitation had been noticed by her mother. Mrs. Knox placidly continued to sort the silks, glancing out the window from time to time to watch the stream of automobiles gliding by.

"I declare, Sylvia," she said querulously, a nervous frown appearing between her eyes, "all the people here seem to think of is pleasure, eating, drinking and dancing, 'specially dancing. Why, where are you, Sylvia?"

"Here, I'm dressing. Do you mind if I wander along the beach for a little while?" the girl asked, appearing in the doorway and slipping her dress over her head.

"I don't like to have you strolling around alone, continually," Mrs. Knox began; then continued eagerly, as if remembering something: "Yes, go on, dear, a walk in the sun will do you good."

With a light laugh Sylvia disappeared, only to reappear in a second with her hat on.

"Mother," she asked abruptly, "are we going home soon?"

"Home," her mother gasped in dismay, "do you want to go home? Don't you like it here?"

The girl shrugged her shoulders. "I like it well enough, but I don't see how you can expect me to enjoy myself when you won't let me know anyone or learn to dance. At home in the summer I used to have a bully time with the girls and boys, but here——"

"Promiscuous acquaintances and dancing are works of the devil," Mrs. Knox quoted with tightening lips, "and no daughter of mine——"

"I know all that," Sylvia sighed. "I'll be back in time to dress for dinner. Good-bye, dear."

As the door closed on the daintily clad figure of her twenty-one-year-old daughter, Mrs. Knox sank back in her chair, hands clasped idly in her lap and a troubled frown between her eyes.

Four months before she and Sylvia had come from their Western home to spend the spring in New York, and as she then foolishly thought, she acknowledged it foolish, electrify that city. Assuredly they would gain entrée into the best circles with their money and Sylvia's beauty; of that she was confident. Perhaps Sylvia had known better, perhaps not; anyway, they had come.

Mrs. Knox sighed. Now Sylvia spoke of going home, and they were no further, socially, than when they came. Presently Mrs. Knox rose, and as she gathered up her multi-colored silks her piercing eyes fell on the magazine left open by her daughter. She snatched it up with a snort, for the good lady strongly disapproved of frivolous literature.

Slowly she dropped into a chair, her eyes glued on the printed sheet and a guilty flush creeping into her sallow cheeks, as she read on and on. Finally she jumped to her feet, and quickly dropping her kimona, took her newest gown from the closet and slipped into it. Then she jabbed a hat pin through the crown of the elegant black straw, perched on one side of her gray hair.

"I think I'll tell Sylvia to smile at that girl who sits near the door in the dining room," she mused. "She seems to be quite nice. I'm sure Parson Blacker couldn't disapprove of that."

She smiled approvingly at the stylish figure reflected in the mirror. "I wonder if Sylvia has noticed how much slimmer I am since we left home."

In the meantime Miss Sylvia had sped along the brick walk in the direction of the Casino. Five minutes later the same Miss Sylvia, in the arms of a tall, blond young man, was going through the gliding, picturesque steps of the Hesitation, to the melodious strains of Nights of Gladness, wafted forth from a hundred dollar, more or less, presumably less, victrola.

"Miss Sylvia's breath came in soft gasps through her slightly parted lips and her brown hair fell in rebellious little ringlets from under the wide brim of her correct afternoon hat, as at the end of the dance she dropped into a big chair and fanned herself with a diminutive handkerchief.

"You danced the hesitation perfectly that time." The suave blond instructor praised more warmly than was his wont with less attractive pupils.

"Really," Miss Knox's eyes sparkled with delight. "Let's try the fox trot again when I get my breath."

"Will you excuse me a moment?" the young man begged. "I'll be right back."

Sylvia nodded, and strolling over to the window watched the beves of men and girls wandering about the lawn. How many of them were doing what she was doing, disobeying. Sylvia wondered. The door opened quickly; Sylvia turned.

"Oh, Mr. Anson," she cried, a bright flush mantling her cheeks. "I thought it was Mr. Williams."

"I'm sorry if I have disappointed you," Mr. Anson laughed easily, as he took the little hand between his own. "Won't you cut the lesson today and take a spin in the car. It's an ideal day."

"I'd love it," Miss Knox breathed. "I left mother at the hotel, so I guess I'm safe. She would disapprove of you entirely," she laughed; "you are a promiscuous acquaintance."

A few minutes later the great maroon car was gliding along an unfrequented road. Sylvia leaned back luxuriously among the cushions and sighed aesthetically. The young man watched her with unfeigned pleasure. Suddenly without any warning he clasped her hand and drew nearer to her.

"Sylvia, dear," he murmured, his face close to hers,

"Sylvia, I love you, every bit of you, you wonderful little thing. If you say the word we'll get a license and be married this afternoon.

Miss Knox gasped at the daring thought, but didn't try to withdraw her hand. "Why, Mr. Anson, what would mother say?"

"It isn't what mother would say, it's what you say," the man persisted gently but persuasively. "Sylvia, dear, don't you like me a little?"

"No," the girl replied, shaking her head.

Mr. Anson's jaw dropped dejectedly. She laughed with delight at his evident disappointment.

"I love you a lot, Roger; don't," she commanded as he leaned closer, "or everybody will see you."

"There's no one to see. Follow instructions, Peters," he called happily to the chauffeur, who was only waiting the order. Like a shot they were off down the road at breakneck speed.

"Where are we going?" Sylvia demanded.

"To get the license," Roger grinned like a Cheshire cat, as he brought forth a little white box from his pocket and slipped a ring on the girl's finger. "You see, dear, I was pretty sure of your answer, and was all prepared."

"Conceited man!" Miss Knox raised her hand and kissed the ring, then turned to him with troubled eyes. "What will mother say? She doesn't know a thing about you, because if I told her about meeting you I should have to explain about the dancing lessons and she would have stopped them. I did so want to learn to dance."

"Never mind," the man comforted, "everything will turn out all right. Shall we go and tell the lady mother, and ask her consent?" His eyes were twinkling merrily.

"Oh, no," Sylvia cried. "She would stop us, and——" she turned her face away.

It was nearly sundown when they entered the maroon car again. Sylvia realized as she glanced at the two rings on her finger that hadn't been there a few hours before, that it was her car, too. She smiled happily at the thought.

"Where shall we go now," her husband whispered, smiling joyfully at her beaming face. Happiness seemed to radiate from him.

Sylvia laughed. "Let's go somewhere and dance. It's proper to dance at a wedding and as we're the only ones who know we're married——"

Anson knew she wanted to ward off as long as possible the time when she would tell her mother.

"The Monmouth," he ordered.

Peters grinned. He had been let into the secret and approved his master's choice in wives as well as in cars.

Sylvia was strangely quiet for her as they skimmed along, threading their way through the intricate mass of machines that glided up and down the broad boulevard. Her husband watched her with worried eyes.

"What's the matter, dear," he asked gently.

"I'm wondering what mother will say," she confessed.

"Don't worry," Roger begged, "I'm beginning to think you are sorry you married me."

"So soon?" she laughed. "No, dear, I'm too happy to be sorry. No matter what mother says, it can't make any difference now."

The machine stopped and they alighted. As they entered the big hotel, Sylvia firmly resolved that no matter what her fears Roger wouldn't be bothered with them, not on that afternoon, at least.

She glanced up sideways at the man she had just married from under the brim of her hat. How tall and distinguished looking he was, though not at all handsome. He was just the kind of a man she had always dreamed of marrying, when she had thought of the subject at all.

She had only known him a month, yet she realized that it had been her desire to see and be near him, when she could, that had prompted her to ask her mother if they were going home soon.

Little had she thought when afternoon after afternoon without her mother's consent she had stolen away to the Casino to satisfy her craving and learn to dance that there she would meet the man she would marry.

As they entered the restaurant—it was the tea hour—strains of "Ballin the Jack" greeted her ears. Sylvia's eyes danced, and for the time her fears were banished.

"Hurry, Roger," she urged, "I want to watch the fox trot."

They found a table in a secluded corner, and then turned their attention to the dancers. Only half a dozen couples occupied the floor.

"Look, Roger, look," Sylvia gasped, pointing to a couple at the far end of the room.

Her husband looked in the direction her finger pointed and his keen eyes twinkled gleefully as he watched the two dancers. As they dipped and twirled there wasn't a more graceful couple on the floor than the tall military man with the white imperial and the little woman in clinging white crepe. As they swayed to and fro the tall aigrette on her hat tickled her partner on the chin, neck, ear, but he bore it bravely for the sake of Terpsichore.

"By George," Roger grinned. "That's Col. Seabury. I didn't know you knew him. I wonder who he's with."

"I don't know him, but Roger, he's with my mother," Sylvia exploded wrathfully.

"Your mother," her husband gasped incredulously, "I thought she didn't approve——"

"She doesn't, or rather didn't," Sylvia's eyes were flashing angrily, then suddenly she laughed. "Let's surprise her. She can't raise a fuss here."

Her husband squeezed her hand. "We're safe. She's caught red-handed, so can't scold us."

Unseen, the young couple approached the two now seated at a table at the other end of the room.

"Mother, dear," Sylvia began.

Mrs. Knox started guiltily, and stared blankly at her radiant daughter, while a brilliant red flooded her face way up under the brim of her hat.

"Why—where," she stammered, quickly rising. "What are you doing here?"

The next few minutes were spent in confused explanations, jumbled introductions, and irate scoldings, which left Col. Seabury mildly disconcerted, Roger gleefully amused, Sylvia doubled up with laughter, and Mrs. Knox wrathfully indignant over what she termed "Sylvia's escapade." She couldn't help admiring her son-in-law, however. Finally she was pacified, and they seated themselves at the table. Col. Seabury leaned confidently over toward Sylvia and whispered something in her ear. Sylvia glanced roguishly at her mother, whose guilty blush confirmed the Colonel's statement.

"The Colonel wouldn't take no," that worthy lady murmured, faintly protesting.

Harold Donaldson Eberlein, of Philadelphia, who is writing a book on Colonial Architecture to be published in September by Little, Brown & Co., in collaboration with Mary H. Northend, was a guest at Miss Northend's house, in Salem, over the week-end. The leading article of the July issue of American Homes and Gardens, was by Miss Northend, entitled, "A North Shore Home of the Georgian Type," being a description (illustrated) of Mrs. Lucius M. Sargent's beautiful estate at Pride's Crossing, occupied this summer, as last, by her daughter, Mrs. F. L. Higginson, Jr., and family.

Some Places of Historic Interest in Salem

KATHERINE GAUSS

Garden of the Ropes Memorial, Salem.

THE stranger in Salem who approaches Essex street in the vicinity of Cambridge street finds himself confronted with a scene of interest and beauty. Looking to the right he will observe, at the intersection of North street, the most ancient dwelling house known to be standing in New England. This is the witch house, a structure associated with Roger Williams and Judge Jonathan Corwin. Above it are two lovely old houses—one the former home of the astronomer, Nathaniel Bowditch, and the house further on is a delightful old homestead, with gambrel roof and old Provincial porch and massive chimneys, abutting on the grounds of the old stone church—edifice of English design, built by the North Parish in 1836. On this site was once the orchard of the famous Quaker champion, Thomas Maule.

And then at last the stranger stands before a dignified, pre-revolutionary, wooden mansion with its stately trees and lawn. The lines of the original estate, which is before the eyes, ran from the main street to the North River. There was no Federal street laid out before 1765, and before 1750 there was no suspicion of the lane which was the forerunner of the street which at different periods bore such names as "the town way," "the back street," and "the new street," until, in 1792, it was officially designated by the name of Federal street.

This house is the Ropes Memorial, established by the wills of Mary Pickman Ropes, who died in 1903, and Eliza Orne Ropes, who died in 1907, comprising the family mansion, with its contents and surrounding land, together with an ample maintenance fund and a special fund for botanical lectures, gives to Salem a unique gift, the only one of its kind—a memorial to a fine old Salem family, richly endowed by the late sisters, thus providing most carefully for the future of the estate.

The Mansion House was built about 1719 and was purchased by Judge Nathaniel Ropes in 1768. Judge Ropes was the son of a previous Nathaniel, whose grandfather, George Ropes, the founder of the family in America, came from England in the middle of the seventeenth century. Judge Ropes was a loyalist, and on the 17th of March, 1774, while he lay ill, the mansion was attacked by a mob of patriots and his death, which occurred the following day, was no doubt hastened by the action of the howling mob. The house since the first purchase has never left the hands of the Ropes family. It formerly stood directly upon the street, but was moved back and remodelled for the Misses Ropes in 1894.

The house contains priceless treasures in furniture, china, glassware, paintings and ornaments of all kinds. One of the gems of the house is the gold band wedding tea set of Mr. and Mrs. Orne. The china has been preserved unbroken for 100 years. Russian glass imported by Joseph Orne and fine wares imported from the eastern countries provokes the enthusiastic praise of all who view it. Fine portraits of the various members of the different periods of the Ropes family are also of great interest.

The garden which runs at the side and in the rear of the house is perfectly beautiful in the spring and summer months. Enclosed on three sides by a high brick wall and on the western side it is separated from the front lawn with its fine old trees by a low retaining wall. The garden is a formal one of the older type, the borders planted with hardy shrubs and the central beds filled with old-fashioned flowers—a garden most suited to a house of colonial design. A large variety of plants such as hollyhocks, tulips, jonquils and foxglove furnish vivid colors, and a collection of rare shrubs from China, the gift of the Arnold Arboretum, provides ample means of instruction for the botany classes which are to be conducted under the free fund of the Ropes will.

In respect to the terms of the will of the Ropes sisters which say that no public meetings or large crowds shall enter the house, it has been arranged that small parties of visitors may go over the house and gardens on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons, accompanied by intelligent guides who make the journey about the place doubly interesting. Since the house was opened many visitors from all over the country have availed themselves of the opportunity. The garden is open every day of the week, including Sunday, from two to five o'clock wedding of Miss Alice Appleton, daughter of Francis R. Appleton, and Mr. C. L. Hay took place, and in the fall when another daughter, Miss Ruth Appleton was married to William G. Wendell of Boston. NORTH SHORE GRILL will be the scene of a brilliant gathering of North Shore cottagers and their guests and guests from the hotels tonight when the first of the Friday night dinner-dances will be held. That this innovation will prove popular is evident from the large number of reservations made for the opening function tonight. Throughout the season a special dinner at a fixed price will be served on Friday nights and on this evening celebrated artists will be secured to give an exhibition of modern dances. General dancing will follow. Dinner will be served at seven and dancing will be at eight-thirty. The special artists secured for this opening night are Mr. Albert Latscha and Miss Polly Fisher. Mr. Latscha is at the Oceanside hotel again this summer and he will dance at the Grill tonight with the special consent of the Oceanside management. This innovation on the part of the Grill management, with its established reputation for its cuisine Françoise, will fill a much needed want for the residents of and visitors to the North Shore. An augmented orchestra will play from seven to midnight for general dancing. Mr. Latscha is beyond doubt the most popular of the many dancing artists along the North Shore, and the Grill is fortunate, too, in having Miss Fisher, who is equally well known. She will give several exhibition dances in costume.

SINGING BEACH at Manchester,—the kiddies paradise —is the glorious rendez-vous for the little folk these bright summer days. A few are seen on the beach during the morning hours, but in the afternoon is when their revelry is at its height. An interesting little group from West Manchester drive down in the pony cart belonging to the young son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Bartlett, unhitch the pony and have great sport riding it over the sands and through the waves as they dash upon the beach. Another group of West Manchester children who enjoy the sands and make a pretty picture in their little sea-shore suits is made up of little T. Dennie Boardman, 2nd, his little cousin Jack Goodrich, each about three years old, and their little friends from Essex, the children of the Samuel D. Warren,—Helen, Anne and the little curly-haired Sam. Elsie and Susan Brewer, the grandchildren of the Samuel Carrs of Jersey Lane also are among the West Manchester devotees of the beach. A group of little cousins living near the beach is composed of Martha and Susan Wigglesworth, Mary and Ruth Chase, Lloyd and Thornton Brown and Sallie and Dorothy Porter. From Smith's Point come the little daughters of the Koshlands, Edith and Ruth; little Ann Gavit, who is spending her first season in Manchester; the little Conover Fitch children, Barbara and Helen; and among the babies from the Point are the attractive little tots belonging to the Colville Barclays of Washington and the British Embassy. They are Colville, Jr., and Cecil, and both enjoy immensely the long ride down from their home on the Point to the beach. Thomas, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gannett, Jr.; the John L. Halls' sturdy little boys, John and Brindley; the little Richard and Ellen Stone belonging to the Robt. B. Stone family; Nancy Hayward of the Nathan Hayward family on Sea street; Rosamond Arnold and others of the E. K. Arnold family are among the many little folk of the summer colony seen nearly every afternoon at the beach. Some of the tiny babies who will enjoy the beach from their cabs are Rust Heintz of the Howard Heinz family of Pittsburg, who looks so sweet in his snow-white cab; the dainty little Anna Sortwell, only child of the Alvin F. Sortwells of Manchester; the tiny babies belonging to the Charles A. Read, Jrs., and Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Burnett; the

R. S. Loverings' little son Rochard S. Lovering, Jr.; and the tiny ones in the Philip Stockton family. All of these together with the many little ones coming and going from the hotels will make a group of summer residents, who will long remember their happy times spent on Singing Beach. The beach is to have an added attraction this summer brought about through the efforts of the Manchester Woman's club. They have provided an instructor for girls at the beach, who will give folk dancing, active and quiet games, athletic features including relay races, dashes, broad jumps, etc. Sewing in the pavilion will be in order for rainy days. An exhibit of work and other features, it is hoped, can take place at the close of August. The instructor, Miss Dallett, who was of the year's graduates at the Sargent school and who is also a graduate of Miss Falhauder's dancing school in Cambridge, will give her lessons in swimming at 11 o'clock in the morning and at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Lessons and games to a great extent will depend upon the weather and the number of children. The work began last week and is meeting with much enthusiasm. The town has provided a matron in the ladies bath-house this year, and an officer is at the beach Sundays all day and every evening. The telephone at the beach is 8386.

Building a Library for Beverly Farms

Beverly Farms Library as it Will Appear When Finished.

BEVERLY FARMS is to have one of the most attractive library buildings in Eastern Massachusetts, a municipal structure, erected on land given to the city by the Misses Katherine P. and Louisa P. Loring of Pride's Crossing.

The city has made $30,000 available for construction of the new building, which will be erected under supervision of a commission consisting of E. Fred Day, Arthur A. Forness and Miss Katherine P. Loring.

The edifice will be of brick and terra cotta, colonial in style and absolutely fireproof. Besides the land which the Misses Loring gave to the city on Vine street, the municipality bought another lot which will be used for a park and will give the new building almost ideal surroundings. It is easily reached from Central square, is most attractively situated and will prove a boon to that section of the city.

The building will be set back 50 feet from the traveled way on Vine street, has a frontage of 60 feet and a width of 25 feet. On the main floor will be reading rooms for adults and children, the librarian's room and the stack room. In the basement will be a hall with a seating capacity of 150 and a stage at one end. The building will have modern heating and lighting systems and will be up-to-date in every detail. The architects are Loring and Leland of Boston.

Since 1893 there has been a branch library at Beverly Farms when the books which were used for the "Neighbor's Library," collected by Mrs. Henry Whitman and those that Miss Louisa P. Loring of "Burn-Side," Pride's Crossing, had circulated from her home, were given to Beverly—then operating under the town form of government—on the condition that the town provide a reading room, magazines and a librarian.

There have been many gifts in books and money for the library, including one from John Wheelwright for books of English literature and American history. The library has been kept in the Grand Army hall at Central square, but has long been working under cramped conditions.

IF EDISON had applied his brain to the construction of engines of war what a harmful agent he would be!

BEVERLY FARMS fair for the benefit of the Parish House Fund of St. John's Episcopal Church, held on the rectory grounds yesterday, was a great success. The attractive booths, the grounds gaily decorated with lanterns, the music and the tea tables drew an appreciative patronage all day. The "grab" booth, in charge of Miss Alice Thorndike and Miss Mary Franks, was arranged as "surprise poppies," which one plucked for a small sum and drew a prize on the "root" of the poppy. The rummage table in charge of Miss Katharine Tweed, was a wonderful collection of "cast-offs" from dress forms down to vases. Hear the customer set his own price on an article which Miss Tweed skillfully managed to increase bringing out the hidden qualities in the article. The vegetable and flower booth was managed by Mrs. Charles M. Cabot, Mrs. Henry L. Mason, Mrs. A. N. Reggio and Miss Ruth Anthony. Ice cream tables were in charge of Miss Rosamond Bradley and Miss Mary Curtis. The tea tables, which were charmingly decorated with great clusters of red roses, were presided over by Miss Margaret Thomas and Miss Helen Frick. A bundle table was in charge of Miss Jane Bartlett. Fancy goods and domestics by Mrs. W. B. Publicover, Mrs. Ernest Townsend, Mrs. Edward Campbell and Mrs. L. Williams. Punch was served by Mrs. George Northrup and Mrs. Allen. Candy was sold by Mrs. E. May, Miss Henrietta Townsend, Miss Helen Hodgson and Miss Helen Publicover. The cake table was in charge of Mrs. J. Bolam and Mrs. Jack. The Girls' Club had two pretty tables of fancy articles. Mrs. Alice Bolam Preston presided at one table, assisted by Miss Alice Williams, Miss Esther Northrup and Miss Nettie Saldwalk; the other table was in charge of Mrs. Campbell, assisted by Miss Jane Bolam and Miss Jessie Wright. Mrs. L. Wyatt was the clever fortune teller who held forth in the little brown tent.

Brownland Cottages, Manchester, which are so delightfully situated on Old Neck Road, are always the scene of many pleasant social occasions. Mrs. F. W. Fabyan of Manchester was a dinner guest Tuesday of her nieces, the Misses Fabyan. Mrs. Chester Inches of Boston spent the week-end with the Misses Sohier. Miss F. M. Rhett has enjoyed a short water trip to Cape Cod to visit friends. Mrs. Morris L. Cooke is entertaining her niece, Miss Davis of Philadelphia. Mr. Cook has now come on from Philadelphia to join Mrs. Cook and her father, Hon. Henry L. Davis, for a two weeks' vacation. Miss Gertrude R. White of Boston arrived today at her apartments at the cottages.

IS "WHO'S WHO" out yet? This is a query we have often had propounded to us during the past few days, and we are glad to announce that it came out yesterday, with a new Poppy cover, which is very striking.

Who's Who is a mine of information. Giving tide tables, railroad time tables, mail schedules, distances, club memberships, and social data about every person maintaining a cottage anywhere on the coast from Nahant to Annisquam.

The road map, with all the newest wood roads indicated and named, is the latest and best map of the North Shore.

One of the most important social events of the coming week will be the recital for the benefit of the Polish sufferers at the home of Mrs. Francis L. Higginson, Jr., at Pride's Crossing, Friday afternoon, July 23, at 4 o'clock. Miss Frances Nevin and Mr. John Hermann Loud will give "Lohengrin," which they gave with such success at the residence of Mrs. John J. Mason in Newport last week. The list of patronesses, most of which we have previously printed, comprises a list of the North Shore's most prominent men and women, for everybody is taking hold of the affair most generously. Tickets are obtained through Miss Charlotte Head Allen, "Greycroft," Beverly, private telephone Beverly 550.

Tunipoo Inn, Beverly Farms, the only inn at this far-famed resort, is one of the quiet, homelike places on the North Shore where one can be in touch with all the activity of the shore and yet enjoy the quiet and homelike atmosphere of a modern inn. Among the arrivals of the week are Dr. and Mrs. M. F. Fallon of Worcester, who have come for the week. Dr. Fallon is surgeon-in-chief of St. Vincent's Hospital in Worcester. Other guests of the week include Miss E. Grace McLeay, Miss Anne Toxie, Mrs. Abbie F. Marshall, Joseph A. Wilson, Fred Field, D. F. O'Connell, Fred Gould, Miss Evangeline Clark, Mrs. G. C. Morrison of Boston; W. A. Harte, M. Ryan, Cambridge; Miss Mary Ford, Miss Mary O'Rourke, Worcester; H. Lules, Indianapolis; J. W. Reed, Bar Harbor; Ed. Marsh, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. T. E. O'Connell and family, Worcester; Miss A. Carlson, Providence, R. I.; Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Walker, Auburn, N. Y.; Miss H. Ratigan, Dorchester; Miss M. E. McGourty, Worcester. The inn is proving very popular as a tea-room. Afternoon tea is served in a pretty screened part of the big veranda which is one of the attractive features of the place.

POSTERS announcing the Navy Festival to be held in Beverly Farms next Wednesday, July 21st, are appearing in shop windows and public places in Salem Swampscott, Marblehead, Beverly, Manchester, Gloucester and Rockport. If the ultimate success of this undertaking bears any proportion to the amount of work which has been put into it by the various committees in charge, the result will be most gratifying. The grounds and booths will be open as early as 10 a. m. and will continue so until the last dancers are tired out in the evening. The United States marines and sailors will give their exhibition drills at 3 p. m. and tea and dancing will follow. In the evening will be the Cabaret, for which reserved tables and seats have already been sold in large numbers. Reservations of tables or seats for the Cabaret can be made by applying to Mr. Francis H. Appleton, Jr., Treasurer, Beverly Farms. There are rumors that U. S. Warships and yachts of the Eastern Yacht club fleet will be anchored in the offing, and all that is now needed to make the affair completely successful are fair skies and a large attendance. The entrance is on Hale street, Beverly Farms, within two minutes walk of the Beverly Farms station, and automobiles will find parking space provided in the neighborhood. Tickets will be on sale at the gate. The central committee in charge of the Festival are: Charles M. Amory; F. H. Appleton, Jr., Miss Rosamond Bradley, Marshal Fabyan, Beverly Rantoul, Nathaniel S. Simpkins, Jr., Miss Margaret Thomas, Miss Alice Thorndike and Charles K. Cummings, chairman.

MRS. ROBERT S. BRADLEY of Pride's Crossing entertained the Beverly Farms Improvement Society at her home Tuesday afternoon. There was a large attendance, and the reports given by the secretary, Mrs. A. B. Preston, and the treasurer, Rev. Clarence S. Pond, were of general interest, many of the summer colony belonging to the society. Mrs. Howard A. Doane presided. Mrs. Preston gave a resume of the year's work in Beverly Farms and Mrs. Bradley told of the wonderful work of the Women's Municipal League in Boston. She dwelt in particular upon the enormous amount of literature that has been distributed in the past year on the extermination of flies and rats and mice. She explained fully the new scientific discovery, Danysz Virus, used in their extermination so successfully in Europe and now being tried here. Mrs. Preston's report of the year's work was as follows:

"We raised over $120 for the Beverly Hospital deficit by what was known as the Free Donation Fund. The Playground Committee sent a petition to the city government asking that they consider the advisability of building a new road into the playground from Hale street. In the budget for this year we requested the city government, first, that the appropriation as in other years for the construction of new sidewalks in Beverly Farms be continued; that the public sanitary at the playground, for which an appropriation of $500 was asked last year, be appropriated this year and that the building be constructed before the summer vacation; that the white auto lines at Central Square be kept in good condition this year by whitewashing whenever necessary and that all other dangerous corners in Beverly Farms be systematically marked off with white lines; that the street cleaning policy of the street department relative to the highways be continued this year; that the police department be instructed to place a policeman on duty at Central Square at hours to be determined by the department from June 1 to Sept. 30; that $200 be appropriated this year and each succeeding year for a number of years, for the planting of shade trees along the highways. It was suggested that this be carried along in connection with the construction of new sidewalks. Third, we suggested and interested the citizens of Beverly Farms in a municipal Christmas tree. This was held on Christmas eve in Marshall's field and was a great success. Fourth, We provided twenty-nine tree protectors at 80 cents each to protect all the trees in the village which were being destroyed by horses chewing them. Fifth, we replaced thirteen sugar maples which had died this year at an expense of $39. Last year, through the generosity of Mr. George Cushing, five large maple trees were planted here, and for his generosity he was made an honorary member of the society. Sixth, we appointed a street sign committee which conferred with Mr. Blackmer with regard to the placing of signs at either end of our streets. The result was that twenty street signs which the city has had for Beverly Farms for a number of years were put in place. Seventh, as many people were in favor of a public dumping ground for Beverly Farms a committee was appointed to investigate the matter. Eighth, we petitioned the city government to plant shade trees on either side of Vine street during the construction of the new sidewalks there. This has been granted. Ninth, we have asked the city government to save, if possible, the two large ash trees in front of the Marshall property on Hart street, when the street is widened at that point. Tenth, the rubbish barrels were washed and placed about the village this spring. Eleventh, the Beverly Improvement Society offered $50 to the school children of ward 6 for collecting and destroying the tent caterpillar nests. Eight thousand three hundred and ninety-five were collected, making a total amount of $8.39. Twelfth, an open meeting of the society was held in G. A. R. hall on April 29. Several members of the city government were present. The object of the meeting was to discuss public improvements for ward 6 for the coming year. The most important of these was the construction of new sidewalks, the widening of Hart street between Haskell street and Nolan's house, and the construction of a public sanitary at the Beverly Farms playground. Thirteenth, during "Clean-up Week" the city carts took away ten cart-loads of rubbish from ward 6. Fourteenth, during the year we had two talks. In the fall Miss L. Loring spoke to us most interestingly of the Red Cross work now being carried on in Massachusetts in aid of the European sufferers, and this spring Miss Baker spoke to us about the children's garden contest. The object of her talk was to enlist and interest as many of the Beverly Farms children as possible in the work. Fifteenth, at the June meeting we voted to carry out the same policy relative to the street cleaning as last year if Mr. Connolly and Mr. Linehan would help us."

Tea was served at the close of the meeting, Mrs. George Cushing and Mrs. Henry Mason purring. Miss Florence Leach of Manchester provided the only entertainment of the afternoon by singing sweetly an Irish love ballad.

One of the most attractive linen shops in Magnolia this year is that of Walpole Bros. of New York and London. Their factory is located in Waringstown, Ireland, and they sell the product of their looms direct to the consumer; therefore their prices are very reasonable for the quality of merchandise sold. They specialize in trousseaux, and their monogram work is the finest procurable.

A DETERMINED effort is being made by members of the Manchester summer colony to rid the community of mosquitos. And in that direction certain sections of the town, especially lowlands and swampy places, have been treated, with most encouraging results. One resident of West Manchester who has seldom been able to sit in his courtyard at night because of mosquitos, says he now takes great comfort in the enjoyment of his grounds at all hours, unmolested by the pest; the mosquitos have entirely disappeared. Walter D. Denégre and Frank P. Frazier have interested themselves in the movement to the extent that they have had considerable work done. Mr. Denégre has sent out the following letter to a hundred or more householders in Manchester, appealing for funds to carry on the work in a systematic way. The letter follows:

"To rid this neighborhood of the mosquito pest is the desire of all house-owners or house-holders. It can be done by organized effort, and at no great cost to any one person; provided all contribute. The work accomplished by the United States government in Panama is an object lesson. Work done by any individual on his own place is of no avail unless his neighbors do similar work; and unless all combine to take care of stagnant pools in the near back woods, on the rocks, and in the marshes. Mr. Fraizer and I have been doing the work on our own lands, but found it of no avail until we began employing men to look after adjoining lands. Within the last ten days we employed William E. Morris, of East Gloucester, who has done much of the spraying for gypsy caterpillars on the North Shore, and who knows this neighborhood. His mosquito work has, so far, been confined to spraying breeding places with oil, and placing cans of oil with drips at different places. The results in this short time have been so satisfactory to us, and to some of our neighbors, that it evidences the possibility of great relief from mosquitos, and in time their extermination, if the work is persisted in and carried further. If you care to join in the experiment for this summer and early fall, it is Morris' opinion that a contribution of $25 from each householder, or house-owner, will be effective. I am willing to undertake the general supervision of the work to see that it is done in accordance with instructions which will be sent from the United States government. Those desiring to contribute may send their checks to me, and I will endeavor to see that the sum realized brings as good results as is possible for the amount collected, and disbursed."

Mr. and Mrs. Bancel LaFarge and their four sons arrived this Tuesday at Beverly Farms, where they will occupy the Adams cottage, off Hale street. The family has been abroad for several years. Mrs. LaFarge was Miss Mabel Hooper of the late E. W. Hooper family, who formerly lived on the North Shore. Her sister, Mrs. Roger S. Warner (Mary Hooper), formerly occupied the Adams cottage, but is now spending the summer in Ipswich, on Argilla road in the Wendell house.

MANCHESTER TEA ROOMS on Pine street boulevard are a favorite place for children's birthday parties. This year the attractive little summer house in the garden is much sought after as just the right place in which to hold these little parties. Visitors at the tea rooms are interested in the old antiques exhibited in Mrs. Leach's home and also in the little pottery shop connected with the tea room in two rooms opening into the garden. The pottery shop is in charge of the North End Shop in Boston, 18 Hull street, known as the Paul Revere pottery. It is made by young women as a social experiment.

year. It is a beautiful old brick house in colonial style over one hundred years old and is situated on the Ellsworth river amid trees that are known far and wide for their wonderful growth and beauty.

The Right Rev. James deWolf Terry, D. D., bishop of Rhode Island, will take the service at the Emmanuel Episcopal church, Masconomo street, Manchester, Sunday, at half past ten. Rev. Henry W. "Buena Vista" the beautiful home on Smith's Point, Manchester, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Baer of Boston has an unique flower garden among the rocks which abound on the place, close to the water's edge. Just now the garden is gay with great beds of Sweet-Williams, which look very charming among the rocks.

IPSWICH is preparing for an old-time festival and celebration from Aug. 4th to the 18th, at the old Whipple House, which is owned by the historical society of the town. The life of the olden time will be reproduced by the society and most interesting scenes and booths are being arranged to show the life in the home, shop and on the farm. Some of the especially interesting booths will show women spinning, others will have various weaving machines in operation and an exhibit of lace-making as practised by the women of long ago will be an attraction. A number of samplers and wonderful display of pewter will be shown. Refreshments will be taken from "Widow Lumkin's Ordinary." There will be music and folk-dancing and various entertainments every day from 4 to 5 except Sundays. Tea will be served from 5 to 6. This will be a wonderful opportunity to visit the old town and its fine old museum in the Whipple House just across from the station and partake of y<sup>e</sup> olden time hospitality. The Greek and Polish children of Ipswich are arranging to give their national folk dances on afternoons and a recent performance of "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" by the Argilla road colony will be upon the program for one afternoon. Some of the prominent members of the summer colony, who are members of the society include R. T. Crane, Jr., Miss Katherine Loring, James H. Proctor, Charles G. Rice, Charles P. Searle, Mrs. Chas. P. Searle, Eben B. Symonds (Salem), Francis Appleton and the various members of the Appleton farms colony, Geo. E. Barnard, Miss C. B. Dobson, A. W. Dow, W. E. Hayward, Mrs. A. L. Heard, Herbert W. Mason, W. J. Norwood, J. J. Sullivan, A. L. Sweetser, Frederick J. Alley, Dr. J. D. Barney, J. W. Dittimore, Mrs. Pauline S. Fenno, Dr. J. L. Goodale, W. E. Gould, Mrs. Mary A. Lord, A. R. Merrill, Hon. C. A. Norwood, Dr. R. B. Osgood, Moritz B. Philipp, A. N. Rantoul, Bayard Tuckerman, J. A. Tuckerman, Dr. C. W. Townsend, Chalmers Wood, A. P. Gardner, George von L. Meyer and many others scattered all along the North Shore. The fete will close with a dinner, Tuesday, Aug. 17 at 1 p. m. after which there will be talks by old-time residents and descendants of old Ipswich families.

Mrs. Louis LeB. Chapin (Julia A. Tuckerman) and her two children of New York, arrived this week to spend the season with her mother, Mrs. C. S. Tuckerman of "Applefield," Waldingfield road, Ipswich.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Shannon Dunn of New York motored to Ipswich last Saturday in their new roadster. Mrs. Dunn is very fond of motoring and takes all the management of the machine. Mr. Dunn has returned to New York and will spend week-ends when possible with Mrs. Dunn in Ipswich at the home of her sister, Miss C. B. Dobson, Windmill Hill Farm.

Luncheon parties at Y<sup>e</sup> Burnham House have been given by Miss Ellen E. Clark of Atkinson Depot, N. H., who had a party of eight; A. E. Bournique and family of Chicago and Highland Park, who are summering at Annisquam; E. Pappin and Mr. and Mrs. Clement Studebaker of Rye Beach. Among those having tea have been noticed Miss Anne W. Sheafe and Benjamin E. Cole of Hamilton, and from the Oceanside were Miss Ethel Morse, Miss Doris Bryan, Miss Frances Heppe, Marcellus Heppe, Philip Bryan, Robert Babcock and Mrs. F. L. Potts.

The Laurel Shop Exchange, which is being carried on this summer in Ipswich in the home of Mrs. W. E. Tucker on So. Main street is offering some special articles in the way of old-time grandmother's sponge cake, fancy cakes, home prepared salted nuts, nut-bread and a line of olive oil soap made by a Syrian woman, who is living in Ipswich during the war times and has had the oil sent from her home country. The cakes and bread are brought to the shop daily by the women of the village.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Barnard of "River Bend Farm" have returned from a short visit in Lenox where they were registered at the Hotel Aspinwall.

Ogden Codman of New York is now settled on the beautiful Dawes place in Ipswich. Mr. Codman, who is a noted architect in New York and Lincoln, has previously spent his summers in France, but owing to the war he is remaining in this country for the first time in several years. He has a chateau in France near Meru which is charmingly located amid some of the most beautiful scenery in the country.

The postponed "Pied Piper of Hamelin" play by the Argilla road colony was given last Saturday afternoon on the estate of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Goodale. There was a large attendance from the surrounding summer colonies and a neat sum was realized for the Ipswich school gardens and for Red Cross work. About thirty children were in the play and made a charming picture in their old-time costumes as they followed the Piper across the lawn. The scenery was painted by Miss Harriet Lord and Miss Gretchen W. Rogers. The beautiful poem was read by Charles Sprague. Langdon Warner took the part of the Mayor and the Piper was Arthur Shurtleff. The children who played such an important part in the poem came from the following families: Charles Sprague, Dr. E. A. Crockett, Dr. E. W. Taylor, Herbert W. Mason, Augustus N. Rantoul, Dr. J. L. Goodale, Dr. J. D. Barney, C. E. A. Winslow, Dr. C. W. Townsend, Arthur A. Shurtleff, Edward R. Nash, Dr. Wm. B. Robbins, and grandchildren of the J. B. Warners.

Y<sup>e</sup> Rogers Manse is becoming one of the most popular inns along the North Shore. Seventy or more people were entertained over last week-end, many coming for tea or dinners and some especially for the Rhode Island Johnny cake and hot waffles for which the place is becoming noted. Mrs. R. T. Wilson of Newport spent last week-end at the Manse and is planning on spending a few days there again the last of the month.

OCEANSIDE HOTEL MAGNOLIA

Miss Marguerite F. Collins of Newton is at the Oceanside this season in charge of the dancing for the "kiddies," and arrangements are being made for dancing classes among the children, not only at the Oceanside, but from all along the shore. Already classes are in embryo formation from various communities. Miss Collins has been instructor of modern and folk dancing at the Mount Ida school for girls, Newton, the last year. She has also had several exclusive clubs in Newton and in Wellesley the past season. The idea of having someone to look after the amusement of the little tots at the Oceanside, giving especial attention to their dancing, is a new feature this year and one that is sure to prove popular.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Ponvert, who are spending the summer at the Lee cottage on Magnolia Point, are taking their meals at the Oceanside. In the party besides Mr. and Mrs. Ponvert are Josepha Lombard and Eliet Ponvert. The party registers from Cuba. They arrived last Friday.

Percy Lee Atherton was in Magnolia the last weekend, for a brief visit, and was a dinner guest at the Oceanside of Miss Sarah L. Guild. The Athertons are not summering at Magnolia this year, owing to the death of Mrs. Atherton, the mother, last winter.

Mrs. Charles F. Rand and daughters Florence and Helen of New York city are among the week's arrivals at the Oceanside. They have rooms in Wilkins cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Beal and Master Bruce Beal of Brookline arrived at the Oceanside last Saturday for the summer. They were here last year and have many friends who have welcomed them back this week.

Mrs. Abner A. Wilson of New York and Miss Mary Perkins of Brooklyn, new-comers to the Oceanside, arrived last Saturday for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery Winship and family, with governess, two maids and valet, arrived from Macon, Ga., last Sunday to spend the summer at the Oceanside. They have apartments in the Fox cottage.

THE Oceanside hotel at Magnolia is fast filling; last night there were about five hundred and fifty guests registered, but this only about two-thirds fills the big hotel and Annex, and the score of cottages connected. The season is far ahead of last year, and is up to what has been anticipated for this season. The Oceanside is having a better season than any of the other North Shore hotels, apparently, but this is to be expected inasmuch as the majority of Oceanside guests are families settled for the entire season; the hotel has very little of the transient business.

The dances at the Oceanside Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights are as popular as ever. Scores of motors may be seen lined along the streets about the hotel on any of these nights, which tells its own story of the popularity of the Oceanside dances among the cottagers along the Manchester, Beverly Farms and Beverly shore, as well as at Magnolia. The Oceanside orchestra is considered the finest on the North Shore for dance music; Director Kanrich seems to know just the proper music to give the most enjoyable touch to this feature of the dancing. It is expected a touch of color may be added to the dances the next two weeks because of the presence of officers from the battleships which are scheduled to arrive at Rockport Sunday for a ten-day stay.

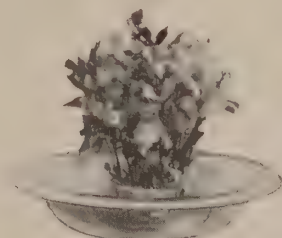

One of the new families to make the Oceanside their home this summer is that of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Irons of Plainfield, N. J. They arrived a week ago today and are settled in Perkins cottage. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Irons there is a daughter, Helen, and two sons,—Henry C., Jr., and William G. Irons, 2d.

Flower Basket Door Stop. Nature's own brilliance in poppies and morning-glories is reproduced in these heavy iron-weighted stops. Especially decorative. 11 1-2 inches high. Price $6.00

Bird Bath of Gray Stone. A new, handsome, substantial model, measuring 18 inches across, and costing $4.00. Three decorative birds will perch upon the rim for $1.50 each additional.

Table Decoration of Special Attraction. It consists of a crystal bowl measuring 11 1-2 inches across, a glass block flower-holder 3 1-2 inches diameter, and a dozen decorative sweet peas in natural colors. Price complete without peas, $3. 14-inch bowl and block, $4. Sweet peas, $1 a dozen. Separate prices: 11 1-2 inch bowl, $2.50; 14-inch bowl, $3.50.

UNLESS you have called at our enlarged and redecorated shop you have no idea how many charming things we have brought from New York for your inspection. These articles shown here are typical of a wide and varied assortment. Will you call?

SALEM, MASS.

New Ocean House, Swampscott

SWAMPSCOTT cottagers and hotel guests scoff at records being shattered by thermometers. Down on the Swampscott shore it is as cool as can be wished for and even on the golf course of the Tedesco beaming from under a copious straw hat one does not mind the heat. It is a charming combination of country and seashore, one that delights the tourist.

The Tedesco Country club is the axis on which Swampscott's social wheel is turning. The golf course is the big magnet and there are a half-dozen dirt tennis courts for the devotees of that sport. And then, there is usually music and dancing for the young folks; there is plenty for them to do. Tuesday evening the board of governors entertained the town officials of Swampscott and Marblehead at dinner. The dining room was attractively decorated with large flags of many countries, loaned by Eugene Ong, son-in-law of Andrew W. Preston of the Beach Bluff colony. Mr. Preston is the directing head of the United Fruit Co. and the flags came from the ships of that line. They made a festive appearance. There were 50 in the party including the following board of governors: Eugene H. Clapp, Benjamin N. Johnson, Frank E. Peabody, Elisha W. Cobb, Charles H. Conway, William H. Rothwell, Frank H. Gage, Andrew W. Preston, Jeremiah Williams and the president of the club, William A. Paine.

On Tuesday Mrs. Samuel G. Adams of "Mirimar" cottage, Beach Bluff, entertained a party of five ladies at luncheon and cards at the Tedesco. Mrs. Henry Taylor had seven guests on the same day. On Tuesday also H. M. Hewitt of Chicago, who is at Peach's Point, Marblehead for the summer, in the S. P. Raymond house, entertained seven guests at luncheon.

Wednesday's dinner-dance brought out an assembly of 175 cottagers from the summer territory about Swampscott. Sharpe's orchestra furnished music for dancing between 8 and 11 o'clock, following a dinner at 6.30.

The Thés Dansants are proving more popular each week. Another will be held tomorrow, Saturday. Last week's dansant was attended by about 150, a good sized number to draw together at the start of a week-end.

The miniature golf course laid out this season at the Tedesco is proving immensely popular both with the men and women. It is kept in wonderfully good condition and is an admirable place for a game in embryo.

The ladies of the summer colony are to the fore in golfing at the Tedesco these days. Among those noticed regulars are Mrs. W. C. Chick, Miss Grace Robinson and Miss Alice Faxon. All are adept at manipulating the clubs and appear to thoroughly enjoy the vigorous sport. Miss Sally Evans, who was wedded early in June to Robert Kimball of Swampscott, is much missed this season. She is now on a honeymoon trip through the west. Miss Kimball was one of the most enthusiastic golfers among the ladies at the Tedesco.

Today Mrs. H. H. Nickerson and Mrs. Zenas Sears are entertaining 75 of their lady friends at luncheon and tea at the club.

Major Benjamin W. Brown of the U. S. Naval hospital at Chelsea comes down almost daily with Mrs. Brown for a trip over the golf course. He has been in Japan for the past three years and is glad to get back to his old habitat, where he can enjoy his favored game once more.

Mrs. Eugene Ong, Mrs. Andrew W. Preston, Mrs. W. A. Paine, Mrs. M. P. Clough and Mrs. P. B. Palmer have contributed flowers from their gardens and green-houses with which to decorate the club-house for the last singles, men's doubles, ladies' singles and mixed doubles. Entries close Friday, July 16th, at 6 p. m. In the men's doubles, partners will be assigned by the committee. All matches are to be best two sets out of three, except in the finals of men's singles and doubles, which will be best three out of five sets.

NEW OCEAN HOUSE, Swampscott. Dinner parties, dancing, motoring and the opening rounds in the tennis tournament marked the social activities of the week at the New Ocean House, Swampscott. After the rainy weather of last week and with the settled conditions of the past week, guests from all parts of the country have been arriving each day and one of the biggest seasons is anticipated for the remaining two months. Because of the yearly increasing demand for an extension of the closing date, the hotel has this year announced that the New Ocean House will remain open until Sept. 20, an announcement which will meet with the favor of those leaving the mountains on Labor Day.

The tennis tournament for which there have been a number of entries in both the singles for the ladies and the gentlemen of the New Ocean House has brought out considerable talent. The opening rounds were played off during the past week and the finals and semi-finals are scheduled for next week. The management has offered cups in both events. Later in the season there will be a tournament in the mixed doubles.

The second formal ball at the New Ocean House, Swampscott, will be held in the main ball room, Saturday, July 17, and the second children's party will take place Wednesday, July 21. In addition to special dancing by the daughters of guests of the hotel, there will be several exhibitions by pupils from the school of Mr. J. Jefferson

There were the usual fancy tables, cake and candy, and a grab of especial interest to the younger people; and tables for bridge. A large number of the Nahant summer colony attended as patrons. Tea was served from 4 to 6 o'clock. Those in charge of the fancy tables were Mrs. Leverett Tuckerman, Mrs. Samuel Hammond, Mrs. Rufus Sewall, Mrs. Guild and Mrs. Orlandi. Mrs. James Lawrence, Jr., and Mrs. Frederick Winslow presided over the cake and candy table.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thorn King of New York, Paris and Pau, are added to the unusual number of cottagers at Nahant, who are in mourning. The death of Mr. King's brother-in-law, Edward C. Post of New York will keep the Kings from the summer activities in which they planned to participate on their first season on the North Shore. Before this season they were in the habit of staying at their villa in Pau.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Stevenson, who were at the Edgehill, Nahant, last year, are at their country place in Milton for the summer. They plan an occasional visit to Col. and Mrs. Robert H. Stevenson, who are at Nahant, as usual.

The cottage of the late Mrs. Frederick R. Sears on Cliff street, Nahant, is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrence. The Lawrences will have a new home in Milton when they return from the seashore; it is on the former Dewart estate.

The Historical society is planning a two days' fete in August in which many of the summer people will participate. The plans call for a rather elaborate program and an entertainment, which it is promised will come up to previous affairs held by the society.

Two deaths marred the usual pleasantness in the Marblehead summer colony last week. Mrs. Isabella Craig Abbott, wife of George N. Abbott of Cambridge, died at the Abbott summer home on Harbor avenue at the age of 85 years. Interment was at Mr. Auburn.

Fitz Albert Morse, a retired broker, also died suddenly, aged 76 years. Funeral services were held Friday at his town home, in Brookline.

A play in miniature will be given shortly by the young folk stopping at the Boylston house. It is now in preparation under the coaching of the elders.

There will be a regular dinner-dance at the Corinthian tonight. Next Monday the Salem Cadet band will be the attraction; the following Monday the Eighth Regt. band of Boston will play.

Last Saturday afternoon the Marblehead Historical society entertained many of the summer people from the Neck and Peach's point, at an afternoon tea in the Lee mansion from 4 to 6 o'clock. Mrs. Robert C. Bridge of the Neck colony had charge.

Rev. George D. Martin, D. D., of Auburndale preached at the Neck hall last Sunday morning at the regular church service.

The Oceanside hotel at Marblehead Neck is having a busy season and is among the leaders as far as registration is concerned among the medium-sized summer hostilities. Guests for the next fortnight include Mr. and Mrs. Mace Moulton, Jr., of Springfield. Mr. and Mrs. William G. Smith of Newton are there for an extended stay. Other guests for a North Shore sojourn at the Oceanside include Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Spear. A motor party which seems to represent the four corners of the earth registered at the Oceanside a few days ago. It consisted of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Mead of Chicago; Miss Lucy I. T. W. Waterman, of the same city. Col. and Mrs. T. S. Peck of Burlington, Vt., who are enjoying a season stay at the Oceanside, have had as their guests the past few days Prof. C. N. Doten of Cambridge and Major Evans of Austin, Tex. Prof. Doten is of the Technology faculty in Boston and is vice-president of the Vermont society of Boston. He was formerly of the faculty in the University of Vermont at Burlington and also its secretary. Major Evans is president of the New York and Texas Land Co., Ltd., with an office in Austin, Tex. The first dinner-dance of the summer at the Corinthian Y. C. on the Neck was a brilliant affair. Prof. Urquidi's orchestra provided music for the gay and fantastic dance following dinner. At the tables were noted the following: Commodore C. B. Wheelock, with party of five guests; C. O. Whitten, with six friends; W. C. Bowditch, five; Morton Adams, five guests; H. J. Russell, a like number; C. P. Blinn, seven; F. J. Fawcett, five; R. E. Hale, five; A. L. Walker, 10; George A. Browne and J. L. Walker, same number; H. W. Patterson, five; E. C. Richards, five; and F. A. Flood, five. In all there were about 125 covers laid and a merry party was the result. The evening was a faultless one as regards weather it being just cool enough on the Neck for comfort, without a suggestion of dampness in the air.

CAPE ANN. The sunny days following the long spell of rain have been appreciated by the summer folk on Cape Ann, when pleasant walks and drives can be resumed. That the fireplace with its logs or driftwood has been keenly appreciated during the season of dull weather, goes without saying. A walk over the moors reveals the vigor and glory that Jupiter Pluvius has instilled in the vegetation. The green of the bayberry and the bloom of the wild rose is the most wonderful for this time of the season that has been for years. The golf enthusiast, however, has not been so content because of the unfavorable conditions of the golf links, but a number of fine days will greatly improve the course.

Lawn fetes, lectures, flower sales, etc., are now in order for the benefit of charity. Last Saturday the city was besieged by fair maidens gowned in white and bearing trays of beautiful carnations, which were sold for the benefit of the Gloucester District Nursing association. The summer visitors of the city patronized liberally as well as citizens and others interested in this splendid work. Special luncheon and tea were served at the "Salad Bowl." 90 Middle street and a large number of patrons were satisfied with the attractive menu prepared by the managers. The "Salad Bowl" was the headquarters for the association on its Carnation Day.

The principal social function this week, for the benefit of the Red Cross work, was the illustrated lecture on "War and Weapons," given by John Hays Hammond, Jr., at the state armory in the city proper, on Wednesday evening. There was a fine patronage and a long list of leading North Shore summer residents signed as patronesses. The lecture as given by one who is a genius in radio research and has lately invented the most deadly war weapon yet in existence, a bomb for setting fire to besieged cities, proved exceptionally instructive as well as interesting. The funds derived from Mr. Hammond's lecture will be added to those under way for the purchase of an ambulance to be presented by North Shore residents to aid the American Ambulance corps in France.

Hon. A. Piatt Andrew of this city, a resident of Eastern Point, is one of the officers of the American Hospital Ambulance corps, doing humanitarian duty along the battle line in France and Belgium. Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Andrew of East Gloucester, parents of the one at the battlefront, are receiving letters of extreme interest from the war zone, in which Mr. Andrew gives straight forward accounts of horrifying situations. Descriptions of events and the surrounding scenery are admirably presented in his letters. Mr. Andrew has given his pro-Allies sentiment when he openly stated that he should be glad to see the stars and stripes floating beside those standards of England, France, Russia, Belgium and Italy.

A lawn fete will be held in the grounds of the Addison Gilbert Hospital, of Gloucester, on Thursday afternoon and evening of next week, under the auspices of the Alumnae of the nurses of the hospital. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the new maternity ward building fund. Prominent members of church societies will have charge of the fancy work and cake tent booths. The Greek play "Endymion" will be presented by local talent. The costumes are being designed especially for the occasion by H. Winthrop Pierce the Andover artist who costumed the St. Louis and Arlington pageants. The dancers of the wood and water nymphs, Artemis, goddess of the Chase and her maidens will be under the direction of Mr. Crowe assisted by two young ladies of the Eastern Point summer colony, Miss Melba Proctor of Brookline and Miss Madeline Coy of Somerville, pupils of Lilla Viles Wyman of Boston. Sewall's orchestra will render the incidental music and two performances of the play will be given, both afternoon and evening.

A meeting of the Gloucester Yacht club and regatta committee of the club were held on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of the week, at the clubhouse, Rocky Neck, East Gloucester, to make arrangements for the reception of the Massachusetts Yacht Racing Association fleet, which visits this port on August 8 and 9. At the meeting of the Regatta committee of the Gloucester Yacht club, Wednesday evening of last week, it was voted to abolish the point system of figuring-percentages and in its place to apply the following paragraph: "It will be assumed in figuring percentages that a yacht shall have started in at least 80 per cent. as many races as the yacht having the largest number of starts in her class." It was also voted to discontinue the guns for the first and second classes, so that in the future there will be three guns for the 18-foot class; warning gun, 2.27; preparatory 2.30 and starting 2.33. The interest is increasing each week, in the Saturday afternoon races.

BASS ROCKS. Golf, tennis, bathing and thé dansants are pastimes now being extensively indulged in at Bass Rocks. The fine beach is visited daily by hundreds of people. Miss Payton of Hartford is again matron at the bathhouse and W. J. Byrnes, the life patrol at the beach for many seasons, is again on duty. The fixtures for the Bass Rocks Golf club have been issued and Saturday afternoon social teas are popular affairs for members and their friends at the clubhouse. The tennis courts situated to the eastward of the clubhouse are occupied the most of the time on days when the weather is favorable. Thé dansants at the Moorland casino this season, with Lionel Allyn of New York as instructor of the modern dances, are proving popular with the guests and cottagers. Dancing and card parties at the Thorwald are pleasant diversions and on last Sunday evening a splendid song service was held in the music room, when the majority of the guests assembled and sang sacred songs for nearly two hours.

The fixtures for the Bass Rocks golf clubhouse for the season are as follows:

July 14 to 17—Handicap match competition—18 holes each day; finals Saturday afternoon.

July 19 to 22—Women's tournament, to be arranged by committee of women.

July 23—Men's best ball foursome—par handicap—18 holes.

July 28-31—Handicap match competition—18 holes each day—finals Saturday afternoon.

August 4 to 7—Handicap mixed foursome—match competition—18 holes each day.

August 11 to 14—Handicap match competition—18 holes each day—finals Saturday afternoon.

August 16—Handicap stroke competition for Nauss cup, for former winners only.

August 20 and 21—Championship competition—72 holes—36 each day.

August 25 to 28—Handicap match competition—18 holes each day—finals Saturday afternoon.

The above competitions are open to members of the club to whom handicaps have been assigned. Prizes will be offered for each of the contests. All cards must be properly completed and handed to the committee on day of play, not later than 5.30 p. m., otherwise they will not be considered. Previous to each competition further details will be posted on the bulletin board at the clubhouse.

The palms of the Turk's Head Inn nine at Land's End, Rockport, are just itching for a game with the Thorwald team. The latter is ready for them. The Thorwalds are to play the Hawthorne Inn nine this week-end, weather permitting.

EASTERN POINT. The social life in the East Gloucester colony is awakening. HAMILTON playgrounds opened last Wednesday with a good attendance and much enthusiasm. The directors are Miss Helen Robertson for the girls and Harry Gay for the boys, both coming from Beverly. Sewing will be in charge of Miss Woodbury of Beverly. A new feature this year will be manual training for the boys. The ground is given for the playground by Mrs. Thomas P. Pingree of Wenham. The movement is supported by both the summer colony and the townspeople. The committee consists of the following: N. J. Conrad, president; Mrs. Reginald C. Robbins, secretary; Mrs. Lydia Rankin, treasurer; Mrs. S. Dacre Bush, Mrs. George von L. Meyer, Miss Jessie Johnson, Mrs. H. N. Hudson and Mrs. F. P. Trussell.

Mrs. George D. Sargent is now at Longmeadow Farms. Her son's family, the G. W. Sargents, are with her this summer. Last summer Mr. Sargent's family spent at Rockport, in the Land's End colony. Mr. Sargent has been pastor of the Christ church (Episcopal) in Hamilton until this spring when he resigned and will seek other fields in the fall. Mrs. Clarence Poor and family are not with her mother, Mrs. Sargent, on the Hamilton farm this year, but are settled in Hyannisport on Cape Cod for the season. Mrs. Poor was a recent visitor in Hamilton.

The parish house belonging to Christ church (Episcopal) of Hamilton and Wenham opened last Sunday, with services conducted at 10.30 a. m. by Archdeacon W. W. Love of Boston assisted by Rev. Frank L. Luce of Dorchester, the rector in charge for the past month or more. Three years ago in July the first service was held in the little church which has been in existence as a society only four years and it has had a remarkable growth in that time.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Dacre Bush, who are spending the summer at Marlboro, N. It was Mr. Bush who arranged to have the movable structure used as a headquarters for the Essex Country club at Manchester, moved to Hamilton, the past winter.

The Jonathan Brown, Jr., boys of "Red Top Farm," —Jonathan, 3rd, and Philip—have returned from a two weeks' visit to their grandmother's Mrs. John Kline of Oil City, Pa., and also at Buffalo, where they visited their great grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jonathan. They will enter St. Paul's school at Concord N. H., in September. Mrs. Brown will pay her annual visit to her mother in Oil City during August.

At the Myopia Hunt club many fine thoroughbred hunting horses are coming on—those from Baltimore arriving the past week, and the Virginia and Kentucky horses coming later. The Hamilton Driving Club is holding a series of weekly races on the club track. Polo is on every Wednesday and Saturday. The polo meets of the Myopia and Dedham Country clubs are scheduled for Sept. 4 to 18. The caddy boys are still holding out in their strike for better pay on their rounds.

Hon. Nathan Matthews has rented his "Black Brook Farm" in Hamilton to Mrs. Albert H. Carroll of Washington. The Albert R. Merrill family of "The Hamlet" have been late in coming to their pretty place in Hamilton. Their daughter, Miss Alberta, since leaving Smith college, has been on a visit to Langhorn, Penn., the home of her friend, Miss Alyse Matthews, whose engagement was announced the past week at a dinner dance to William Hunneman, Jr., of Brookline. Miss Matthews will visit in Hamilton in August. Miss Merrill is now visiting Miss Elinor Wild at Center Moriches, L. I. House-guests at the Merrills are Miss Lucy Arrick of Chicago and Miss Helen Mead of Ossining, N. Y.

WENHAM'S tea house has had its usual weekly luncheon and tea parties. Mrs. Kilham of Beverly gave a luncheon and bridge for a party of eight. Mrs. Wolcott H. Johnson of Hamilton gave a birthday party at the tea house last Saturday night for her son George, who celebrated his seventeenth birthday by taking a party of eight young friends to the Wenham assembly held in the town hall that night and entertaining them afterwards in the tea house. A huge birthday cake baked by Mrs. Downes in which a $2.50 gold piece was hidden caused much merriment for the young folk. The Johnsons will soon be leaving for California.

The large attendance at the second of the Saturday evening Assemblies in the Wenham Town hall proves that they are going to be very popular with the North Shore colony this season. The lively ray-time music and southern melodies furnished by Carleton Hicks and companion, colored musicians, were considered a rare treat. Several dinner parties were on last Saturday evening, the guests joining the dancers later. Among those entertaining were Mrs. James Howe Proctor of Ipswich, who gave a dinner of ten covers and entertained a large party in the tea house after the dance. Mrs. Geo. S. Mandell was present with her guests, also the Thomas W. Pierces of Topsfield, who brought several dinner guests. Guests who came with Miss Eleanor Cole and her brother, Benjamin E. Cole, 2d, were Miss Ann Sheafe of Chestnut Hill and William H. Coolidge, Jr., of Magnolia. Miss Corina Searle and her brothers were over from Ipswich.

Miss Frances Downes of Boston, who is conducting the Wenham Assemblies spent last week-end at Gerrish Island, Maine.

Mrs. Charles D. Sias of "Sunny Slope Farm," Wenham, spent last week-end with friends on Cape Cod.

Mrs. Charles Thorndyke Parker returned Wednesday to her home in Wenham from a two weeks' visit with her sister and nephew, the Robert Hall McCormicks of Chicago and Bar Harbor. Mrs. Parker had planned to stay longer in Bar Harbor, but returned in time to attend a lawn fete given by the girls of the Thorndyke club of Tomorrow's golf tournament at the Essex County Club will be a handicap medal play for men, with prizes for first and second net scores, and best selected nine holes.

Next week's golfing schedule calls for a senior handicap medal play for men on Wednesday; mixed foursome—handicap medal play on Thursday, and the annual team match with the Myopia Hunt Club Saturday, the 24th.

MANCHESTER Y. C. OPEN RACE.

The open race of the Manchester Yacht Club, counting for percentages in North Shore championships, will be sailed off House Island, Manchester, next Saturday, July 24, at 2.15 p. m., for the following classes: 31-foot class—P, Bar Harbor 31-foot class, Sonderklasse, Boston Y. C. 1st rating class, 20-foot class—R, E. Y. C. one-design class, Manchester one-design class, and C. Y. C. one-design class.

The scores in the sweepstake played at the Tedesco, Swampscott, on Saturday last are as follows:

E. F. Batchelder .....	111	27	84
J. H. Fahey .....	103	22	81
A. T. Thompson .....	97	17	80
A. V. Blake .....	90	11	79
J. P. Devlin .....	97	19	78
H. W. Ford .....	100	25	75

The stormiest cruise which the Eastern Y. C. has had in years was finished a week ago this Friday night with a wind-up dinner at Bar Harbor. The cruise was marked by unusual weather, a good-sized fleet (with an average of 22 boats in six ports visited), and only two satisfactory races. Silver pieces were awarded for the yachts winning a majority of the runs as follows: First division schooners, Irolita; second division schooners, Shiyessa IV. First division sloops, Avenger; second division sloops, Vega. Special division schooner Enchantress. The fleet disbanded at 7 o'clock Friday night with 10 yachts represented at the wind-up.

Seventy-three boats started in the open regatta of the Winthrop Yacht club in Nahant Bay Saturday, perhaps the biggest event of the present season. The attendance naturally was large because Winthrop is the home club of R. C. Goudey, president of the Yacht Racing Union, under whose auspices the regatta was held. After the boats had finished a reception took place at the club house in which President Goudey figured. Commodore Wells and other officials of the organization were untiring in hospitality tendered visitors.

Francis Ouimet, the amateur champion golfer of the United States, played over the Wollaston course last week in the open medal play handicap there in 70, one stroke worse than the amateur record for Wollaston held by himself. Ouimet, in gross scoring, led the field of 98 starters, having played the out holes in 39 and the home ones in 31. Par for Wollaston is 71.

There were but three other scores better than 80, L. B. Paton's 75, Jesse P. Guilford's 77 and G. S. Dunham's 78. Paton and Guilford putted erratically, the first named having used up three putts on several of the greens. Considering the fact that Paton of the Homestead Golf club, Danvers, played two sixes and four fives, it is at once apparent that he played a lot of sound golf.

The New York Y. C. has sent out the announcement that on Wednesday, August 11, the regular King's cup race, usually sailed off Newport, will be sailed off Marblehead this year during the annual cruises. The course of the cruise this season will be through the new Cape Cod canal to Marblehead.

The Posey, sailed by Benjamin Stanley, won in the regular mid-week races of the 18-foot class of the Gloucester Y. C. last week. There was a good, steady breeze from the northwest; there was a close race over the entire course.

The Hollis Burgess yacht agency of Boston has sold the 35-foot waterline yawl Diamond, owned by J. J. Moore, to William H. Bartlett. 30-foot waterline yawl Minnetonka, owned by Frederick S. Jones, dean of Yale, to a prominent member of the Boston Y. C.; Sonderboat Panther, owned by John J. Podolsky, to Howard F. Norman of Newton. The same agency has chartered the 50-foot waterline auxiliary yawl Markeeta, owned by Alvin S. Dexter of Brookline, to James C. Dunn of Manchester; 25-foot waterline auxiliary sloop Shawsheen, owned by Harry L. Wheeler, to Capt. Walter N. Hill of the U. S. Marine Corps; 25-foot waterline auxiliary yawl Brynhild, owned by B. Allison Edwards, to James J. Minot, Jr., of Milton.

The wind-up dinner of the Eastern Y. C. on their cruise along the Maine coast last week was held on Friday at Bar Harbor. The winners in Thursday's racing were the schooners Irolita, Shiyessa IV. and the sloops Avenger and Vega. The Avenger, just before starting, shipped a new gaff, which belonged to her rival Shimna.

Golf fixtures at Tedesco Country club for the next two weeks: tomorrow, July 17, handicap medal play; July 24, mixed foursomes, medal play. Handicap. Ladies to invite partners. July 31, Qualifying round, Governor's cup, scratch.

PRESIDENT WILSON can be depended upon to carefully weight the problem that is before him and present firmly and fairly the view of the American people. It is evident, however, that Germany has not been as prompt and as conciliatory as this government might wish and expect. Berlin has taken all the time that could possibly be taken to answer our demands. The notes already received are evasions of the issue at stake, but they are, never-the-less, not as "insulting" as some papers have endeavored to prove. Berlin is playing a hard game and her diplomatic methods are not exactly like those of America nor are her ways of thinking American. The replies have been characteristically German. Beneath the evasions it is apparent that Germany's attitude is conciliatory despite the unsatisfactoriness of the contents of the notes. Germany is not endeavoring to "pick" a quarrel. The Imperial Government has failed to acknowledge the crime of the sinking of the Lusitania, has refused to see that America expects and must have a just and honorable adjustment of the submarine problem. The issue at stake is the rights of neutrals upon the sea. Germany feels that oppression of England's supremacy upon the seas, and objects to it and the submarine warfare is the answer. America is making a demand for certain rights upon the high sea. Germany will defeat her own ends if she denies the rights of the high sea that America demands. Whatever difficulties America may have with the Allies the issue with Germany must be settled on its own merits. If Germany fails to recognize the rights of neutrals and to make a stand with America for the freedom of the sea it would appear that Germany would be making a serious mistake. What Germany objects to in England she ought to be quick to concede to America. The American people think that the passengers upon the Lusitania took great risks in going to sea in war time in an English vessel. In fact public opinion is intense on that point. The place for Americans is in America or if they needs must travel they should take such precautions as they can by sailing under the Stars and Stripes, but what ever the American people think about the risks taken by the Lusitania victims America is firm in her assertion of neutral rights and those rights Germany has violated. The German note intimates that it was not expected that the Lusitania would sink after the first torpedo was sent. It is asserted that it was thought that the Lusitania would stay afloat long enough to permit the crew and passengers to disembark. However that may have been Germany could have settled this whole problem by such a statement and then in a few words agree to meet the necessary obligations of the blunder. The German note turns at the critical point and the issue is befogged and the saving words unwritten. However, unsatisfactory as the note may appear, it is not as unsatisfactory as could easily be conceived. Facts count. There have been no more Lusitania disasters and that speaks volumes. The note has not met our expectations, but the warfare that America objected to has ceased. Another Lusitania incident would undoubtedly make a crisis. President Wilson is a keen thinker, a carefully writer and a man of peace. He can be depended upon to come to reasonable conclusions. He will be able to do it much more easily now that Bryan does not hamper him in his work.

WHILE IN THE LEGISLATURE, Mr. MacDonald, now Mayor of Beverly, paved the way for a new bridge between Beverly and Salem. Yesterday the Essex County commissioners submitted plans for rebuilding it. The new plans provide for filling in under the present bridge, providing for a channel and draw. This will make it possible to provide a tide gate that will keep the water at a level high enough to prevent the nuisance now complained of on the Danvers and North Rivers. It will be a pleasant coincidence for the Mayor of Beverly to approve the measure as Mayor that he supported as a member of the Legislature. The new bridge ought to be built, provided the expense is properly apportioned in such a way as to provide against too heavy a burden upon any one year or administration.

IN PROVIDING for the organization of a Board of civilian inventors to meet the new conditions of warfare as shown abroad, Secretary Daniels of the Navy Department has made a signal advance in his work. Thomas A. Edison has responded to his call for service with patriotic enthusiasm. America is fortunate to have such a genius to call to service. There is no reason why advances cannot be made in preventive inventions that will overcome the terrible destructive agencies this war has developed. America wants peace. Mr. Edison will be able to associate with the leading minds of the States and under the direction of the master mind much good ought to come forth.

A NORTH SHORE PASTOR's answer to the question, "Ought America to be prepared?" was "Yes, shod with the preparations of the Gospel of Peace." The old world was prepared for war and found it. Nations, like individuals, find what they are looking for. There is no evil in preparedness for war if the spirit of the nation be "shod with the preparations of the Gospel of Peace."

THE NORTH SHORE has its interests in the relief work of the war with the organized efforts for the French work on Mondays and Thursdays and the Red Cross endeavors on Tuesdays and Fridays. These are noble enterprises and the loyal workers are reaping rich rewards in their philanthropic enterprises.

THE JITNEYS are making serious inroads upon the earnings of the street railroads and one Massachusetts street railroad company has retaliated in denying the privileges of its park to jitney passengers.

WHEN THE WAR ENDS, will the tide of immigration turn from America to the old world or from the old world to America? Who can foresee at this time?

THE HALF HAS NOT yet been told. While news of the war filters in, the press in America does not begin to know what is going on across the seas.

AT THE AMERICANIZATION meeting held last week for Italians at Beverly Farms, Mayor MacDonald made a strong appeal to the men from Italy to make strenuous efforts to benefit themselves and to live within the law of the land wherein they gain a livelihood. He paid a just tribute to the Italians who have been helping in America. Such encouragement by the leader of a municipality to the new Americans within its borders cannot but be a great help in the solving of the immigration problem.

THE PLUMBERS have wisely made an agreement for a long period of years. The conditions of business are hardly such as to warrant any more favorable terms for employees. The business world today is readjusting itself to changed conditions and the future is not altogether bright. The plumbers have acted wisely and in the end they have acted advantageously to their own interests in the settlement, even though the gains hoped for have not been made.

TO PROVIDE AGAINST fire accidents and to give the fire department accurate information concerning the location of inflammable oils and liquids on and after August first the purchasers of oil and gasoline will be obliged to have a license. This does not apply to purchases made for domestic use. As the licenses are easily obtained no hardship is imposed upon anyone, and everybody will be benefited by the additional precaution made against fire.

IT IS A THOUSAND pities that Holt, or Muentner, did not live. If he had accomplices the Government ought to know who they are. But the simple facts in the case would seem to indicate that his endeavors were the result of a disordered brain. No one can provide against the attacks made by the insane.

AN EFFORT IS BEING MADE to provide for the closing of factories during the summer season so that labor may be obtained for harvesting the crops of the West. It is a fair dream, but hard to realize. There are workmen who would oppose the movement.

MASSACHUSETTS has a serious motor problem that must be solved sooner or later. There is no doubt that licenses are granted too easily. Some way ought to be devised to prevent incompetent people from obtaining licenses.

THE NEW TREES planted by the Beverly Farms Improvement Society are doing well and add much to the appearance of the streets on which they have been planted.

THE OPEN AIR FETE to be held at the Haven estate by the summer residents of the North Shore in the interests of the Naval Y. M. C. A. at Boston ought to be generously patronized.

MANCHESTER'S baseball team continues its record of victories, losing only two games last year, and none this season so far.

AS THE SECOND INDUSTRY in America the moving picture craze has been effectively capitalized.

EVEN THE EUROPEAN war is unable to subdue the public interest in the Thaw case.

War Notes.

VI.

OF all the trades for which a man is willing,
The dirtiest of all that of killing.
Nothing doth it produce,
But makes destruction of what else were use.

You say that he has gone to—well—
In other words, he's gone to hell.
Yes, bloody war puts hell to shame.
And deserves no better name.

What need of lordship or of armed hordes?
Love hath no use for swords.
'Tis peace and order and content
That Love affords.

What is Diplomacy when Greek meets Greek?
It is to make black white, white black—
To kiss the cheek
And stab the back!

Why should I lift a vengeful arm
'Gainst one who ne'er did me harm?
Why should I wish to meet in fight
One like myself of equal might?
And battle until either yield,
The other dead upon the field?
Why should we play the battle game
And fire our sons to do the same?
Or think to settle right by might
In equal or unequal fight?
There surely were a better fashion.
Of argument than brutal passion!

Thro' all the clouds of horror and disgrace,
Prophetic vision sees
The sure emergence of the race,
Altho' by slow degrees.
Doubt not democracies
Shall outgrow monarchies
Which from their lofty throne
So long have ruled alone.
The people, in their new-found might,
Shall see the light
And come into their own.

—JOSEPH A. TORREY.

THE BOY SCOUT movement in Manchester has been signally successful as elsewhere. The ethical standards of the organization are above reproach and the young lads who subscribe to the pledge which provides that the scout shall be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent will have made much of his life if he realizes its instructions and provisions.

THE GENERAL UPWARD movement of most of the established stocks listed on the exchange is one of the surprises of these war days.

IF WILSON WRITES the note at Cornish, Cornish will have a name in history for all time.

The value of a bank in the community and the convenience to the general public may be suggested by the fact that last Saturday, in the 270 minutes the bank was open, one customer was handled on an average of every forty seconds.

The fire department made a prompt response to the fire alarm yesterday morning at 7.50 for a blaze on Norwood avenue. An oil stove blazed up and looked threatening. The damage was slight.

His daughter, Minnie Harris, came to Manchester Wednesday to spend her vacation with her grandparents on Summer street.

Many of those who heard the band concert given by Clark's band of Gloucester on Fourth of July night, at Masconome Park, and applauded the cornet solo given about midway through the program of ten numbers, were unaware that the solo was by a young woman—a mere girl of seventeen, Miss Eleanor Reynolds of Gloucester. This was Miss Reynolds' first appearance as a soloist, and she certainly is deserving of much praise for the splendid performance.

Gleason of Lowell, the coming Irish baritone, in stirring ballads of old Ireland; Miss Catherine McDonough of Charlestown, well known here as a clever and graceful jig and reel dancer; pipers, fiddlers and flute players from the Irish Music Club of Boston, supplemented with a fine array of local talent. ### EQUAL SUFFRAGE NEWS.

The chief suffrage news of the week is as follows:—

Saturday of this week, the 17th, will be "Bluebird Day" throughout the state.

The date for the visit of the Campaign Canvassers to Manchester has been fixed for August 24. This will be a Suffrage day and evening for Manchester, and full details will be given later.

Meanwhile arrangements are being made for Mrs. Claude Gilson, the new vice president of the Massachusetts Federation of Woman's Clubs, to visit Manchester and give a talk on the recent convention at Marion and the general situation. This talk will take place probably about the 25th or 26th of this month.

Several more granges in Massachusetts have endorsed equal suffrage.

Springfield, this state, and among the speakers was a man hired from another state, who told the people there assembled that women were unreliable, untruthful and unfaithful in their duties to home and family! The women applauded the speaker as if they gloried in their shame. I am an old-fashioned person, but I read in the Good Book about the good woman whose "price is above rubies"; also regarding the bad woman "whose steps lead down to hell and whose feet take hold on death." Now, as wheat and tares together grow (same authority), I suppose the same state exists today as in the days of old. To which class do the Suffragists and also the Antis belong? The greater the cause the greater the persecution. This man referred to above borrowed from another state, by his persecutions of statement will aid the cause he opposes. The appalling conditions in the world today have been brought about by men. No woman had a hand in it; but, given a chance, she will, by the help of Almighty God, help to right the wrong; anyway, she cannot do worse than man.

It has been said that if women vote they should shoulder arms and go to war. No woman ever raised or ever will raise up sons to fight—that belong to beasts, and when women are given their rights and placed side by side with man on an equality with him, where God placed her in the first instance, war will cease. Look at the long line of wonderful women! Florence Nightingale, the "Lady of the Lamp," whose shadow in passing the poor soldiers on their hospital cots was blessed by them, is a good example of scores and hundreds we all could name. Even these noble workers would have done more and better work if they had had political freedom. Life is fuller and richer because of contact with the world. I am sure that married women would be happier for an outside knowledge of business, because they would be better companions for their men folks. Being more intelligent on a greater variety of subjects, they would also be better managers of their special business of home and family, for the home is vitally concerned with matters of governmental efficiency.

In our own state a woman may not marry without a license from the government; she cannot build her house except as the law decrees; her supplies of light and air are under political control; the age at which she must send her children to school and to work is decided for her; she cannot give them pure milk, pure meat or pure water without the intervention of the state, all of which she might fashion nearer to the heart's desire if given political freedom. The finest things in humanity cannot find expression in government while only half of humanity have a voice therein.

In Boston on Independence Day there was a festival in Faneuil Hall to welcome our newly naturalized citizens. How do you think our American women, some of whom had taught these foreign men to read and write, felt when these same immigrants were given the ballot, and they still were excluded. On the same day a statue of Wendell Phillips was unveiled, calling to mind his address given in 1861 in which he said that men wronged themselves when they withheld equal rights from their women.

I want now to speak as a wage-earner. John Stuart Mill said a long time ago that "the morality of submission and of chivalry are past; the time has now come for the morality of justice." In the business world the chivalry of man toward woman is a myth. I have spent my life in the field of man's work, sometimes side by side with man to provide for myself and those depending on me. I have never been conscious in business of any advantage or protection given me because of my womanhood, that was not given to the men doing the same work in the same business. I am profoundly conscious of the disadvantage of my sex when I receive less pay for the same amount and quality of work done. I wish we might lay aside this fable of chivalry and give simple justice a trial.

In our own village on Independence Day the Suffragists wished to enter the parade in the civic section; but one member of the committee said no! "that would give them a standing," so they were granted a place in the floral section, which might be chivalry, but it surely was not justice.

I hope you will print all, as I want to say more and cannot say less.

MOTOR BOAT MUFFLING.

The steamer "Lotus," purchased by the Commonwealth for the use of the District Police in enforcing the law of Massachusetts for the muffling of motorboats, went into commission July 1st. During the summer she will patrol the eastern coast of Massachusetts. The "Lotus" will be on the lookout for any violators and offenders will be prosecuted.

The Motor Boat Muffling Association advises all owners to make themselves familiar with the law, which provides that motorboats be muffled in a reasonable manner, and in cases where present equipment does not comply with that law to make the necessary changes at once.

All complaints which are received by this Association will be forwarded at once to Capt. Grady, who is in charge of the "Lotus."

MANCHESTER 15, BOSTON YMCA 2.

The Manchester baseball team added another to their string of victories last Saturday in the game with the Boston Y. M. C. A., the score being 15 to 2. The superior fielding and batting of the local boys, and Grover's superb pitching, put Manchester in a class by itself. The Manchester boys came across with 15 hits, with a total of 23 bases, while the Bostonians took only five hits off Grover, with a total of seven bases.

Every man on the local team connected for a hit, except Collins, who flied out three times. Harold Grover led the list with three safe hits, one of them a home run, also a two-bagger and a single. Gray was good for a single and a double and O'Leary, O'Connell and Perkins were each good for a single and a double.

Grover was in splendid form. He pitched eleven balls to the first three men up, striking out each man. Except in the seventh inning, only one or two men got as far as second base.

The Manchester baseball team is looking for its hardest game of the year tomorrow, when the fast Queen Quality nine of Jamaica Plain will be the attraction. The Queen Qualities are unbeaten this year; so are the Manchesters. The Boston boys have a star battery and some heavy sluggers. And so the local fans look for a pretty close game.

The Manchester boys, on the other hand, feel pretty confident. The team is in the prime of condition. The Q. Q.'s team must show a pretty good pitcher to get away from Manchester's hard sluggers, and Grover says he never felt better than at the present time.

A big crowd of fans will be up from Gloucester Saturday and another big crowd will be down from Beverly Farms. Baseball fans hereabouts are realizing that Manchester is offering about the best article of baseball in this vicinity this summer, whence the ever-increasing crowd at the games every week.

The series between Manchester and Beverly will start Aug. 7, at Beverly.

The Riversides of Cambridge will play Manchester next week (the 24th) and the Watertown team is scheduled for the 31st. The Lynnhursts are scheduled for Aug. 28.

BOUTS AT GLOUCESTER.

The boxing fans in Gloucester and along the North Shore, are in for a treat next Monday, when the Gloucester Social and Athletic Club will reopen its doors at the Mansfield Building on Main street. The main bout, which is bound to furnish fireworks, will bring together Joe Chick of Gloucester and Young Jasper of North End, Boston. Here is a pair of hard-hitting welters that always furnish a hair-raising contest and each is out to win as quickly as possible. The semi-final between Johnnie McIlw of Fall River and Jack McCool of Panama is in keeping with the main affair, as each boy knows the game thoroughly. The preliminary between Young Forty of Manchester and Tommy Corbiey of Gloucester is one the fans have been wanting a long time. Corbiey consented to meet Forty after a lot of dangling over weight. The boys have met once before and Corbiey won after four hard rounds. Forty is out to reverse the decision and a crowd will go with him from Manchester.

DROWNING ACCIDENT AVERTED.

By only a narrow margin was a drowning accident averted Sunday evening at Masconomo Park, Manchester, and that largely through the efforts of John Silva and his son Anthony of Forest street, who landed on the inside of the long float at the time and heard the young man's cries. Eddie, the 17-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Benj. F. Bigwood, Pleasant street, and several other boys were at the new swimming float at the park, just about dusk. A younger brother, Harold, about 14, could not swim and on the assurance of the older brother who could swim that he would help the younger one in case he couldn't swim Harold dove in. The water, of course, is over a boy's head, almost at low tide. As soon as the young lad struck the water and came to the surface he cried for help and the older brother went after him. Harold went under several times and despite the frantic efforts of his brother he was slowly drowning. In fact both boys would doubtless have drowned had not assistance arrived. As it was the death grip imprint still remains on the arm of the older Bigwood boy. Other boys came to the rescue of the two struggling youths, and Sidney Peters threw the life preserves overboard, but the boys say these are of no use and hardly remain on the surface. Mr. Silva and his son couldn't believe the cries they heard as their motor boat slowly swung into berth to be tied to the pier for the night. When the full realization of the catastrophe came to them they hurriedly pushed their boat toward the boys and with the aid of an oar reached them and finally succeeded in getting Harold into the boat, as he was about to go down for the third time, and later onto the float.

MAGNOLIA

Mrs. Lucy Jenkins of Gloucester was a guest of her cousin, Mrs. O. P. Story, over Sunday at the latter's home on Magnolia avenue. Mrs. Walter Nelson of Gloucester has also been a guest of the Story family during the week.

The Women's club has a membership of nearly 200 now and a keen interest is being shown in the embroidery, knitting, dressmaking and dancing classes. Miss Beatrice Long of Manchester, of the Wyman school of Boston is the dancing teacher this year and her grace as a dancer and her ability as a teacher must make her class one of the successes of the season. There will be a short dancing party from 9 to 10.30 this evening for members only. Next week there will be a suffrage meeting at the club and two speakers will be sent out from headquarters. The subject seems to be one of peculiar interest to the members of the club and a large attendance is expected. The next gentlemen's night is scheduled for Wednesday evening, July 28.

The usual services will be held at the Village church Sunday morning at 10.45 and Sunday evening at 8.15. Rev. Dr. W. S. Eaton will occupy the pulpit at both services.

The Ladies' Aid Society has announced the date of its annual fair as Saturday, August 4, to be held at the Oceanside Parlor from 9 a. m. to 3.30 p. m. The fair always receives a generous patronage which is well merited as this is an important item in the support, which is wholly voluntary, of the Village church.

Keeping

When the up-to-date man wants to take a day off, a week-end trip, or even a month's vacation, he doesn't sigh "to get away from a telephone."

Like the late E. H. Harri-man, he makes the telephone a servant, not a master; uses it when he deems it desirable to keep in touch with business affairs; and refuses to let it intrude upon his leisure, without warrant.

One talk daily to the office or factory, and—for a limited period, at least,—the rest of the day belongs to the man who has the right kind of an organization.

JUNE REPORT OF M. S. P. C. C.

During the month of June the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children was asked to investigate 442 new cases. Agents of the society completed work upon 332 cases involving 604 different children. There were 61 cases prosecuted in court on behalf of 228 children; 976 cases were carried over for work during July. In 21 different families negligent parents were forced through court action to support their children. The society is more and more endeavoring to induce parents through moral suasion as well as legal process to care for their own children, thus relieving the town and state and incidentally tax payer of the expense.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest
St. Jacobs Oil

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 25 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly!

The White Beach Icicle

By HELEN CHRISTENE HOERLE

IT was one of those warm, sticky afternoons in late July, when even thinking becomes an effort. The broad verandas of the White Beach Country Club were crowded with young people, while a few of the more ambitious ones sported rather listlessly on the tennis courts or ambled leisurely over the golf course.

In one corner of the veranda a group of young chaps in white flannels lounged indolently. To look at them one would never have imagined that they were arranging the famous Tennis - Club's - Annual - Entertainment - for-Worthy - Charities program.

Young Harrison's brow was wrinkled thoughtfully. "That makes ten numbers. Of course we can count on you for a dancing stunt, can't we, Tom?"

Thomas Rutland, Jr., stretched his long limber legs and grinned. "I'm the one, only and original imitator of our friend Vernon. It's really awfully decent of you fellows to ask me, considering——"

"Oh, cut that," Harrison interrupted. "We want you, Tom, the same as ever."

"Why don't you give in to the pater, pretend to, anyway," a man in gray tweeds asked curiously, "she may be deucedly pretty."

Tom frowned. "It isn't the girl, it's the idea. Would you consent to marry a girl you had never seen just because your father thought she was the one and only girl in the world for you? I couldn't see it and can't yet, I don't like girls anyway, and I don't want to get married."

"You've never been in love, that's plain," Jack Grayson, the big tenor, sighed rapturously.

"No, I haven't, and at present I don't want to," Tom exclaimed impatiently. "I'd rather be making my little twenty-five per as dancing teacher at the Claremont than be married to the best girl in the land."

"Hear, hear," his chum Dick Lisle shouted, "but I bet you'll get tired after a while and any girl will look good to you as long as father approves and opens the purse strings."

"Will you please discuss Tom's financial and love affairs at some other time and place?" the chairman pleaded, "but do let's get this program doped out now. Who will your dancing partner be, Tom?"

"Miss Garrettson," Rutland's eyes twinkled mischievously.

"Miss Garrettson," twelve dismayed voices echoed.

"Exactly, either I dance with her or I won't dance at all." Tom's voice held a note of finality. In reality he had no intention of asking Miss Garrettson, but when he saw that the men took his suggestion seriously, he determined to carry the joke through.

"Good heavens, you are not serious, Tom," Tony Harrison glanced up in dismay. "I guess I had better strike your name off now. She'll never consent to do it, that icicle."

"I'll bet you anything you say that she won't," Dick Lisle offered magnanimously.

"I need a new pair of tennis shoes," Rutland suggested, tentatively eyeing his footwear.

"I'm on. I need a new pair myself," Lisle grinned. "Poor Tom, it's a shame to take them from you. They will make an awful hole in your next week's twenty-five."

"I'll risk it," Tom laughed. "I——"

"Here comes Miss Garrettson now," Grayson cried. "I will bet you——"

"A new pair of pumps, thanks," Tom laughed over his shoulder as he swung himself over the veranda rail and bounded lightly over the smooth lawn.

The men watched with pardonable envy the lithe figure with the well trained muscles rippling lightly under the sun-browned skin, as with surprising rapidity he covered the distance between the club house and the little figure in stiff blue linen.

"Good afternoon, Miss Garrettson." He smiled his newly acquired professional smile. "I'm wondering if you will help the boys out with the entertainment next week."

Miss Garrettson's brown eyes stared amazedly at and then seemingly through him. "Why—why, I'll do anything I can for you, to be sure, Mr. Rutland."

"That's bully, I knew you would," he agreed enthusiastically. "Will you give a dancing number with me?"

Miss Garrettson's racket fell from her trembling hands. "Why—why, I couldn't, Mr. Rutland. I simply couldn't dance before all those people."

"Oh, yes, you could," Rutland assured her. "I suppose I could tell you that you are the best dancer at the beach this summer, but you know that without my telling you. I'm not going to cajole you. I just want to dance with you, that's all, and no one else."

His blue eyes gazed down almost shyly at the blue-robed figure at his side. The great masses of copper shimmering hair were piled up loosely under the big floppy hat of white straw. Her brown eyes were almost too large for the piquant little face and the red mouth was decidedly kissable, Tom decided.

Miss Garrettson, although one of the most fair, was also one of the iciest young women who had ever summered at White Beach. It was her very frigidity of manner that made her the more desirable, although the least accessible of any of the young women at the shore. The masculine contingent stood in terror of the bewitching Miss Garrettson, longing for her smile the while; the girls secretly and openly envied her looks, clothes and dancing.

"Well," she said suddenly, after two or three minutes of silence, "what will we do, a hesitation, one-step or fox trot?"

"Let's shock them," Tom suggested boldly, with twinkling eyes, elated at her consent, "do something bizarre."

"I should think you had shocked people quite enough for the last six months," she returned stonily, though with a suggestion of a smile in the corners of the rosebud mouth. Rutland felt an unquenchable desire to kiss her.

"I guess I have, and am making twenty-five a week, and room and board in consequence," he laughed good-naturedly.

"You talk as if you think you are worth more." She was smiling broadly now.

"I'm not, but the good old cognomen of Rutland seems to be worth money," he replied seriously, then laughed shortly, "Suppose we try something to that new Hawaiian music. That ought to be a novelty."

"All right let's try right now. I guess the hall is deserted." She ran lightly up the steps and crossing the broad veranda entered the club house.

Rutland followed closely at her heels pausing long enough, however, to wink broadly at the expectant entertainment committee.

"I declare, she's going to do it," Lisle gasped. "Tom sure was brave to tackle her. I shouldn't have had the courage, though I would have liked to."

"Nor I," Grayson agreed, "he deserves the pump. Lucky devil."

Any unattached, heart-free young man who can hold a delightful bit of femininity in his arms for an hour or more a day, even if they be dancing all the time, and at the end of a week not feel a noticeable something tugging at his heart strings, is not human. Thomas Rutland, Jr., was decidedly human. At the end of a week he discovered that he was despairingly in love with the White Beach icicle, Miss Janet Garrettson.

Miss Garrettson had thawed considerably under Mr. Rutland's tuition and sunny irresistible smile. If she noticed that at times his grip was tighter than was entirely necessary she gave no sign. Perhaps like Tom she was enjoying the novelty of intimacy with the opposite sex.

The evening of the charity drew near all too quickly for the infatuated Tom. Another week of rehearsing and he would have known he was confident, if Janet Garrettson cared anything for him.

It was a very nervous coterie of young people that gathered in the improvised Green Room of the Country Club on the momentous night, all but Miss Garrettson, who moved calmly about, seemingly unconscious that she possessed nerves.

The girl's cheeks grew pink under their make-up as their turn to appear drew near, while the men's collars grew considerably tighter than they usually were. The applause grew louder and more frequent. The nervous amateurs came from the stage flushed, exultant, tried old performers.

"Ready?" Rutland asked, nervously fingering the red sash encircling his waist, "we're next."

Janet Garrettson flashed a dazzling smile at the seemingly lazy figure in short velvet knickerbockers, and filmy silk shirt. "Ready."

The cloak dropped from her shoulders and Tom caught a glimpse of alabaster shoulders rising from a daringly low-cut gown of flame and copper colored chiffon. Then the soft tinkling murmur of the haunting Hawaiian music rose above the hubbub of well bred voices.

They glided out on the stage, his right arm encircling her waist and his left held high above her dainty head. They both felt rather than heard the hush which greeted their entrance, and instinctively the man pressed the little figure closer as if to protect her.

To and fro they swayed, darting away from each other, and swirling back together again; always to the weird lamenting voice of the Uheleles. Here, there everywhere the spirit in the flaming diaphaneous draperies swirled, always returning to the strong arms of the man. The music grew wilder and wilder. The dancers' pace never, for a second, faltered. The man pressed the girl closer and closer, bending over till his lips met and held hers for a magnetic minute. The music died with a pathetic minor chord.

The moment's silence ensued, more eloquent than the applause which followed.

"I didn't mean to," Thomas whispered penitently, as they took their curtain call breathlessly flushed and excited, "I couldn't help kissing you."

"I'm glad you did," she whispered back so softly, "Perhaps I should never have known if you hadn't."

They retreated into the dusty darkness of the wings, "Let's duck," she pleaded wearily, "they will all be talking about it, and I don't want to hear."

"Come," he commanded, taking her hand and guiding her through an open window hidden behind a high screen.

The moist night wind blowing from the ocean cooled their hot faces and whipped the girl's scanty draperies around her. Tom slipped her cloak around her shoulders, and then madly crushed her to him.

"Little girl," he panted, "Janet dear, I love you. I have to tell you, though, I know I haven't the right. I love you, love you so much."

He pressed his lips against her fluttering hair. Miss Garrettson's arms stole upwards till they crept around his neck, as she cuddled down in his embrace.

"Tom dear," she rippled tenderly, "Why haven't you the right?"

"A dancing teacher making twenty-five a week," he laughed sarcastically, "but Janet I'll do anything to win you if you will wait for me."

"Why wait?" she asked demurely.

Her lips being engagingly near, Tom accepted the invitation. "Don't let's wait," she pleaded.

"Janet do you care enough for me to marry me tonight just as I am, dressed like a Hawaiian flower vender, if they have such things there," his eyes were gleaming like twin sapphires.

Yes," she whispered, "I love you so much I'd marry you right now."

"Do you mean that?" he demanded.

The music drifted out from the hot ball room, and the soft swishing of the waves was borne gently on the evening breeze. The radiant moon shone down brightly, lighting the garden and throwing the girl's slim figure into shadowy relief. Like a woodland fairy she stood, her gaze searching his, and then her eyelids fluttered shyly over her tremulously happy eyes,

"Yes," she breathed.

"Come," he commanded, and for the second time that night they stole away.

Hand in hand like two children they sped over the velvet lawn and along the wide road lying white in the moonlight. Janet asked no questions, for she knew they were going to the little cottage overhanging the sea where lived the man who would make them husband and wife.

Neither thought of their picturesque attire, or the enormity of the step they were taking. Love was the thing, the only thing at the moment. Tom Rutland had entirely forgotten that only a week before he had declared he didn't want to marry, cared nothing for girls. Since then he had fallen in love!

An hour later they sat together on the broad veranda of the deserted hotel, while the guests patronized the Tennis Club's Annual Entertainment for Worthy Charities.

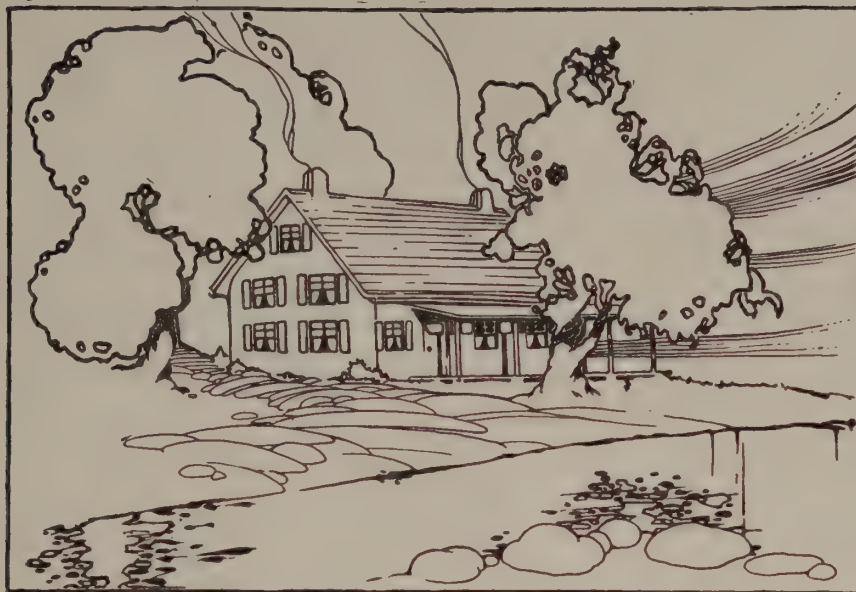

"It seems incredibly wonderful that you are my wife, Janet," he whispered lovingly, "I'm wondering what Dad will say when he gets my telegram telling him I've married you."

His wife smiled wisely into the darkness. Maybe that smile accounts for the fact that she wasn't surprised when the much feared telegram arrived the following morning, that it read

Bless you, my boy. That's exactly what I intended you to do. My love to Janet. —DAD.

One of the North Shore's Interesting Shops

WOMEN'S Educational and Industrial Union of Boston has its summer shop located on Lobster Lane, Foster cottage, Magnolia. The pretty little shop opened June 24 and affords a delightful place in which to have tea indoors or outdoors, with a fine view of Kettle Cove and Coolidge's Point just across the water. The shop is divided into two departments, the tea room and food shop and across the entry the delightful room known as the children's shop. The food shop is finished in yellow and grayish-white, and the attendant, Miss Katherine Gillis, wears charming gowns to match the color scheme. The children's shop on the left of the entry is done in rose color, and Miss Constance Syer, who is in charge, always wears a quaint little rose-colored short-waisted gown with a bandeau in her hair to match and a dainty white transparent apron. In the children's shop may be found every dainty and useful thing for children's and infants' wear; pretty smocked rompers and suits for seashore, tennis or gardening. The Union's frocks and hats for children are specially designed and cannot be purchased elsewhere. The toy department has a wonderfully unique line of pretty things, including dolls, dolls' furniture, wonder balls, Jack Horner pies for parties, interesting books and games, all waiting to be shown to every little boy or girl on the North Shore by the little lady in the rose-colored smock. Little visitors will also be interested in the food shop, for there they can get all kinds of goodies, including cookies, candy and corn balls. The older visitors will enjoy the tea, jellies, salads, cakes and creams. A line of pottery, brasses, rugs, baskets, cushions and antiques is also carried. The summer shop of the Union has not been in Magnolia since four years ago when it had quarters in Green Gables. Last summer it conducted a small shop in Manchester. The food shop of the Union in Boston is in charge of Miss Emerson and Miss Josephine Weymouth has charge of the children's shop. Food orders for the Union's Boston shop will receive prompt attention if given to the summer shop. Telephone: Magnolia 466. Patronesses for the shop are Mrs. William H. Coolidge, Mrs. F. L. Higginson, Jr., Mrs. Roger Sherman Warner, Mrs. Samuel D. Warren, Jr., and Mrs. Renton Whidden.

Traffic Tips for North Shore Motorists

MOTORISTS who frequent the boulevards and city highways of the North Shore are noting what they believe to be pretty strict observance of the traffic rules. Overspeeding has been the means of many court fines this summer and in some cases licenses have been lost as a result of too numerous offences in this respect.

Away up at the tip end of the North Shore along the Nahant boulevard the auto law enforcement has been rather rigid. There were five motorists in the Lynn court one day recently as a result of being held up on this highway. One Virginian, who drove his motor a trifle fast, the police said, told the judge that the North Shore roads were so good he could not resist the temptation to speed up a little. He paid his fine, however.

The Salem end of the state road between that city and Swampscott has been resurfaced, although a small portion of it is still to be done.

Puritan road, Swampscott, is once more open along its entire length, to autos. It has been entirely resurfaced.

Salem has the Bunker Hill white post fever now as a traffic hint to motorists. At all of the intersecting junctions of streets in the center of the city one will see these miniature monuments. The motor cycle squad of the Salem police is not in commission this year, but autoists should drive with care along Lafayette street coming into Salem from the Lynn shore drive. The building operations there and other road repair work incident to the fire of a year ago makes that road anything but ideal. It is in fairly good condition, however.

The prospect of a new traffic bridge between Salem and Beverly is encouraging to motorists. The present structure is entirely inadequate to the demands upon it, two vehicles and a trolley car hardly having room to pass together with safety. The upkeep at present is $5,000 a year, it is stated, and if that is so, it would seem that the new concrete, steel-re-enforced structure suggested would be the cheaper in the end.

Floating bridge, Lynn, has been re-strengthened and planked during the last fortnight and those who have occasion to use the Salem-Lynn turnpike will find a good road through to Boston.

"RIGHT ON THE WATER"

ALL roads led to the Haven estate at Beverly Farms, Wednesday, and the day was the red letter day of the North Shore. The event was the Navy Y. M. C. A. Festival to raise money for a suitable building in Charlestown. Practically all of the North Shore entered into the festival work and the greatest enthusiasm possible was shown by the workers, their assistants and the throngs who visited and liberally patronized the attractive booths. The music was one of the delightful features of the festival. It was furnished through the courtesy of the United States government, which permitted the bands of the battleships Rhode Island and the Georgia to come to Beverly Farms. The Georgia dropped anchor off the Beverly Farms shore the day before, and the detachment of marines and bluejackets which it brought lent much color to the affair. The orchestra from the New Jersey, stationed at Rockport for a week, played in the evening. The marines and bluejackets furnished interesting drills for the afternoon, showing a battalion and setting-up drill, a bayonet exercise and an extended order drill, the latter by two companies of bluejackets. A tug-of-war was on at four o'clock between two teams of bluejackets for a silver cup. This was followed by a military obstacle race for enlisted men, silver cups going as first, second and third prizes. The cups were beautifully engraved and were presented by Washington B. Thomas, Esq. Interesting side shows were in charge of Dr. Marshall Fabyan. The Punch and Judy show, the African Dodger, the tin-type photographer, the silhouette artist, the palmist, the strength test and the several amusements furnished by Weinberg of Revere Beach all came in for their due share of patronage. The popcorn and peanut sellers, who did an excellent business were John S. Amory, Charles K. Cummings, Jr., George W. Goddard, Henry S. Grew, 3d, and David S. Sears. The flower girls, who looked so charming, were Mary Parker, Elizabeth Beal, Katharine Crosby, Ella Snelling, Nora Coolidge, Ellen Curtis, Nan and Lucy Carnegie. The 150 boy scouts in attendance looked very attractive and added much to the color of the affair. The Thé Dansant was one of the delightful social features of the afternoon from 4 to 6.30, when many adjourned for dinner parties in their homes. The booths, of course, were the feature of the affair. Mrs. R. S. Bradley and a corps of assistants were in charge of the tables and household utensils. Among the many useful articles on sale were the latest devices in fly traps, fly swatters, rat and mice poisons and many articles from the Industrial School for Crippled Children in Boston. The cake table in charge of Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge showed cakes and bread donated from Boston, Philadelphia and New York. The piazza and garden accessories in charge of Miss Evelyn R. Sturgis showed among the many pretty things a fine collection of pottery made by a North Shore group of ladies who were in a class at the North Bennett Street Industrial School. The garden aprons were things of beauty at this table. The baby clothes were in one of the prettiest booths and all made a dainty color scheme of white, blue and pink. They were in charge of Mrs. C. M. Amory. The pillows and bags were in charge of Mrs. Hendricks H. Whitman, Mrs. W. Phillips, Mrs. John Tuckerman, Mrs. Fred Ayer, Jr., and Mrs. Charles Ayer. Some interesting pillows were those made by North American Indians, which had been brought on from a New York shop.

The sporting clothes in charge of the Misses Elise Ames, Olivia Ames, Grace Brooks and Phyllis Sears showed the latest fashions in bathing suits, caps, sweaters, ties, hose, belts, rubber sashes and rubber tennis rackets. The millinery booth in charge of Mrs. George von L. Meyer was one of absorbing interest for the feminine guests. The hats were exhibited on stands donated by H. G. Laffee, who also sent a part of the exhibit. Other firms donating were Keen and Hollander of Boston and Louise & Co. of New York.

An attractive candy table showed candy made by a Belgian, among the other varieties. Mrs. E. Laurence White, Miss Catherine Warren, Miss Eleanor Cole, Miss Ruth Burke and Miss Lila Lancashire were in charge. Fruits and vegetables in tempting array were in charge of Mrs. Walter D. Denégre. Immense gooseberries, currants, plums and peaches of unusual size and quality were artistically arranged at this hunger-producing booth. The grab, in charge of Mrs. Livingston Davis, was an artistic old-fashioned well, at which one turned a crank and drew up the "grab" in the bucket. The ladies in charge wore jaunty little caps and aprons of red, white and blue paper. Artistic lampshades were in charge of Mrs. Augustus P. Gardner. The toy table, in charge of Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge, had an interesting collection of dolls just received from France. Some gruesome looking ones of moss and wood had been made by soldiers in the trenches. Others had been dressed in the hospitals, using pieces of old uniforms. Others had been dressed in the workrooms of Madam La Baronne de Lournont of Paris, who is much interested in the French wounded work.

Profusions of sweet peas, roses and many unique vases and Japanese gardens marked the flower tables presided over by Miss Margaret Thomas and Miss Helen Frick. Afternoon tea was in charge of Mrs. Homer B. Richardson and bridge was managed by Mrs. Alfred Codman. A bundle table was in charge of Mrs. C. K. Cummings. Herbert W. Mason was in charge of the temperance bar.

North Shore people are greatly interested in the engagement announced on Thursday of last week, the 15th, of Miss Mary Margaret Walker, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. The sad death last Friday night to Walter Cabot Paine, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Treat Paine, 2d, of the Coolidge Point, Manchester, summer colony, has cast a gloom over the members of that family and their large connection. Mr. Paine was riding in his car either toward Hamilton and from Hamilton about midnight, when the car turned turtle at a point on the Beverly Farms-Hamilton road, near Hull street. The young man's neck was broken and he is thought to have died instantly. The accident was discovered by marketmen about 3 o'clock. Mr. Paine had been graduated from Harvard in June and was to go in business in the fall. The funeral at Coolidge's Point Monday was a largely attended affair.

Miss Norma R. Waterbury, daughter of Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Montserrat, has returned from the mission conference at Northfield. Her little book on missions for children, "Around the World With Jack and Janet," which was just published and of which a brief review was given a few weeks ago in The Breeze, was the subject of several interesting lectures at the conference. Demonstrations in costumes of children of various lands were given. So great was the interest in the little book that nearly 500 copies were sold at the meeting. The book is a most charming little story of children and missions and is Miss Waterbury's own experience in a trip around the world.

NORTH SHORE GRILL at Magnolia is the rendezvous for society these Friday evenings, for the dinner-dance which is to be made a weekly feature. The opening one was last Friday evening and the large number that turned out, together with the large list of reservations for tonight and future Friday nights, would indicate that the Grill is to be the popular Friday night rendezvous this summer. Exhibition dancing by Mr. Albert Latscha of the Oceanside, with Miss Polly Fisher was a most enjoyable feature of the evening, and again tonight these young artists will dance. General dancing follows. Miss Fisher's costume dance last Friday was beautifully done. She will repeat this dance tonight and she will also have an entirely new one. Among those who entertained last Friday were Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Lancashire and party of four from Manchester; Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Stevens, party of 12 from Magnolia and Manchester; Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Heppe, party of four; Mrs. John E. Lancaster, party of 14, all young people from the Oceanside Hotel; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hull and H. W. Mather; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graves and party of four; Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Bridges, R. H. Warner and party of five; Mr. and Mrs. Leicht; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Darling, party of six; Miss Padelford and party of six from Bass Rocks; Mr. and Mrs. F. S. WITH autos filling every available nook and with the approach softly lighted with Japanese lanterns, the Navy Festival of Wednesday closed with one of the most brilliant cabaret scenes in the history of the North Shore. The cabaret managers were Francis H. Appleton, Jr., and Miss Alice Thorndike. Music was furnished by the orchestra of the U. S. S. New Jersey. Sig. R. A. Fornari, formerly of the Boston Opera, received a cordial welcome in his Neapolitan songs, which he gave so admirably. Much amusement was created by "Mistah Seabury" in his black and white performance. Miss Dorothy Jordan, in her incomparable manner, gave the skating dance. She was assisted by Miss Mabel Going. Miss Jordan looked exceedingly charming in her quaint 1830 skating costume, with the immense plaid hoop-skirt, fancy jacket and jaunty little fur-trimmed cap. The entertainment closed with "Little Lottie's Revenge" and "Pathos Weekly in Three Reels," by Messrs. Benchley, Squire & Co. The pavilion was guarded by a marine corps of 100 men. About fifty tables were occupied by friends and subscribers to the festival. The young girls acting as waitresses looked very attractive as they so cheerfully and quickly waited upon their guests. Miss Elaine Denegre was head waitress and her corps of assistants were the Misses Caroline Fessenden, Anne Means, Katherine Meeker, Frances Bradley, Ruth Paine, Eleanor Fabyan, Marie Agassiz, Ellen Curtis, Frances Hoar, Harriet Fessenden, Hope Bancroft, Grace Meeker, Elizabeth Paine, Rosamond Eliot, Edith Fabyan, Anna Agassiz, Emma Mandell and Eleanor Cole. Three of the waitresses, the Misses Means, Bradley and Agassiz will be among the bridesmaids tomorrow in the Minot-Gardner wedding. Dinner parties were given in many of the North Shore homes, the guests making up the cabaret parties later. Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Higginson gave a dinner of twenty-six covers. Among their guests were Miss Minnie Ames, Miss Mary Ames, William Richardson of Nahant, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Leland, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Higginson, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Bernard C. Weld, Miss Mary Curtis and J. Torrey Morse. Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Bemis, Mr. and Mrs. Bryce J. Allan, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Frick and Mrs. Franklin Haven were among those who held dinner parties in their homes and had cabaret guests. Mrs. L. M. Sargent's cabaret guests were Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Newbold, Miss Dumaine and Clarence S. Waugh of New York. At the Oliver Ames table were Miss Bullard, Miss Brooks and the Messrs. Ames. The J. L. Thorndike guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Lyman and Mr. and Mrs. Augustus N. Rantoul. Among Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Bradley's guests were Mrs. Gordon Prince, Miss Helen Burnham and Miss Frances Bradley's house-guests, the Misses Doris Taylor and

Caroline Ogden Jones. Among Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Denegre's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Amory and a party of young folk. Mr. and Mrs. Eben D. Jordan's guests were Mr. and Mrs. William B. Sheppard, Parkman Haven and Mr. Roth. Mrs. Louis Bacon was over from Nahant and among her guests were noted the F. B. Crowinshields. Charles Gibson of Nahant was one of the guests at Mrs. George Lee's table. The Swampscott and Marblehead colonies were well represented. Among others who had tables were Miss Haven, Mrs. Alexander Cochrane, Mrs. Graeme Haughton, Mrs. Lester Leland, Mrs. Charles K. Cummings, Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge, Mrs. C. M. Amory, Mrs. R. M. Agassiz, Mrs. Philip Dexter, Marshall Fabyan, Mrs. William Moore, George S. Mandell, Mrs. F. H. Appleton, P. S. Sears, C. C. Walker, Mrs. W. Ross, T. B. Gannett, Miss K. W. Tweed, Mrs. F. Cutting, Mrs. George von L. Meyer, Mrs. Q. A. Shaw, Jr., Dr. J. H. Lancashire, Mrs. Charles B. Pike, Mrs. H. White, George W. Warren, C. E. Cotting, Mrs. F. H. Prince, Mrs. I. R. Thomas, Mrs. Boylston A. Beal, Mrs. Livingston Davis, Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge, Mrs. James H. Proctor, Mrs. Q. A. Shaw, 2nd, and Mrs. C. H. Clark. The punch and serving table was in charge of Mrs. Homer B. Richardson, Mrs. Boylston A. Beal, Mrs. R. Paul Snelling, Mrs. Timothee Adamowski

Green Gables is offering tonight at its second dinner-dance an exceptionally fine program. Miss Helene F. Bartlett, a noted young American dancer, who has recently returned from abroad, will give exhibition dancing, and Miss Melba Proctor and Paul Jones Chute, the regular artists of Green Gables this summer, will give modern and classique dances. General dancing will be a feature. The last dinner-dance was a great success. The "kiddies" Tuesday afternoon party with costume dances was an enjoyable affair as usual.

Miss Frances Starr, the famous actress, has been spending a week on the North Shore, a guest of the Dr. J. H. Lancashires at their summer home in Manchester. She left the first of this week for Lake George to spend the balance of the summer. Mrs. J. Robinson Duff of Paris and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Knowlton of Saginaw, Mich., are guests of the Lancashires this week. Miss Lila Lancashire is in Saginaw visiting some of her young friends for a week or so.

Many other flowers and roses are in their prime, but the long arbor of red ramblers is one of the most beautiful and showy sights to be seen along the shore just now. Another interesting sight in the garden in the hundred or more prettily marked Light Brahmas in their various run-ways, many of which took first and second prizes in the poultry show last winter in Boston.

THE North Shore Branch of the French Wounded Emergency Fund, which is meeting Mondays and Thursdays in the coach house on the West Manchester estate of Mrs. Walter Denégre, is doing a tremendous work. In less than a month's time 15,000 articles, mostly surgical supplies, have been made by the workers. The branch has enrolled 133 members as workers and subscribers. Often as many as fifty workers are present in one morning. The articles are sent twice a week to the headquarters in Boston, from which they are sent abroad. An interesting story in connection with the work, showing that even the little folk are touched by the sad news of the war, is of two little boys in Beverly Farms, who, upon receiving their usual money for fire-crackers, immediately took half the amount and gave it to the French Wounded work. The question is often asked of Mrs. Frank Bemis, chairman, why the society has its headquarters in London instead of France? The reason is quoted here from a letter received from the secretary of the society in London. In speaking of the wonderful system of distribution in operation, she says: "If we acted merely as a clearing house and shipped goods to designated hospitals from all over the country and from the United States, we could run it for little money, but we give the hospitals exactly what they wish. When an appeal comes in, asking for a long list of expensive instruments, surgical appliances, medicines, garments, etc., we are within reach by telephone of all these things. The surgical buyer comes every morning and consults with Dr. Starr of Philadelphia, who goes over all our appeals." She then explains that such supplies could not be obtained in Bordeaux, and adds:

"Therefore, it is for the sake of the wounded men that we work the warehouse entirely from London; otherwise we would have opened our offices in France long ago."

The artists who take part in the musicales given by Mrs. Hall McAllister on the North Shore are a notable group of musicians. Miss Olive Kline, the soprano who was such a success last summer in North Shore musicales; Miss Abbie Conley, the sweet contralto concert singer; the distinguished baritone, Mr. Vernon d'Arnalle; Miss Laeta Hartley and Mr. Percy Grainger, the brilliant pianists of Boston, and Mr. Heinrich Warnke, the well-known cellist of the Boston Symphony orchestra, make up this notable group. The first concert under Mrs. McAllister's management was a great success and was the chief society function of last week, when it was given Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Eben D. Jordan, West Manchester. Mrs. Amory Eliot of Manchester will open her house for the second concert, July 30, and on Aug. 13 the last one will be given at the home of Mrs. M. Graeme Haughton, Pride's Crossing.

The many friends of Miss Ross, the young silhouette artist of Boston, who are summering along the North Shore, will be pleased to learn that she is located for the season at Mrs. Bennett's Gift Shop, Lexington avenue, Magnolia. Miss Ross will be remembered by Bostonians because of her interesting work in connection with the Belgian Relief Committee. She was of those assisting at the Navy Y. M. C. A. festival in Beverly Farms, Wednesday.

Edith Longfellow Dana, wife of Richard Henry Dana, of Brattle street, Cambridge, and Manchester, died Wednesday in the historic old town of Lancaster. She was a daughter of the poet, Henry W. Longfellow, and her mother was his second wife, Frances Elizabeth Appleton. Mrs. Dana was one of the three daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Longfellow. Mrs. Dana's sisters are Miss Alice Longfellow, who still resides in her father's historic home, Craigie House, Cambridge, and Mrs. James G. Thorpe, formerly Annie Allegra Longfellow, whose home adjoins that of the Dana family in Cambridge. Mrs. Dana had been in ill-health for some time, and last fall underwent a surgical operation from which she had not recovered. She was married Jan. 10, 1878, to Richard Henry Dana, who, like herself, came of notable ancestry, and ever since their marriage they have lived in Cambridge, with a summer residence for many years at Manchester, where their place overlooks what is known as Dana's Beach. In addition to her husband and her sisters, Miss Longfellow and Mrs. Thorpe, Mrs. Dana is survived by four sons and two daughters, as follows: Richard Henry Dana, Jr., of New York, Harvard 1901, who married Miss Ethel N. Smith; Henry W. Longfellow Dana, Harvard 1903, Cambridge; Allston Dana, Harvard 1906, who married Miss Dorothy H. Goodale and who now lives in White Plains, N. Y., and Edmund Trowbridge Dana, who married Miss Jessie Holliday of England (whose death by drowning was a recent occurrence), and the two daughters are Mrs. Henry C. DeRham, 2d, of New York, who formerly was Miss Frances A. Dana, and Mrs. Robert H. Hutchinson of Philadelphia, who before her marriage was Miss Delia F. Dana. Ernest Wadsworth Longfellow, the New York architect, who has a summer home in Manchester, is a brother of Mrs. Dana. Another brother, Charles Appleton Longfellow, was a soldier

WEST BEACH at Beverly Farms with its commodious bathing pavilion draws not only from the immediate vicinity but from the inland resorts of Wenham and Hamilton as well. Bathing facilities are well-nigh perfect on this fine stretch of sandy beach. It is here that the children as well as their elders come to swim and have water sports. Although the swimming and diving of the older children make an interesting and lively picture, the one that is most appealing and sweet looking is the one made by the tiny tots of Beverly Farms, who come to the beach in the cabs or clinging to the hand of their nurses. One of the most attractive little figures on the beach is the little three-year-old Leveritt Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, 2d. The little one rides in a cart drawn by a handsome wooden horse, which the young driver manages in a very realistic manner. His little sister, Nancy, is one of the sweetest looking babies on the beach. The three-year-old Francis Blake, son of the J. A. Lowell Blakes, is a wonderfully fair-faced and loving little fellow, who seems to be on good terms with every one on the beach. The three little brothers, Billy, Donald and Basil Ryan, of Beverly Cove, sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Barry Ryan of New York, and the little dark-eyed three-year-old Nathaniel Simpkins, 3d., son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel S. Simpkins, Jr., make an interesting group of small boys on the beach. Among the little girls is noticed little Alice Means, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Means. Alice is a wonderfully interesting looking little mite with a wealth of auburn curls. Another interesting little group of sisters, Nancy, Cynthia and Martha Means, come from the Wm. Gordon Means family. Little Serita Bartlett is the charming little golden-haired girl in the Matthew Bartlett family. The little Sally White comes from the family of Mr. and Mrs. E. Lawrence White. Two of the little six-year-olds who enjoy the beach are Elvira Boardman, who has such dark curls, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Boardman, and little Nan Valentine, who is golden-haired and is spending the summer with her grandmother, Mrs. Henry H. Hollister of New York. The little babies belonging to Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Reggio are very attractive and sweet-looking when they enjoy the beach in their cabs. Baby Grace, the tiny daughter belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Amory, is one of the most winsome-looking babies at Beverly Farms. Little Miss Frances Weld, daughter of the Bernard C. Welds, is followed to the beach by one of the prettiest and brightest-looking little spaniels in Beverly Farms. "Nixie" Weld, as he is commonly called, is a little mite with a prettily marked black and white silky coat.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley L. Pickman have opened their house in Beverly Cove after spending several weeks at their estate in Bedford. AFTERNOON TEA

This is the fifth season under the management of Mrs. Murray

Hamilton, have returned from spending several weeks in New York. They left this Thursday for Islesboro, Maine, where they will spend August.

A recent guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Perkins of Washington has been Kurt Diedrick. The Perkinses are occupying the Reginald C. Robbins home, "Lone Tree Farm," in Hamilton.

Maxwell Norman of Hamilton and Newport, R. I., gave a dinner party of ten covers last week at his Hamilton home.

The boys of the Christ church (Episcopal) of Hamilton and Wenham met last Tuesday evening in the parish house and formed a club. Rehearsals for a minstrel show are underway to be given the evening of July 29, when a dance will also be given in the parish house under the auspices of other church societies. The proceeds of the entertainment will go towards paying for a new piano which has been placed in the house the past week.

WENHAM'S Assembly in the Town hall last Saturday evening was the usual occasion for dinner parties in this inland colony. These Saturday night dances are proving very popular innovations and are drawing from the colonies all along the shore. Mrs. James Howe Proctor of Ipswich gave a dinner of 24 covers, Mrs. Alanson L. Daniels gave a dinner party for twelve, Mrs. Wolcott Howe Johnson also had a small dinner party, and many others brought their dinner guests. Mr. and Mrs. George E. Barnard were among the Ipswich people bringing guests.

The Wenham Village Improvement society has had its usual monthly meeting and the house committee is today having a meeting and luncheon at the tea house. The committee includes Mrs. Frank McGee, Mrs. Wolcott Howe Johnson, Mrs. Charles Thorndyke Parker,

NORTH SHORE SWIMMING POOL is proving to be the greatest attraction at Magnolia this summer. The artistic little clubhouse with its fine pool for swimming was built three years ago and has been growing in popularity with each season. Many pleasant attractions are offered in the club rooms in a social way, among which are the Wednesday bridge parties, afternoon tea from 4 to 6, Sunday tea from 4 to 5, and the usual Saturday Thé Dansant. But the pool itself is what is drawing so much patronage from the North Shore colonies. Edgar Allen, who began his work as swimming instructor three years ago, is busy nearly every hour in the day with pupils. The pool, which is 70 by 30 ft. and 8½ at the deep end and 3½ at the shallow end, has had black lines painted on the bottom in certain sections this year. Mr. Allen considers these will be an excellent guide to swimmers in races, when they are swimming with heads downward. Last Saturday afternoon the second game of water baseball was played with the balcony filled as usual with many members and friends. Mrs. Pierpont E. Dutcher has been entertaining her friend, Miss Helen Hennessey of St. John's, New Brunswick, for the past week at the club. Mrs. M. R. Wendell, Jr., has had among her friends at the club for a few days, Mrs. John T. Clark of Lincoln. Miss Ethel Morse entertained the past week, J. Dana Hutchinson of Boston. Mrs. L. M. Sargent's guests were Mrs. James C. Barr of New Ipswich, N. H., and Mr. and Mrs. Landon Humphreys of Morristown, N. J. A guest of E. L. Stevens over the week-end was Miss Ruth C. Mansfield of Hingham. Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Richmond of Milton were guests of Miss Polly Penhallow; Mr. and Mrs. Clement Studebaker of Rye Beach were guests of John C. Ellsworth; Mrs. S. E. Bentley of Walpole was the guest of Geo. F. Willett; G. H. Hull of Cambridge was the guest of Holden P. Williams; H. H. Marden of Arlington Heights, James Waller, Jr., Mrs. John Phillips, the latter the guest of Mrs. Geo. W. Mixer, have been among the many guests at the club the past week.

Dr. and Mrs. James H. Anderson and Miss C. F. Anderson have been in their "Lily Pond" cottage at Coolidge's Point, Manchester, for some time. A recent guest at the cottage was Dr. Anderson's nephew, Kenneth Faile of New York. Mr. Faile was returning from a fishing trip in Canada and was on his way to the Faile summer home in New Canaan, Conn.

Mrs. Frank S. Chick of Norman ave., Magnolia, is entertaining her sister and niece, Mrs. David Coggin and Miss Elizabeth Coggin of Salem.

Mr. Paul Jones Chute, who is at the Green Gables, Magnolia, this summer, was chosen by La Loie Fuller as the most graceful man in America to dance with her in Paris and the United States. Mr. Chute has danced for Princess de Sagan, Prince Trebotsky, Mme. Rachel Boyer,

MR. PAUL JONES CHUTE

Mrs. Alexander Clark and Mons. Rodin of Paris. His partner in the dance classique was the Countess Tharma de Svirsky of Russia. In America Mr. Chute has danced at the Metropolitan Opera House, the Boston Opera House, and at the homes of Mrs. Arthur Curtis James of Newport, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish of New York, Mrs. Larz Anderson of Boston and Washington.

OCEANSIDE HOTEL MAGNOLIA

OCEANSIDE HOTEL, at Magnolia, is the busiest place on the North Shore these days. Though the hotel is far from running to its capacity, there are upwards of six hundred people in the main hotel and its various connections, including the Annex and the twenty cottages. It takes about seven hundred and fifty people to fill the hotel; this number is expected within the next two weeks. All through August the hotel will run to its capacity, it is expected.

The dances at the Oceanside Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights are always the occasion for large gatherings of the cottage colony from all along the shore. Saturday nights in particular the hotel presents quite a gay appearance. It is expected some of the officers from the battleships at Rockport and along the North Shore will be at the Oceanside over the week-end, which would add a touch of color to the week-end gaiety at the hotel and clubs.

Miss Marjorie Kennard and friend Miss Barbara Hall of Boston have been spending a few days at Magnolia this week with the former's father Arthur W. Kennard before going on to Cazenovia, N. Y., where the Kennards spend their summers.

Among the most prominent people to arrive at Magnolia this week are Sir Edward and Lady Speyer, who registered from London, Eng., but who are accustomed to spend part of their time each year in this country. With them are their three daughters. They have taken a floor in Breakwaters cottage, one of the Oceanside group, and plan to remain the balance of the season. Mr. Speyer is a banker of world-wide reputation.

One of the smartest and most enjoyable parties of the week at Magnolia was the dinner given by Mrs. Robert Graves of New York Wednesday evening on the "Emiline," the handsome large power yacht of the Graveses, in Magnolia harbor. Mrs. Graves' guests included Mrs. James F. Fahnestock, Mrs. Warren Smith, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Culbert, Miss Florence Hibben, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rowland, Mrs. R. F. McCord, James Gayley, A. B. Dewey, Jr., Chester and Winthrop Lockwood and Mrs. Graves' brother, C. W. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Dickinson and maid, who registered from Monte Carlo, are at the Oceanside for a short stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Butler of Norwich, Conn., were at the Oceanside Wednesday as guests of Miss A. M. Green, who is spending the summer at Breakers cottage.

Mrs. Alexander Dunn and brother R. A. Dunn of Trenton, N. J., with a friend, Miss Richardson of St. Davids, Pa., are among the newcomers to the Oceanside this week. They registered Monday and plan to remain throughout July and August.

George H. Nettleton is spending a week or two at the Oceanside with his grandmother, Mrs. George H. Nettleton, who is here for the entire season.

James Gayley of New York is spending the balance of July at the Oceanside.

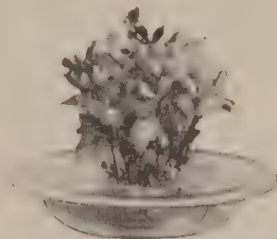

Among the large number of motorists who stopped at the Oceanside for dinner Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Newell, Miss Grace L. Newell and Clarence L. Thumb of Little Falls, N. Y., Edward I. Rogers of Boston and Miss F. M. Kennedy of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. John Bulkeley and Miss Anne Bulkeley, Hartford, Ct.; Mr. and Mrs. George H. Guest and son Robert and Mrs. P. L. Smith of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Seth P. Carpenter and Miss Simpson, Marlboro; Charles W. Fitz and G. A. Day, Woburn; Mrs. E. C. Shaw, Mrs. F. D. Suydam and Carleton Shaw, Toledo, O.

One of their sons is with them now and another will come later. Their daughter, the popular Miss Dorothy Rowland, now Mrs. F. H. Winants, will also join them shortly.

Another welcome addition to the Oceanside colony this week is the Edward H. They plan to remain through August. The young people take an active part in all social doings at Magnolia, but shine especially at the swimming pool, dancing and tennis.

James McLean of New York joined Mrs. McLean at the Oceanside last Friday for a short visit before leaving Magnolia for their farm at South Kortright, N. Y., a beautiful estate, "Riverside Farm," bordering on a stream. Their daughter, Miss Ethel L. McLean is already there.

Miss Frances L. Bristol of Brooklyn, N. Y., is among the recent arrivals at the Oceanside. She was a guest of Miss A. B. Green of Connecticut, who has rooms in Breakers cottage, until her own reservations were ready for occupancy the middle of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bernard Jones of Cleveland, O., arrived at the Oceanside last Friday for a two weeks' stay.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bodman of Chicago arrived at Magnolia this week for a stay of two or three weeks at the Oceanside. They are newcomers here. The Bodmans usually go to Traverse City, Mich., one of the Chicago resorts for the summer.

'PHONE 1290

SALEM, MASS.

New Ocean House, Swampscott

SWAMPSCOTT responds to the touch of midsummer gaieties with a vivacity that shows that the season is anything but slow in that section. This section of the North Shore appears to be up to the minute regarding everything in the social line. The hotels are quite well filled, although there will be plenty of room for August visitors. The Tedesco Country club is still the busiest place on the Swampscott shore, with its golf, tennis and kindred amusements.

The Clifton Improvement association, C. M. Boyden, president, entertained the members of the town government of Marblehead at dinner and an entertainment Monday evening. There were 30 in the party.

Last Sunday was a busy day for the golfers on the Tedesco green. During the morning and early afternoon there were 125 who went over the course.

On Tuesday, ladies' day at the club, Mrs. H. L. Taylor of the Swampscott colony entertained 10 guests at luncheon and cards. Mrs. Taylor is stopping this year with her father, Jeremiah Williams, at his summer home on Atlantic avenue, Beach Bluff, next the Hotel Preston.

Also on Tuesday Mrs. E. W. Carbridge of Swampscott had nine luncheon guests, who remained for bridge in the afternoon.

There were about 250 present at dinner preceding the band concert of Wednesday evening, when the Salem Cadet band played at the Tedesco. Among the diners were noted: Mrs. E. W. Ong, with 14 guests; J. M. Fairbanks, with a party of 10; W. F. Watters, 10; J. J. Phelan, 14; W. R. Shrigley, nine; E. R. Grabow, six; H. I. Thayer, eight; Mrs. T. R. Neath, eight; I. W. Chick, six; George A. Dill, 10; Jeremiah Williams, six; George A. Brown, eight; F. P. Cox, four; Ex-Adj. Gen. J. P. Parker, four.

Col. E. F. Ladd of Washington, D. C., of Phillips Beach, is a familiar figure these days on the golf course at the Tedesco. Almost daily he takes the full 18 holes as a part of his shore respite from the Capital.

A number of ladies are taking golf lessons at the club from George Bowden, the instructor. Tennis is also claiming several new players. John A. Reynolds of the B. A. A. is at the Tedesco as instructor until October. The two new tennis courts are being rushed to completion. This will make a total of eight good dirt courts on the grounds.

C. M. Hewitt of Chicago is a familiar figure on the miniature golf course at the Tedesco. He appears to get more sport out of going over this smaller green than on the big 18-hole course.

In the tennis men's singles the first round has resulted in the following wins: A. E. Chase defeating E. N. Carpenter; C. B. Humphrey over M. H. Eaton; George A. Dill over T. F. Magrane.

There are 24 entries in the mixed doubles, 15 in the ladies' singles and 24 in the men's doubles.

Among the young ladies entered in the mixed doubles are the following Misses: Miss Faxon, Elise Rothwell, Miss G. Sandemeyer, Ruth Dill, Mary Glover, Harriet Clough, Dorothy LaCroix and Dorothy Dill.

In the ladies' singles are included Claire McGregor, Dorothy Dill and Miss Gale.

Swampscott cottagers will be pleased to learn that Miss Lillia Snelling, of New York City, a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will sing at a musicale to be given at the home of Mrs. C. H. Bond, Puritan Road, Swampscott, Thursday afternoon, July 29, at three o'clock.

NEW OCEAN HOUSE, Swampscott. The finals in the ladies' tennis singles, the second formal ball and the second children's party marked the social activities of the week at the New Ocean House. Guests have been arriving every day from all parts of the country and the house is rapidly approaching its capacity. With the numerous additions to the younger set during the past week, the social calendar is fairly teeming with interesting events which keep the young people busy from morning until late evening.

The Children's Party held Wednesday afternoon in the main ball room was a decided success. In addition to special dances by the daughters of guests of the New Ocean House, there were several special numbers by pupils from the school of Mr. J. Jefferson Richards, the Back Bay dancing master. Among those who took part were Miss Dorothy Garland of Somerville, Miss Gloria Geisinger of St. Louis and Miss Crowell of Swampscott. A number of the sons and daughters of members of the cottage colony were also present. Besides the dancing there was a grand march in which the favors were wands for the girls and Napoleon hats for the boys. Mrs. E. R. Grabow was the hostess at the party.

The finals in the ladies' tennis singles went to Miss Hortense Sandmeyer, an attractive young girl from Lincoln, Ill., who won from her equally attractive sister Miss Sandmeyer, 6-8, 6-1, 6-3. Considerable interest has been manifested in the tournament which has been in progress for the last week and the final games attracted a considerable number of spectators. The gentlemen's singles has been narrowed down to the final match between Fred Burke of Boston and Dr. J. H. McHenry of New York, which is to be played within a few days.

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. McHenry of New York City have registered as season guests at the New Ocean House.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jay Abbott of Chicago will be guests at the New Ocean House, Swampscott, for the coming month. With them are their friends, Mrs. C. G. Herbine and her son, Herbert of London, England.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Nesbit and Miss Clara Nesbit, who were guests during the week at the New Ocean House, Swampscott, have left for their home in Franklin, Pa.

Mrs. C. A. Hapgood of Boston, season guest at the New Ocean House Swampscott was the hostess at a NAHANT is one of the prettiest parts of the resort section imaginable these days. The recent rains have aided and abetted nature to an unusual degree on this rocky shore and it is one great mass of downy green-sward. Just the place to play the golf that is so enjoyed by the members of the Nahant club. And they are playing it; every morn' sees a galaxy of fair young ladies—and a few grand-dames—in varicolored blazers out on the course going the "nine" with the men. Things are moderately lively at the club, the amusement center of the little resort town of Nahant.

The hotels are showing good mid-season form, after a lull in the early part of the month. At the Tudor guests are making themselves known in no small number and most of them are for season stays. Alfred Wood, deacon of one of the largest churches in Washington, D. C., with his daughter, Olea Wood, is down at the Tudor for the season. For a two weeks' stay come Mr. and Mrs. P. Bates and Miss Vera Rood from Springfield. Mrs. Edward C. Groves and Miss Florence E. Whitcher of Lexington are guests there of Mrs. Charles Goodwin of the same historic town. Mrs. J. A. Whitcomb of Winter Hill, whose husband is the head of the Raymond-

Whitcomb touring agency, is down at the Tudor for the rest of the season. Other season guests are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Tiffany of Baltimore, who come each year to the Nahant shore. Miss Mabel G. Beaty of Boston is on the shore for a fortnight. Joseph P. Bell, a Boston attorney, is at the Tudor for 10 days. A season party includes Capt. and Mrs. A. R. Manning, their daughter, Mrs. F. W. Force and the latter's son of Cleveland, O.

Guests for varying stays at the Hotel Rockledge include: A. H. Borden of Milton; Arthur M. Boos and M. N. Whitney of Jamaica Plain; J. H. Foster, A. F. Freeman, Mrs. Edward Fuller, Mrs. E. F. Leland, and Miss Ella A. Leland, all of Boston; Miss Catherine F. Fitzgerald, Lowell; L. G. Hagenbuch, Worcester; Mrs. N. T. Apollonio, Roxbury; William H. Spence, Oberlin, O.; Edmund H. Garrett and daughter, Cambridge; Miss Margaret A. Cody, New York; Elizabeth Townes, Greenfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Robeson Sargent are among the welcome new-comers at Nahant this season. They have leased the Hudson cottage on Pleasant street which Mr. and Mrs. Schuyler S. Clark of Brookline had last year. The Clarks have taken a place on Maolis street.

IPSWICH with its old-time festival and celebration from Aug. 4 to the 18th, at the old Whipple house, headquarters of the Ipswich Historical society, will be the objective point of many automobilists along the North Shore. Famous displays of pewter, samplers and antiques will be shown in the old house. Historical books of Ipswich will be on sale also. An adjoining building has been loaned by the Ipswich Mills for larger exhibits and for the dinner, Aug. 17, at 1 p. m. Many interesting speakers are being secured to speak at the close of the dinner. As far as possible they will be by old-time residents and descendants of old Ipswich families. Francis R. Appleton will represent the various Appleton families, who are so closely connected with Ipswich history. Sherman L. Whipple of Boston, a direct descendant of the early Whipples, will be among the speakers. The Greek and Polish village children are being trained in folk dancing by Miss Amy Stanford and Miss Harriet E. Condon. Folk dancing, musical entertainment, afternoon tea, and the novelty of partaking of tea and toast made over the old fire place in the quaint little kitchen known as "Widow Lunkin's Ordinary" will be some of the attractions. The admission to the house will be 25 cents. Dinner tickets and full information may be secured from Rev. T. F. Waters of Ipswich.

Y<sup>e</sup> Rogers Manse, Ipswich, was the scene of a most delightful dinner and dance last Friday night given by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Hostetter of Broad Run, Va., who are visiting at the D. H. Hostetter's in Beverly. The guests were prominent young people along the shore including Miss Corinna Searle, Richard Searle, Miss Eleanor Cole, William H. Coolidge, Jr., Benjamin E. Cole, 2d., Miss Ann Sheafe, Miss Florence Lee, Miss Ruth Anthony, Miss Elizabeth Gunn, Shepley Nichols, Charles Wadsworth, Jr. and George Lyman. Among other guests at the Inn were M. L. Sullivan of Salem and his guests Lyman P. Osborn and W. A. Shea of Peabody. A Washington party was composed of Miss K. C. Kline, Miss Mary Coes and Mrs. W. S. Overton. The large and attractive Casino is proving an attractive feature of the Inn.

Y<sup>e</sup> Burnham House at Ipswich had an interesting little tea party last week when Harriet Prescott Spofford of "Deer Island," the writer, who has had her home in that charming locality near Newburyport for so many years came down with friends from Newburyport and Mrs. Ernest Pentacost of Topsfield. Miss Polly Proctor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Proctor of Ipswich, entertained her house guests, Miss Katharine Holden of Cleveland and Miss Jessie Rilot of London, Eng. Mrs. Roland W. Boyden of Beverly gave a luncheon and bridge for eight; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Samson of New York and Swampscott a party of eight. Others having luncheon have been the W. R. Breeds of Cleveland and E. Point; Paul C. Nicholson of Providence; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott, Jr., of Overbrook and their guest

Mrs. A. C. Armstrong of Middletown, Ct. The Burnham tea house is having an unusually good season. On one day of last week 150 guests were entertained, and every day sees many parties at the tea tables.

Miss Frances E. Brooks, daughter of the late John F. Brooks of Commonwealth ave., will spend the summer in Brattleboro, Vt. Mr. Brooks had made Ipswich his summer home for a great many years. The attractive home this year is occupied by a daughter's family, Mr. and Mrs. George L. De Blois (Mary B. Brooks) of Boston.

Dr. William G. Thayer of Southboro and St. Marks school is enjoying a year's vacation in Wyoming. The Thayer house in Ipswich is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Berry of Boston. The Berrys and Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Dyer of "The Bushes," Topsfield road, have returned last week from a thousand mile automobile trip through the White Mountains and as far as Montreal. The Dyers of Lafayette street, Salem, occupy one of the most unique and old-time houses in Ipswich. Its sloping roof, old-time chimney and fire-place and other ancient features mark it as genuinely antique. Rev. T. F. Waters of Ipswich who writes for the historical society is preparing an interesting sketch of the old house. The Dyers possess some wonderful old pieces of furniture which have been in the family for several generations. The pretty little house is truly a glimpse of y<sup>e</sup> olden time in Ipswich.

Ipswich river parties are very popular now. The Misses Marion and Francis Farley of New York and Green street, Ipswich entertained 30 guests at a river party last week and on Tuesday Mrs. Henry R. Kenyon, the wife of the artist, also gave one up the river.

Mrs. Flichtner and Miss Flichtner of Orange, N. J., are spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Doughty of Green street. Mrs. Doughty is Mrs. Flichtner's step-daughter. Mr. Doughty holds a prominent position in the Ipswich Mills. The Flichtners are cousins of the Appletons.

The month of August promises to be a record-breaker and the July contingent will soon be vacating suites for the hundreds of prominent people who are booked for August. The arrival of the battleship fleet in Rockport this week, besides the two ships, the U. S. S. Louisiana and the U. S. S. New Hampshire, scheduled for Gloucester harbor the present week-end, will enliven things generally. The ships at Rockport will remain till the last of the month. The Eastern Yacht Club visited Gloucester last Saturday, the fleet of handsome yachts remaining in the harbor over Saturday night and part of Sunday. This was the beginning of the annual summer cruise of the club and on Saturday night a banquet was held at the Hawthorne Inn, East Gloucester.

The illustrated lecture on "War and Weapons," given last Wednesday evening at the State Armory, Gloucester, by John Hays Hammond, Jr., the inventor, the proceeds being for the purchase of an ambulance for the American Hospital Corps in France, was a leading event of the season, the large audience consisting of leading North Shore summer residents and notables, among them being representatives of the French Embassy and Major Henry L. Higginson, who introduced the speaker. Hon. Cecil Spring Rice, the British Ambassador, was expected to attend, but he was unable to make the necessary arrangements. Mr. Hammond's remarks forcibly brought to the attention of all the great facts as to this country's war weakness and unpreparedness and urged definite policy before the nation suffers humiliation of China and agony of Belgium. The tea houses hereabouts are the meccas of social delight and many prominent people are entertaining guests in this pleasant way. The "Salad Bowl" on quaint old Middle street, Gloucester, is proving a great attraction for people from all along the North Shore. The old house was erected in 1765. The furnishings of the "Salad Bowl" were brought here from England, all the tables, chairs, dressers, etc., being of the Jacobean period. These are all original pieces and are of great value. The tea room, where noted actors, artists and leaders in society are entertaining, is delightfully and artistically arranged and on the warm green walls are unusual marine paintings by Alec Tupper, the Gloucester artist, whose exhibition of oils this season is attracting wide interest. The wild mood of the sea and the quiet harbor scenes are all art studies of absorbing interest and a delight to the eye. Henry B. Warner, the English actor, of New York, entertained recently at the "Salad Bowl," the party motoring over from Bass Rocks.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin, of Woodstock, N. Y., the former being an artist who has painted much up along the North Sea territory, were at the "Salad Bowl" the week-end for luncheon and supper.

Mrs. Alonzo W. Pollard of Brookline and the Eastern Point summer colony, entertained a party at tea one day last week at the "Salad Bowl," the guests being Mrs. William Sheafe and Mrs. Charles Stewart of Boston and Miss Pleasant of Baltimore.

ROCKPORT. The summer social gaiety at Rockport has begun in earnest and now that the hotels are filling rapidly many pleasant events are scheduled for the coming days and weeks. The arrival of the warships in Rockport harbor has created no end of interest and enthusiasm and many good times are being planned for the remainder of the month, while the ships are in port. Thés dansants at the new Rockport Country clubhouse are proving very enjoyable affairs on Saturday nights, orchestra music being in attendance. The younger society set especially at Land's End, besides Marmion Way. Rockport and Pigeon Cove, is finding the fine clubhouse a popular rendez-vous for pleasure. The afternoon teas and dansants began Monday, with the fine house orchestra music at The Edward, Pigeon Cove. On Sunday there was a waiting list for dinner at The Edward. The hotel veranda was crowded with patrons who enjoyed the refreshing sea air and the view of the ocean. The scene from The Edward while the warships are in Sandy Bay Harbor of Refuge, will be an inspiring one, as the fleet is anchored in the expanse of blue just off the hostelry. Some of the naval officers and their families have secured accommodations at The Edward. Turk's Head Inn and Straitsmouth Inn will entertain many of the fleet's officers, families and friends. The dance at the Ocean View, Pigeon Cove, on last Thursday evening was a pretty event, in which guests and friends from the cottages of the colony participated. An orchestra rendered music.

A much anticipated social affair in which summer people of the Rockport colonies and people from along the North Shore are interested, is the out-door pageant "A Midsummer Masque," to be presented under the direction of Virginia Tanner of Boston, for the benefit of the L. M. Haskins Hospital, on Wednesday afternoon and evening of next week on the hospital grounds. The pageant is being held under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary to the hospital. Miss Tanner has been most successful in her work in Brooklyn and New York, Lexington and Portland, Me. She has secured dancers from the Lexington pageant for the Rockport "Masque" and costumes will be under the personal supervision of Miss Tanner. A charming feature of the Lexington pageant was the dance "Awakening of Nature," in which Miss Vianna Knowlton and Miss Lucile Coburn, two Radcliffe students, Joseph Barker of Technology and William Williams of Harvard were performers. Miss Knowlton, who is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles D. Knowlton, Rockport summer residents, Miss Coburn and Mr. Barker are expected to dance at the local pageant. The other performers in the "Masque" will be local talent, including some of the town's attractive young ladies with several from the summer colony. Solo dances will be presented by Miss Tanner at both performances. The lighting effects will be managed by Theodore Browne, who conducted all the lighting arrangements for the Lexington pageant. Mrs. C. D. Knowlton, who is the chairman of the pageant committee for the Midsummer Masque, wrote the libretto for the opera "Dick the Dreamer" which was presented twice in the Boston Opera House, two years ago, for the benefit of the Frances E. Willard Settlement Work in Roxbury. Various booths will be laden with fancy articles, cake, candy, ice-cream and a tea garden and restaurant will be special features. It is expected that one of the battleship's bands will give a concert and general dancing will follow the pageant. Reserved seat tickets are placed on sale at the American Express Company's office, Rockport, telephone, 46-4. The officers of the L. M. Haskins Hospital Woman's Auxiliary are: President, Mrs. E. S. Haskins; vice-presidents, Mrs. D. C. Babson, Mrs. R. L. Emery, Mrs. John Wetherell; secretary, Miss M. A. Dwyer. The pageant committee comprises: Mrs. C. D. Knowlton, chairman; Mrs.

A shadow of gloom has been cast over the entire Annisquam colony because of the fatal drowning on Monday noon of Rev. Arthur H. Pingree of Norwood and the Pigeon Cove summer colony and young Miss Helen Perkins of Norwood, a member of the Camp Fire Girls' party, which was being chaperoned at Wingaersheek Beach by Mrs. Perkins, mother of the drowned child. Rev. Mr. Pingree was formerly pastor of the Pigeon Cove Congregational church. He has a summer cottage on Phillips avenue in Pigeon Cove, where a party of the Camp Fire Girls is stopping for a time. On Monday morning the pastor, in company with the young folks and two ladies, went to Wingaersheek Beach for an outing. The girls went in bathing and two of them got beyond their depth. Rev. Mr. Pingree went to their assistance and was successful in getting Miss Helen Marston to a place of safety, but when he returned to the Perkins girl, her death grip sent both to the bottom. It was indeed a sad sight to see the work of the rescuers on the beach with the aid of the pulmotor, the life of the two victims having gone out. The tragedy happened in the same spot where three people nearly lost their lives Monday, July 13. They were Miss Jeanette Armand and two girls, Ethel Lingren and Helen Swan.

About a score of caddies at the Myopia Hunt club, at Hamilton, went back to work Friday on the promise that if they make good on a probationary service of a week their demands for an increase in pay might be granted. The boys have been getting 40 cents a round on week days and 50 cents on holidays. They struck three weeks ago for 60 cents on week days and 75 cents on Sundays and holidays. Amateur caddies have been carrying the clubs during the strike, the club men using their chauffeurs or else lugging their own clubs. The boys organized and prevented any strike breakers from working.

The regatta committee of the Pleon Y. C., Marblehead announces that races will be held throughout the season on Wednesdays and Saturdays; at times the Saturday races will be under the auspices of the Corinthian Y. C. The Pleon fleet, both open and decked classes, will race with the Corinthian boats in the midsummer series. The fleet is the same as last year, with the exception that Theodore Jones will sail the Flash instead of Horton Brown, who is sailing on Comm. Wheelock's (Corinthian) Britomart.

Members of the Gloucester Y. C. are planning to make the Gloucester Day race this year memorable in the annals of Massachusetts Bay yachting. The regatta will be held at Gloucester, Monday, Aug. 9, and will count for the Yacht Racing Union championships. In order that the yachts may proceed the same day to Marblehead for the opening of mid-summer week, Tuesday, the race will be started at 10 o'clock in the morning, when advantage will be taken of the morning breeze.

Ralph W. Dundas of New York, a summer resident of Bass Rocks, and a yachting enthusiast, has given the Gloucester Y. C. $250 to be used for trophies in the race. Ex-Commodore "Ben" Colby of the club has chartered for the day a schooner yacht, on which he will entertain the visiting yachtsmen, of whom a large number are expected, owing to the Union's squadron run from Bass Point the previous day.

Coming sporting events on the Marblehead shore: Sunday, July 25, Beachcomber Dory club race; Sunday, July 25, Marblehead Racing Dory club race; Saturday, July 31, open race, Corinthian Yacht club; Sunday, August 1, Interclub Dory race; Sunday, August 1, Marblehead Racing Dory club race; Saturday, August 7, Club race, Corinthian Yacht club.

IN MAKING AN ESTIMATE of the comparative successes of the forces in the field in Europe it must be remembered that one of the nations was thoroughly prepared. The entire nation had been drilled and armed; they were ready for the fray. When the civil war was being fought the North constantly met defeat in the early part of the war. How much had the North gained at the end of the first year? The first year has nothing to tell us concerning the final issues of the war. Now, Kitchener has a million men in reserve and in training, but it will be spring before they are worth anything in the line of battle. There is no end in sight and there is nothing upon which a reliable decision can be made. It is evident, however, that there was skill and ability back of the forces that were gathered so rapidly as to be able to keep the invading army out of Paris.

THE UNITED STATES government has a dignity unto itself to maintain. The nation is large enough and powerful enough to consider its own ends and ways in the interests of peace. War is an evil and a sinister influence from which a nation rarely is able to recover. The people of the United States do not wish war and will not tolerate war. Germany may wish to try the patience of our government, if it will. America, in the interests of peace, can close the incident by declining to parley and to argue further.

THE WOMEN ARE MAKING a thorough canvass of the North Shore and before many days they will be able to tell just where the voters' interests are. There are many men who believe in woman suffrage, but there are very few men who are enthusiastic about it. The women have a hard campaign to fight, but they are working hard and may win.

THE SCURRILOUS NEWSPAPERS that are already fighting battles, on paper, with Germany, do not realize the penalties and terrors of war. No one who has ever known what war means can ally himself with the pernicious militaristic forces that would involve America. War is the last resort of a nation whose destined place in the society of nations is to teach the gospel of peace among men.

THE PROTECTION of the embassies within the limits of our country is an obligation that must be sacredly kept. It would be a national dishonor for any representative of a foreign power to come to harm here at the hands of a crank or a maliciously intent individual. America has a task to perform and it will do it.

MR. WALSH DOES NOT seem to be able to make up his mind to run for Governor. The time is short for his decision. We venture a guess that the charms of the office will allure.

PRESIDENT WILSON has proven his patience. He is certain that our people want peace and he is using every legitimate power he can assert to gain it.

THE MILITARY SCHOOL to be held this summer at Plattsburg for college men has already on its lists of students more names than could have been hoped. Preparedness should be a national policy, but to it this country must not be committed as a main issue of national life. There is a difference between military preparedness and militarism. Militarism breeds trouble. It loves war and all its panoply of arms and munitions. Preparedness may be the determination of a peaceful people to avoid the dangers of war incident to a surprise attack. America cannot yield to the temptation to become militaristic, but that is no reason why in the interests of peace the nation cannot be prepared, not for, but against the war that may come.

THE EUROPEAN WAR will inevitably develop American business. The terrible struggle has ruined many of the manufacturing enterprises of the old world. To America Europe must look for a period of years for the skill and capital to develop old world industries. It is lamentable that prosperity should come in such a way, but it is inevitable. To what country will the old look for succor?

BRYAN HAS SUGGESTED that all editorials should be signed by the writer in order that their merits may be judged upon the knowledge which one has of the individual's personality. As it is now, all editorials are the product of the paper, not the individual. There is much to be said on both sides of this question and there are merits in both methods. The American writers and papers are used to the present method and there is no great harm wrought by it.

JOHN HAYS HAMMOND, JR., is intensely interested in the art of preparedness for war. If he, in the interests of peace, can devise a mechanism that will prevent war altogether, he will have gained a place in the history of the development of science that has never been gained. May his skill be devoted to the great cause of international peace!

THE OPERATION of an automobile teaches the art of concentration better than any sport that man has ever devised. Every instant the mind must be on the operation. Because of this very necessity it is a marvelous agent for resting weary nerves. It grips the mind and the mind then throws off the grip that business or care may have gained.

SOME CRANKS have made threatening remarks concerning two of the embassies to this country, but America will not permit any violation of her soil if it can be helped. Consequently our government will do everything within its power to afford these representatives protection.

THE NORTH SHORE has been the mecca of thousands of tourists this year. Every shore resort in New England has felt the result of the embargo that the war has put upon foreign travel.

TO THE LAYMAN the release of Thaw is a miscarriage of justice. If Thaw is sane then the grounds upon which he was acquitted, insanity, were not true. By a subterfuge and the free use of money to continue the fight a young man who murdered another is released. If the rule of the American courts was to declare a man guilty, but insane, and sentence him to the insane asylum instead of prison the present situation could not have arisen.

THE NAVAL FETE held on Wednesday at the Haven estate at Beverly Farms was one of the best managed and successful social enterprises ever conducted on the North Shore for the benefit of a charitable enterprise. The success of the enterprise was due in no small degree to the cooperation of many people for one definite object. The Navy Y. M. C. A. in Boston is doing an excellent work and the triumph of Wednesday will go a long way toward helping it.

CERTAIN INFLUENCES are at work in the ammunition factories of the country. This is to be expected. But the wages paid for work is so low the strike was not unexpected. A strike is a sign of prosperity. No one strikes when there is a real fear that the working enterprise will close.

THE STATE TAXES have been excessive and they are now being felt all over the Commonwealth. Many of the towns have been forced to raise the tax rate mainly because of the state levy.

GUY ANDREW HAM's candidacy for the Lieutenant Governorship has been gaining ground rapidly along the North Shore. His service in the council has eminently fitted him for the higher office.

IF THE NUMBER of automobiles purchased during the last three months is any standard to judge the times by, America is far from hard times.

WHAT HAS BECOME of the Democratic Economical policy that was promised in the campaign?

OH, HORRORS!

When women write or paint or act or fly in aeroplanes,
Or practise medicine or law, or use good business brains,
And do a hundred things besides that man can never do,
The world reluctantly admits they've learned a thing or two.
But when they say they'd like to vote as well as cook and sew,
The antis all burst into tears and cry out No! No!! No!!!

Where on the furthestmost frontiers the oar and axe were plied,
The doughtiest of pioneers had woman by his side.
Close up behind the firing line, when bullets fall like rain,
Are women calmly braving death to ease the soldier's pain.
But when they say they'd like to vote within a year or two,
"Good gracious," wail our Anti friends, "whatever shall we do?"

When women gaze through telescopes through long and patient years,
And find new stars and asterisks revolving in their spheres,
Or call the hidden radium from out the shrouding earth,
Most everybody will admit that they have shown their worth;
But when they say they want to vote and state the reason why,
Our Anti friends run in the house and have a real good cry!

In twelve good states where woman vote, folk seem to get along,
A little more aloof from crime and sordidness and wrong;
And every year a state or two sees justice in our cause
Of letting women help to make as well as keep the laws.
Our state will do it pretty soon, but take it from these rhymes,
If for no other reason, but to keep up with the times.

—With apologies to Mr. Montague.
"The Dickey Bird."

THERE ARE MANY young people who live on the North Shore who are casting about for an opening in life since the schools closed. Perhaps you could find a place for some of them on your estate or in your business.

THE STATE THAT MAKES such an attack as was made upon Frank is responsible for the murderous assault. Such careless provisions for his safety are unworthy of a great state in these days.

IT IS REPORTED that a certain well known American novelist in England has decided to give up his citizenship here for citizenship there. Does he intend to enlist and fight with the colors?

THERE ARE MANY who have enjoyed the pleasures of Tuck's Point, Manchester, these warm summer days that have reason to be grateful the town has such a beautiful recreation place.

THE DIVORCE COURTS of the state are having altogether too much business to do in these days.

Under the caption "A Hero's Death," the Boston Herald comments editorially as follows: "The Rev. Arthur H. Pingree of Norwood went to his death Monday in rescuing two girls who had been caught in an unexpected undertow at Annisquam. With the first he swam to shallow water and left her in safety. Returning for the other, she threw her arms about him and then both sank. This is the way it often happens. It is proverbially dangerous to go to the rescue of a drowning person. Various rules have been devised, seemingly cruel, for protecting the swimmer while bearing his half-unconscious burden to safety, like dragging her at arm's length by her hair. It is not to the point whether Mr. Pingree understood those devices, or would have been able to utilize them, or willing to do so. The solitary and momentous fact remains that he disregarded the accumulated warnings of the years, responded unquestioningly to the call of duty, and gave up his life in its performance."

Ten Reasons Why a Woman Should Swim

It is the most wonderful exercise, and all women need exercise.

It makes one healthy because it brings into use every muscle and compels deep breathing.

It makes one beautiful because it is exhilarating and sets the blood in circulation and makes bright eyes and clear skins.

It makes one graceful, for it reduces where there is too much flabby flesh and gives the cramped and constricted body a chance to gain poise and grace.

It is the best thing in the world for the lungs. You can't live with cramped lungs. You never saw a swimmer without a fine, deep chest.

It gives a splendid carriage. It is a sure cure for the slouch.

It broadens the shoulders. Women need broad shoulders if they are to carry the burdens of the world.

It gives confidence.

It makes the body shapely and svelte.

It strengthens the stomach and will cure many stomach ills.

MANCHESTER SECTION

Friday, July 23, 1915.

Miss Margaret Deviney and sister of Boston are spending a few days with Mrs. E. J. Semons, Pine st.

Raymond C. Allen, Oliver T. Roberts and James Hoare were in New York the first of the week, taking the outside course by boat Saturday night, and returning Tuesday.

The Gloucester Coal Company was the successful bidder for the supply of coal for the public schools of Manchester this year. The contract was put through the office of Miss E. G. Ellis, who is the sales agent in Manchester.

The date of the Red Men's annual family picnic is next Thursday, July 29. Free transportation to the grounds by Story & Greenwood 'bus line, leaving the square at 11 o'clock for first trip. Tickets may be obtained from the committee, Wade A. Brooks, Philip Croteau, Solomon Parsons, Charles E. Bell and Frank H. Crombie.

Mrs. Lorin Aldrich and Miss Marion Aldrich of Dorchester were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. A. Torrey, Union st. Mr. and Mrs. Torrey have their young granddaughter, Dorothy Norton of Hudson, N. H., with them for a visit.

Miss Agnes M. Sjolund has been paying a visit to Manchester this week, a guest of her brother, A. H. Sjolund, North st. Miss Sjolund is a trained nurse with a family in Chicago, and is spending the summer with them at Marion, on the South Shore.

In the account last week of the near-drowning accident at Masconomo Park, in saying the older Bigwood boy urged his younger brother, who could not swim, to go in, we were a little remiss. The fact is the half-dozen or more boys present urged the lad to go overboard, and when the young chap went under not one of the group attempted a rescue but the older brother.

Baseball dance in Town Hall to-night.

The date of the annual picnic of the Manchester club is Saturday, Aug. 14, at Tuck's Point. This is the day of the second game in the Beverly-Manchester baseball series, and the game will be played at Manchester.

The seventh annual private dancing party given by the Brownland Cottages' employees will be held in the Manchester Town Hall Tuesday evening, Aug. 17.

Miss Lillian Lucas entertained the Jolly Seven club at her home Tuesday of last week. Games and music were enjoyed and all passed a pleasant day. Miss Gwendolen Duclof of Beverly, a cousin, is visiting Miss Lucas.

Bathing Suits at E. A. Lethbridge's. adv.

The strong Riversides of Cambridge will be Manchester's opponents at baseball tomorrow afternoon. The Riversides are said to be among the strongest teams of their class in the suburbs of Boston, and Manchester fans ought to expect a good game.

Baseball fans are looking forward to the series between the Manchester and Beverly teams to start two weeks from tomorrow at Beverly. The series as arranged will be the best two out of three. Beverly expects this to run to two games only, it is said, the game at Beverly Aug. 7, and the game in Manchester Aug. 14. Manchester expects the same thing, but the views as to who will take these two games are quite the reverse. Personally we would like to see it carried along to three games. Manchester ought to let Beverly have the first game, and then take the next two. However that may be, every Manchester fan ought to make his plans now to go to Montserrat Saturday, Aug. 7, and help start the series right.

Mrs. Benjamin F. Bigwood and Mrs. Thomas A. Baker have been appointed on the committee for the apron booth at Stage Fort Park for Gloucester Day, August 17.

Mrs. Lyman W. Floyd will leave Sunday night for a trip across the continent to Pagosa Springs, Colorado, to visit her son, Joseph, and his wife and little baby. She will also visit the home of her daughter-in-law's parents at Cedar Hill, New Mexico.

Forest Fire Warden Peter A. Sheahan is making a strenuous effort to stop the forest fires that are costing Manchester so much money to fight. Mr. Sheahan is paying especial attention to the dumps about town, especially those in the woods, and threatens to invoke the law on those who are responsible for fires in this manner.

Dr. F. P. Yorston and Mrs. Yorston and young son, also Miss Eric Hosick, arrived in Manchester Sunday after a journey of nearly 300 miles by motor (a Ford) from Sawyersville, Quebec. They came by way of the White Mountains, without mishap, and made the trip in two days. They left again this morning, taking Mrs. R. T. Glendenning, Mrs. Yorston's sister, back with them for a visit.

The band concert by the Salem Cadet Band last night in the square was the largest attended of the summer. Fully 2500 people were there to hear a splendid concert and enjoy the evening. Autos lined both sides of the street and people crowded every available bit of space on the Common and immediate vicinity. These concerts are the means of wonderful civic good and the townspeople ought to feel proud to think the town can afford to have such a musical organization as the Salem Cadet Band.

FOR GOVERNOR'S COUNCIL.

Frederick H. Tarr has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor's council. His vote of 4662 in the caucuses last year, a very large increase over the vote of the year previous, would indicate that the Republican voters desire that the office which Mr. Tarr seeks should not be indefinitely monopolized by any one man or by any one section of the district.

MANCHESTER TOO STRONG FOR QUEEN QUALITY

LOCALS WIN 2-0 IN FASTEST GAME OF SEASON

In the fastest game of the season, and the best and most thrilling to watch from the standpoint of the fans, Manchester came across with another victory at baseball last Saturday afternoon, with the strong Queen Quality nine of Jamaica Plain as opponents.

Grover was in superb form, and struck out 16 men of the 32 that faced him. Perkins handled the team in grand style and deserves much of the credit for the victory. Perkins and Grover as a battery is hard to beat.

Murray pitched a great game for the Q. Q.'s, but the Manchester boys connected with him in much better fashion than the visitors did with Grover. The fielding on both sides was almost perfect. Sweetland, the Queen Quality catcher, was the best man in the position that has played at Manchester this year. He played league ball through-out.

The one particular play of the day was by Manchester's right-fielder, McCarthy. Drummond, the Q. Q.'s short-stop sent a beauty out in McCarthy's territory, over first base. It looked for all the world like a safe hit, but Mac was right on the job. He run in on it, scooped it up and sent it at cannon-ball speed to Collins. It was a perfect throw and Drummond was out. The crowd went wild with this league-ball play. McCarthy had got away with a safe bunt the inning before, and in the seventh he made Manchester's last hit, sending a pretty ball down over second.

Another feature play that deserves mention was Collins' pick-up of a hard ball on a fast throw of a bunted ball. O'Connell, too, picked a hard one off that was sent far over his head almost out in center field. O'Connell was not in playing form Saturday. He was injured in practice and ought not to have gone into the game, but he insisted on it.

Bond was unable to play Saturday, but Lynch (shortstop), who took his place on the batting list made a good account of himself. Delehanty of Lynn, who covered Bond's position in left field, played a good game.

Manchester's runs came in the first inning. Lynch, the shortstop was the first man up. He proved a good waiter and was given a free ride to first. Frankie O'Leary, who has proved good for on emergency many a time, had two strikes and a ball and had spoiled two others by fouling them. But the eighth he caught square on the nose and sent it square out in center field over everybody's head, into the brook. It was a home run. Lynch, of course, had also tallied.

In the second inning Gray connected for a double, but he never got beyond second. Manchester's nearest approach to a run came in the seventh when Gray, who had connected for a pretty single in the fifth, was presented with a pass. McCarthy placed a pretty hit over second. Lynch made a sacrifice bunt, advancing Gray and McCarthy. Murray had visions of another home-run, with two on bases, when Frankie O'Leary came up, so pitched four consecutive balls, thus giving him a free ride. With the bases full O'Connell came up. Knocked up a short infield fly to first. Collins struck out, thus leaving the bases full.

In the eighth innings Manchester had 34 men at the bat. In the nine innings Queen Quality had 32 men up. Only 12 men faced Grover in the first four innings; eight of them he struck out. It was in the fifth that the visitors had any show at all. Hagan struck out. Sweetland made the first hit for his team, by placing one over second. Stewart got away with a bunt. Murray bunted down toward first safely. With one out and the bases full Hastings came to the bat and very foolishly, it seems to us, bunted. Grover was on the ball in front of home plate in a flash and tossed it to Perkins, who killed the run home by Sweetland. Perkins didn't have quite time enough to get the ball to first to shut off Hastings. With the bases still full, McGaffee struck out.

The ninth was also a thriller. Sullivan started things by sending a swift grounder to O'Connell, who was never known to miss one like it. Owing to his injury, however, he muffed it, and the runner was safe. Drummond sent one in the same spot, but O'Connell picked this one up, tossed it to Lynch, thus shutting off Sullivan at second. Drummond stole second. A good hit now meant a run. Hogan, who had struck out every time up repeated the performance. With two out and a man on second Sweetland came to bat. He

IRISH CONCERT AND DANCE.

Everything points to one big night at the Irish concert and dance in Manchester Town Hall next Tuesday evening. Final preparations have been made, and judging from the sale of tickets it promises to be the most successful affair given in the Town Hall this season.

A reawakened interest in the national music of Ireland, especially the jig reels and hornpipes of the old days, has been happily aroused and the desire for them has become insistent. Wherever the sea-divided Gaels abide the love for the spirited tunes of old Ireland, which put the music right under your feet, still survives. Pleasant memories are again revived when those from across the Atlantic hear again the weird, plaintive melodies of long ago, the stirring notes of the fiddler, or the ring of the piper's tune.

In the spirit of Irish music revival, the management is striving to reawaken a timely interest, and foster to strength again the love of the music

WHISPERINGS

of THE BREEZES

Visions of a man wounded and dying by the roadside, or of one drowning in the waters of the little pond on Summer street, in the vicinity of the brick-yard property, so-called, took two of our worthy blue-coats to the spot in double quick time Sunday night. A man on motor-cycle had passed the place about ten o'clock and heard the groans. He stopped his machine and made a hurried look, but could not seem to locate the exact spot from which the sounds came. He hopped on the machine again and hurried along to town, stopped in the square and gave the alarm to the police. Two officers,—not including Sergeant Andrews—took a taxi and sped off at a high clip for the brick-yard. With flash lights they skirmished the little pond on everyside and were about to get ready for grappling irons to drag the pond when one of the officers detected a muffled groan at his feet. Quickly he flashed his lamp to the spot and there, looking up at him from between the weeds on the edge of the pond was a big bull-frog, that ducked back onto the murky waters just in time to escape a fusilade of missiles and an unprintable page of cuss-words from the two irate guardians of the peace,

EQUAL SUFFRAGE NOTES.

By special arrangement, Mrs. Claude Gilson, the new vice president of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs, will speak in the Congregational Chapel, Manchester, on next Tuesday afternoon, the 27th, at 3.30 o'clock. Her subject will be the woman movement in general and the federated clubs in particular. Mrs. Gilson was elected vice president at the same convention at Marian which also passed the suffrage resolution by such a large majority; and she will be able to give an authentic account of that action, from a broader and more interesting point of view than have the numerous letters to the newspapers. Mrs. Gilson is also the state organizer for the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, and thus she is one of the busiest women in the state today. She is graciously giving her time to Manchester and she should be welcomed by a representative audience. Although this lecture is under the auspices of the Equal Suffrage League, it is not a league meeting, not even an ordinary suffrage meeting, but is in charge of a special committee. The club women are specially invited and will have an opportunity to meet Mrs. Gilson, but all who are interested in the general subject are welcome to come and ask questions. All seats will be free.

The great festival at Beverly Farms this week, in aid of the Navy Y. M. C. A. in Boston, again brings to mind the thought that when governments, churches, cities and other large bodies run by (and usually for) men, need great sums of money, they get the women to arrange bazaars, festivals, etc., or to help in other ways—and as a rule the women do it cheerfully and successfully. Will the women be enfranchised for these patriotic services? Yes, they are being slowly but surely enfranchised throughout the civilized world. Even the great war is bringing out clearly the fact that the cooperation of women is indispensable to governments—their assistance sometimes especially asked for. The most striking instance of this is that the premier of England, Mr. Asquith, asked Mrs. Pankhurst to help raise recruits for the army, which she did more successfully than Mr. Lloyd George himself. She has also raised a great army of women ready to work for the government. Thus two women's figures stand out brightly against the dark background today—Mrs. Pankhurst in England and our own Jane Addams—as two different types of patriotism. Miss Addams recently went, as a peace advocate, to all the courts of Europe.

MAGNOLIA

Every room except one is rented at the Men's club and the membership is well over one hundred. One of the attractions at the club was the Cabaret show given last Saturday evening. The following program was presented: Grand March of the Hobo Band, led by Charlie Chaplin, 17th; chorus, "Dublin Bay" and "My Kentucky Home;" one step by the company; "Tipperary," by Master Walters (aged four); "Dream Girl" by Clara Corrin and chorus; quick crayon sketches, Leslie M. Walters; "If God is Willing I'll Come Back to You," George Adams accompanied by Allan MacDuff, the composer; "Poor Pauline," comedy sketch, Messrs English and Peters; "Germans Breaking Thru," Miss Isabelle Lee; monologue, "Afternoon at the Moving Pictures with Maggie," Mr. English. Waiters: Messrs. Biener (Charlie Chaplin), Lindberg, Holand, Everett Grady, Frank Grady, Kerr and MacDuff. Ladies' chorus: Misses Hession, Honan, Toolin, Newell, Sweeney, Ryan and Corrin. Accompanists: Miss Kittie Hession, Mr. MacDuff, assisted by Miss Isabelle Lee of Manchester on the drums. All the stunts were good and were greatly enjoyed. The affair netted about $30.00 for the club. The regular dance Wednesday evening was well attended. There will be no dance tomorrow evening and none next Wednesday on account of Gentlemen's Night at the Women's club. On Saturday evening of next week, however, a dance will be given at the Men's club with music by three pieces of the Ladies' orchestra of Beverly. Admission upon presentation of membership ticket only. Free to ladies. The restaurant is increasingly popular and the Sunday dinners at 75 cents are well patronized. A broiled chicken dinner will be served Sunday.

Special attention is called to the motion picture show at the Men's club tonight. A good program will be shown with a new Charlie Chaplin picture.

Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Jacobs and a party of friends from Waltham motored down to spend Sunday with Mrs. H. W. Brown at her home here.

Miss Nellie Locke of Bridgewater has been a recent guest of the John C. Lycetts, Magnolia avenue. Mrs. Locke also of Bridgewater arrived Friday for a short stay.

Miss Marion Story left Wednesday for the exposition at San Francisco as one of the fortunate contestants in the Journal contest. Miss Story's route will be by way of Montreal to Seattle and Vancouver down the coast to San Francisco by boat. The trip will last a little over a month.

Miss Augusta Carr of Medford has been a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Carr, Magnolia ave.

Lawyer Gibbs was having an interview with his client.

"Now," said the lawyer, "I must know the whole truth before I can successfully defend you. Have you told me everything, Hadley?"

"Yes," replied the prisoner, "everything, except where I hid the money, and I want that for myself."

Conserve it. "Let your head save your heels," as the homely adage phrases it.

ROOMS TO RENT—

This is the season of year when the Breeze is besieged by people who want to procure apartments and rooms on the North Shore for summer. Advertisements inserted in the Breeze classified columns have brought prompt returns to others—why not you? The cost is trivial. Results are what count.

"Oh, Kathryn," cried Emma, "have you heard the news about Lillie Homer?"

"No," was the reply, "what is it?"

"Why, she has eloped with her father's coachman," said Emma. "Isn't it shocking?"

"Oh, well," said Kathryn. "what can you expect of a family that doesn't keep a chauffeur?"

The formal opening of the new branch bank of the Beverly Trust Co. at Beverly Farms took place on Tuesday evening. The new banking rooms were open for public inspection from 7.30 until 9 o'clock. The rooms were decorated with potted plants and cut flowers and a number of the bank officials were there to greet an attendance of interested and delighted people. The ladies were presented with boxes of candy, the men with cigars, the young people to lead pencils, and a fruit punch was served to all. The branch bank is conveniently located in the busy Central Square, in a building practically rebuilt, the outside being of pleasing design and a concrete light slap-dash finish. The interior is up-to-date in every way and is indeed very pretty, being finished in mahogany. There is a large banking room, with two offices in the rear. Besides the safety deposit boxes the bank is fitted up with all conveniences and has every promise of doing a nice business.

Walter B. Wright, engineer of the Beverly Farms steam fire tractor, is enjoying his annual vacation. He is a fine cook and when those in charge of the camping party of boys from the St. John's Church learned that Mr. Wright's vacation came at this convenient time they invited him to go along to Pleasant View, R. I., with them. He has been in charge of the culinary department there. To cook for a big bunch of hungry boys is no small job, but Mr. Wright, according to reports written home by the boys, has been well able to take care of his new job.

The Beverly Farms baseball team lost its first game of the season at the Beverly Farms playgrounds last Saturday afternoon, when the strong Lynn Gas & Electric team won by a score of 7 to 3. Tomorrow afternoon the Farms will have for its opponents the crack Mystics of Lynn.

The exhibition of modern dancing by Albert E. Hopkins of Minerva Hotel, Boston, with Mrs. Arthur E. Burton of Beverly Farms as dancing partner, at the dance in Neighbors' Hall, last week, for the benefit of the Beverly Farms Band, was a most enjoyable feature of the affair. Mr. Hopkins and his partner, who, by the way, is a very apt pupil of Mr. Hopkins, demonstrated the opera waltz, the fox trot and the Brazilian polka. Each dance was very cleverly and gracefully performed and received great applause, the opera waltz being the favorite and the prettiest. Mr. Hopkins is a dancer of great ability.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund R. Pearson of Berlin, N. H., have been visitors at Beverly Farms this week.

NORUMBEGA PARK.

Adjectives cannot adequately describe the beauty and luxuriant display of flowers, shrubs and foliage to be seen now at this famous resort at Auburndale-on-the-Charles. Owing to the generous rainfall a springlike freshness seems to have taken hold of all nature. The beautiful Charles river, with its canoeing festivities, is more popular than ever. In the magnificent open-air theater, a charming musical comedy, entitled "The Little Coquette" is meeting with great success.

At the Grape Arbor Cafe, excellent service and cuisine is found. If you have not seen the baby lynx, in the Zoological Gardens, you have missed a treat.

Beverly Farms was a busy place Wednesday. Seldom has such a crowd of people been attracted here and never such a big gathering of the summer colony. The Navy Y. M. C. A. Festival on the Haven estate was the attraction. Crowds thronged the street and listened to the music that sifted through the canvas enclosure. Automobiles lined every street and available space for a quarter of a mile from the grounds. Somebody counted 300 automobiles in the vicinity of the grounds about 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

The annual picnic and outing of the Beverly Farms Baptist Sunday school was held yesterday at Centennial Grove, and was attended by a large gathering. With plenty to eat and drink and a fine program of sports and other entertaining features, the day was one of enjoyment from start to finish.

Wednesday evening the Beverly Farms Band gave a fine concert program at the Centerville annual field day, which affair was bigger and better than ever before.

Moving pictures were again given in Neighbors' Hall, Wednesday evening, to an audience that packed the hall.

The Beverly Trust Company's branch bank opened for business on Wednesday morning, with Treasurer Charles A. Pike in charge. Business for the day was exceedingly good. The business hours will be from 9.30 to 1.30 daily and deposits as small as $1.00 will be received.

Two-year-old Martha Woodbury nearly lost her life at West Beach Wednesday afternoon. The little girl is the daughter of Roland Woodbury of 18 Besson st. She was playing on a log which gradually worked its way with the girl on it from the sand into deep water where the child, before any one noticed, fell off. Mrs. Harry Hannable saw the child struggling in the water and screamed for help. Louis Hamberger heard the alarm, dove in and brought the little one, unconscious, to the shore. Harry Williams accompanied by Mrs. Hannable rushed the child in auto at top speed to Dr. Jackson's in time for treatment. The child will no doubt fully recover in a short time.

TRAVERS' RULES FOR SUCCESS AT GOLF.

In the American Magazine, "Jerry" Travers, four times amateur golf champion of the United States picks out Harry Vardon as the greatest golf player he ever met. He describes his play fully and tells many stories of his wonderful achievements. Last season Vardon averaged 74 for 100 tough matches over the long and hard courses of Great Britain. The bulk of Vardon's success might be set down, says "Jerry" Travers to these few simple rules:

1. Control of temper.
2. Refusing to worry over any bad lie or any hard luck.
3. Playing easily within himself and never pressing.
4. Playing always for the hole, even when two hundred yards away.
5. Studying his game and practicing at every opportunity.
6. Making a point, even in practice, to follow all simple rules, such as keeping one's head still, looking at the ball, etc.
7. Keeping the body under control until perfect timing is developed.
8. Using an easy, natural upright swinging swing that stays as long as possible in line with the intended flight of the ball.

Young Hicks rang the bell at the Jackson home.

"Are the Misses Jackson in?" he inquired, of the Irish lassie who appeared at the door.

"She are," replied the maid, "but the young ladies is out."

Young Hopwood was a newcomer at the beach resort. One morning, old Josselyn met him and stopping, said abruptly:

"See here, sir, how did you dare to kiss my daughter last night on the dark piazza?"

"Well, by George, sir," replied the young man, "now that I've seen her by daylight, I wonder myself."

The widow Gilroy had just told a friend of her engagement.

"But, my dear Margaret," said the friend, "you don't really mean to tell me that you intend marrying a man you've only known for three weeks?"

"Oh, yes," replied the young widow, "I can easily overcome that objection in time. I hope to know him tolerably well after we have been married a couple of years."

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest
St. Jacobs Oil

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 25 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly!

Ipswich and its Beautiful Winding River

By HELENE SHERMAN

PUBLIC LIBRARY, NO. MAIN ST., IPSWICH

THERE is one town in old New England, that has changed so little with the passing of the years that Governor Endicott, himself, would hardly feel a stranger here were he to step into her peaceful streets today. It is Ipswich, quaint, beautiful town, lying, quietly, soberly among her low hills. The broad, shady streets, the comfortable substantial homes, combine to give the place an air of restfulness and well-being so delightful in these hurried days. The place whispers to us of the time of our Puritan forbears in every hill and winding road, and there is hardly a town in New England so rich in traditions of the colonizing period as is fair Ipswich. Captain John Smith said of it in 1614: "This place might content a right curious judgment; but there are many sands at the entrance of the harbour, and the worst is, it is imbayed too farre from the deepe sea." He named it Southhampton, but the early settlers preferred to retain the more picturesque Indian name, Agawam, until 1634, when the General Court granted permission for the name to be changed to Ipswich for the town of that name in England, "in acknowledgement of the great honor and kindness done to our people, who took shipping there." With such a man as John Winthrop, Jr., as the first settler, it is hardly a matter for wonder that the very flower of the colonists were attracted to Ipswich, making it for many years second only to Boston. It had a variety of advantages unsurpassed in any New England town. The valuable fisheries of that day have disappeared almost entirely, and while there are still some pretty farms, manufacturing is the leading industry in present-day Ipswich.

The hills, the natural divisions of the town, the long roads furnish a study in colonial nomenclature as interesting as it is quaint. Candlewood, now a pleasant farming section, is believed to have been covered with a forest of pitch pine in the days when our forefathers settled at Agawam. The name seems to suggest something of the sort from the use of the word in that early period when the settlers lighted their humble homes with thin strips of pitch pine, which they called candlewood. Linebrook, Jeffries Neck, and the Argilla Farms are among the other neighborhoods of Ipswich which carry us back to the old days. The roads which separate these districts have quaint, old colony names, which have figured prominently in New England annals. Candlewood is that section cut off by the Essex and Candlewood Roads, and the intersection of these ways was originally called the Parting-of-the-Paths, and was later contracted to Pardon Paths. The Argilla Farms were not unimportant in the early Ipswich history and the road which still bears the name skirts the base of a hill which has been the theme of as many a poem and story as has the town itself. It is Heartbreak Hill, where, the legend says, an Indian maiden watched in vain for her sailor lover until she died. It is rather a damper upon the old, romantic story to learn that the hill was known by the very prosaic name of Hard-brick Hill 100 years ago, and is so designated on a town map of 1830. By common consent, however, the old name has been forgotten in the more poetic one, which is also quite fitting for our Puritan forefathers must have had a heartbreak hill in every New England settlement. "Labour-in-Vayne Road," as it is spelled in the early records, "Labor-in-vain Road," as we see it now, is another name, which, perhaps, commemorates the fruitless struggles of some early settler. The Way to Jeffries Neck, the Turkey Shore Road, Old England Road, and Pine Swamp Road are the quaint appellations of some of the pleasant, winding roads which are such splendid drives or walks.

Of all the charms of Ipswich, the beautiful river, named for the town, stands foremost. It rises, a sluggish, narrow stream in Topsfield meadows, and steals down through the countryside until it reaches the Bay of Agawam. There are four picturesque bridges which span the Ipswich River within the limits of the town, one of which (the Choate Bridge) was the first stone arch bridge to be built in America. The upper part of the river is quiet, limpid, beautiful. The Falls, as Norwood's Dam is sometimes called, help to form a rare bit of landscape, and above the dam, may be found exquisite water lilies in abundance. A half-day spent here is well worth the time it costs to assimilate a little of the peace and stillness of such a spot.

The banks of the upper river are beautifully wooded to the very edge of the dark water, which mirrors the shore and the blue sky above so faithfully that "one thinks a bit of Heaven lies on this earth below." The river winds along so quietly that it seems motionless, and every leaf, and every blossom on the banks above is duplicated with mirror-like faithfulness. Amid the darker trees, sociable groups of slender, graceful white birches shine, sometimes shyly drawing back into the foliage of their neighbors, oftentimes leaning far out over the still waters as if to see their own beauty in the reflection below. It is the loveliest sight anywhere "on the banks of winding Ipswich River, O'er the lovely, curving, winding river."

An unexpected glimpse of a group of these birches, holding out their slim, white arms in welcome will remain in the memory long after scenes of grander beauty are forgotten.

It seems strange that these picturesque banks were unoccupied for many years, until 1693, in fact, except by Samuel Ordway (or Ardway), a blacksmith. In 1692 the town granted a number of lots along the river with the provisions that the owners make the banks strong "to y<sup>e</sup> low water mark and no further into River," and that this be done within twelve months. There were other rigorous conditions so discouraging to the settlers as to result in many sales and reversions to the town.

From the town landing the river widens and finds its way through low salt marshes and little islands, winding down to Ipswich Bay. The progress of the river is broken by many little creeks, or as they are called, "cricks," such as Treadwell's, Fox, and Labor-in-vain Creeks. On a still day, the river drifts along lazily, but when the strong winds come, it becomes an unruly child of its mother ocean and angry, little whitecaps arise to beat against the shores.

The tip of the Island, as Little Neck (Jeffries') is usually known, looks over an extent of beauty, unsurpassed even from "Meetin' House Hill," or from its sister, Heartbreak. The view from this point at sunrise is worth many a morning's walk. At times there appears over the Bay and the Ocean, illuminating Cape Ann, a weird light not unlike the "false dawn" the Eastern poets have sung about. It is a halo, or glory, produced by certain atmospheric conditions.

Just before twilight, however, is the time to get the best effect from the headland. At your feet stretches the Bay of Agawam with the sea wailing over treacherous Ipswich Bar, where the pirate ghost of Harry Main is coiling his never-ending rope of sand, and if the wind is noisy, you may be sure the old wives of the village would tell you that "Harry Main in grumbling at his work today." A little at your right lies Plum Island and its neighbor, Grape Island, and, out beyond, the Isles of Shoals. Broad Parker River may be seen near Newburyport on the North, and, if the afternoon be fair and clear, blue Agamenticus and the New Hampshire hills appear. Just across the river gleam the sallow sands of Castle Hill, and, as the dusk descends, one by one, shine out the lights of Lanesville.

Truly, "I love to think of Ipswich town,

Old Ipswich in the East countree,

Whence on the tide you can float down

Through the long, salt grass to the wailing sea,
And lie all day on the glassy beach,

And learn the lesson the green waves teach,
Till at sunset from surf and seaweed brown,

You are pulling back to Ipswich town."

VIEW OF IPSWICH FROM TOWN HILL IN WINTER

A Manchester Craft-Shop

THE thoughtful wanderer in the old world, gaining freshness and vigor for the stress and speed of the new, naturally avoids cities and journeys peacefully along country roads, staying for the night in some wayside inn or mountain monastery.

Gradually, as the workings of his mind adjust themselves to the conditions of the life with which he comes in contact, he begins to notice the manner of being afar from clanging of cars, flash of arc lights and the never ceasing murmur of pent up human life. The very industries seem like quiet streams, along which the voyagers paddle with little effort, resting frequently while the boat drifts, to gaze at a smokeless sky or listen to singing birds.

To the writer most charming of crafts is that of the peasant potter, whose individual touch proclaims his country, wherever his piece is found and gifts it, however fragile in itself, with an imperishable picture of its maker and his home.

That two-handled water jar, for instance, on the newel post, does it not speak of a little kiln in the crags of Capri? Does it not recall the sturdy peasant with quiet eyes and firm hands? Can you not almost see, mirrored in its surface, the sparkling Mediterranean bearing on its glancing waves the castled crags with colors of the orient against a sky whose tint the potter has vainly tried to borrow?

That funny little vase covered with what appear to be rain drops of glaze, speaks of a smooth haired woman in neat print gown, sitting placidly beside a window with outlook across fields so gay with crimson tipped daisies that it seems as though white snow from the distant Alps, still rosy with the after-glow had drifted in clouds across the level meadows.

What else could those fire tiles with their perfectly geometrical designs speak of than a canal with high bridges and great, slow-moving barges, thereon blue gowned Dutch fraus perform various domestic duties quite in the open.

In his low-timbered cot under the far-reaching branches of mighty firs in a little village of the Black Forest a German potter lovingly formed, glazed and fired with his own hands that huge brown plate bordered with white edelweiss.

That tall, turquoise jar yonder with its cloud of fleecy wild carrot nodding in the western wind, that too has for me a distinct picture of charming, brown-eyed girls in long, white aprons, each with a flower on her work table, each with a happy look on her face, each with a belief that the Paul Revere Pottery is to speak through its wares of an old world charm, quite possible to preserve, in spite of the deafening roar of a progress regardless of who is crushed beneath its wheels; a charm which speaks of a different progress that allows the worker time to breathe the scent of the rose as he works, freedom to speak to his fellow craftsman without fear of cheating his employer of the price of his servitude and finally, which gives the piece at which he works a right to say for itself "we derive all the values in us from the fact that our makers wrought at us with zeal, with integrity, with faith to do nobly an honest thing."

This pottery which takes its name from the fact that it had its beginning under the shadow of the Old North Church where Paul Revere hung his famous lanterns in 1775, was started seven years ago as its little circular states "to give interesting, stimulating, pleasant and profitable work to girls connected with the Saturday Evening club of the North End of Boston." It has been financed from the beginning by Mrs. James J. Storrow, to the end that an industry may be established which shall give its workers a chance to live fully and completely while their days' work is going on, as well as in those evening hours usually known as free; in short, an industry which shall liberate rather than enslave its workers; which shall develop rather than stunt a love and appreciation of beauty; which shall teach a worker that his craft is not his master, but that he is master of his craft.

Those who, like the writer, love the charm of hand-work intelligently and lovingly wrought cannot pass the little Manchester cottage with its green and white sign "S. E. G. Bowl Shop" without stopping to greet the young pottery worker in charge, who has for the present laid aside the tools of her craft to introduce the ware to those who would experience the feeling called forth by original, individual examples of craftsmanship; a feeling so frequently appealed to in the old word, so seldom in the new.

—THE PASSER-BY.

AMONG the latest discoveries of science is what Williams calls the "radiant push," the physical pressure which light actually exerts upon all objects with which it comes in contact. That it does so act is finally demonstrated by the radiometer, an instrument so delicate as to register the physical force of the ray from a candle a third of a mile distant, or the reflected light from a human face.

A famous Swedish physicist has even gone to the extent of estimating the exact size of a particle of matter that may be swept before the light waves as objects are carried onward before waves of water.

Since every material object from the sun to the atom is continually giving off radiations, either direct or reflected, this new discovery gives science an entirely new outlook upon Creation, for it shows an almost infinite system of repulsions, which no doubt have much to do with the continuous changes going on in the universe.

Arrhenius believes that this radiation pressure accounts for the sun's corona and the aurora borealis, insisting that the latter is electrified particles driven by light waves from the sun to the earth in defiance of gravitation.

Prof. Campbell believes that the nebulae consist of minute bits of matter swept out into space on the crest of the light waves. There is by no means a general concurrence in these views among scientific men; but the physical push of the light wave is everywhere recognized as a demonstrated fact.

As for the past two seasons, the boulevard in front of the Midway attractions at Revere beach is closed to motor and all vehicular traffic on Sundays and holidays. Although this is not entirely pleasing to autoists, the park commission considers it necessary to eliminate the accidents which have been quite numerous in the past. It seems too bad, however, that something can't be done toward improving the "back road" at Revere. That road is a disgrace to a civilized community.

Mrs. A. S. Craven of Greenwood, Va., is a house-guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rodman Paul Snelling of Beverly Farms. The large and attractive home of the Snellings occupies one of the most conspicuous positions in Beverly Farms and is one of the showy places seen so well from the water. "Fiemeta" is an interesting newcomer to Beverly Farms. She lives in the Daniels cottage with her devoted mistress, Mrs. William G. Fitch of New York. "Fiemeta," or "Peggy-for-Short," has been in the Fitch family eleven years, since she was purchased in Florence, Italy, by her late owner, Clyde Fitch, the playwright. She is a handsome light brown and yellowish-white Lupeti dog, meaning "little wolf" in Italian, is registered and has done much good work in New York for the dog hospital fund. No one can resist the "little wolf's" bright, intelligent looks and winsome manner. The Lupeti are rare dogs in this country, seemingly not being able to endure the climate. "Fiemeta" was lost in Beverly Farms the other day and the whole Fitch household was on her trail.

THE little Ascension Episcopal church in Ipswich never looked more beautiful than it did last Saturday when at noon two families of prominence on the North Shore were united by the marriage of Miss Constance Gardner, only daughter of Congressman Gardner, to Grafton Winthrop Minot, only son of Joseph Grafton Minot of Boston and an attaché at the U. S. embassy at Berlin. The floral decorations were a greatly admired feature. The walls of the church were covered with huckleberry vines and strung laurel, making a rich green background for the profuse decorations of lilies, pink rambler roses and blue delphinium. At each pew was a wicker basket holding great clusters of lilies, delphinium and pink roses trailing down to the floor. Each window was banked with the same flowers and clusters were also arranged artistically on wall brackets. At the pulpit steps, and surrounding the altar were masses of the same flowers. Four tall basket vases were used effectively at the altar steps and contained huge clusters of roses, lilies, pink gladioli and the delphinium. The whole church was an Eden of pink, blue and white, the same color scheme being carried out in the dresses of the bridal party and in the floral decorations at Sagamore Farm, the home of the Gardners, where a large reception was held following the wedding. The young couple will soon go to Berlin where Mr. Minot will take up his duties at the embassy.

The charming little clubhouse, which has such cool and homelike parlors and reading rooms, was gaily decorated for the occasion. The Salem Cadet Band furnished music from 4 to 6, when the hundred or more members of the club received their friends. The finals in the mixed doubles were played last Friday, resulting in cups going to Miss Alice Thorndike and H. H. Bundy. The score was 3-6, 6-3, 8-6. The runners-up in the doubles received little trays as trophies. In the ladies' handicap singles, the finals of which were played Saturday, the cup went to Miss Ruth Harrington of Ipswich, and the silver tray to Miss Elaine Denégre of West Manchester. The score was 6-4, 6-3. Later in the season the club will hold another of its popular receptions. The men's singles are being played this week.

"Villa Crest," the beautiful home of the Walter D. Denégre's in West Manchester, is prominent on the North Shore this summer in more ways than in the social activities for which it is always noted. It has been the home and headquarters of the French Wounded Emergency Fund for the North Shore, which has been doing such a grand work all summer with all of the prominent sympathizers along the Shore working twice a week in the coach house and contributing liberally to its support. Now "Villa Crest" is prominent in the mosquito campaign that Mr. Denégre is interesting himself in. He has sent letters to Manchester residents urging that some concerted action may be taken that will enable a systematic campaign to be carried on against mosquitoes. Mr. Denégre wishes that all who are interested in any manner in ridding the North Shore of these pests would communicate with him. Frank P. Frazier of West Manchester is also actively interested in the movement.

MR. AND MRS JOSEPH LEITER (Juliette Williams) and two children of Washington arrived this Wednesday at "Edgewater House" their beautiful home in Beverly Farms. They have been spending several weeks at their country home near Washington. Mrs. Leiter's mother, Mrs. John R. Williams of Washington will be with them this summer. "Edgewater House" is one of the many attractive estates at Beverly Farms. The large brick house has a very old and distinguished air about it and can be seen plainly from the water. A revolving sun-parlor is an unique feature in the garden. A sunken garden and a rose-garden are things of beauty now. The rose-garden is very striking in its simplicity, being simply a square filled with various roses and surrounded by a fence completely covered with pink ramblers. The square has an arched entrance on the four sides over which the ramblers hang in great profusion. The estate has immense hot-houses in which an English plan is in operation for raising fruit and vegetables. The Leiter family has been supplied all spring by the products of their green house at Beverly Farms. The English gardener, Joseph Tillson, is experimenting in many unique ways. Luscious figs, nectarines, peaches, tree tomatoes and melons are some of the special novelties seen now in the hot beds. The melons are especially attractive, growing on small vines running up the side walls, and each melon so heavy (2 to 4 lbs.) that it is encased in a little net tied to the ceiling. The peach and nectarine trees are trained fan-shaped on netting and make a very ornamental sight. The visitor would think it was all arranged for an artistic fruit show, but the gardener assures one that it is all for a very utilitarian purpose. He has rooms of various temperatures, some extremely hot in which the fruit is forced and others cooler in which the fruit will mature later. In this way he hopes to extend the crop as long as the family remains at Beverly Farms. Various small garden supplies were raised in the hot houses and sent to the Leiters in Washington all winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew B. Wallace, Jr., of Springfield have been visiting this week at Ford cottage, Magnolia, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Stevens of Brookline.

The North Shore Swimming Pool at Magnolia is the place of all places to go nowadays. It is the first place that suggests itself to seekers of outdoor recreation and cosy club privileges these hot days. Some extremely good swimmers have been observed the past week at the pool. Miss Elvene Richard of the Oceanside is one of the devotees of the pool whose strokes are envied by her many friends. Miss Helen Johnson of St. Louis is another Oceanside guest whose swimming is being watched by the many interested observers in the balcony. Miss Grace Scattergood has come over from Philadelphia this week and her swimming has been considered especially fine. Phil Bryan and Chester Lockwood of the Oceanside are also the cynosure of all eyes in their water feats. Miss Isabel McGowan of Indianapolis is considered one of the best from the Manchester colony. Miss Gladys M. Safford of Manchester has entertained Mrs. R. K. Safford of Somers, Ct., at the pool the past week. Miss Margaret Stevens of Manchester also had as her guest for a week Miss Dorothy A. Davis of Pelham, N. Y. Miss Rosamond Lancaster of Magnolia entertained her guest, Miss Heywood of Worcester, a week. Miss Rose Fessenden of Boston has been the week's guest of Miss Katherine Coolidge of Manchester. Miss Ruth Sieker of Milwaukee and Newport has been a guest for a week of John Allyn of Magnolia; Miss Mary Smith of Wood's Hole was also a guest of the Allyn's. Mrs. F. S. Chick of Magnolia has had among her guests the J. S. Williams of Swampscott, Mrs. George E. Barnard of Ipswich and the Misses Abbott and Wardwell of Salem.

The Rt. Rev. Samuel G. Babcock, Suffragan Bishop of the diocese of Massachusetts, and Mrs. Babcock, entertained the rector, choirmaster and choir of St. John's Church, Beverly Farms, last Tuesday, at their summer home at Watch Hill, Rhode Island. The guests came over from Pleasant View, R. I., where they are in camp, and thoroughly enjoyed the games and refreshments which the bishop's hospitality had provided. The Rev. Sherred Billings will officiate at the services at St. John's Church on Sunday, Aug. 8th. The rector of the church, Rev. Neilson Poe Carey, will preach at Pequot Chapel, New London, Conn., on that day.

Albert Latscha and Polly Fisher gave several exhibitions of the new dances last week. Among those who entertained during the week were Mark Dowling and party of four; J. N. Stevens and party of twelve; Mr. and Mrs. William H. Coolidge, party of three; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sawyer, three; Sir Edgar and Lady Speyer, two; Mrs. O. Longworth, four; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tewksbury, four; Mrs. J. E. Lancaster, ten; W. H. Beal, three; Mrs. Robert Graves, twelve; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Kilpatrick; Mr. Fairleigh, three; Mrs. A. M. Richard; Mrs. George Lee, four; Newell Bent, three; E. B. Bartlett; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Pentecost, R. N. R. R. D.; E. Palmer Gavit; Mrs. Frances L. Potts, S. R. Shumaker, U. S. N., R. G. Pennoyer, U. S. N.; G. H. Dempsey, Miss Marion Bayley, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hull, Mrs. W. O. Todd. The Grill is the mecca toward which North Shore people wend their way every afternoon, the out-of-door tea garden, with dancing floor and splendid music, being the big drawing card. The music at the Grill, by the way, is the best on the North Shore, so everybody says. Another big crowd is expected at the Grill tonight for the dinner-dance. One of the largest and gayest parties of the week was that of Tuesday night by the J. H. Lancashires of Manchester, the young people going to the Oceanside for dancing after the dinner.

NEW YORK ADDRESS: 665 FIFTH AVE.

THE Sunday afternoons that Mrs. Maynard Ladd is holding in her studio on Smith's Point are among the many pleasant affairs on the North Shore. Some of the portraits that may be seen there in marble or bronze are of Mrs. Handasyd Cabot, Mrs. Robeson Sargent, Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge, Mrs. John Newbold, Mrs. Quincy Bent, Nelson Aldrich, 2d, Eleonora Duse and Gertrude Kingston. The studio is in a building situated across the road from the cottage of Dr. and Mrs. Ladd on Proctor street. A handsome and striking statue of St. Faith is to be seen on the upper floor of the studio standing in an opening facing the road. It is much admired by the passers-by and is extremely interesting because it is to be made in marble and placed on Morningside Heights in New York opposite the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Among some of the recent guests at the studio have been Marchese Tacoli and members of the official family in the Italian Embassy, Bishop and Mrs. Perry of Rhode Island, Mrs. John Markle, Mrs. David Rumsey, Mrs. Boylston Beal, Mrs. John Newbold and Mrs. John L. Gardner.

PURITAN tea-room, Montserrat, has had among its guests the Misses Edgett of Beverly, Miss Louise Heath and Otis Heath of Newton Centre; Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, who entertained Mr. and Mrs. Leland Cole and Miss Cole of Salem and Mrs. Chas. Price of Montserrat; Mrs. Waldo O. Ross of Beverly Farms entertained a party of four. Mrs. Ross spends her summers with Miss M. E. Haven at Beverly Farms. Many morning tennis parties are now being held on the Peabody courts at Montserrat, close to the little tea-room, and the players are giving liberal patronage to the place. The Misses Miriam and Helene Hostetter, the young daughters of the D. Herbert Hostetters of Grover street, Beverly, when out riding in their pony cart, Tuesday, stopped at the Puritan tea-house, Montserrat, for refreshments. Duly obeying the rule of the North Shore tea houses (which many guests do not), they registered full name and summer address, and then thinking they had to be very explicit, signed in childish scroll, "ice-cream and sandwiches."

Many little folk in Magnolia are finding their way to the little shop on Lobster Lane in charge of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston. Wednesday morning an interesting little customer came to the shop and upon entering had a cordial good-morning and handshake for every one in the room. The little fellow was clad in green and made a charming sweet picture in his big white hat set far back on his brown curls. There was nothing in the shop that escaped his attention, and he examined and purchased in such a serious and polite manner. Upon inquiry, he gravely announced that he was Richard Shuman or "Dick." Dick lives at Dr. Harry B. Shuman's on Lexington avenue and in the winter time he lives at Jamaica Plain.

The annual exhibition of flowers, fruits and vegetables of the North Shore Horticultural Society will take place next week, on Wednesday and Thursday, at the Mrs. R. C. Some of the most beautiful art linens and embroideries we have noted at the Magnolia shops this season, is the collection at the attractive bungalow shop, so-called, on Hesperus ave., opposite the former Hesperus Hotel. The New York house Aux Broderies Alsaciennes, Asher-LeVin, 561 Fifth ave., have taken the shop for the summer and are enjoying some of the most exclusive patronage along the shore, from people who are acquainted with their exclusive line of goods.

THE gayest party of the summer at the Essex County Club was the dinner and dance given Tuesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander E. Little of Boston and Lynn, on the occasion of their 10th wedding anniversary. One hundred and ten were present, including friends of Mr. and Mrs. Little all along the shore from Gloucester to Nahant. Two large tables were arranged, one in each of the two rooms. Mr. Little presided over one and Mrs. Little over the other. Sweet peas grown in the Little gardens in Lynn predominated in the beautiful table decorations. Irwin's orchestra played for the dancing which kept up until midnight.

Oatman of New York—16 West 56th street—has a store at Magnolia this summer, located in a cottage on Lexington Ave., opposite the Oceanside hotel, right in the heart of the North Shore shopping district. Oatman, as an importer of gowns, wraps and furs, needs no introduction to the New York contingent at the North Shore, and many Bostonians and patrons from other parts of the country, who look to New York for the latest things in dress, are glad to know this New York house is represented on the North Shore with a branch this summer. Mrs. Oatman is now preparing for new autumn importations, and toward that end she is now offering her entire stock of beautiful gowns and wraps at greatly reduced prices.

MAGNOLIA, the world-famed resort, has among its many and varied attractions one of the finest beaches on the North Shore. Although in some respects the North Shore swimming pool has somewhat eclipsed the beach in the opinion of its members, especially the grown-ups, the kiddies still find it the most delightful place for them in all Magnolia. And there they gather in little groups these bright days, in the rear of the pool, from which the sound of the afternoon music blends charmingly with the scene. Many of the mothers who have spent an hour or so in a social way in the clubrooms of the pool, join the little ones when it comes time for them to leave the beach for their homes. One of the attractive little groups is made up of the three nurses in charge of the tiny baby Richard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graves of the Oceanside and New York, and their little three-year-old son, Kingsley Swan. The little twins belonging to Mr. and Mrs. James E. Caldwell of Bryn Mawr make a charming little study. Anne and Jean are just two years old and each has an abundance of auburn curls and beautiful brown eyes. So near alike are they that it is impossible for a stranger to tell which is which. Very sweet and winsome they look when they make their quaint little "curtsey." Hilda, the little six-year-old, and her sister, Evadna, are the little yellow-curled daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Freeman H. Hibben. Richard, the four-year-old son, and his little baby sister, Jane, are the interesting little ones belonging to Dr. and Mrs. Harry B. Shuman. The two-year-old baby called John H. Overail is the grandchild of Mrs. William H. Scudder of St. Louis and Magnolia. Little Gladys Graham is just two and one-half years old and belongs in the Edward Howland Graham family. Two little cousins, Phyllis Ellsworth and Betty Chapin, grandchildren of Mrs. J. L.

Chalifoux of Lowell, are having fine times these summer days playing barefooted in the sands. Phyllis is five and Betty three and one-half, and both are quite motherly in their care of baby Alice, the little sister of Phyllis, who creeps tormentingly close to the waves and causes much alarm among the little folk. Two interesting baby girls are Anne and the tiny Catherine in the Otis Weld Richardson family of Longwood. The three little girls, Helen, Elizabeth and Barbara, come from the Edward B. Richardson family of Brookline. Baby Eleanor and Henry are from the E. Prescott Rowe family and the little Katherine comes from the family of the Max L. Talbots. Among others noticed on the beach are a group of little cousins from Chicago, Helen and Henry Farnum, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Farnum, and the John B. Drake, Jr., children, John B., 3d, William, Elizabeth and Katharine; James, the little son of the Jerome H. Remicks; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Jones' little Eleanor Lovejoy; Nancy and Hildegard Thornberg, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Thornberg; Elizabeth Liggitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scudder, Jr., of St. Louis; Robert and Helen Hussey in the D. B. Hussey family of the Oceanside; Murial and Florence Hoyle, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hoyle; Hartley, Russell, Gordon, Frances and William, belonging to Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Dewart; Helene and Frederick Ellsworth in the John C. Ellsworth family; Billy Sampson, grandchild of Mrs. C. P. Sampson and the little blue-eyed, yellow-headed Adeline and Buddy Smith, aged four and three. These little folk will never forget their happy days spent on the beach, at the pool and at the many other pleasant affairs planned for them in Magnolia.

wich, Conn., for a few days. At Greenwich is where Mrs. Fitch has a beautiful summer home, which she has rented this summer. The Winchester Fitches usually summer in Ohio. The Howard Ingersoll family of New York have also spent a few days with Mrs. Fitch. HAMILTON is looking fair and countrylike now. The haying season is on and the big estates have a truly rustic and farm-like appearance now with the active life going on in their hayfields. The summer colony enjoy their country homes and make much use of them in a social way during their long season—the season being much longer inland than on the coast. One of the Hamilton colony, who lives in one of the largest and most beautiful places over there, said she has not been away from the house more than five days since she opened the place in the early spring.

The young people affiliated with Myopia Hunt Club are now making ready for a month's sport. The pony drag season is on for August as usual. The drags are eagerly looked forward to by the young people who get an experience in following the hounds which prepares them for the real hunt later on that their elders enjoy. Miss Emma Mandell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George

S. Mandell will again be the master of the pony drags. She was very enthusiastic over it last year and made a charming appearance in the saddle accompanied by her father and brothers. The thirty couples of hounds belonging to the club are permitted as a special courtesy of the Myopia Hunt to meet for the pony drags as follows: Tuesday, Aug. 3rd, James H. Proctor's gate, 5.30 p. m. Saturday, 7th, "Green Meadows Farm," estate of George Burroughs. Pony drag will follow the horse show held on the estate that afternoon.

IPSWICH is making great preparations for the historic celebration from Aug. 4 to 18th, at the old Whipple house, the home of the historical society in Ipswich. It will be one of the most novel festivals representing life of y<sup>e</sup> olden time that has ever been given on the North Shore. The summer colony has long been interested in the old house and many are members of the society, not only from the Ipswich contingent, but from Wenham, Hamilton, Pride's Crossing and all along the shore. The local residents of Ipswich take much pride in the society and are lending much support to the work. Full particulars in regard to the dinner of Aug. 17, at which there will be noted speakers and descendants of old Ipswich families taking some formal part may be obtained from Rev. T. F. Waters of Ipswich.

Y<sup>e</sup> Burnham House, Ipswich, has had its usual run of visitors. So popular has the place grown to be that last Sunday several parties desiring suppers had to be turned away. Among the entertainers this week have been Mr. and Mrs. E. Palmer Gavit of Manchester, party of four; William Abbott of Chicago and Swampscott, party of seven; Miss Francis Brainard, party of five Oceanside guests; Miss Peggy Perry of Haverhill, party of four; Mrs. C. F. Elmes of Chicago and Rye Beach, party of six; Mrs. Ernest Pentacost and her guests, Prof. and Mrs. D. P. Bartlett and Mrs. E. G. Brown of Boston. Y<sup>e</sup> Burnham House is always popular with guests from the Oceanside at Magnolia. Miss Frances E. Hibben, Mrs. A. Moore Richard and Mrs. John E. Lancaster were among the many Oceanside guests, who were noted this week.

Y<sup>e</sup> Rogers Manse, Ipswich, situated in the center of the fine old town, is very popular as a dancing center this season. Miss C. B. Dobson and her sister, Mrs. Wilson Shannoh Dunn of New York and Ipswich gave a dancing party the past week. This is the second one that Miss Dobson has given at the Manse in honor of house-guests. Mr. and Mrs. George E. Barnard of Ipswich also gave a dancing party at which 32 young people were present. Russell and Henry Stearns were their guests of honor. Mrs. S. H. Pillsbury of Clifton Heights was of those entertaining at a dinner and bridge party for ten. Week-end guests at the Manse were Mrs. W. H. Danna and Mrs. H. W. Jordan of Boston.

Russell and Henry Stearns of Pawtucket are spending a few weeks with their aunt, Mrs. George E. Barnard (Kate R. Stearns) of "River Bend Farm." Mrs. Barnard is doing many pleasant things for her nephews. The past week she gave a luncheon at the Essex club and a dance at Y<sup>e</sup> Roger's Manse for them. The beautiful garden of the Barnards is closed to the public this year. The beauty and fame of the garden attracted such a large number of people that it was almost impossible to take care of them on the grounds and the garden was reluctantly closed. It is in its prime and is showing a feast of color now. Very noticeable are the great masses of blue larkspur, phlox and roses. The Ipswich river which flows through the garden is unusually high this summer and affords fine boating. It is a pleasant sight to stand in the midst of the garden and watch the little boats glide by.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Richardson of "Meadow View" have been entertaining Miss Mary Devlin of Salem.

"Andy," the fine dog belonging to the artist, Frank H. Richardson of "Meadow View," is one of the most interesting subjects in the studio. When stretched out asleep on the commodious divan which he completely fills he makes an unusual study in color and strength which is very appealing.

Ipswich had an interesting suffrage meeting last Saturday night when two of the prominent workers of Boston addressed the people at an open-air meeting. The speakers were Mrs. Ralph McDaniel, who is chairman of Essex County and Mrs. Walter G. Morey, who is in charge of the eastern half of the state automobile campaign. Mrs. Morey is of Brookline and is remaining in town all through the summer to look after the work. She formerly summered at Marblehead.

Albert M. Kohn of New York, who has spent July with Mrs. Kohn at the home of Mrs. N. R. Underhill, Ipswich, has now left for Wolf lake, Canada, to camp during August. Mrs. Kohn will entertain Madame M. L. Robert of Paris, teacher in the Horace Mann school of Columbia University, in August, where she is spending the summer at her former home, the Underhill farm, Ipswich.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hallam Grant prominently connected with the cash register factory in Dayton, O. are visiting Mr. Grant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Grant of Water street.

Mrs. Joseph F. Ross of High street, president of the Ipswich Suffrage League, is spending two weeks in Monkegan, Maine.

The Elizabeth-Mártha T Shop on the boulevard through Beverly, is a delightful place in which to have afternoon tea on a cool veranda overlooking the sea. Guests are also entertained overnight. Mrs. Edna The-lands, Mrs. Ida C. Johnson and Miss Jennie L. Bryan of Peoria, Ill., are spending a few weeks at the shop, also Mrs. Alice Dayton, Frank Graves and Miss Lucy Phelps of "High Rock," Southerland road, Brookline. Recent guests who have spent a few weeks were Mr. and Mrs. William Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rudderham of Montreal, Can.; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brown Neal, Mrs. Henry L. Barton, Miss Katherine Barton of Detroit; Miss Bessie Walworth of Cleveland, and Miss Helen Baldwin of Newark, N. J. The T Shop also caters to dinner parties, luncheons and auction bridge parties.

OCEANSIDE HOTEL MAGNOLIA

MID-SUMMER finds the big Oceanside Hotel at Magnolia with about six hundred guests, fully a hundred more than last year at this time, and also many in excess of the year before. It has been a week of departures and arrivals. Many have gone with the closing of July to other resorts, or to their homes, partly because of pre-arranged plans, and partly because their apartments here have been let in advance to August guests. August always brings a full house, if ever, and the Oceanside is to experience full house capacity all through the month, if present indications mean anything. It takes about seven hundred and fifty to fill the main hotel, its nineteen cottages, and the Annex, which was formerly the Hesperus Hotel.

Richard M. Elliott of Lowell was at Magnolia over the week-end with Charles Wadsworth, 3d. Both young men are attending the Harvard summer school.

Miss Rosamond Lancaster of Worcester, who is spending the summer at the Oceanside, is one of the best dancers at the hotel. She was noticed doing the fox trot with Mr. Latscha Tuesday evening at the dance, and she surely is a most graceful dancer. She is petit and pretty and always dresses nicely. She dances much better than many of the professionals. The fox trot, by the way, is far the most popular dance of the summer at Magnolia. Everywhere one may see people picking it up, and trying to get onto the steps. Lots of the older men and women at the Oceanside are trying it and the young folk never miss an opportunity to try it, whether they are on their way from the dining room, the beach, or getting ready to start on a motor trip.

Miss Florence Heywood of Worcester, who arrived at the Oceanside last Saturday for a week's visit with Miss Rosamond Lancaster, is a most charming young woman, and has been a most welcome addition to the younger element at the hotel. Mrs. John E. Lancaster gave a tea party at the North Shore Grill Monday afternoon in Miss Heywood's honor. Among those present were Chester and Winthrop Lockwood, A. W. Dewey, Jr., J. Day, Miss Frances Brainerd and Miss Lancaster. Miss Heywood was one of the belles of Worcester when she was presented to society in Boston and Worcester two seasons ago.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. DeForest of Schenectady, N. Y., were among the motor parties spending the week-end at the Oceanside.

Mrs. Ridgeway Macy, two children and governess, from Orange, N. J., arrived at the Oceanside last Saturday for a fortnight's stay.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Leicht and son Albert, who have had a most enjoyable month's stay at the Oceanside, concluded their visit this week and have returned to Chicago. They will spend the balance of the summer at some of the Michigan resorts.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graves of New York have been away from Magnolia this week on a trip in their yacht "Emiline," as far as Bar Harbor. They expected to return today.

Miss Hanna L. DuBois of San Francisco arrived at Magnolia last Saturday for a week's visit with her uncle, Prof. DuBois of New Haven.

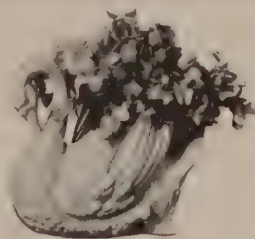

Mr. Latscha gave a most enjoyable dancing party at his studio in the Oceanside Annex Monday evening, which was attended by a dozen or more of the younger set, including Miss Frances Brainerd, Miss Rosamond Lancaster, Miss Doris Bryan and Miss Isabelle McGowan, also Chester and Winthrop Lockwood, M. R. Bryan, Robert Lancaster and John Johnson.

Mrs. W. T. White and son, Reginald, of Lowell, are at Magnolia for their regular August visit. They arrived Tuesday and have rooms in Centre Cottage, one of the Oceanside group. Mrs. White's daughter, the ever-popular Madelein White—now Mrs. Spencer Kennard, will not spend the whole summer at the Oceanside, though she and Mr. Kennard will be frequent visitors here. They have been here this week for a few days. Mrs. Kennard danced with her usual grace at the dance Tuesday night. She looked particularly attractive in a gown of black voile, trimmed with black jet, her hair a la Castle clip.

Mrs. Robert Hinckley and daughter, Miss Gladys Hinckley of Washington, arrived at the Oceanside Monday for a short stay.

John B. Callery of Pittsburg was welcomed back to the Oceanside the first of the week for the balance of the summer. His mother was to have joined him later in the week.

Among the New York families to stop at the Oceanside this week for a brief stay were Mrs. E. B. Valentine and daughters, Josephine, M. E., Laura and Ida M., and son, Albert E. They are touring as far as Mt. Desert, Me., and stopped at the Oceanside Tuesday in time for lunch. They expressed themselves as so charmed with Magnolia and the North Shore that they hated to go farther.

A motor party to stop at the Oceanside Monday included Mrs. John Jackson Henry of Chestnut Hill, Pa., Miss Julia L. Lewis of York Harbor, Me., and Philadelphia, and Mrs. Rodman Wister. They were on their way to the Maine resorts.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hammon of Boston arrived at the Oceanside Tuesday for a week's stay.

E. F. Byrne and daughter, Mrs. C. F. Whittemore, of New York, arrived at the Oceanside Monday for a week's stay. They are in Sea Vista cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hood, Jr., of Baltimore, will be missed from Magnolia this season. They have been coming to the Oceanside many years and Mrs. Hood has been one of the most stylishly dressed women at the hotel for years. This season they planned to spend a month or so on the Maine coast, but their plans have been upset by the death by drowning recently of their young son at a camp of which he was a member in New Jersey.

August arrivals coming in this week included Ganson Depew and daughter, Miss Lucia Depew, and the former's sister, Mrs. C. C. Ogden of Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Holbrook and maid and Mrs. Holbrook's mother, Mrs. G. E. Hatch, and their son, Donald Holbrook, of Newton, are among the week's arrivals at the Oceanside. They came in Tuesday and have apartments in East Flume cottage for the balance of the season.

Mrs. Frank Dodd of New York, who is spending the summer in Highland, one of the Oceanside cottages, had her sister, Miss Sturgis, of New York City, with her over the week-end.

Among the visitors to Magnolia this week were Arthur H. Low of Fitchburg and his daughter, Mrs. Gerard Lambert of Princeton, who were guests for luncheon at the Oceanside, Wednesday, of George E. Carter and Miss Eleanor Bradley. Mr. Low is prominently identified with the extensive cotton mill industry in Fitchburg. Miss Bradley returned to Fitchburg for a few days' visit with Mr. Low and his daughter, who is about Miss Bradley's age.

Miss E. Isabelle Reed of Boston, a sister of Mrs. W. H. Estabrook, is at the Oceanside for the balance of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Freeman and the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Freeman, of Philadelphia, were at the Oceanside over the last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Mathews of Baltimore are to spend the rest of the summer at Magnolia, having taken rooms in Overlook, one of the Oceanside cottages.

MAGNOLIA is the summer home of an increasing number of southern families this year. The R. W. Johnstons have been coming to the Oceanside a number of years, and each summer they bring one or two new families along with them to enjoy the beauties of nature to be found here, together with the ideal surroundings for a summer vacation retreat. The latest Atlanta family to join the colony at the Oceanside is that of Mrs. James D. Robinson. They arrived Monday to remain the rest of the summer. There are two young girls, Emily, about fifteen, and Jennie, about ten, and a baby, with nurse. They are located in West Flume.

Miss Helen Clark of Chicago and Mrs. M. A. Caroé of Philadelphia arrived at Magnolia Tuesday for a short stay at the Oceanside.

Mrs. H. Corning and daughter, Miss M. W. Corning of New York are spending a week at the Oceanside. They were among Tuesday's arrivals.

B. S. Spilman, Jr., of Warrenton, Va., has joined his parents, Col. and Mrs. Spilman, at Magnolia for a visit. This is the first visit of the Spilmans to Magnolia, in fact, Col. Spilman had never been in New England until he came to the Oceanside a week or so ago. Col. Spilman is a retired army officer, his last active service being during the Spanish war. He is a southern gentleman of the old school and he seems very much pleased with the beauties of Magnolia and surrounding country. A motor trip to Portsmouth Tuesday proved a most pleasing diversion, and Wednesday he paid a visit to Boston.

Miss Frances Michler of Easton, Pa., is at the Oceanside for a two weeks' stay. She arrived last Friday and has rooms in Sea Vista.

Miss M. J. Hay and sister Miss L. Hay of Newark, N. J., are among the recent arrivals at the Oceanside. They are to remain through August.

'PHONE 1290

SALEM, MASS.

New Ocean House, Swampscott

SWAMPSCOTT, the center of social industry on the upper shore, the impersonation of summer busy-ness itself! Hotels, the Tedesco Country club, all conspire to make things pleasant for the summer resorters.

The big feature of the summer season on the Swampscott shore is scheduled for Wednesday evening of next week, when the mid-summer ball of the Tedesco club will be held in the clubhouse. Extensive plans are under way to make this even more successful than last year. The 1914 ball was a huge success and there were nearly a round thousand visitors on that night a year ago. This year, as last, the Salem Cadet band will play for the dancing, while an orchestra will play in between. With this arrangement there will be a veritable battle of music from 8 until midnight, for as soon as the band finishes its syncopating airs, the orchestra will take up a different strain and there will be no break in the music. It is expected that 400 guests will be served with dinner on that occasion and arrangements are being made for that number.

Wednesday's concert this week brought out nearly 500 to hear Poole's orchestra. There were 250 dinners served. The gathering represented nearly every section of the North Shore and the Clifton and Swampscott shores were well represented, as well as a number of the summer colony from Marblehead.

Gov. Fogg of New Hampshire was a guest at the Tedesco on Monday, the luncheon guest of Charles Bickford of New Hampshire. The latter is making a brief stay along the shore before going to the mountains for the remainder of the season.

On Tuesday, ladies' day at the Tedesco, Mrs. C. H. Conway of Lynn was among those entertaining at luncheon and cards.

Tomorrow's Thé Dansant promises to bring out the usual throng at the Tedesco. Although this feature is beginning to be aged as far as length of duration of its vogue is concerned, it is still quite the popular pastime and still holds its sway on the summer colony on all parts of the coast, as well as in Swampscott. It is a smart gathering which gathers on the verandas of the Tedesco of a Saturday afternoon. To the young folks it is the best sport imaginable—these tea dances—and for the older folks it also has a charm. The Thés Dansants would have been sadly missed this year were they discontinued. There is no danger on this score if their popularity continues in the same measure which has been marked so far this season.

A jolly, rip-roaring good time is assured at least one bunch of golfers at the Tedesco early in the fall. The reason for this is the season team golf tournament between the Reds and the Blues. It is an annual fixture and one that engages two teams, A. and B, for each side. Interest is keyed high in the matches. The teams are composed as follows: Reds, team A—W. M. Bunting, capt.; G. C. Dutton, C. D. Hodges, C. A. Proctor, J. J. Melanson, H. B. Prout, C. B. Price, W. A. Paine, J. A. Heath, Jr.; team B—W. T. Richardson, J. M. Rothwell, C. P. Dennett, Alex. McGregor, Harrison Burrill, T. H. Logan, W. G. Keene, B. W. Brown, C. F. Lovejoy; Blues, team A—H. B. Ingalls, capt.; A. M. Blake, W. R. Shrigley, H. H. Holton, R. B. Sprague, P. E. Fitzpatrick, G. Ingalls, E. H. Clapp, A. L. Robinson; team B—J. G. Whiting, F. M. Sawtelle, E. H. Ladd, R. Burgess, F. R. Eogardus, H. K. Morrison, C. W. Conklin, D. H. Smith, S. D. Forbes. The tournament committee has provided the following general rules: Each player to play every other player 18 holes; total holes "up" to count. Only

The Swampscott home of Mrs. Charles H. Bond of Boston, "Peace Haven," on Puritan road, was the scene of a pleasing musicale yesterday afternoon. There was a representative gathering of society people from the upper shore to hear Miss Lillia Snelling of New York, a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, assisted by Mrs. Jesse Hatch Symonds, violinist. Miss Snelling was heard in several numbers to excellent advantage. She was the portrayer of the title feminine role in Rob Roy., when that opera was revived two years ago in Gotham. Miss Snelling has also appeared at many musical affairs among North Shore society in the past.

Ball room and sun parlor at New Oakland House, Swampscott, can be rented for private parties. adv.

The Oakland House is enjoying a season which is above the average. Young people are seeking this house more than ever before and their entertainment is looked out for in many ways. There is a new dancing instructor at the Oakland this summer, Robert N. Newton of New York. He is daily teaching the newest steps to a coterie of fair young ladies and young men in the sun parlor-ballroom. Guests at the Oakland for extended stays include the following: Mrs. H. N. Norton and daughters, Jess and Florence Norton of Los Angeles, who motored down to the shore; Mr. and Mrs. Roland O. Lamb, president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., Boston; James Lacy Obear, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Barton, Brookline; Mrs. H. L. Hiller and Hugh G. Hiller, New York, who plan a motor trip to California after a stay on the shore; Frank Murrar, Charlotte, Mich.; Mrs. F. S. Lincoln, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Buckley and Miss Catherine Buckley, Somerville; Dr. and Mrs. Albert August, Cambridge; Mrs. H. E. Hammond, and Miss Ruth Cady, Southbridge; Mrs. D. J. Scully, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Gibbs and J. Frederick Gibbs, New York.

The Lincoln House looks forward to a prosperous August after this month finishes out up to the average. A feature at the Lincoln is informal dancing three nights a week. On Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays a Lynn orchestra is in attendance for a concert and dancing music. This scheme is tried after having a ladies' orchestra at the hotel last season. The new plan is working out better. Permanent guests at the Lincoln include: Mr.

NEW OCEAN HOUSE, Swampscott. Dr. J. H. McHenry of New York City won the finals in the gentlemen's singles tennis tournament at the New Ocean House, completed during the past week. He defeated Fred Burke of Boston, winning in straight sets, 6-1, 6-3. The tournament was one of the most successful ever held at the hotel, considerable interest being manifested among the guests in both the ladies' and gentlemen's matches. Large silver trophies, offered by the management, were presented the winners this week.

With the arrival of the month of August contingent the season promises to be the biggest ever at this bend of the shore. Dancing and dinner parties were the popular activities of the past week, many guests entertaining at the hop last Saturday evening. The third formal ball will be held tomorrow evening in the main ball room and in addition to the guests of the New Ocean House, many from the cottage colony will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Douglas Mead and their two sons, George D. and Meserole F., of White Plains, N. Y., were among the recent arrivals at the New Ocean House. Mr. Mead is president of the First National Bank of White Plains.

M. FERNAND COCHIN will accept a limited number of appointments with North Shore residents for conversations in French, relating his experiences in the trenches before Soissons. M. Cochin has recently returned to this country after being discharged from active service because of disabilities received in action.

Individual lessons in French conversation may also be arranged. For appointments, write or telephone.

MARBLEHEAD and the Neck, like all other sections of the shore, have but one further wish to make for the remainder of the season. That is, eliminate the "gloomy Mondays." For many weeks now every Monday has either been attended by a real rainstorm or a good thunder shower during the afternoon or evening. The hotel people, perhaps more so than the cottagers, desire the weather man to make this change. This drawback in itself, however, is not enough to mar the success of the season on the Marblehead shore. It compares quite favorably with other years, if the weather will hold out for the next six weeks.

Under prominent patronage an interpretive musical recital of Lohengrin will be given at the Marblehead Neck home of Mrs. Fred McQuesten on Wednesday afternoon, August 11, by Miss Frances Nevin and John Hermann Loud. The young lady is a cousin of the late Ethelbert Nevin, the composer. Mr. Loud is a member of the American Guild of Organists. "Questenmere," the estate which will be the scene of the recital, lends itself wonderfully well to any social function. The house is a large one and ideally located on the edge of the ocean.

Summer cottagers and hotel guests will be welcomed at the Colonial tea to be held by the Marblehead Historical society at the Lee mansion on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, Aug. 4 and 5.

The Brown Owl tea room serves lunch and afternoon tea every day except Sunday. Tel. Marblehead 12. adv.

Charles G. Burgess and family of the Hotel Royal, Beacon street, Boston, are down at their summer home on the Neck for the season.

A new road is now found on the Neck which George H. Perkins has built through his land from Brown street to Ocean avenue. With the completion of this new right of way about seven acres of land are opened up, which probably will become the sites of summer homes in the near future.

Recent arrivals at the Boylston house on the Neck include: Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Massey, Miss Dorothy Massey, Philadelphia; Miss Claire Marshall, Margaret L. Dewar, Florence Dewar, New York city; E. H. Glidden, E. H. Glidden, Jr., Baltimore; Mrs. Walter Burgess, Boston.

Rev. Alfred V. Bliss of Taunton was the minister at the Neck hall last Sunday morning.

The Marblehead Woman's club is planning a whist party to be held at the Rock-Mere on the mainland on Wednesday, Sept. 8.

Summer residents are glad to see that the Marblehead tax rate is at least as low as last year. It is $22 on a thousand, the same as last year. The total valuation is $11,268,756, an increase of $157,810. Of this valuation $9,913,500 is real estate and $1,355,256 personal property.

Another dance of the Pleon Y. C. is scheduled for early in August. The club is also planning a tennis tournament to start soon.

Monday evening at the Corinthian Y. C. on the Neck saw the largest crowd of diners of the season, while many more arrived for the concert following this week by the Eighth Regiment Band. The concerts appear to be just as popular a fixture as when they were inaugurated some years ago. Noted at the tables Monday were the following groups: S. N. Braman, with seven guests; W. A. Merrill, with party of six; W. G. Stetson, with six; E. S. Doane, five; G. W. Grant, six; C. G. Brown, four; Waughan Jealous, four; F. W. Estabrook, five; C. W. Cheney, five, and many others. A large contingent is expected at this evening's dinner-dance at the Corinthian.

Frederick C. Fletcher's big steam yacht "Christina" is in the harbor while its owner is enjoying a stay along the Marblehead shore. He is making his headquarters at the Corinthian.

A western party from Madison, Ind., at the Oceanside, is composed of Mrs. H. G. Rogers, Mrs. H. W. Graham, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Garber and daughter, Miss Marie K. Garber, and Miss Caroline A. Ford. They are down for two weeks or more.

A motor party to stop there this week included Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Wood of Nashua, N. H. A season guest at the Oceanside is Miss Edith N. Hill of Chicago. Fortnight guests are Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hickmott and their sons, Allerton and W. J. Hickmott, Jr., of Hartford, Conn. Mrs. E. Bangs Wallace, of New York, who has been staying at the Thousand Islands for the last few weeks, is coming to the Oceanside for the remainder of the summer, with Mr. and Mrs. John G. Garden of New York, who will join her shortly. Misses Elsie S. and Louise N. Larson of Boston come there with this week-end for a visit.

The New Glover Inn on the mainland numbers among its guests the following: Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Marshall of Boston; Mrs. N. L. Upson of Parkersburg, W. Va., and her daughter, Mrs. F. L. Harvey and children of Foxburg, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Harden and daughter of Albany, N. Y.

There were about 125 at the dinner at the Corinthian on Monday night, when the Salem Cadet band gave a concert there. Among those who had tables were the following: C. E. Adams, with party of six; J. B. Palmer, with 10 guests; Carl Perkins, with four; H. E. Wood, four; Thomas Saunders, six; H. A. Knowles, four; and R. E. Traiser, five.

NAHANT cottagers were evidently liberal patrons of the recent sale at the home of Mrs. John Lavalley in aid of the Italian war fund, as it is announced that more than $900 was realized. Considering the comparatively small space in the house and grounds of Mrs. Lavalley and the short notice given of the sale the amount shows it to be a wonderful success financially. Needless to say, it was successful in every other detail.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thorn King of Nahant paid Mrs. King's father, E. Royall Tyler, a visit at his apartment at Lenox a few days ago. The Kings are at one of the Edgehill cottages in Nahant.

An appreciative gallery watches the many really clever swimmers of the Nahant summer colony as they gather daily about the "Forty Steps," the favorite rendezvous for the cottagers every morning. Among the most expert are Mrs. Henry L. Sigourney and her young sisters-in-law, the Misses Alice, Edith and Katherine Sigourney.

In the rear of the Schlesinger estate at Nahant, August 26th, an elaborate out-door evening production of "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" will be presented to aid the village church. F. S. Tower of Boston will manage this entertainment founded on Browning's famous story. Noted singers will have the leading roles.

Rev. Alexander Mann, D. D., of Trinity Church, Boston, occupied the Nahant pulpit last Sunday morning. Dr. Mann's visit to the summer colony was a most welcome one, as he has not only several parishioners there, but many friends outside his church domain.

ROCKPORT, MASS.

CAPE ANN. During the past week hundreds of touring parties have made their way to Cape Ann to view the battleships at anchor in Rockport and Gloucester harbors. As a consequence of the fleets' visit to this section the hotels along the Shore have enjoyed an increased business, extra accommodations having been secured, dinner and card parties having been arranged for, while the merchants smile because of their liberal share of patronage, both from visitors and the large number of sailors. The citizens of Gloucester and Rockport have shown every courtesy to the officers and crews of the visiting ships and the latter in return have contributed liberally to the pleasures of the public, in the way of band concerts on shore and the admitting of the people to visit the fighting crafts of our navy.

The out-door pageant "Endymion," from the Greek mythology, held on the fine grounds of the Addison Gilbert Hospital on Thursday afternoon and evening of last week, was a successful and picturesque affair, largely attended by summer residents and townspeople. The natural out-door setting with cedar trees and the hills beyond proved very delightful and appropriate. The sunlight at the afternoon performance and the glorious moonlight at the night pageant gave added effect for the success of the play. The pageant was staged and produced under the direction of Miss Sally Shute of Gloucester, to whom much credit is due. Miss Sally Steele assumed the role of Endymion and Miss Rose Londergon the part of Phrynia. Hester Cunningham as Hermes was a favorite with the audience. The solo dances by Miss Amelia Gaffney of Gloucester and Misses Madeline Coy and Melba Proctor of the Eastern Point summer colony, the latter two, pupils of Lilla Viles Wyman of Boston, were very favorably commented upon. The groups of dances, the Dryads, Naiads and Oreads were all very pleasing. Sewalls' orchestra rendered some very delightful music. H. Walter Peirce had charge of the costuming and the evening lighting was by E. L. Munger, superintendent of the Gloucester Electric Company. Three refreshment booths containing ice-cream, punch, peanuts, cake and candy were well patronized. The pageant was held under the auspices of the Nurses' Alumnae Association for a fund for a maternity ward in the Addison Gilbert Hospital. There was a long list of patronesses including Gloucester matrons, leaders in church and fraternity work, the summer residents being Mrs. John Hays Hammond of Lookout Hill, Gloucester; Miss Anna Vaughn Hyatt, the prominent sculptor of the Annisquam colony; Mrs. Alpheus Hyatt and Mrs. Alfred Mayer, also of Annisquam.

GLoucester DAY for yachtsmen, for the Massachusetts Yacht Racing Union championships, will be a gala event on August 9. All members of the Gloucester Yacht club are planning to make the race this year of particular interest in the history of the association. The race will be started at 10 o'clock in the morning, so that advantage may be taken of the morning wind and also, the yachts may proceed the same day to Marblehead for the opening of the mid-summer week on Tuesday. Ralph W. Dundas of New York, a summer resident of Bass Rocks and a yachting enthusiast, has given the club $250 to be used for trophies in the race. Owing to the Union Squadron run from Bass Point the previous day, a large number of yachtsmen are expected here, so ex-Commodore "Ben" Colby has chartered a schooner yacht for the day, on which to entertain the visiting yachtsmen.

John Hays Hammond, Jr., repeated his lecture on "War and Weapons" which was given at the State Armory last week, before an audience of over 500 people at city hall, on last Saturday evening. People from all along the North Shore attended. The proceeds were for the purchasing of an ambulance for the American Hospital Ambulance Corps in France. The lecturer of the evening was introduced by Mayor C. H. Barrett, the latter who also gave praise to Hon. A. P. Andrew of Eastern Point, East Gloucester, who is making noble sacrifice and giving valuable service in the American hospital relief work on the French firing line.

FAST GLOUCESTER. Many pleasant things were done in an informal, social way for the officers of the U. S. Navy, while they were in port over the week-end. The ball at the Hawthorne Inn casino on Saturday evening was a largely attended and enjoyable occasion and some of the officers of the ships were guests. Those officers with their families at the Inn were entertained at dinner and card parties.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Albert Reese of San Francisco, Cal., were at the Hawthorne Inn this week.

The Rockaway hotel at Rocky Neck is now filled with guests, although many will soon be leaving to make room for the August people. Proprietor Publicover is fortunate in being able to secure many accommodations at private residences in the vicinity of the hotel for his overflow of guests, when the occasion demands.

A masque party on Monday evening at the Rockaway proved a very interesting affair. The guests heartily participated and many amusing and grotesque costumes were worn. It was an event of the season and general dancing was held after the grand march of the characters. Miss Helen Abbott of Worcester and Miss Josephine Clark of Brookline were the prime movers in the masque which is sort of an annual affair at the Rockaway.

An informal musicale at the Rockaway last week was highly appreciated by the guests. Martha Atwood-Baker, soprano; Benjamin Redden, tenor; Alma Suren, pianist; and Dorothy Lee Bell, reader, presented a very interesting program. All the artists were members of the professional singers and teachers class in voice culture, of Arthur Wilson of the "Cabin Studio." Mr. Wilson will arrange for a musicale at the hotel early in August.

In the race of the Gloucester Yacht club 18-foot class, last Wednesday afternoon, in the harbor, the "Bonitwo," sailed by R. Russell Smith, crossed the line first and the "Winsome," M. C. Wick, came second. The "Bonitwo" is the winner for the third time out of four starts since joining the club. She took the lead and was never headed. The wind was from the northeast and held steady over the course, which was a spinnaker run to the breakwater, a reach to the eastern mark, a spinnaker run to the western mark, thence a beat home.

The "Sign of the Rudder" tea house on Eastern Point Road, has a liberal patronage these days. The spacious veranda with its potted plants and brilliant flowers appears most inviting, while the outlook over the green fields and the blue harbor and shore line beyond, is a delight to the eye. Here, patrons find a restful spot, where the cup of tea, luncheon or refreshing ices are served.

A large number of subscribers, including leading summer residents of the Eastern Point and Bass Rocks colonies, are interested in the recital to be held at the Hawthorne Inn casino on Monday evening and the Moorland casino, Tuesday evening, by Wilford Russel, the BASS ROCKS. Now that some fine summer weather has arrived the bathing beach and golf links at Bass Rocks are both being much sought. A record-breaking crowd was at the beach last Sunday. Besides the regular bathers of the colony, people came in automobiles from all along the North Shore and a large motor cycle club of Boston business men came down over the road for the day.

At the Bass Rocks golf links tournaments are on and a great many players are taking advantage of the fine course. A tennis tournament for mixed couples is now in progress at the club's tennis courts.

The approach to the Bass Rocks Golf club-house, on the link's side is a magnificent sight, the long pergola being completely covered with pink rambler roses. On the spacious veranda of the club-house many tea parties are being held almost daily. The largest tea was that given last Tuesday at 5 o'clock by Mrs. Lea Thom of Baltimore, when 35 people were present. The next day Miss Ella Thom gave a tea to eleven guests.

Following the tournament last Friday afternoon, the Misses Ellis of Bass Rocks gave a tea to 30 people at the golf club-house.

On Thursday, Mrs. William B. Campbell of the Bass Rocks' cottage colony gave a tea to a party of twelve.

In the Medal-match 18-hole contest last Monday Miss Kate Ellis won first, the runner-up was awarded to Miss Elizabeth Dearborn; the winner of the first 9-hole match was Miss Rosamond Sherwood and the second 9-hole match winner was Mrs. Macomber. In the approaching and putting contest Miss K. Ellis won first and Miss H. Ellis won second, finishing in 23. The club is offering handsome silver cups in these contests.

The "pop" was largely attended and the talent selected wholly from the Annisquam summer colony was secured by Mrs. J. Henry Hooper of Boston, who served on the committee. The Wonosquam Mandolin Club rendered popular airs. Mrs. J. Henry Hooper and Walter O. Adams sang duets, "Life's Dream Is O'er," and "Trust Her Not"; "Nonsense Songs" were given by Herbert Howe; Mrs. William Bradbury sang "Still Wie die Nacht" and "A Red, Red Rose." Mrs. Hooper sang "I Hid My Love," "With You," and "White Rose"; Mrs. Bradbury and Mrs. Hooper sang as duets, "Because You're You," and "In the Isle of Our Dreams"; Lucius Hill and Claflin Allen, Jr., rendered a mandolin duet; "Old French Pastoral Songs" were sung by Mrs. Bradbury, and as a finale "Funiculi-Funicula," and "The Star-Spangled Banner" were sung by Mrs. Bradbury, Mrs. Hooper and chorus, Miss Grace Allen presiding at the piano. Plymouth Rock at old Plymouth-Across-the-Bay, has a proper setting, and what now about Wiggin Rock at Annisquam? The discoverer of the latter was Commodore Harry H. Wiggin of the 'Squam Yacht Club, during last Saturday's race. It is recorded that Davy Jones stood upon this rock in the year 1 B. C., at an age when Annisquam was 2000 feet above the sea level. Davy slipped off into the sea and his weight caused the ocean to rise to its present height, the banks of sand gushing up to their present state at Wingaersheek. More recent history, however, authentically states that Commodore Wiggin, while crossing the Annisquam in his good ship "Snipe," discovered this rock, (now familiarly known as Wiggin rock). Although losing a leg or two, the commodore stood firm on the rock for fifteen minutes (some feat!) in order to establish his ownership. It is hoped by the yachtsmen that the municipality will take under advisement the project of erecting a suitable monument to the commodore and also proper provision for the protection of said rock from the ravages and vandalism of souvenir hunters.

ROCKPORT. The arrival of the third division of the manoeuvring battleship fleet, in Rockport harbor has livened things in the Rockport section of Cape Ann. Many of the officers are being entertained informally by the summer residents and the townspeople are making things pleasant for the sailors while they are here. A grand ball was held in the town hall one evening this week. A big event at the State Armory in Gloucester was the grand ball given by the crew of the U. S. S. Virginia. Over a thousand people were present and the bands from two of the ships furnished the splendid music. Last Saturday afternoon a lawn party was held on the ball ground, Dock square, Rockport, when the Filipino Band from the U. S. S. Georgia, the finest band in the navy, gave an excellent concert of classical and popular music. There were refreshment and flower booths, which were well patronized, the proceeds to go toward the "Rockport Day," which the town is to hold. The ships are holding quite close to practice out in the bay and at times they have been at anchor off Bay View and Lanesville. The ships remain until the first of next week.

An event of special interest this week at Rockport, on Wednesday afternoon and evening, was the "Midsummer Masque," held under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary to the L. M. Haskins Hospital, for the benefit of the Haskins Hospital, Rockport. The picturesque grounds of the hospital, where the pageant was held, was visited by hundreds of people, by summer residents and townsfolk at both performances. The "Masque" in pantomime, song and dance was absolutely new and original, by Virginia Tanner of Boston, and this gifted young woman is congratulated upon her work so successfully presented. The main parts in the play were taken by Virginia Tanner, J. Paul Gardner and Miss Vianna Knowlton. The special orchestra music was directed by Albert M. Kanrich of Magnolia. Interspersed throughout the play were a number of music and dancing numbers by graceful youths and maidens in Greek costume. Mr. Gardner assumed the role of Cleon, a Greek youth; Miss Knowlton was Heree, his sweetheart, and Miss Tanner was Vishnu, who appeared in Cleon's vision. The play tells a charming old-world story of a youth so beautiful and so beloved by nymphs that he can find his only satisfaction in the contemplation of his beauty and the adoration of the nymph who pursues him. His betrothed, sadly neglected, prays at the shrine by the pool that he may be restored to her. The water from the sunken pool spurts up in a clear stream and in amazement she realizes that her prayer is heard. The youth drinks from the pool, which is stirred again and sinks into a deep sleep. In his vision he sees Vishnu and her court and learns from her the charms of the betrothed and is reunited to her. In the play were also Greek youths and maidens, fauns and dryads, hamadryads, dancers in the dream, peasants, slaves and people in the sacrificial procession. The performers gave a delightful portrayal. The many prettily decorated booths were liberally patronized. The grounds at night were beautifully illuminated. Mrs. Charles D. Knowlton, a summer resident of Rockport, was the chairman of the pageant committee. The patronesses were prominent members of the summer colony, including Mrs. E. W. Roberts, wife of Congressman Roberts; Mrs. C. E. Strecker, wife of Assistant U. S. Treasurer Strecker; Mrs. Philip M. Rhinelander, wife of Bishop Rhinelander; Mrs. James DeWolf Perry, wife of Bishop Perry; Mrs. T. Harrison Garrett, Mrs. G. F. Babbitt, Mrs. Perley Chase, Mrs. James A. Gage, Mrs. Harry Dutton, Mrs. Clinton Warren, Mrs. William J. Hobbs, Mrs. Charles T. Small, Mrs. J. R. Worcester, Mrs. E. S. Townsend, Mrs. Erving Morse, Mrs. Max Kellner, Mrs. C. D. ### MRS. PUTNAM'S LETTER

Editor North Shore Breeze:

It would be interesting to know why the state organizer for Woman's Suffrage was brought down here on Tuesday to talk about the Federated Clubs and their meeting at Marion, for very little interest was shown in the matter. Only 23 people were present (including the speaker and the presiding officer) and several of them were not Manchester people.

Mrs. Gilson was elected first Vice-president of the Federation of Women's Clubs this year at Marion. The election of officers took place the day before the important question of suffrage was introduced instead of on the last day as is customary in meetings of such organizations. It would have been interesting to ask Mrs. Gilson why precedent was disregarded in this matter, but it was useless to ask questions of Mrs. Gilson last Tuesday in spite of the request for questions made by the presiding officer, for Mrs. Gilson was not answering them. In her speech Mrs. Gilson made the statement (non-controversially, she wished it understood) that the suffrage resolution was passed at Marion because the majority wanted it—but when asked why the notice of the resolution was only sent to the clubs after most of them had adjourned for the summer, so that no real test of the opinion of the clubs could be had at Marion, she said the question was controversial and refused to answer. What little the humiliating position in which her refusal placed her answered nothing. Is it controversial to ask the reason of an action by the Governing Board and non-controversial to state the views of the members of the Federation? When anyone crawls out of such a hole as this one can hardly doubt the reason.

The second question—why the suffragists killed the Drury Bill, which would have given to the women of the state the chance to say whether they wanted to vote or not, was no more sapiently answered—she said the suffragists could not kill any bill because they had no vote. Now bills are not killed by the votes of voters because there is no way in which a man can vote on a bill which is before the Legislature. One would have supposed that Mrs. Gilson would have known this—perhaps she did—who knows?

The exhibition of inability to prove her statements reminded me of a conversation between Mrs. Maud Wood Parke and another lady which was overheard on the hotel piazza in Marion one evening. A lady had stated that one of the dangers of woman's suffrage lay in the fact that many immigrant men came here to work and did not send for their wives until they had established themselves and became naturalized American citizens, with the result that if women had the suffrage these women would land on our shores full-fledged citizens with the power to cast a ballot, and yet not only with no knowledge of the laws of the land in which they were to vote, but often unable to speak one word of the language. To this Mrs. Parke said, "I believe in women's keeping their own nationality." "Do you," said some one, "and what would the children be?" "Oh!" said she, "I would have the children assume the nationality of the country where they are born." "And how if the father were an engineer," said somebody, "and one child was born in China, one in Russia, one in Germany, one in France, one in Spain, and so on, would not the family be somewhat mixed?" "Well," said she, "I would have the children take their parents' nationality." "But," was the rejoinder, "you know we were assuming that the parents' nationality was divided." "Why," she wriggled, "I would have them divided between the two nationalities of the parents." "And how if there were three children," said her interlocutor. "I am not bound to answer you tonight what I think," was her pathetic retreat. "In short," said the other, "you have given the matter but little thought, Mrs. Parke"—after which further conversation on this subject seemed needless. Thought is a rare commodity. Speech is much more common. Mrs. Gilson spoke on Tuesday.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE NOTES and #### MRS. GILSON'S LECTURE

A quiet and thoughtful group of women met in the Congregational Chapel, Manchester, on Tuesday afternoon, to hear Mrs. Claude Gilson, vice president of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs, who gave a talk on the Woman Movement, in its present development. Mrs. Gilson's talk, naturally, had special reference to club women, and she showed how the women's clubs and the suffrage societies are both a part of the same big movement—the woman movement. She said that the club women who are suffragists are not the same type as the pioneer "women's rights" women. The women today are not thinking so much of "rights" as of duties and opportunities; education and uplift have led them to wish to beautify the community, town, city, state; from studying the poets, in the past, they have now come to patriotism and civic duty.

Perhaps what interested her audience most was Mrs. Gilson's reference to the recent convention of clubs at Marion, and its endorsement of equal suffrage. She said that the reason why and how the suffrage resolution had been passed there, by a vote of two to one, was very simple—it was because the time was ripe and the majority wanted it. That is the only way that anything can come in a democratic country—because the majority want it. No such large vote could have been recorded at Marion unless there was a strong pro sentiment back of it. Mrs. Gilson is in a position to know that there is such sentiment throughout the state. And she also thought that the majority of women and men today want equal suffrage, and therefore it is coming. But she said that the very finest thing about the passing of this suffrage resolution was that the women were able to discuss it, both for and against, without losing their tempers or self-control or descending to personalities. The whole procedure was dignified and in order, and proved for all time that the women's clubs can face any question, however serious, or however deep the feeling on both sides. There is one thing more for women to learn—to abide by a majority vote with good grace, even when defeated.

Mrs. Gilson finally appealed to all women to help take this next step in the woman movement now—"for now is the appointed time." Her hearers were much moved.

Miss Stanwood presided and introduced the speaker. A leader of the Antis tried to draw Mrs. Gilson into an argument on details of the Marion convention, but Mrs. Gilson smilingly refused to be controversial on this occasion, saying that those questions had already been answered, and the meeting ended harmoniously.

The newspaper statement to which Mrs. Gilson referred said:

"The suffrage resolution was presented to the resolutions committee in the regular way by a delegate to the convention. The convention was made up of accredited delegates chosen by the individual clubs according to their usual methods. The equal suffrage resolution was on a par with the four other resolutions and with the election of officers. Four weeks' notice, except in the case of revision of the constitution, etc., is not required; but in this instance, in order that anyone opposed might be fairly warned, six weeks' notice of the possibility of a resolution for suffrage was sent on May 12, with the official call for the meeting.

"The Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs has not taken an unusual stand in passing an equal suffrage resolution. Twenty-seven other state federations and the General Federation of Women's Clubs had previously endorsed political equality regardless of sex.

Signed by Florence T. Perkins, president of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs; Sara S. Gilson, first vice president; Belle R. Whiton, second vice president; Claire H. Gurney, third vice president.

IRISH CONCERT AND DANCE

The Town Hall, Manchester, was crowded to the doors, Tuesday evening last, when the Irish Music Revival Association gave their second annual grand concert and dance. Never before has such an enjoyable treat been offered, and seldom has such a concert program been given to the people of this town. It is undeniable that it was one of the biggest and most successful affairs in many years.

Shaun O'Nolan carried the house. He was a continuous scream. Beyond doubt he is the greatest of living Irish comedians. His son, Master Thomas Nolan, assisted him at the piano. Rahilly Brothers of Lynn won the praise and admiration of everyone in their act entitled "A Chip of the Old Block"; with Shaun O'Nolan they proved themselves masters of drama and the finest exponents of step-dancing in this country. Miss Lucy Clasby delighted the audience with her wonderful voice in "Come Back to Erin," and for a well merited encore she responded with the "Kerry Dances." Mr. John Gleason proved himself worthy of his reputation as the coming Irish baritone. He was well received in "Ireland, I Love You"; for an encore he sang "Dublin Town." Miss Katherine Kearns and Miss Katherine McDonough lent a special charm to the concert in their neat exhibition of reel and hornpipe dancing. Both these young ladies have won merit for the grace and skill with which they render the native dances of Ireland. Mr. Joseph Carey, in a brilliant violin solo, the "Largo," gave another proof of his musical genius, and to a spirited encore played "Killarney." Miss Lillian Archung, a diminutive tot, brought applause from all over the house in her rare performance of the firecracker dance. She was assisted by Mrs. Dean at the piano. Mr. McDonald of Gloucester accompanied the various singers throughout the concert program. The management thanked all those present for their patronage, and also all those who by their efforts had helped to make the Irish concert and dance such a success. After the concert, general dancing to the music of Carey's orchestra was enjoyed till midnight. Thomas J. Carey and John F. Ryan had charge of the proceedings.

THE STATE OF NORTH DAKOTA reports concerning the value of absentee voting: "From every source we have received indications that the law has been very successful in its working, and the approval of the press has been general." Now Massachusetts is to consider the problem. It has been a fact that because of business and other exigencies many men have practically been disfranchised. Secretary Langtry will present in the new legislature a bill providing for absentee voting. The new provision has many advantages and some disadvantages. For advantages, many men will be able to cast a ballot who for years have been deprived of it. The new amendment will necessitate placing the day for election at least fifteen days earlier, with a probable similar change at the primary elections. The proposition should be given careful consideration by the legislature, and then passed.

MISS MABEL BOARDMAN continues her efficient work in the interests of the Red Cross Society. The war has entailed great burdens, but Miss Boardman has been alert and keen. The despatch and efficiency of the work of the society is the one great satisfaction that lovers of peace have in these war days. The society ought not to be crippled for funds these days of need; the American purse should and doubtless will be opened for this worthy work. Retrenchment is not a valuable policy these hard days. Who can estimate the amount of good that the one and a half millions of dollars have done in the relief work of the Red Cross societies.

MANCHESTER'S GRAND OLD MEN gathered at Tuck's Point for their annual outing Tuesday. There are but few towns that have such a pleasant organization of men. One may well say that it is one of the distinctive institutions of the township. As the distinctive requisite for membership is that those attending have attained the age of fifty, it might truly be said that they are renewing their youth. For thirty-seven years this gathering has been held and sons of Manchester from far and near join in the festive occasion.

THE MANCHESTER BASEBALL TEAM continues to play in good form. It is within the truth to say that they are easily in a class with the teams of the New England league. Last season the team met some of the strongest clubs in this part of the state and met defeat only once. This year, with practically the same lineup, the team has won every game it has played, and it has met some fast clubs.

ARE THE VICTIMS of the Chicago River sacrifices to the God of Greed? Will the inspector be able to obtain a clean bill of health because he was on duty? Ought not inspection to begin with the laying of the keel of a pleasure craft?

THE FINANCIAL REPORTS of the Naval Festival at Beverly Farms, last week, have not been completed, but it may well be asserted that the affair was a social and financial success.

THE ANTI'S HAVE STARTED a crusade all their own and have offered a prize of $50 for the best answers to a series of questions. One of the posers is: "What states have defeated woman suffrage since 1912? Name nineteen states that have rejected it in their legislatures since last November." What bearing does the vote of even fifty states have upon the merits of the case if nineteen states did vote it down? That does not mean that woman suffrage is wrong, neither would the vote of nineteen states make it right. Woman suffrage, ethically, is a right which should be afforded the women of our land. There are those that do not deny the justice and fairness of woman suffrage, who do, however, question its expediency. This becomes merely a matter of opinion. If Massachusetts rejects woman suffrage at the polls in November, the "righteousness" of the cause will not be decided.

NOW THAT THE BIDS have been opened it appears that Beverly Farms is really to have a new library building. It will be located on Vine street and will be easily accessible to all the residents of that part of Beverly. The commission has been at work and the plans that have been drawn are the results of careful research work. This need has long been felt by the permanent and summer residents of Beverly Farms. Magnolia and Manchester have long enjoyed the advantages of a good library, now Beverly Farms is to be equally well equipped.

THE CHICAGO RIVER ACCIDENT drove the war news to the back sheets of the newspapers, so terrible was the disaster. Such tragedies have become altogether too common, and while some inspector may have to suffer for the accident the cause must be found farther back. Even a landsman would know that a canoe-shaped craft such as the Eastman was unsafe. How the management of the corporation could have built or owned such a craft is almost incomprehensible.

ONE OF THE ENTERPRISING institutions of the social life at Beverly Farms is the band. Some years ago a group of young men formed a band organization and have with patience and hard work continued the movement. Last Saturday evening the band made its first appearance upon the streets of Beverly in the employ of the merchants. The band is to be commended for its perseverance and good appearance. Such organizations are a distinct social benefit to any town.

THIS TELLING SENTENCE appears in one of the papers of Great Britain and reveals the English mind quite clearly: "It is needless to say that we in no wise are anxious that America should be dragged into the war, but only that as the most powerful neutral nation she should underake the defense of the principles of international law."

IF OUR ACTIVITIES pleased any one side in this contest it would in itself be evident that the obligations of neutrality had been violated.

THE BREEZE HAS MAINTAINED and still maintains that the great issue at stake between the United States and Germany is the question of the freedom of the seas. Strangely enough, Germany is contending, according to its own claims, for the very same principle. It will be folly and somewhat shortsighted for Germany to fail to see the diplomatic advantage that the concessions would afford in preparation for the eventual diplomatic contest over the sea question. Germany cannot but see that she is jeopardizing her own contest for the supremacy of the doctrine of the freedom of the sea. It will take time for the German powers to come to a position that will be satisfactory to the American government, but eventually that end will come because it is in a straight line with the German attitude to the question of the rights of the sea. Patience becometh a nation!

MASSACHUSETTS has suddenly taken a new interest in the military forces of the state. The state troops in camp have given much more attention to their work and the public has shown a keen interest in the management and appearance of the military arm of the state. The visits of the battleships have stimulated interest in the navy. Evidently the future will reveal an increased attention. It is believed that the coming legislature will pass measures looking to the improvement of the militia. For years the military appropriations have come hard, but the war abroad has made everyone think.

MARBLEHEAD and the North Shore have been the center of interest during the week because of the new Vincent Astor aeroplane which has been tried out during the week. The new craft has broken straight lines instead of the usual V-shaped planes, in an effort to increase efficiency. Mr. Burgess, the designer, has evolved a new idea and the next few weeks will demonstrate its practicability. Already it has proved to be successful beyond the dreams of the designer.

AUSTRIA'S PROTEST to this government against the shipment of munitions of war are not tenable according to international law. It is a bad business for any manufacturer to be engaged in, but according to international law it is legal whatever one's ethical scruples may be. Austria's protest is peculiarly interesting in view of the fact that from her borders the Confederate army received great stores of military supplies in 1861-65.

THE SINKING of the Lusitania has accomplished one great result, it has forced Americans to sail under their flag. Never have American shipping capitalists had such an opportunity for expansion. Will America arise to the situation?

THE FRENCH ARE PLEASED with the new American note and the English press is more mild in its approval. There are those who live in the states who are not quite satisfied. It is evident that a neutral nation has burdens all its own.

THE BOSTON MARKETS have been reporting the advent of field-grown sweet corn, but the North Shore is not ready yet to report such garden triumphs. If the elements will give steady warm nights the corn will grow.

THE WAR HAS PLAYED HAVOC with security prices in some directions and has worked miracles in others. One war stock has actually increased in paper value over 540 per cent. Now is the time to sell, not to buy?

THE CAMPAIGNS made by the railroads of America in the interests of safety first have borne fruit. One railroad, at least, has been able to complete the calendar year without the loss of a single passenger. One of the most prevalent causes for railroad accidents is track-walking. In a single year over fifty thousand such trespassers were killed. The railroads own their right of way and pedestrians should recognize these rights. It is almost impossible for the public to be educated up to the dangers of such trespassers; despite the laws individuals persist in it. Every one who does it should realize the terrible risks involved.

WITH ALL THE FRIENDLY relations that have existed between Great Britain and America there is now existing a situation concerning the holding of cotton-laden ships in English ports and the enforcement of a blockade which is embarrassing for America and Great Britain. The neutrality of the United States is a difficult task and the obligations which have been thrown upon the administration have been intense. The Lusitania incident has engrossed the attention of the public because of the tragic loss of life. There is an issue which this government will have to adjust with Great Britain.

MR. WILLIAM R. MOODY, the son of the late Dwight L. Moody, made a splendid appeal for the educational enterprises established at Northfield in his talk at Beverly Farms last Sunday. Dwight L. Moody exerted a powerful influence in his day and generation, and the son in another, but none the less effective way is continuing the work. There a boy of poor resources may obtain an education at the minimum of expense. The Northfield enterprises are worthy of the successes they have achieved.

THE PRESIDENT'S ANSWER to the Imperial German government is a dignified statement of the mind of the American people. Wilson had severe tasks to perform and he acquitted himself nobly. A crisis has not been reached with Germany; there has been no ultimatum. The United States has stated its case and Germany will eventually meet the requirements of this government.

THE DRIVER of the auto bus from Beverly Farms to Beverly kept his head in a very trying situation on Sunday and prevented a bad accident from becoming serious.

THE TOLL OF DEATHS from automobile accidents and canoe carelessness continues.

The North Shore Blue Book for 1915 has just been out for a fortnight, and its lists of summer residents of resorts from Nahant to Rockport occupies 194 pages. The resorts include Annisquam, Bass Rocks, Beach Bluff, Beverly, Beverly Farms, Clifton, Devereux, Eastern Point, East Gloucester, Fern Cliff, Fernwood, Fresh Water Cove, Gloucester, Hamilton, Ipswich, Magnolia, Manchester-by-the-Sea, Marblehead and Marblehead Neck, Nahant, Phillips Beach, Pigeon Cove, Presson Point, Pride's Crossing, Riverview, Rockport, Swampscott, Thurston's Point, Tonsfield, Wenham, West Gloucester, Wheeler's Point, Wolloughby Park, Wingersheek Beach, Winniadin and Wolf Hill. Besides the distance, fare, postmaster and hours of the arrival and departure of mails, the book gives the town residence, if any, the name of the country residence, and the maiden name of the woman. The spacing is all accomplished with a view to clearness and ease of reference. It is a book that makes interesting reading for almost anyone.

RIVERSIDES WERE EASY FOR GROVER

The Manchesters downed the Riversides of Cambridge with Eddie Gill of Boston College High pitching, by the score of 10 to 2, on the Brook street diamond last Saturday. The game was not an AI exhibition, as the score indicates, errors playing a prominent part. Although Gill pitched fairly well, his support was decidedly off color. The winners batted him for 11 hits with a total of 17 bases. Grover, on the other hand, was in fine fettle, striking out 14 and allowing only four hits. The best batting was done by Perkins and O'Leary for the home team and Hayes for the visitors. The score by innings:

EXPRESSION OF SORROW

In view of the fact that Sunday, Aug. 1, marks the first anniversary of the beginning of the great European war, the churches throughout Massachusetts are observing in a simple way their expression of sorrow at the calamity which has befallen humanity, and of sympathy for those in all the warring nations who have suffered so heavily a burden of distress during the year; and on Sunday, from half past four to quarter before five, the bells of the Baptist and Congregational churches will be tolled. This memorial will not in any sense be an expression of partisanship; it will be simply an expression of deep emotion of sorrow and compassion.

Dr. and Mrs. Edgar M. Jewett of Portsmouth have been spending a few days at Manchester this week with the former's brother, Town Clerk A. S. Jewett and Mrs. Jewett.

VACCINATION NOTICE

Parents who contemplate sending children to school in September for the first time are reminded of the statute law governing vaccination. #### BOXING BOUTS AT GLOUCESTER

A large crowd of North Shore boxing fans will journey to Gloucester next Tuesday night and witness the bouts at the Gloucester Social and Athletic club. A fine program has been arranged and the management was lucky in securing Frankie McManus, the Philadelphia whirlwind, to box Harry Carlson the International Amateur Champion, 10 rounds. The winner of the bout may be sure of getting plenty matches and each is out to win as quickly as possible.

The semi-final will be up to the usual standard, and will feature Frank Ah Chung, the fighting Chinaman, against Young Hyland of New York. The preliminary between Pat Moore of Manchester, Mass., and Young Miller of Salem is creating as much interest as any bout that has been arranged this season. Moore is considered one of the cleverest boxers in these parts, and he works out daily at Singing Beach in preparation for a hard contest. He is leaving no stone unturned in getting into shape and means to be at his best when he steps into the ring Tuesday night. He will be backed to win by a host of admirers from Manchester who will accompany him by special bus. In Miller he is meeting a tough performer and Moore will have to bring everything into play that he has in order to get away with the decision.

WHISPERINGS

Taking care of the crowd at Singing Beach is getting to be quite a serious problem. The street leading to the Beach is narrow—almost too narrow for two vehicles to pass. Last Sunday morning at one time there were 57 cars lining the street from the beach half way to the Masconomo. If the cars had been forced to stand on one side of the street only, the line would have extended to Masconomo street. The "turn-around" at the entrance to the beach, put there last year, is a wonderful improvement, but it does not permit of cars standing in the circle, and even if it did the capacity would be small. Autos are in such common use now that nearly every family has one and such a number as were at the Beach Sunday about noon makes traffic rather dangerous. The street ought to be widened in the first place, and in addition provision ought to be made for parking vehicles, either by utilizing the beach bank back of the bath-houses (a very poor policy, we think), or by purchasing a small portion of the Masconomo House property at the entrance to the beach. Caretaker Benj. Crombie tells us the capacity of the town bath-houses is being taxed almost every day. Sundays especially, the place is crowded up to the closing hour—at 5 o'clock. Last Sunday 320 persons used the public bath-houses according to record kept. And this is only roughly estimated, as two very often use the same apartment, and the key is often turned over to another without going back to the matron or the caretaker. Last Sunday the water was 68 degrees, and it is estimated there was a bigger crowd than ever before at the beach.

Someone has asked us to suggest that the closing hour of the town bath-houses at the beach be changed to six or seven o'clock, or even later. The working man, who cannot leave his duties in mid-day, or up to five

ELIZABETH P. ALLEN

Miss Elizabeth P. Allen died suddenly last Friday evening of heart trouble, at her home on Washington street, Manchester. Her death came as a great shock to her many friends, as she had been about during the day as usual, and that very afternoon had called on relatives in the center of town.

Miss Allen was born in Manchester, April 2, 1843, and was at the time of her death 72 years old. She was the daughter of Captain Joseph and Mehitable (Allen) Allen, who lived in the Summer street section of Manchester, in what was then commonly known as North Yarmouth.

She was a member of the Orthodox Congregational church for 49 years, and was a member of the Ladies Social Circle and of the Missionary societies. She had been a member of the George W. Jewett household for 39 years. Mrs. Jewett and she were twin sisters. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. G. W. Jewett and Mrs. Julius F. Rabardy, and a half-sister of Mrs. Sarah Lord.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at her late home. The Rev. Charles A. Hatch, pastor, officiated and spoke very nicely. Burial was in Rosedale cemetery.

Miss Marion Backman of Roxbury spent part of her vacation in Manchester with her friend, Mrs. Charles H. Rayner, Norwood avenue.

ELDER BRETHREN, MANCHESTER'S UNIQUE ASSOCIATION OF OLD "BOYS."

Despite the heavy shower of early morning and the general outlook during the morning hours of a continuance of rain, the Manchester Elderlies were favored with clear skies and cooling breezes for their 37th annual reunion on the town picnic grounds at Tuck's Point Tuesday, and nearly 100 veterans of the town and invited guests assembled to partake of the chowder which is always a feature of the occasion and exchange reminiscences of their boyhood days.

A new feature was introduced into the after-dinner exercises by President Stanley this year, all present being invited to join in singing some of the old-time songs, including "Marching Through Georgia," "Swanee River," "Old Oaken Bucket," "Home, Sweet Home," and "America," and this proved a taking feature, as all joined lustily in the several choruses under the direction of Rev. A. G. Warner.

Ten of the party have reached the age of four score years and over, the oldest present being Amos F. Bennett, who has passed his 90th birthday, but is still vigorous and active, the others being Joseph Knowlton, 89 years; Nehemiah C. Marshall, 86 years; Alexander Pattillo, 86 years; John R. Allen, 85 years; Deacon Joseph A. Torrey, 83 years; Julius F. Rabardy, 82 years; Nathan B. Goldsmith, 81 years; Charles B. Goldsmith, 80 years, and Charles H. Killam, 80 years.

William Johnson, the oldest male resident of the town, who is in his 96th year, was unable to be present.

As usual, both fish and clam chowders were prepared under the direction of Frank H. Crombie, assisted by John F. Babcock, who have filled these positions for many years, and six young men assisted in the serving, Frank Floyd, Frank Bohaker, J. Stanley Beaton, Carlton Needham, John Allen and Manuel Miguel.

Those who were seated at the tables, with the ages of those 80 years old and over, were as follows:

After the tables had been cleared and half an hour allowed for those who desired to indulge in a cigar and renew their boyhood acquaintances, the gathering was called to order by President Stanley, and the records of last year's meeting read, together with the list of members deceased during the year, seven in number, as follows: Thomas Appleton of Beverly, John W. Carter, Henry S. Dennis, Samuel Lendall of Beverly, Benjamin C. Marble, Rev. David O. Mears, D. D., of Essex, and George A. Rowe.

The following officers were unanimously elected: President, Edwin P. Stanley; vice president, Lyman W. Floyd; secretary and treasurer, Isaac M. Marshall, the former secretary, William J. Johnson, declining reelection after 15 years of service in the position; directors, Henry T. Bingham, John G. Haskell, Thomas B. Stone, Charles C. Dodge, Lorenzo Baker, Theodore C. Rowe.

Town Clerk Alfred S. Jewett was called on to respond for the deceased members, and paid a tribute to many of the old families of the town, including Appleton, who was a leader in manufacturing, Carter and Dennis, pioneers in ploughing the seas; William Tuck, a man with original force, and Marble and Lendall of Revolutionary days.

Edwin O. Foster of Salem, an honorary member of the association for many years, spoke in a patriotic vein, closing with an appropriate poem, and was followed by Francis M. Stanwood, who paid a high tribute to the beauties of Manchester and the character of its people.

Ex-Representative Patrick H. Boye responded to an introduction by reciting a humorous poem; the finale of which convulsed his hearers with laughter, and the closing address of the afternoon was made by Rev. George H. Perkins of Beverly, formerly pastor at Gloucester, who was made an honorary member last year, and who left his summer home in Rhode Island at an early hour in order to be present. He spoke interestingly on the continuity of life and friendship and love and loyalty to God and those principles which have made New England what it is.

The formal exercises closed with the singing of "Sweet, Sweet Home," and "America."

After the speaking closed, many of the party remained for some time on the grounds, enjoying the beautiful scenery and entertaining each other with the tales of other days.

Services will be resumed at the Congregational church on Sunday morning, August 1. The hour is 10.30 and the preacher will be the minister, Rev. F. M. Cutler. Sunday school at noon. Evening service with sermon at 7.

On July 18, Mrs. Elizabeth Plummer passed her one hundred and first birthday and so strengthened her claim upon first place among Wenham's famous old people. Her mind is clear and her general health good.

Wenham's boy scouts were limited as to funds this season and were compelled to restrict their camping trip to a three day bivouac. But if you ask anyone who saw their merry party of fifteen on Plum Island, Ipswich, you will learn that they made up for the shortness of time by speeding up on the fun. Scoutmaster Cutler and assistant scoutmaster Conary were in charge.

"The Men of Wenham," who distinguished themselves last winter by their popular suppers in the Congregational chapel, crowned their season with a grand automobile outing to Canobie Lake on Wednesday afternoon.

BEVERLY FARMS

In order to carry out the work of the Beverly Farms Branch of the Beverly Improvement Society, Mr. Connolly has very kindly given, free of charge, the services of a team and a man to the Society on Mondays. Mr. Linehan will provide means of cleaning the streets on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Mrs. R. S. Bradley has had sent to the householders of Beverly Farms, over two hundred postal cards which read, "Will you help to keep our streets clean by caring for your own premises each day." Mrs. Bradley has also placed in the stores, large posters which read, "Will you help to keep our streets clean from paper and refuse in front of your store." By complying with these requests, each one may do his part toward keeping the village clean and beautiful.

Rev. Arthur W. Moulton of Grace Church (Episcopal), will preach Sunday at the Union Chapel, Magnolia. Services at 10.45.

The Ladies' Aid society will hold the usual fair at the parlors of the Oceanside Wednesday, August 4. Aprons and fancy articles will be for sale, as well as delicious candy. The sale of flowers will be held on the porch this year, and all contributions will be most acceptable to the committee in charge. Mrs. Walter S. Eaton will look after all articles for the sale.

Mrs. Harry C. Foster spent last Friday in Essex with her mother Mrs. Wonson.

Oswald Symonds of Boston spent Sunday here as the guest of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Symonds.

Gentlemen's Night at the Women's club Wednesday evening was a very successful affair and one which was well attended. The feature of the evening was an exhibition dance by Miss MacDonald and Mr. Kerr of the Oceanside. They were so generously applauded that they were obliged to give an encore to their very graceful and well executed fox-trot, and later to dance the one-step. The exhibition was a pleasing addition to the social dancing of the evening. Music was furnished by Miss Hession of the Oceanside and Mr. Henry of Boston. The handiwork classes are meeting regularly each week, and receiving new members at each meeting. Miss Ellen Anderson of the Oceanside has taken charge of the dressmaking class, which is held Thursday afternoons. Miss Anderson understands the work thoroughly, having learned the trade with Miss Bertha C. Olson, who has a shop on Boylston street, Boston, and Lexington avenue, Magnolia. The yearly whist tournament is receiving as much interest as ever and the number of players is unusually large. Among the things planned for the club members for August are an Anti-Suffrage meeting, an entertainment with outside talent and one or two other sociables besides the regular features. The Oceanside members will give their usual minstrel show the latter part of the month, the date to be announced later. A new attraction which is proving very popu-

Send Your Personality

Next to a personal call, a telephone call has more personality than any other form of communication.

No letter or telegram can give the force, the shading, the delicate emphasis that a telephone call can give to what you want to say.

You'll find it's cheaper, too, (say within a radius of 50 miles) if you figure in stenographers' wages, and the cost of equipment, stationery, and postage for you and your correspondent—your letter or telegram usually requires an answer.

day of next week and Carey's three-piece orchestra will play. Considerable interest is being shown in the bowling contest, especially in the Honey Pinks, who challenge all comers. Five cups are to be awarded, and as the Breeze goes to press the five bowlers holding the highest scores are Carl Seaburg, 292; Michael Kehoe, 289; Axel Nelson, 275; Albert West and Charles Hunt, 269.

The work of cataloguing the books of the Magnolia Library is well under way, and the librarian, Mrs. Eaton, is receiving valuable assistance in the work by Miss E. P. Hamelin, who is spending the season at the Oceanside Hotel.

In the sixth club regatta of the Beverly Y. C. Saturday there were 34 entries in six classes, with interest centering in two divisions of the Herreshoff 15-foot class. In the race for 21-footers the Deacon led the way. The 25-footers had four entries and it was an easy win for the Dabney Brothers' Bagatelle over Richard F. Hoyt's Vitessa and Howard Stockton, Jr.'s Mink, with Walter H. Langshaw's Tarantula away in the rear. In the Crane class of 15-footers Francis Austin's Pioneer was first over the line.

The Eastern Y. C. at Marblehead is planning for a large reception, supper and musical program when the New York Y. C. comes to that port on Aug. 11. The visit will include the race for the King's cup, which has been sailed off Newport in past seasons, but changed to Marblehead for this season.

Chief Grant of the fire department is making an effort to increase the efficiency of the Beverly Fire Dept. by introducing a new method. Blank sheets have been issued the clerks of the different fire companies, and after each fire the clerks are to fill out a correct list of the members who were present and also denote absentees. These reports the chief will keep on file and the record will give him a true account of who are attending the fires. The permanent men at the Farms station are pleased over the fact that hereafter they are to receive their weekly pay in cash instead of checks.

Yacht-Line Hudson The Surprise Car

If you haven't yet seen this 1916 HUDSON, there's a surprise in store for you.

Until you see it, you can't imagine the beauty of this Yacht-Line body.

Pictures or words can't tell you what Lustrous Finish is.

There is more room, more luxury.

There are disappearing extra seats.

There's enameled leather upholstery.

Yet the new price is $1350 for all that is possible in a quality Six.

This new-type HUDSON, not two years old, has created a vast reputation. It has quadrupled the Hudson output. It has driven many an old type out of the market, and has gained the first place among class cars.

But this new model brought the climax. Since June 15, when this car appeared, HUDSON sales have broken every fine-car record. In the Opening Week a month's output was sold.

If you take any interest in motor car advancement, come and see this premier example.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE— DRINK HOT TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking up a cold.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

Salem—Historically Speaking

By MISS KATHERINE GAUSS

SALEM'S witchcraft, Salem's commerce, Salem's associations with men of world fame, and Salem's colonial architecture—all are drawing cards for the visitor to this old town. To many the world over, Salem is noted chiefly as the place where witches were hanged; where Roger Williams was driven out of the state to Rhode Island and where Quakers were persecuted. But it did less in this line than many other places, and what was done was because it was the law and spirit of the times. Salem's commerce has made for her a mark in the world, and in olden times it was the merchant marine of this grand old city that explored into the countries of the far east and brought home rich and useful gifts and cargoes from the Orient. And as to her prowess in war, Salem's privateers did more damage to British shipping in the Revolution than was done by those of all other American towns together, and there was a big fleet of privateers out of Salem in the war of 1812. Again Salem can boast of the great men who have been born and brought up in this town, such men as Nathaniel Hawthorne, Nathaniel Bowditch, Joseph Story, Timothy Pickering and others whose fame is world-wide.

Historically speaking, few cities in this country have greater attractions than Salem. Founded by Roger Conant in 1626 and revived by John Endicott in 1628 and by John Winthrop in 1630, it has had a marked career. Here was offered the first armed resistance to British tyranny and the first blood of the Revolution was shed at the old North bridge. Here was born and here grew up the greatest romance writer of America, and one of the greatest of any country in any age. And here, at the present, Salem has the finest types of Colonial architecture to be found in this country and the most complete and wonderful museum of Eastern treasures in existence in this present day. And such men as Ross Turner, Frank Benson, Philip Little and Isaac H. Caliga are making a new name for Salem as an art centre.

A short walk around the town is of great interest and at this time of year thousands of visitors are pouring into the city to see things of historic value. One of the first places to see and near to the railroad station is the old Market Place, where on Saturday night the farmers and traders from all the surrounding country gather with their teams, lining both sides of the square. The old Town Hall and Market House that stands at the head of the square was built in 1816, the lower floor being opened as a market in that year and the hall above in July, 1817, on the occasion of the visit of President Munroe to Salem. This old Town Hall was used for town meetings until the incorporation of the city some thirty years later. The land on which the hall stands was a portion of the estate of the great Salem merchant, Elias Haskett Derby, who built a mansion there that cost $80,000, and the square and Derby street were named in honor of his family. At Mr. Derby's death, no purchasers could be found for such a costly estate, and it was sold, with the one provision that a public fish market should be forever maintained thereon, and that contract is carried out to this day.

On Central street, just a bit of a way from Essex street, is another building of interest to the visitor, for here the Custom House was located in 1805, and over the main doorway was formerly a large wooden eagle, carved by Mackintire, that decorated the building when used for government purposes. Beyond Central street one passes to Charter street, where just at the crest of the hill is the Charter street burying ground, the oldest burying ground in Salem. And just at the right of this spot is the "Grimshaw House," made famous by Hawthorne's "Dr. Grimshaw's Secret," and the added fact that it was here that Sophia Amelia Peabody, whom Hawthorne married, lived.

In the old cemetery will be found the curious stone erected to the memory of Timothy Lindall, a merchant, and near at hand the stone of Nathaniel Mather, the precocious younger brother of the celebrated Cotton

House of Seven Gables (Before Restoration)

Witchcraft craze, is buried here, and also Governor Bradstreet, the Rev. John Higginson, Chief Justice Lynde and Judge Hathorne of Witchcraft fame.

Continuing on through Charter street, the visitor soon comes to Derby street, which runs along the water front, at the head of the wharves, where thousands of tons of coal are landed not only for the local trade but for the great manufacturing centers of Lawrence, Lowell and Manchester, N. H. This street was in olden days the show place of the city, and the few fine old houses left standing remind one of the street's former glory. Near at hand, on Union street, is the birthplace of Hawthorne, and farther down is Turner street, with the

Witch House (Before Restoration)

House of Seven Gables, made famous by this same man. The house is now used for settlement work of all kinds. On this same Derby street is the old Custom House, of

UPLANDS, Jersey Lane, West Manchester, has a garden fronting on Bridge street, of such size and beauty and inviting entrances that it seems like a public garden. So many of the North Shore estates have their beautiful gardens tucked away in such secluded spots that the public can never see them! But the Frank Pierce Fraziers of New York have chosen the most open and public part of their estate for their garden. In the center of the place is a pretty pond and stream crossed by two attractive little stone bridges. Two immense willow trees stand by the pond, one a handsome drooping weeping willow of unusual size and symmetrical proportions. The rose garden is very attractive now, filled with rare roses surrounded by a fence on all sides over which is a thick growth of pink and red ramblers. An attractive portion of the garden emphasizes a purple color scheme where many purple flowers are seen. The large vegetable garden in the rear is reached by passing under charming arches of roses and through a long grape arbor showing an abundant crop of grapes. Mr. Frazier is much interested in clearing the vicinity of mosquitos and is helping conduct a scientific experiment along this line.

which the great novelist wrote in the Scarlet Letter, and brought down so much wrath upon his head. Cutting through one of the narrow side streets, so familiar in New England towns, the visitor comes to the Bentley School, which has in its tower a Paul Revere Bell, which peals the curfew every night at nine o'clock. Just beyond is the old Narbonne House, one of the oldest houses in the city, and opposite is the entrance to the old common, surrounded by Washington square, with its wonderful old houses, and far-famed colonial door-ways.

At the farthest end of the town one comes to the Witch house, and the Ropes Memorial, with its beautiful old-fashioned garden. And still farther along is the lovely old Chestnut street, where many of Salem's fine old families still live. Here also is Hamilton Hall, named for Alexander Hamilton, and the centre of the social life of the town.

And as a suggestion at the close of the day, it would be wise to visit the Peabody Museum, with its wonderful marine collection and eastern treasures. And then on to the Essex Institute, where all the relics and treasures of olden Salem may be seen in the museum on the second floor. And in the rear of the latter place is the old John Ward House, built in 1684, an example of the home which preceded the period of opulence. A well-sweep and bucket have been placed behind the house and a flower garden with only flowers cultivated in the Salem gardens before 1700 thrives in the salty air.

Mingled with these things of long ago comes the hum of the modern busy city, which, despite the disasters of the past year, is growing and working toward the common good of those who dwell within the city walls.

The average brass band is harmless—until it begins to play.

It isn't what you say but how you say it that makes a woman either your friend or your enemy.

Will Mark All State Highways

IN the course of the summer the Massachusetts state highways that are most frequently used by motorists will be marked with a simple but effective direction sign, so that tourists may travel from end to end of the state without being obliged to stop and consult signboards. Some of the work has been done and it is being pushed forward rapidly in other places. The marking is being carried on under the direction of the Highway Commission, which, although the last legislature refused an appropriation for road signs, has found sufficient funds to carry out the plan on the principal routes.

The scheme of marking is one devised by Col. W. D. Sohier, chairman of the Highway Commission, and is on the same principle as that adopted several years ago in New Hampshire, and also in Vermont, the only difference being that different colors are used here from those in New Hampshire and Vermont. It is understood, however, that Connecticut and Rhode Island and probably Maine will adopt the Massachusetts idea, and possibly New Hampshire and Vermont, when they have to renew their signs, will change their colors so as to make the marking uniform throughout New England.

The plan that is being carried out in Massachusetts is to paint bands around telegraph posts, fence posts and on metal bands around trees at or near corners and junctions of roads, where the traveller might be doubtful as to the proper direction. The colors in Massachusetts are red for the main east and west routes, blue for the main north and south routes and yellow for secondary routes. So far only the route from Boston to Pittsfield by way of Worcester and Springfield, and the route from Fitchburg to Greenfield, have been marked, but the division superintendents have men at work painting other routes.

A traveller going from Boston westward to Pittsfield, if he wants to use the main route, will have only to follow the red bands on the posts and fences along the way. If, however, he turns off at Springfield and goes up the Connecticut valley and then west, he will follow blue signs to Greenfield and then the red signs to North Adams. At intersections of main routes two bands of blue and red are painted, while at intersections of main and secondary routes the bands are red and yellow or blue and yellow, as the case may be.

In order to prevent confusion, the Highway Commission hopes to make an arrangement with the highway authorities of New Hampshire and Vermont, so that the Massachusetts markers can be carried over the line a little distance and the New Hampshire or Vermont markers carried a short distance into Massachusetts. In this way the motorists will easily pick up the route, though in crossing the line the color of the signs changes.

Keep to the right! How the autoist must have that indelibly impressed upon his brain these days. On every street corner and in between, many times, he sees that warning. The most flagrant offenders of this rule seem to be the jitney 'bus drivers seen on every road nowadays. They seem to think the road is their own and left and right means nothing to them.

*The song of the sea was an ancient song,
In the days when the earth was young;
The waves were gossiping loud and long 'Ere mortals had found a tongue:
The heart of the waves with wrath was wrung,
Or soothed to a siren strain
As they tossed the primitive isles among,
Or slept in the open main.
Such was the song and its changes free,
Such was the song of the sea.*

RAYMOND BROWN, RESIDENT-MANAGER

ANNOUNCEMENT is made by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hale Bancroft of 249 Beacon street, Boston, and "Hale Farm," Beverly, of the engagement of their younger daughter, Elizabeth Hope Bancroft, to Alexander Winsor of Boston. Mr. Winsor is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Winsor of 21 Marlboro street, Boston, and Cataumet on the South Shore. He has two older brothers, Robert, Jr., and Philip, and one sister, Miss Mary P. Winsor, 2d. Miss Bancroft was president of the Sewing Circle during the winter of 1913-14, and is on the executive board of the Vincent Club this year. Miss Eleanor Carroll Bancroft is the older sister of Miss Bancroft.

Two other engagements of much interest to North Shore people are those of Miss Eleanor Fabyan to Theodore Frothingham, Jr., and Miss Miriam Mason to Franklin H. Trumbull.

Miss Fabyan is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wright Fabyan of 146 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, and West Manchester, who announced the engagement last Sunday. Mr. Frothingham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Frothingham of Philadelphia. The wedding, so it is further learned, already has been planned to take place some time next January. Miss Fabyan made her debut in the winter season of 1912-13 and has been since that event prominent in social affairs. She is a member of the Vincent Club. One of her brothers, Everett W. Fabyan, will enter Harvard the coming fall. Another brother, Wright Fabyan, is preparing at Groton School for college. Miss Fabyan's younger sister, Miss Edith Fabyan, will be presented next winter. Dr. Marshall Fabyan of Boston and George Fabyan of Chicago are uncles of Miss Fabyan, whose aunts include Mrs. Isaac R. Thomas of Boston and Hamilton, formerly Miss Gertrude S. Fabyan, and Mrs. Percival H. Lombard of Brookline, who before her marriage was Miss Isabel Fabyan. Miss Eleanor Fabyan is a granddaughter of the late George F. Fabyan, who was one of Boston's old-time leading merchants.

Miss Mason is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer B. Mason, who had a beautiful summer home on Smith's Point, Manchester, now owned by the Boylston A. Beals. She lives with her brother, Austin B. Mason of Boston and Cohasset. Other brothers are Herbert Warren Mason of Ipswich and Boston, Harold F. Mason of Dedham, and Dr. M. Phillips Mason of Brookline. Mr. Trumbull is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Trumbull of Salem.

IT may interest those who have helped the Red Cross Workroom, in Manchester, to hear the results achieved during the month of July. Firstly, an acknowledgement is due to the management of the Hotel Masconomo for courteously putting their pleasantly situated ballroom at our disposal and facilitating our work in every way. Generous contributions have enabled us to extend the scope of our labor, and the average attendance of forty industrious workers, of all ages, has raised the total accomplished in nine meetings to a very satisfactory amount. We have made 6310 small surgical sponges, 1320 large surgical sponges, 95 absorbent dressings, 528 bandages, 66 slings, 10 fracture pillows and 58 surgical shirts. A vote was taken in order to determine which countries should receive these surgical supplies, and it was determined by a large majority to send the first box to Poland and the second to Italy. We hope to continue our work for at least six weeks longer.—***

If one wishes to see one of the most charming little spots on the North Shore he should see "Pompey's Garden," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw at Pride's Crossing. The little Italian garden is hidden far away from Hale st., up among the trees and rocks, and the visitor who accidentally discovers it and sees it for the first time is amazed at the beauty of the little place. It is surrounded by a stone wall covered with ivy and roses with a pretty little stone fountain at one side. A lily pond wreathed with flowers forms the center, and many sweet-scented flowers and ferns make this an ideal place. At one end of the garden is a quaint little stone tea house which looks very inviting. Near the tea house is a stone stairway descending from the garden to the lawns and beach near the house. Boulders of immense size are seen on the rocky hillside near the garden. The trees, the great rocks, the abundance of ferns and other woodsy plants outside the garden, and the fascinating view of the sea from the garden steps cannot but make one want to linger long in "Pompey's Garden" with its charming old-world suggestions.

Miss Ingrid E. Akesson of Boston, the Swedish medical gymnast who has been at Manchester for the last seven years, is located this year at Pride's Crossing. Her telephone number is Beverly Farms 96. adv.

Manchester Tea Rooms are looking very cool and inviting now in the new quarters. A tempting array of fruits and jellies are for sale as well as the delicious cakes for which the place is noted. The Paul Revere pottery shop connected with the rooms has a beautiful display of hand-wrought bowls, vases, jars, breakfast, luncheon and dinner sets, bread and milk sets, tiles and candlesticks.

Miss Cornelia Carney of New York is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. E. A. Carney of Hotel Aborn, Magnolia.

Miss Helen Covell of the Aborn, Magnolia, was joined this week by her sister, Miss Abbey Covell, who has returned from Silver Bay conference, which she attended as a Y. W. C. A. delegate.

NORTH SHORE SWIMMING POOL water sports are scheduled for Saturday, August 14, 3.30 p. m. Program includes men's 200-yard relay, 50 and 100-yard races, obstacle race, and fancy diving; girls' 50-yard race and fancy diving; boys' 25-yard dash and 50-yard race. No event will be run unless there are three entries. Entries should be made with Edgar Allan at the Pool before Friday night, August 13. First and second prizes will be given in events with four or more entries. Added to these events an effort will be made to run an event for form in swimming of different strokes, limited to boys and girls under 15 years. This is a new feature, as most swimming races are for speed alone. Comedy events will also be staged, such as a pillow fight on a spar over the water and picking a flag from the end of a greased pole. The Pool clubrooms are very popular for the bridge parties on Wednesdays. This Wednesday, in spite of the heavy rain, ten tables of bridge were on for the afternoon. Mrs. Samuel Stevens had among her guests for bridge, Mrs. W. C. Chick and Mrs. Russell Fenn of Phillips Beach. Some guests at the Pool this week were Miss Paulina Wheeler of San Francisco, who will be with Miss G. M. Safford two weeks; Miss Frances Brainard introduced a Pittsburg party for one week; Mrs. John S. Ford's guest for a few days was Aubey Wright of Youngstown, O.; H. P. Page of Newton was the guest of Mrs. John Allyn; Mrs. P. E. Dutcher introduced for a week Mrs. Benjamin Webster of New York.

Mrs. Charles Bennerman of Germantown, Pa., is the house-guest of Mrs. Charles W. Smith, Lexington avenue, Magnolia.

The garden on the Walter J. Mitchell estate, Manchester Cove, is showing the effects of the rainy month. The garden, which is over 20 years old, has always been a noticeable one on Magnolia avenue, but this year the rainy season and the great amount of shade has somewhat hindered the profuseness of bloom. "Glendyne" is one of the fine North Shore estates, with much of the grounds left in a natural state, and its trees and ferns are very rich looking.

The annual water sports of the Manchester Yacht club is scheduled to take place off the club-house on Tuesday, August 17, at two-thirty o'clock. Yacht owners are expected to dress ship and anchor their yachts just west of the club-house landing. Prizes will be distributed and tea will be served after the sports. The events will include: Walking the pole, tub race, senior swimming race, junior swimming race, diving contest, one-end canoe race, obstacle canoe race, canoe tilting. The competitions are open to members of the Manchester Yacht club, their families and friends. Entries must be made in writing, and be sent to J. Amory Jeffries, Swampscott, on or before Saturday, August 14. The committee on arrangements is composed of Arthur M. Merriam, Charles E. Hodges, Jr., J. Amory Jeffries.

A movement is on foot among the members of the summer colony at Manchester and elsewhere along the Shore to establish a fund for the purpose of building a suitable home for the North Shore Horticultural society, where flower shows may be held and meetings along other lines, musicals, etc., may be held during the summer. This is brought to a point just now by the fact that the society has been forced to remove from its headquarters in Lee's Block, Manchester, owing to a change in ownership and the remodeling of the structure. The failure of the flower show this week on account of the rain is another big incident toward focusing attention to the need of such a building somewhere on the North Shore. It is understood an option on a lot of land on Summer Street, Manchester, opposite the railroad station, has been obtained, and tentative plans are being made for an attractive one story building, of slap-dash exterior. We hope the people generally will take an interest in this project; a suitable hall for lectures, musicales, and the like, with modern equipment, has long been needed on the North Shore.

Mrs. Ginery Twitchell, who made her home at the Brunswick Hotel, Boston, died yesterday at the Masconomo House, Manchester, where she spent her summers. Mrs. L. F. Craft of 254 Commonwealth ave., Boston, died at the Masconomo last Saturday. She also had been spending her summers at Manchester for several years.

Arthur Hoyt Washburn, second son of Dr. George H. Washburn of Manchester and Boston, is leaving shortly to go to Constantinople to teach in Robert College, made famous among institutions of the world by the late grandfather of the young man. Mr. Washburn was graduated from Amherst this year, and his decision to devote his life work to teaching at Robert College, is undaunted by the terrible struggle now on in that country. The oldest Washburn boy, George, is located at Proctor, Vt., and the youngest, Alfred, is still in Amherst. The daughter—Lorraine—now Mrs. Basil Hall, is located in Bronx, N. Y., where Rev. Mr. Hall preaches. All the members of the family were home over the last week-end to bid bon voyage to the young man who is to start for the East as soon as necessary passports are procured.

The Italian Ambassador gave a dinner at the North Shore Grill, Magnolia, last Saturday night for a party of eight. On the same night Mrs. W. Harry Brown of Beverly gave a supper for twenty-four young people after the dance at the Oceanside. Edwin H. Gould and family of New York dined at the Grill Tuesday evening on their way to Bar Harbor.

Green Gables, Magnolia, has been a cheerful place to drop in during the dreary days of the past week, for luncheon or dinner, or afternoon tea, and incidentally to enjoy the dancing. The Gables is most delightfully located and many motorists and members of the cottage colony find it a most charming place.

A winding road leads thro' the wood
Where changing shadows play,
Where branches green arch over-head
And flowers bloom by the way.

The touch of breezes as we pass
Wood scents that fill the air,
Come like the breath of vanished days
From regions sweet and fair.

A bird calls from the leafy depths,
A star gleams in the sky;
And twilight draws her mantle close
To bid the day good-bye.

O, Essex woods! your winding road
Leads farther than we know,
It journeys deep into the past
In lands of long ago.

And oft in crowded city streets
The walls of stone between,
Will come the thought of Essex woods
And shady isles of green.

IT WAS A NARROW ESCAPE that befell the touring auto that was stopped by a pedestrian who discovered the entire steering gear adrift. Every locomotive engineer before he enters his cab for the day's run examines carefully the mechanism of his engine and tries the car wheels of the train with a hammer to discover cracked wheels. Every autoist should make a reasonably careful examination of his brakes and steering gear before he starts his car. Even then accidents may happen through wear or flaws in the materials.

A successful man must expect to be envied and abused as well as to be admired and respected.

THE North Shore mosquito campaign that is supervised by Walter D. Denégre of "Villa Crest," West Manchester, is somewhat hindered by the unprecedented rainfall in July—more rain having fallen in July than has occurred in that month in fifty-four years. The many stagnant pools that have been constantly formed among the rocks and trees have been excellent breeding places for the little pests. But the good work that is being done by trained men who are carrying out plans in accordance with instructions from the U. S. government has been much appreciated. Without something having been done to rid the shore of the pests, the rainy season would have made the woods and lowlands almost unendurable. As it is, the simple work of spraying the breeding places with oil and knowing the best places to place the cans of oil with drips, has, along with other efforts, done much to free the shore from mosquitos and make outdoor life a little pleasanter. But, Mr. Denégre says that the people must not be discouraged and think it is hopeless for, when the rains are over, he is expecting good results from the efficient work of the campaign.

Mrs. Godfrey L. Cabot and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Cabot are opening their summer home at Beverly Farms this afternoon and again next Tuesday for two musicales. These affairs given by Mrs. Cabot every summer are among the most delightful of the many functions given on the North Shore. Miss Cabot, who came out two seasons ago, contemporaneously with Miss Eleanor Fabyan and Miss Josephine Rantoul, is falling closely in her mother's steps as a lover of music, she being quite accomplished as a singer. The artists for this first musicale is Mrs. Anne Roberts Barker, with Mrs. Dudley T. Fitts as accompanist. Next Tuesday Miss Blanche Hamilton Fox will sing, and Mr. Vincent Doyle will be at the piano.

King Coel and Constantinople

By G. HUBERT RAND

BEYOND a latent regard for old tradition, a brief survey of the last few centuries reveals the ever truthful phrase that "History repeats itself." So surely as the present epoch develops wonderful achievements in assisting human progress, so indisputably has the present period unfolded and grown as an historical evidence.

Here and there we see a rude and simple people admitting gradually the advantages and embellishments which knowledge, industry, and commerce confer, yet reasoning retrogressively that the generations of two or three hundred years ago existed in a state of absolute barbarism.

And yet, today, nations are adopting fearful, worse than ancient methods, in their fight for some sort of a supremacy, each side grinding supinely under heel, the outcome of years and years of effort in progress. England once the bitter enemy of France is now singularly allied with that power in an effort to subjugate after an interval of nearly five centuries, the execrable race of Turks in the City of Constantinople.

Many centuries ago, before the light of the foregoing advance dawned upon us, there was born in England, in the ancient town of Colchester, a plebian King who under shadowy circumstances bore the title "King Coel" or "Kayr Coel." Of his court too much is known to necessitate further argument; but yet historians in America err when writing the name of this "merry old soul." The "Oath Book" an ancient record of the town of Colchester in which he was born, clearly gives the following entry: "A. D. 297. Coel Rex Britonium obiit Colocestria Mense 2do." Therefore why is the common error made of metamorphosing the original record to that of Cole.

As the years winged their flight, a happy event came to this ancient King. A daughter was born, one Helena, who was destined to be the mother of one of the greatest and noblest men in history. His name was Constantine subsequently named the Great. Out from that antiquated past arises a strange unfolding of circumstances. England today is fighting tooth and nail to enter the city named after one of her ancient and most honored sons. Strange is it not, that Italy, too, another ally forced by evil circumstances to enter once more the bloody field of battle, gave to England in that mighty ancient day, Constantius Chlorus, father of the God-fearing, virtuous Constantine?

Hence it happens that historical events pursue their wonderfully relative courses from generation to generation, through century after century from an almost forgotten age.

A few weeks ago, during a German air raid on the east coast of England, a bomb fell into a garden not a hundred yards from the last resting place of old "King Coel." There is no massive column to designate the spot where he lies buried. Just a rude signboard on which is inscribed "King Coel's Kitchen." Here the searcher after "bygone things" is directed to that haunt of ancient peace now a fast decaying memory. In the far away ages that jovial monarch sat here, troubled with naught save sublunary musings and when evening came on with its weird spectral shadows, he would summon the "fiddlers three" and mingled with flowing wine from the goblets, their music lighted a fire in his old heart and a merry twinkle in his eye. Then there were the oysters too, a wonted course with the merry monarch, for ancient Colchester then abounded with that luxury. Constantinople, (or New Rome) too, was famous for its fish at that period, and in consequence the early Greeks named the harbour from which they obtained such wealth the "Golden Horn."

Regarding Constantine the Great, it is not necessary to reiterate the many valiant deeds he performed. Let it suffice to bear in mind that the beautiful ancient city which bears his name, now trembles before the rumbling onslaughts of a warring continent. What the result will be Constantine will never know. His ashes rest undisturbed in the peaceful valley of Achyon near Nicomedia. Alike, old King Coel and Constantine the Great, trod in a relative "path of glory" which led but to the grave. They do not see rising rank upon rank the quenchless greed for supremacy, the maintenance of a seeming historical essentiality, the ruthless treading under heel of higher things. Today there are loud echoes of bygone barbarities making themselves heard in the present European Conflict. Only a slender thread preserves the dignity of the whole affair. One may be thankful that in this far distant land of smiling contentment little regard is paid to the honors due the gods of war, and perhaps it would not be too hazardous to infer that a perfect political system, benignant, invariable, and efficacious, leaves no room for those exploits of brilliant violence and ruffian heroism.

Major Robert P. Johnston of Manchester, N. H., has taken the Gate Lodge at Eastern Point for the season, and his family is now located there.

"Before engaging rooms in your house," said the bachelor, "I want to know if there are any families with crying babies staying here."

"I'm afraid there is," replied the landlady, "but we—"

"Well, I was just going to say," continued the other, "that if there are, I want you to put me in the room next to theirs. I want to wake up in the night and hear their trouble, so that I can congratulate myself again that I'm not married."

INGLISBY, the Ipswich estate of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Searle of Commonwealth ave., Boston, is one of the half-dozen or more of the exceptionally large and beautiful estates for which Ipswich is noted. The estate comprises about 200 acres situated beyond the town hill along the river just outside of the village. The very artistic and impressive looking white stucco house stands in the center of the place and is reached by a long winding avenue through the park-like grounds. The grounds in the rear of the house have been left in their wild and natural state. These lead up to the town hill and make a marked contrast to the artistically laid out grounds surrounding the house. The long house with the pretty green blinds at the upper windows and white casings at the lower windows is charmingly balanced by a commanding terrace in front. At each end of the terrace are steps descending on one side to the tennis grounds and on the other to the garden. The view from the terrace is one of the fairest and most interesting of any of the Ipswich estates with the exception of Castle Hill, the R. T. Crane, Jr., estate, which commands almost a similar view from a different view point. Standing on the terrace at "Ing-lisby" one beholds in the distance Newburyport, Plum Island, Isles of Shoals, Castle Hill surmounted by the large house of the Cranes, the Ipswich home of the Aug-garden is a large basin of red and white pond-lilies. Arching over the basin is a pretty arrangement of vines which gives a very ornamental touch to the center of the garden. Old fashioned flowers predominate in a wealth of beauty now. Leading from the garden is a narrow flower-lined path out to the avenue. This is one of the prettiest features of the place, but is not apt to be found by the casual observer unless pointed out.

In the midst of this wonderful view lies Great Neck and Little Neck, and at the foot of the estate is the winding Ipswich river leading out to sea. At this season the river presents a lively and attractive scene dotted as it is with little pleasure crafts and the little tugs carrying the many passengers to and from Little Neck, which looks from the Searle estate to be quite a little village of summer cottages. The pretty red barns and farm houses on the estate and the cows quietly grazing in the orchard below all seem to have a sort of mystic beauty about them when viewed from the terrace. The terrace and the garden to the right are the chief delight of Mr. and Mrs. Searle, who spend a long season—about eight months—at this ideal country home. In the middle of the IPSWICH with its artists is always an interesting subject. This summer the visitors to Ipswich will be interested in two artists of renown who are busily engaged in their studios all through the day, but are ever gracious and charming to the interested visitor. They are Miss Elsie Heard of So. Main street and Mrs. Frank A. Bourne of Turkey Shore road. Welcome additions to the Ipswich coterie are Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Bourne (Gertrude Beals) of 130 Mt. Vernon street, Boston, who have formerly spent their summers in their own attractive house at Scituate. This year they were among the early arrivals in Ipswich and are occupying the old Emerson house belonging to Prof. Arthur W. Dow of New York. The old house is in its self a sight worth taking a trip to Ipswich to see. Standing on the bank of the river, it clearly impresses one with its age by its quaint old door and plain architectural design. It was built about 1650 and occupied by the very first members of the Ralph Waldo Emerson family. The family later moving to Concord. Of late years it was used as a meeting place for art classes taught by Prof. Dow of Columbia University. But the art classes were given up a few years ago and it has been unoccupied until this season. The rooms are charmingly arranged with old pieces of furniture of an antique and rustic nature and the walls are covered with gray wrapping paper which makes a fine background for the handsome water colors which Mrs. Bourne is making. Her object in coming to Ipswich was to paint the old gardens for which the place is noted. She is planning upon giving an exhibition in the fall. She has some interesting views of Scituate and Essex scenes on her walls now. Mrs. Bourne is also interested in pottery and is a member of the North Bennet school in Boston. She is at work now on vases in her garage and pottery shop combined. Recent visitors at Miss Elsie Heard, or Alice Heard as she signs her pictures, is a portrait painter. She has made a specialty of children and has painted many of the children in North Shore homes. She is now working upon a copy of an old family portrait for Mrs. J. Merrill of Hamilton. Last winter she painted the portrait of little Esther Proctor, the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Howe Proctor of Ipswich. A portrait of Hilda Rice, now Mrs. Frederick Ayer, Jr., was also one of Miss Heard's productions. She has also made one of little Ethel Linda Tucker, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Tucker of Ipswich and is working on one of her little nephew, John Heard, Jr., a handsome four-year-old. Miss Heard formerly had a studio in Boston, but now does all of her work in her home, which is one of the fine old elm-shaded mansions of Ipswich, in which she can have perfect seclusion when desired. The house is very interesting and attractive, and standing as it does in the center of the village is much observed by tourists not only for its size but for the general beautiful appearance of the place.

THE tennis grounds at "Old Tree House," West Manchester, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Leland of Beacon street, Boston, are the most ornamental and attractive of any on the North Shore. They are large and lie close to the house and water and are completely enclosed on one side by a tall, thick, luxuriant hedge and on the other three sides by high netting covered with a thick matting of red ramblers. About the only place that players can be discerned is from the pretty little gate which leads into the grounds. The ground itself is attractive, being covered with a fine green turf of velvety softness marked with the white lines designating the courts. The whole presents a charming picture as one stands at the little gate and looks within.

William Jarvis Boardman, for many years a summer resident of Manchester, passed away Monday, August 2, at his residence in Washington, at 1801 P street, after a lingering illness. He was in his eighty-fourth year. The family had not come to Manchester this season owing to Mr. Boardman's continued illness, and the house is unoccupied. Mr. Boardman was well known in Boston and along the North Shore. The summer home, "Windclyffe," on upper School street, Manchester, overlooks the Essex County Club grounds, and has a picturesque location on an elevated site. Mr. Boardman was the father of Miss Mabel T. Boardman, who for so many years has been conspicuously prominent and active in National Red Cross work, and another daughter is Mrs. Winthrop Murray Crane, who before her marriage to former United States Senator Crane of Dalton was Miss Josephine P. Boardman. The family formerly lived in Cleveland and it was from that city that they went to Washington to reside permanently. Their home was notably prominent for entertainments given in the administration of former President Taft, as Miss Boardman was a close intimate of Mrs. Taft and assisted her in all the leading social events at the White House. Many of the entertainments which have taken place at the Boardman mansion, both in Washington and on the North Shore, have been in the interest of the Red Cross work and Miss Boardman, in her enthusiastic activities to promote this world-movement, had the full support and cooperation of her parents. Mr. Boardman, who was a graduate of Trinity College, class of 1854, was a member in Washington of the Metropolitan Club and Chevy Chase Club, as he was of the University Club in New York, the Essex County Club at Manchester, and the Myopia Hunt Club at Hamilton. Mrs. Boardman was formerly Miss Florence Sheffield. Besides Mrs. Boardman, Miss Boardman and Mrs. Crane, another daughter, Mrs. Frederick A. Keep (Florence S.), survives. Funeral services were held in Washington Wednesday morning at half past ten.

Mrs. Michael Foster of Harrowgate, England, and London, who recently arrived in this country, is renewing old-time friendships in Boston and hereabout. Mrs. Foster was the widow of the late Governor William E. Russell of Massachusetts when she married Dr. Michael Foster of London. She is accompanied to Boston by her daughter, Miss Margaret Russell, who was presented by her Boston and Cambridge relatives several seasons ago. Mrs. Foster probably will return to England in the early autumn. Her husband, Dr. Foster, is in charge of the hospital base in Cambridge, England. Mrs. Foster has many relatives in Cambridge, Mass., including a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Russell of 174 Brattle street, and another son, Richard M. Russell, who makes his home with his brother and sister-in-law. Other relatives are Dr. William Donnison Swan of Cambridge, who is Mrs. Foster's brother, and the Joseph B. Russells, who are relatives by her first marriage. Later, Mrs. Foster will visit Colonel and Mrs. Harry E. Russell at their home in Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Koshland of the Beverly Cove summer colony, gave a clambake last Sunday for twenty-five on the beach fronting their estate off Woodbury street. The affair proved a most enjoyable one. Besides a number of Beverly and Marblehead colonists some New York friends of the Koshlands were among the guests.

WENHAM tea-house is having the busiest season it has ever experienced. Last Saturday seventy-two guests found their way to this secluded and exclusive little spot. Guests at the Wenham Town Hall assembly on Saturday evenings find this an excellent place in which to partake of refreshments. The tea-house has many beautiful and attractive features and is always tastefully decorated with flowers from the estates of the summer colony. Miss Helen Frick of Pride's Crossing entertained a party of five this week. Mrs. Arthur Trout and Miss Ellen entertained Mrs. Anna Whipple of Somerville. Bishop and Mrs. P. M. Rhineland of Rockport entertained a party of fifteen, among whom were visiting clergymen and New York and Philadelphia friends.

Miss Mary Greenough of Jamaica Plain, Boston, spent last week-end in Wenham. On Saturday she visited friends in Portsmouth and on the S. S. Montana, which was stationed there. Miss Frances Downes was also a Wenham visitor in Portsmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Sheppard of Philadelphia are spending their first season in Wenham on the Larch Row farm of Miss Dorothy Jordan of Boston. Mr. Sheppard is a brother to Mrs. Eben D. Jordan of Boston and Manchester. The Sheppards have been entertaining friends for short periods during July from Philadelphia and Kennebunkport, Maine. Miss Jordan has made many improvements on her pretty place since she bought it eight years ago. The white house, with its many green vines running over it, is over 100 years old. About three years ago a handsome terrace was built on the front, which adds much to the attractiveness of the place. The quaint English garden, surrounded by a hedge, English style, is very interesting. Its great mignonette bed in the centre, its beds of geometrical patterns, its walks of green grass all mark this garden as very different from the usual style. The vegetable garden is also an interesting place to visit. The neatness and orderly arrangement and the fruits trained to flat surfaces are all very noticeable. The Larchmere kennels, which have been an important feature of the place, are practically discontinued, Robert Jordan, in whose charge they were, having now but a few of the fine Airdales. The kennels have been replaced by a fine line of fancy poultry.

Mrs. Charles D. Sias of "Sunny Slope Farm," Wenham, has a garden that varies a little from the ordinary. About two years ago she had a fountain and lily pond made in the centre, which is encircled this summer with a fine showing of nasturtiums and white petunias. The broad expanse of green turf in the garden is dotted here and there with a small flower bed, showing old fashioned flowers. The long driveway from the gate around through the estate is bordered with flowers, red petunias making a bright showing in it.

Mrs. Charles Thorndyke Parker of Wenham left Sunday for a two weeks' visit with friends in Essex and other places.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McCarthy of Lynn are spending two months in their Wenham Neck cottage.

ter, Miss Emma, who will be master of the drags, James Appleton of Ipswich, who is master of the regular hunts of Myopia Club, and Mrs. Raymond Rodgers (Alice Meyer) and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ayer, Jr., of Topsfield. Runs for the fall season have been laid out in New Hampshire, around Greenland, Hampton Falls and North Hampton.

This is a courtesy extended by Mr. Prince in order that the Myopia fields may remain in a better condition. Two games have been played at "Princemere" so far. In the last game, the Reds were composed of S. Mandell, Thomas Pierce, F. H. Prince, Jr., Shaw McKean, and the Whites were J. B. Moulton, Dudley Rogers, F. B. Fay and R. G. Shaw, 2d., who played for the first time this year. Goals scored were Reds 6, Whites 4. Referee, Arthur Mason. Dudley P. Rogers, the captain of the polo team, has joined the United States training camp at Plattsburg, N. Y. The polo team from Devon, Pa., will come to Myopia August 26. Charles A. Munn, Jr., of Manchester, is a member of the Devon team.

Miss Anna Agassiz of "Homewood," Hamilton, entertained at dinner Saturday and took her guests to the Wenham Town Hall assembly. Among the guests were Miss Sally Currier, Miss Bunny Lawson, daughter of Thomas Lawson, who will be one of the debutantes of the coming winter, and Mr. Williams and Mr. Proctor of Dover.

IPSWICH is the center of historical and social interest on the North Shore just now. The old-time celebration and festival of the Ipswich Historical society opened Wednesday and will continue until the 18th, at the old Whipple House, near the railroad station. Much interest has been taken by Ipswich residents and the summer colony to make this a notable success. The proceeds will be used to defray expenses of the society and to start a fund for the building of a memorial building and permanent museum for the society. The visitors to Ipswich will find the old Whipple House, which dates back to the middle of the seventeenth century, a truly venerably homely example of early colonial architecture. But one forgets the exterior view when, upon entering, the large and dignified proportions of the quaintly furnished rooms come to his view. Here the life of ye olden time is reproduced showing typical scenes illustrating farm, home, industrial and social activities. Women weaving and spinning are an interesting group. The display of old samplers, lace, old china, old fashioned articles of every description, all make a fascinating picture well worth going a long distance to see. A large display of pewter is in charge of Mrs. Charles S. Tuckerman of "Applefield," Ipswich. She is assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Louis LeB. Chapin of New York. Afternoon tea and other refreshments are dispensed from the quaint old kitchen known as "Widow Lumpkin's Ordinary." The "Widow" is Mrs. Frederick Ross assisted by Mrs. Wilson Shannon Dunn of New York. Tea is served by Mrs. Elbert Titcomb and Mrs. Harry Sayward. Entertainment for the afternoon is given by the Greek and Polish children of Ipswich who give charming folk dances under the management of Miss Amy Stanford and Miss Harriet E. Condon. The close of the festival will be marked by a large dinner, Tuesday, Aug. 17, at 1 p. m., after which there will be talks by prominent residents of Ipswich and descendants of old families of the place. Francis R. Appleton will represent the various Appleton families who are so closely connected with Ipswich history and Sherman L. Whipple of Boston, a direct descendant of the early Whipples, will be among the speakers. The individuals and families who have dwelt in the old house in so many generations are of unusual interest. The John Whipple of history had among his friends the Cheevers, Winthrops, Dudleys, Saltonstalls, Denisons, Symonds, Paynes, Appletons, Rogerses and the Bradstreets. Rev. T. F. Waters of Ipswich, president of the society, whose historic books of Ipswich are on sale in the house, says in one of his writings: "The old mansion is a constant reminder of all the glorious names which hallow and illumine the early years of our town life.....The old pavement in the dooryard rings again with the hoofbeats of Capt. Whipple's horse hurrying to lead his troopers on a swift ride to Andover to repel an Indian assault. John Appleton and Thomas French are talking of their imprisonment and trial for advocating resistance to the royal governor's edict and demanding representation before they would submit to taxation." Others, he says, have smoked and sipped their steaming cups and talked of Bunker Hill, Yorktown, Washington and Lafayette. The garden at one side of the old house was made possible by the generous gift from Mrs. William C. Loring of Pride's Crossing. An old building was removed and the little garden was made in memory of her father Amos Adams Lawrence, the former owner of the Ipswich Mill. Many interesting historical tablets are noticed in Ipswich. Those marking the spots where Governor Dudley and Simon and Anne Bradstreet dwelt are among the smaller ones. Large tablets mark the meeting house of the First Church and the South Green, the former furnished by the town and the latter by Francis R. Appleton. The Ipswich Historical society includes 16 life members, 141 resident and 111 non-resident members. A large proportion of the membership is composed of those who have a sentimental regard for Ipswich as the home of their ancestors, but whose residence is often far removed. Life members are Mrs. Alice C. Bemis, Colorado Springs, Col.; R. T. Crane, Jr., Chicago; John Hogg, Miss Katherine Loring, Mrs. W. C. Loring, James H. Proctor, Thomas E. Proctor, Charles G. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Searle, John E. Searle, John Cary Spring, Mrs. Julia Appleton Spring of Boston; Eben B. Symonds of Salem; George Prescott of Rowley and William G. Low of Brooklyn; N. Y. The officers of the society are Rev. T. F. Waters, president; F. R. Appleton and James H. Proctor, vice-presidents; John W. Nourse, secretary and Rev. T. F. Waters, treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Woods of Brookline, who have been spending July at the Shaddock Inn, Jaffrey, N. H., arrived last Saturday at Ipswich where they will spend two weeks at Y<sup>e</sup> Rogers Manse. Mrs. Woods was Harriet Smith, a sister to Rev. Roland Cotton Smith of Washington and Ipswich. This season the Smiths are spending in California. They have rented their attractive home "Cottonfield" to the Robert H. Reeves of 315 Commonwealth ave., Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Hay (Alice Appleton) are now with the Francis R. Appletons at "Appleton Farms," Ipswich, where they will spend the balance of the season. The little son that was born July 12, in the family of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Wendell (Ruth Appleton) of Charles River village has been christened Francis Appleton Wendell.

Mr. and Mrs. James Howe Proctor of Ipswich are on a trip to New York and Seabright, N. J., where they are visiting Mrs. Proctor's brother, Harry G. Riker.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans R. Dick, Jr., who are in Ipswich this summer with Mrs. Dick's parents, the Bayard Tuckermans of "Sunswick," have taken the Eliot Ware place in Weston for their winter home. They will move into their new home in October.

OCEANSIDE HOTEL MAGNOLIA

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graves, who are among the most charming people at the Oceanside this summer returned from Bar Harbor whence they had gone last week in their palatial yacht "Emiline," last Friday, just as they planned, but not by water. The weather would not permit of returning that way, so they motored back, with their friends whom they had been with at Bar Harbor, Mr. and Mrs. John Aspegren of New York. They were here in time for the dinner-dance at the Grill that night. Mr. and Mrs. Aspegren remained at the Oceanside over the week-end, returning to Bar Harbor by motor, Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Graves left Magnolia Wednesday for a week at Saratoga Springs and Lenox.

Dancing has not lost any of its popularity as far as Oceanside guests are concerned. With Albert Latscha, the popular dancing teacher back to Magnolia for another season, even the most sedate ones are taking up the new steps and seem eager to join the merry throng of hotel guests and cottagers that get so much pleasure out of the dances at the Oceanside Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights. Lady Speyer, we note, is among the charming ladies taking up dancing. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Paine are also of the older ones taking up dancing this summer.

Plans are being formulated for the annual Oceanside Tennis Tournament, to be started probably week after next. The weather has been much against tennis, but the scores of enthusiasts at the hotel are ready for the sport when the opportunity to play is offered.

Of the Magnolia cottagers and hotel guests that get much enjoyment out of their riding this summer, no-one enjoys the diversion more than A. F. McArthur, who comes on from New York every week-end to be with his family at the Ayres cottage, Lexington ave. Mr. McArthur prefers this to motoring, yachting, golf or any of the various diversions offered the week-end on the North Shore.

AUGUST finds the big Oceanside Hotel at Magnolia filled to capacity,—just as was expected. The bad weather of the last week has not kept people from Magnolia, and those already here have been perfectly content to remain. The Oceanside is always a cheerful place, no matter what the Weather Man decrees to dole out in the line of weather. Everything points to the whole of August being just as big in the line of patronage as this first week. The greatest trouble the room clerk at the Oceanside has just now is to make good on reservations. People book apartments ahead for months, to come to the Oceanside for August or some specified time. Others have the apartments supposedly for two, three or four weeks, and when the time comes to leave Magnolia they are so attached to the hotel and the general surroundings they are unwilling to leave, and moreover, are unwilling to give up their comfortable quarters. Few resort hotels in the country experience difficulties of this kind.

A crowd of Oceanside young folk went over to Beverly to the "movies" last Monday night, as a diversion and to dispel the gloom caused by the storm. That indomitable personage has little to do at the Oceanside, however, for he is easily dispelled by the element of good cheer always prevalent at the big hostelry, no matter what the weather or other contingencies.

The younger element at the Oceanside will be glad to know that Kenneth Seggerman is coming to Magnolia in a day or so for a stay at the Oceanside.

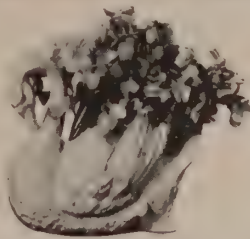

F. M. Gould of New York, a friend of the Lancasters of Worcester, season guests at the Oceanside, has been spending a week at the hotel.

Polly Prym Door Stop. This quaint little girl never tires of holding the door open or closed. She is small for her age, being only 14 inches high, but extremely reasonable for she works a life time for $5.00.

Basket of Pins. This is a new idea to make pins look like baskets of black and red berries. $1. each, or $1.50 for two.

White China Swan Flower Holder. distinctly new and ornamental. Especially appropriate to display sweet peas, pansies and lilies of the valley, etc. Price $1.50.

This Antique Gold Frame, flower basket design on top and flower design on the border is our latest creation. It is made either to stand upon an easel or hang from the back, and hold photographs. 8 x 10 inches, price $2.50.

TO enable you to buy right here in Magnolia as pretty things as you can find anywhere—that is the reason we have enlarged our exhibit here and have brought a representative line of our most ingenious ideas for our Magnolia patrons.

A children's party Monday afternoon proved a most delightful diversion for the younger element in the Oceanside,—of which there is a considerable number, to be sure. And the older ones, too, got as much enjoyment out the party, seeing the little tots play their games and play, as did the young "kiddies" themselves. Miss Marguerite Collins, who is in charge of the children's dancing at the Oceanside this summer, directed the party, which was well planned and carried out to a perfection. She was ably assisted by Miss Isabelle Wadsworth and Miss Plunkett.

Mrs. John T. Brush and daughter Natalie of Indianapolis, who were numbered among the cottage colony at Magnolia last season, are at the Oceanside this year. They arrived last Saturday to remain through August.

Mr. and Mrs. Jere L. Cresse and daughter Miss Lydia Cresse of Philadelphia are at the Oceanside for a short stay. They came last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Johnson and daughters Hope and Jennie are at Magnolia to spend the month of August. They are from Spuyten Duyvil, New York City and are registered at the Oceanside.

Dr. W. Harry Glenney of Buffalo is a guest of the J. W. Mitchells at the Oceanside.

Mrs. John Davidson of Elizabeth, N. J., arrived at the Oceanside last Saturday for the month of August. Their son William accompanied them but he remained only over night.

Old-time patrons of the Oceanside to return this week for the balance of the season were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lee and children, from Philadelphia. They have rooms in Highland cottage.

F. K. Howard, New York, was among last Saturday's arrivals at the Oceanside. He will remain until September.

Miss Frothingham of New York, who has been stopping at the Stanley cottage, Magnolia, registered at the Oceanside last Thursday for the rest of the season.

Mrs. J. E. Smith of Cambridge and her daughters, Miss Marjorie Smith and Mme. R. di Pietra Billing of Torino, Italy, are at the Oceanside for August.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Loose of Kansas City are at Magnolia for the balance of the season. They have a floor at Sea Vista, one of the Oceanside connections. Mr. and Mrs. Loose had a cottage at Magnolia several seasons ago.

J. M. Mitchell of Buffalo has joined his family at the Oceanside for the month of August.

Welcome arrivals among the younger element at the Oceanside this week have been Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Winants of Baltimore, who joined Mrs. Winants' mother, Mrs. C. R. Rowland, Friday for a two weeks' stay. As Miss Dorothy Rowland, Mrs. Winants was one of the belles of the Oceanside for several seasons. She was married to Mr. Winants during the past winter.

From Alexandria, Va., for the balance of the season have arrived Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Smoot and the latter's sister, Mrs. Lizzie H. Poots.

Last Saturday Mrs. Rowena Cadwell and daughter, Miss Florence Morgan Cadwell came from Hartford, Ct., to spend a fortnight at the Oceanside. On the same day, from Greenwich, Conn., came Mrs. Norman L. McCutcheon and little daughter Elizabeth and governess to spend a fortnight, also. They have rooms in Wilkins cottage.

New Ocean House, Swampscott

NEW OCEAN HOUSE, SWAMPSCOTT: The third formal ball at the New Ocean House last Saturday evening was by far the biggest social event of the season. Several hundred guests were present there being many from the cottage colony in addition to the guests of the hotel. Dancing started at nine o'clock and continued until midnight, when a buffet supper was served in the tea room.

The social activities at the hotel are in full sway, dinner parties, auction, tea dances, all attracting their full quota of enthusiasts. The younger set is just teeming with good times and pleasant hours of amusement. Since the conclusion of the tennis tournament this sport has become extremely popular with the guests, all the courts being in play the entire day.

The children's party held last Wednesday afternoon was another big social event of the past week. Nearly one hundred little guests of the hotel and their friends from the cottage colony were present as the guests of Mrs. E. R. Grabow, hostess at the party. There was dancing by the young guests of the New Ocean House as well as by several pupils from the school of Mr. J. Jefferson Richards, dancing master at the hotel. There was a grand march and games, to the winners in which attractive gifts were given as prizes.

Included in a dinner party Wednesday evening were Mrs. George Jackson, Nutler, Pa.; John Moir, J. A. Moir, Mrs. Charles Wallace, Chestnut Hill, and Edward Witherby of Chicago.

F. G. Carleton of Boston season guest at the New Ocean House, had as a dinner guest this week, Miss A. Lois Ames of Boston.

James Falls, M. Dinscomb and McKey Van Vleet of Memphis, Tenn., were among the week's arrivals at the New Ocean House. The party has motored the entire distance from Memphis in a high powered Stutz racer.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Keyworth, Mrs. M. J. Martin and Mrs. B. E. Lancks, all of York, Pa., were guests at the New Ocean House during the past week. They are on a motor trip through New England.

P. K. Dedrick, Jr., and Preston J. Dedrick of Albany, N. Y., are guests at the New Ocean House.

Mrs. E. E. Green, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Green and Miss Slade of Trenton, N. J., were luncheon guests at the New Ocean House during the past week. The party is touring this part of New England by motor.

A luncheon party at the New Ocean House given by Mrs. James R. Farrell of Gloucester included Anthony Farrell, Miss Farrell, Miss Sara Minahan, Joseph Swazey, Joseph Murray and Miss Capel all of Gloucester.

MISS DOROTHY GARLAND

TWO danseuses of the younger set at the New Ocean House, Swampscott, who have had conspicuous parts in the children's parties of this season are Miss Gloria Geisinger of St. Louis and Miss Dorothy Garland of Somerville. Miss Geisinger is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Geisinger, well-known residents of St. Louis, who are season guests at the New Ocean House. Miss Geisinger is an interpretive dancer, her principal dance being an Egyptian fantasy which she acts with grace and charm.

Miss Garland is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Garland, the former a well-known legalist and Harvard graduate. Miss Garland has given special dances at the last two children's parties at the New Ocean House, her interpretation of the Pavlowa Gavotte being exquisite.

SWAMPSCOTT refuses to believe that the summer is anywhere near over. Like the majority of folks who stay on the North Shore as long as they can, Swampscottites are ready for at least six weeks' more enjoyment on the upper shore, there to make use of the numberless pastimes which this section affords tourists and those who have their own cottage for the summer.

The big event this week on the Swampscott shore—and for the season, for that matter—was the mid-summer ball at the Tedesco Country club on Wednesday evening. This was an occasion where everyone on the upper bend of the shore turned out and there were practically a thousand guests of the club that evening. Everything went off according to schedule and it was termed the most successful of any of the mid-summer dances ever held at the Tedesco—and they have been held for the past four seasons.

The clubhouse was a scene of rare brilliancy. The decorations were most complete and beautiful. Flowers without number were strewn in profusion about every nook and cranny of the house and verandas; myriads of vari-colored electric bulbs cast their soft iridescence about the golf course which loomed up in the darkness back of the clubhouse. Everywhere there was activity. Hundreds of motors throbbed impatiently to unload their never-ending chain of gay revellers and sent the rays of their searchlights beaming along the roads.

Everywhere there was gaiety and good nature in the throng that danced along the verandas and through the interior of the clubhouse. There was a never-ending battle of music. In a tent overlooking the rear veranda was the Salem Cadet band. When the band ceased playing a dance number Sharpe's orchestra of Boston, enlarged for the occasion, caught up a different air and the dancers hardly paused for breath—and—danced some more. The verandas were used for dancing and the lounge, dining, tea and card rooms were used as one immense ball room. Both exterior and interior were completely hidden in a bower of greenery culled from the woods about Swampscott. The greenery was enhanced by hundreds of tiny electric bulbs, such as are seen on Christmas trees. Combined with these decorations were thousand of flowers, given for the occasion by many of the ladies of the club. Flowers from the choicest gardens on the upper shore were seen showered everywhere.

The hundreds of beautifully gowned ladies made a scene that was more than charming; it was enhanced by the surrounding decorations. There were large marquees set on the lawn about the clubhouse on either side for the accommodation of those who merely wished to watch the dancers.

The dancing started at 8.15 and the last strain of the orchestra and band were not heard until 1 o'clock had sounded. It was 30 minutes later before the final throb of purring motors was heard on the Tedesco green.

At the dinner preceding the dancing there were 350 covers. All of the rooms, with the enclosed verandas, formed one large dining room. Practically everyone socially prominent in the club's activities had one or more tables. The diners were found in jolly groups ranging from a party of five or six, to one of 20 or more.

The affair was in charge of the house committee, Charles H. Conway, chairman; George A. Dill and Frank M. Sawtell.

The flower decorations, which greatly enhanced the effect of the clubhouse were contributed from the gardens of the following ladies: Mrs. A. W. Preston, Mrs. George A. Dill, Mrs. C. M. Boyd, Mrs. Fred McQuesten, Mrs. E. H. Clapp, Mrs. P. B. Palmer, Mrs. A. M. Whitney, Mrs. W. A. Paine, Mrs. R. E. Traiser, Mrs. A. E. Little, Mrs. W. L. Terhune, Mrs. M. P. Clough, Mrs. W. E. Plummer, Mrs. W. F. Watters, Mrs. F. H. Gage and Mrs. H. E. Gale.

On Tuesday, ladies' day at the Tedesco, many of the cottagers in the Swampscott colony entertained friends at luncheon and bridge. Mrs. L. G. Burnham entertained a party of 18 that afternoon at luncheon and dancing following. The same day Mrs. Grant Fairbanks entertained 12 dinner guests. Mrs. E. W. Cobb had eight luncheon guests on Tuesday. Mrs. E. R. Grabow of the New Ocean house was at the Tedesco on Tuesday with

The Lincoln House starts out on its new month with a house nearly filled with resorters who have come to the Swampscott shore for stays of varying lengths. There is plenty in the social line to attract them.

The New Oakland House, likewise, is having a busy month. This house usually remains open until the first of October and many stay down until that time. From weather conditions this season it would seem reasonable to presume that a little warm weather will arrive during the Indian summer late in the season and this will be just what the Oakland management will welcome. The house is a busy place with its dancing these days, an instructor from New York having large classes daily.

MARBLEHEAD and the Neck. Unblemished and unappalled by the rainy weather, the Marblehead shore and along the Neck waterfront continues in its summer stride with the snap and dash of seasons of old. Yacht clubs, hotels and estates all show a liveliness that is encouraging. The dull times bugaboo that is seizing some people at this time is plainly not felt along the upper shore, at least at Marblehead.

The really big social and sporting event of the season will come with this week-end when the New York Y. C. makes its visit to the Marblehead shore. It will this year be marked by a big harbor illumination, fireworks display

Saturday evening the harbor will be illuminated with red fire; the illumination will stretch from Point neck to Fort Sewall. The fireworks will be set off from Fort Sewall this year, instead of from a harbor float. During the evening there will be a band concert at the Eastern Y. Deed has been recorded at the Salem registry transferring title in the lot of land on the southwesterly side of Harbor street, Marblehead Neck, from Frank L. Ripley of Boston, a summer resident, to Mrs. Edith S. Morss of Boston. The latter buys for improvement, planning to enlarge her garden space. Geo. A. Dill of Boston was the broker.

Herbert L. Bowden has decided to remain at the Corinthian Y. C. throughout this month. He has put his speed launch Mercedes into commission again and will be a familiar figure from now on in this speedy craft.

The recital of "Lohengrin" to be given by Mrs. Fred McQuesten at her Marblehead Neck estate next Wednesday afternoon promises to be one of the events of the upper shore season. One-third of the proceeds, it is announced, will go to the war relief fund. A long list of patronesses which numbers many prominent society ladies from all parts of the shore is included in the leaders of this affair.

The Corinthian Y. C. is planning to charter a tug to follow the races next Wednesday, providing sufficient members are interested in doing so.

There were about 150 covers laid for diners at the band concert at the Corinthian Y. C. last Monday evening. The Salem Cadet band played. The foggy and near rainy weather did not keep the crowd from coming down for the concert.

Mrs. Edwin A. Shuman made a delightful hostess on Friday afternoon to the Ladies Whist club of Marblehead Neck at her cottage "Mollhurst." After bridge, luncheon was served, covers being set for the following ladies—Mrs. William Terhune, Mrs. George Brown, and Mrs. Edward Brown of Phillips Beach, Mrs. Oscar Shepard, Mrs. Fred McQuesten and Mrs. Cyrus Baker of Marblehead Neck and Mrs. Emmy Brown of the Copley-Plaza and Tea Room, Swampscott. The table was tastefully decorated and unique favors were presented each guest.

Miss Esther A. Clark of New York has taken the Goddard cottage on the Neck through August.

CLIFTON seems to have quite a complete summer colony with the beginning of August. This section is quite unlike other parts of the shore, from the fact that its summer population is confined to the cottagers and those on the estates in the majority. The hotel population of Clifton is small.

Frank E. Cutter of Cambridge has conveyed to Arthur P. Teele of Waltham 19,907 square feet of land at Clifton Heights.

Guy Merrill of the Clifton colony is building a new garage next his summer place at the corner of Humphrey street and Rockaway avenue.

Eugene V. Earle, once a summer resident of Clifton, has just bought a tract of farm land numbering 150 acres at Kennebunkport, Me., which he is already occupying with his family.

A. T. Thompson and family of Boston are at Stearns beach for the rest of the season.

YORK HARBOR is looking forward with keen interest to its leading affair of the season next Friday and Saturday, August 13 and 14, when a pageant illustrating the history of the dance will be produced by a cast of fifty amateurs trained by Murray Anderson of New York and assisted by "Tencita" the Spanish dancer from Bustanoby's, New York. The first form of dancing known dates back to the days of Pharaoh when all properly conducted funerals were preceded by a dancer. Following the Egyptian introduction the Grecians used dancers in all forms of entertainment, and twelve Grecian girls will bring a note of gaiety after the Egyptian procession. In succession come the French Pavanne, a stately dance often done by two women whose long trains symbolize the peacock from which the name is taken. A mazurka or Polish festival dance follows, and a gavotte of the time of Watteau. The stately minuet of Colonial days and finally the waltz as it was danced in crinoline, with steps as elaborate as the fox trot and tango of today, and quite as much in vogue, and quite as much criticised as the onlookers criticise any new form of dancing when it is first introduced. The pageant will be given in the Lancaster on the evening of Aug. 13 and repeated on the afternoon of Saturday, the 14, in the Sayward Pines. It is given for the benefit of saving these same pine woods from destruction. Tickets for the evening from one dollar up and for the afternoon fifty cents.

ROCKPORT, MASS.

CAPE ANN. Again, the weather disturber has visited this section during the past week and caused the rain and fog to mar the out-door pastimes considerably. The disagreeable weather has interfered much with the arrival of the August hotel guests. The tea house veranda is less frequented while the bathing beach and the golf course are also not so well patronized. One popular hotel on the Cape had steam heat turned on Monday and it was comfortable at the end of the cape where the east wind sweeps in and "takes hold" of the summer visitor not so well acclimated to the invigorating atmosphere. It is a matter of considerable conjecture as to when Lady Fair-weather will come and smile pleasantly upon us for an extended season.

Gloucester Day has been set for Tuesday, August 17, almost two weeks hence, and the Gloucester Day Committee and Ladies' Auxiliary are making preparations for the observance of the day that shall prove of interest and enjoyment to all citizens and summer folks. Among the notables who will attend are the Italian Ambassador and Countess Cellere of Beverly Farms, and most likely, the English Ambassador and family, who are summering at Manchester, providing other arrangements do not conflict. Mayor Barrett has written to the department at Washington, asking that one or more ships be sent here for the observance. The proceeds to be derived from the booths at Stage Fort Park on Gloucester Day will be given to the Huntress Home on Prospect street. Some of the old ladies at the home are at present making some fancy work for the tables. Mrs. John Hays Hammond, who is very much interested in the Huntress Home sent in a check of $100 recently to the trustees, for the Home. The Gloucester Suffragists will have a tent on the park, Gloucester Day and they have kindly volunteered to look after and entertain the aged ladies from the Huntress and Gilbert Homes, who will be special guests of the day. John Hays Hammond, a member of the celebration committee has offered a silver cup to be competed for, between two baseball teams at the park on that day. Other cups by prominent citizens will be offered for the most attractively decorated booth, and second best decorations, also for the best trades exhibit. Among the decidedly interesting attractions, directly from the Hippodrome, New York, are the five acrobats who perform 50 feet in air and the "hay wagon," one of the funniest stunts in vaudeville on the road. Then there will be Prof. Katz, the human bomb, who from a balloon, 3000 feet in the air, shoots out of a cannon and makes three sensational parachute drops and an aerial balloon ascension at night, with fireworks display by the former. It is wished to be understood that the Huntress Home is not a sectarian institution, the only requirement for admission being that a person shall be a native of Gloucester. Scores of workers for the coming celebration are not Gloucester born, but are heartily interested in the worthy object for which the Gloucester Day Committee and Ladies Auxiliary are working.

It is expected that the New York Yacht club fleet will be in port on August 9, the Gloucester Day of the Gloucester Yacht club, when the Massachusetts Yacht Racing Union will be entertained here. The big race will be held on the morning of the ninth.

A notable occasion in Gloucester on Monday of this week was the 47th annual reunion of the Eight Massachusetts Regiment Veteran association. The members of this association are the veterans of one of the first regiments to answer the call for troops in 1861 and Company G, the local "minute men" of the civil war, was a part of the organization. Following the business meeting at Grand Army hall on Washington street, the association and guests took a special car for Briar Neck, where a fine dinner was served at Good Harbor Beach Inn.

The state armory on Prospect street was the scene of a brilliant gathering on Thursday evening last, when the crew of the U. S. S. Dolphin at anchor in the harbor, gave a grand ball to the citizens of the city of Gloucester, Post 45 of the Grand Army of the Republic and its kindred organizations, officers of the Dolphin, many summer residents and visitors from out-of-town. Fully 1200 people were present at this grand social function. Commander Lincoln and executive officer, Lieut. Hardigan gave every assistance to their men for this great success. The Dolphin orchestra, under the efficient direction of G. De Giorgio, rendered the music of the evening. The armory was gorgeously decorated with flags of nations, except those at war, and pennants. At intermission refreshments of ice-cream and cake and lemonade were served and ladies were presented with carnations.

ANNISQUAM. This attractive locality is practically filled with the summer host. The hotels are crowded and all cottages with a few exceptions are being occupied. August promises to be a very lively and busy month in Annisquam. Interest increases in the tennis tournament now on at the Annisquam Yacht club and at every opportunity, between the showers the players are battling on for supremacy. Much interest is centered in the village fair, to be held at Village hall on Wednesday, August 11, for the benefit of the Universalists. The summer folks of Annisquam are much interested in this annual affair and attractive posters with water color design are placed in the hotels and in conspicuous places about the village.

Lobster Cove, Annisquam, has been filled with pleasure craft for the past week, twelve or fifteen yachts being anchored with parties on board.

EAST GLOUCESTER. The season here is now in full swing and many of the hotels are securing accommodations for guests at private houses in the vicinity of the resorts.

Mrs. William Sheafe of Eastern Point, reports excellent work being done at the Gloucester branch of the French Wounded Emergency Fund of which she is in charge. She has 55 enrolled as helpers, and about 30 are always in attendance. So far 5285 surgical appliances have been prepared for the Boston office.

The annual carnival bal masque, which is a big event of the season and is much anticipated by Hawthorne Inn guests and cottagers of the Eastern Point colony, will be held in the Inn Casino, August 21, at 8 p. m. The queen is to be chosen by popular vote and posters are placed in conspicuous places at the Inn announcing this fact. Each vote costs a penny.

The annual bazaar for the benefit of the Gloucester Fishermen's Institute will take place on Friday of next week at the Hawthorne Inn Casino, opening in the morning and continuing throughout the day. The summer folk always take great interest in this event and undoubtedly there will be the usual liberal patronage to encourage the work of the Lending Hand Society in charge and the work of the Institute for the Gloucester fishermen's welfare.

On Monday afternoon and evening of next week a "lemon squeeze" and lawn fete will be held at the Hotel

Rockaway, Rocky Neck, afternoon and evening. There will be cake, candy and punch booths, besides attractions such as the "African dodger," "grab folks," etc. The guests at the house are very active in preparing for the fete, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the twenty-five-cent table at the big Elks' fair to be held in Gloucester City Hall in the autumn. The entertainments at the fete will be furnished by Mrs. Martha Atwood-Baker of Boston. The booths will be handsomely decorated and the piazzas will be used for the serving of tea, and a stage is to be built for the entertainers. The place will be illuminated at night.

Martha Atwood Baker, the Boston soprano, was hostess at a dinner party Sunday evening at the Rockaway hotel, East Gloucester, to the quartet of the Summer church at Nahant, of which she is a member. BASS ROCKS. The showery and unsettled weather has interfered much with golfing and tennis the past week. Things have been rather quiet socially. On Tuesday evening there was a large audience at the Moorland Casino, when Wilford Russel, the English baritone, gave a very pleasing recital for the benefit of the hospital fund for the English sick and wounded soldiers.

Among the Westerners spending the summer at Gloucester are the E. W. Shields of Kansas City, who have a cottage at 213 Atlantic Road, Bass Rocks. Miss Margaret Carter and Edwin Dunlap of Kansas City are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Shields at present. The party planned to start the latter part of this week on a motor trip to the White Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Booth, of Detroit, the former a prominent newspaper owner in the West, gave a delightful children's party on last Friday afternoon at Hotel Thorwald, Bass Rocks, where they are stopping, in honor of the seventh birthday of their attractive little daughter, Virginia. The ballroom of the Thorwald was brilliantly decorated with flowers and greenery and music was rendered by a violinist and pianist. All the children of the hotel were bidden to the festivities and it was very interesting to see them in their fancy costumes as Indians, flower girls, baseball players, etc. The parents of the children were also invited to attend the party. The favors to the children were pretty baskets filled with candy. Miss Virginia was the recipient of many handsome tokens of best wishes. Outdoor games were indulged in and the children had a happy time long to be remembered. A finely prepared birthday luncheon was served indoors for the children and the older folks were served to a buffet lunch.

A dance on Tuesday evening at the Thorwald was an enjoyable occasion for the guests. Last Friday evening there was much pleasure for the ladies who were pardoned for a misdemeanor. When a lady left her own partner and gently tapped the shoulder of a friend's partner, she danced away with him.

Mrs. S. M. Strauss and daughter, Miss Adele Strauss, of New York City, have arrived at the Thorwald for a sojourn.

Last Saturday evening the guests of the Thorwald gathered in the music room to hear a lecture on "Wireless Telegraphy," given by Arthur Nickerson, the wireless operator at the hotel. Mr. Nickerson brought down his apparatus from the tower to illustrate his talk.

Mr. and Mrs. James Carey, Jr., of Baltimore, the former an owner of the Carey Machine Company, are at the Thorwald for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Andrews of Detroit are guests at the Thorwald.

Rev. William Force Whitaker of Elizabeth, N. J., is at the Thorwald for an extended stay.

Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Love, children and maid, of Montclair, N. J., are again at the Thorwald this season for a sojourn.

Henry C. Brent of Kansas City, Mo., has joined his wife at the Thorwald for an extended sojourn.

Col. John D. Hall, U. S. A. (retired), and wife, of Washington, are at the Thorwald, Bass Rocks.

I. M. Wilson of Newburgh, N. Y., prominent in settlement work, and his nephew, Fred W. Banks, are at the Thorwald.

T. M. Banks, Jr., and family, of Williamstown, are at the Thorwald. Mr. Banks is editor and manager of the Williams College Alumni Review.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Porter, of Washington, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Berkey of Grand Rapids, and Mr. and Mrs. George Worden of Detroit, are registered at Hotel Thorwald, Bass Rocks, for the remainder of the season.

Late arrivals at the Rockaway are: C. G. E. Speidel, Cincinnati, O.; Leland F. Shugart, Washington, D. C.; Miss M. L. Duyer, Somerville; Henry R. Church, Springfield; Thomas Shugart, Jr., New York; Edna E. and Caroline Affeld, Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Seward Davis, Miss Florence W. Davis, Edmund T. Davis, 2d, Seaward Davis, Jr., Montclair, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Maynard, Donald B. Maynard, Worcester.

Rev. Alfred Griffin, assistant rector of Trinity Church, New York City, is at the Harbor View for a sojourn.

F. M. Tibbott of Newtonville has joined his father at the Harbor View.

MYSTERY ISLAND is having its share of gay parties from the Shore. The Saturday evening dinner-dances are proving very popular, and all join in saying the orchestra is the best they have heard for dancing at any of the popular places. Among the guests recently at the Casino were: Louis Benton, Mystery Island; J. C. Fairchild, Boston; Charles Harding, Dedham; Mr. and Mrs. W. Gordon Means, Beverly Farms; Lieut. C. De Chevalier, U. She—Mr. Jones is a fine man; one of the few, in fact, that stand for real progress. He says he likes to see two trees where one used to be.

He—He certainly lives up to that, and more, too. When I took him home last night he was seeing six or seven where one used to be!

EDITORIAL

IT IS A PHILANTHROPIC ENTERPRISE that is being conducted by our Shore residents under the direction of Mrs. Frank Bemis in the coach house of Mrs. Walter Denégre at West Manchester. Every Monday and Thursday with devotion and efficiency a large number of the summer colonists have gathered to prepare surgical dressings and other needed materials for the French Hospitals. From the coach house the bandages are sent to the Bent hospital and to the Boston City Hospital. When sterilized they are packed in hermetically sealed tins and are conveyed to England and France. The Cunard Steamship Company carries such material without charge. Thus the link completes this chain of philanthropic cooperation. It is a thousand pities that the work must needs be done, but it is a satisfaction to realize that there are human hearts with humane instincts willing and glad to do such interesting and helpful work.

THE SUMMER SEASON brings with it a toll of death. Despite the inclemency of the winter one may well say that the summer months are the most dangerous of all. The folly of mushroom gathering by ignorant summer visitors is a prolific cause of pain and death. The North Shore does produce edible mushrooms growing wild and for a month or six weeks they will be at their best. The season seems to have been favorable to their growth. But there are many toadstools of deceptive appearance that are deadly poison. If you are not an expert, and even experienced men make errors, it will be better to leave the mushrooms ungathered. Safety first begins by total abstinence.

THERE HAS BEEN a tightening of the reins of the law upon motorists violating the law concerning the operation of motor vehicles while under the influence of liquor. An automobile is a dangerous machine at all times, but when operated by a man under the influence of liquor it becomes a great menace to public safety. In the past there has been a tendency to administer the law leniently against such offenders, but now there has been such a prevalence of this offense the reins have been drawn tighter. This is as it should be. Leniency invites a repetition of the offense. Careful pedestrians should be protected from such criminal driving. Alcohol and gasoline do not mix well.

THE MOTOR ACCIDENTS continue and the surprising thing is that there are not more of them. When the percentage of accidents is worked out the injuries and accident rates are not high.

THE CAMP AT PLATTSBURG begins this week with a full delegation from the vicinity of Boston. The plans of the camp were arranged hastily and success is already assured.

THE NORTH SHORE will long remember the brave efforts that Rev. Arthur Pingree made to save the members of the Girls' camp at Gloucester. Dr. Pingree died a hero's death.

THERE ARE BOUND TO BE more automobile accidents in the future than in the past. The cars are growing one year older and even if a large number are turned in and new ones purchased the old cars pass into the hands of other owners and they are put upon the road. As the years go by the deterioration on an automobile is great. The time may come when the state will compel the owners of vehicles to present their motors for examination as to their safety for use on the public highways. The public ought to have the right to deny unreasonable "risks" the privileges of the highway. The man who runs a car for hire is carefully examined, why should not the auto he drives be subject to examination. The jitney problem is a small one compared with the larger question of the "unsafe cars" that are on the road.

NOW THAT GERMANY has received School Master Wilson's instruction, the President will have to turn his attentions to the English problem. Because of the leanings in America toward the Allies the public has lost sight of the injustice that has been done by England to America. American commercial rights have been violated and President Wilson has no enviable task in straightening out our relations with that government. The freedom of the seas must be preserved and whether the violations come at the hands of the Allies or of the Germans, America must make its dignified and effective protest.

THE NORTH SHORE has always recognized the advantages which its natural situation has provided, the beauties of the seashore and the pleasures of the woodland. The towns along the Shore have begun careful operations in the interests of forest conservations. Fortunately the Shore has been protected and quite free from the destructive forest fires that have been such a menace to the South Shores of Massachusetts. To neglect the careful conservation of the forest land about would be shortsighted.

THE NEWS FROM THE FIELD of battle tells the story of the holding of the trenches in Belgium and France, of the campaign's progress in Russia and the attacks upon the Dardanelles. No news of import comes from the Italian forces. Something is brewing in that direction. For nine months Italy was preparing for war and planning for war. The prepared troops are evidences of prepared plans. What are those plans?

TO A LAYMAN the fluctuations of the stock market under the influences of war news and labor strikes are incomprehensible. Even the bulls and bears do not always understand the mercurial changes that take place.

THE NEWS FROM RUSSIA informs us that the nineteen-year old school boys have been called to the colors for training! What a cruel, relentless monster war is.

WHO PAYS FOR the paper increases in the war baby stocks,

THE MILITARY PREPAREDNESS MOVEMENT has crept into politics in an amazing way. It will not down. Ex-President Roosevelt has opened fire and it would appear that he hopes to make military preparedness a campaign theme for the coming political battles. The demand that the standing army be increased to two hundred thousand does not appear to be militaristic. Even the administration has jumped a political somersault and is avowedly in favor of an increase in the army and navy. But the honor for the movement should go to Congressman Augustus Peabody Gardner of this district. He "saw it first." With heroic patience and deliberation he has been reiterating his doctrine of preparedness. Congressman Gardner is a man of peace, but his experience in the war zone last summer opened his eyes and his message was inevitable. If military preparedness is to be made an issue the parties will neutralize each other by coming out in advocacy of it.

THE WAR HAS HAD its effect upon American immigration conditions, for immigration has fallen off remarkably during the last nine months and emigration has increased proportionately. The net increase has been less than eight thousand, as against seven hundred thousand in another recent year. At this time it is impossible to foresee what will transpire after the war has ended. There are those who believe that the war will stimulate immigration and there are those who believe that there will be more opportunities in the old world and that there will be consequently a larger emigration from America to Europe. In that event the present immigration conditions will persist for a long time after the war. It is to be hoped that such conditions may arise, for America should have a rest and be given time to assimilate the mass that has already arrived.

IT IS NOW CERTAIN that within a very few years if not months a traction motor will be put upon the market that will be of incalculable service in ploughing and other agricultural enterprises. Such a motor will revolutionize field work where farmers have been dependent upon horses. Two hundred dollars is a small amount for such a device. Surprisingly enough the machine will be light. As the inventor says, the cat climbs a tree and escapes from the dog in pursuit. It is not the cat's weight, but its traction power that makes it possible for it to hold its body to the tree and climb. A field motor built with power for traction has been the problem. Now such a motor has been developed.

HOW FORTUNATE it is for America that neither Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Bryan was at the helm of the Ship of State in the present conditions of war. President Wilson has proven himself capable. He has given evidence to his good judgment and tact. Rhetorical ability is one thing and good judgment is another. President Wilson appears to have both factors and it is well for America.

THE GERMAN DIPLOMATIC correspondence has now probably been finished. A favorable and satisfactory reply from the Imperial Government is not looked for. No reply will at least assist in keeping the peace. Already public feeling in America has been aroused too much. A brusque letter from Germany would not be in the interests of either Germany or America.

A NORTH SHORE PASTOR was not far from right when he asserted that nations as well as individuals must learn the art of forgiveness and gentleness of spirit.

THE NUMBER OF DROWNING ACCIDENTS makes us all pause. These conditions might be materially changed if each boy and girl was taught how to swim. One college has gone so far in its demands in this direction that no undergraduate can receive a degree until he "has passed" in swimming. It would be well if every boy and girl could be compelled to learn to swim. The Lawrence camp for boys at West Goucester is doing a wonderful good, in a small way. Bishop Lawrence has established a camp where choir boys from various Episcopal churches go for one or two weeks at a time. This week the boys from Christ Church, Andover, are there. Last week and the week previous the boys from the church at Peabody, under the charge of Pastor Green had the camp. One of the routine features of the day was swimming. Some of the boys could not take a stroke when they first went there, but when camp broke last Saturday there was not one of the boys but could swim to the little raft about forty feet off shore.

THE RAPIDITY with which the subscriptions for the Guild Memorial Fund have come in is a testimony to the influence and position that the late Mr. Guild had in Massachusetts. The committee in charge has not come to a decision as to the form of the memorial, but it may be trusted to come to an appropriate decision. There are five thousand dollars still needed to bring the amount of the fund up to the requirements of the memorial and this amount ought to be forth coming at an early date. One of the most interesting features concerning the increases in the funds have been the large number of small contributions. The memorial will assuredly be a popular one.

MR. WANAMAKER SUGGESTS that money be raised to the amount of a hundred million dollars if necessary to purchase Belgium from Germany and restore the conquered land to the Belgian people. But what Germany wishes is not the indemnity, but the territory. Germany would like to have an opening to the sea. If the province were purchased, in another generation the territory might again be desired. Belgium thought she was safe back of the bulwarks of a neutrality pact, but that confidence was misplaced. Mr. Wanamaker has a brilliant mind, but we cannot but question the desirability and advisability of such an undertaking.

THE SUBMARINE held the field so effectively during the first months of the war that it appeared that the days of the battleship were numbered. The experts are now beginning to realize the limitations of such frail crafts and it is more than evident that the ironclad will be improved and in the near future dreadnaughts of mammoth proportions will be constructed. In fact before the war is over it is not unlikely that the keels will be laid for naval crafts that could not pass through the Panama canal.

AN AMERICAN WOMAN of wealth has richly endowed the modern hospital at Rome and has made it possible for Policlinico to continue its work with less financial embarrassment. American wealth is doing good the world over.

IT WOULD NOT BE a bad policy for our schools to have a short course in "safety first" principles. Such instruction would be of more practical value than permutations and commutations.

MANCHESTER BOY SCOUTS SUMMER CAMP.

If proper arrangements can be made, the Manchester Boy Scouts will go on their annual camping trip to Lake Province, N. H., Aug. 17 or 18, remaining in camp fourteen days.

This camp is open to all boys in Manchester between the ages of 12 and 18. Full particulars concerning the camp may be had of Rev. A. G. Warner, 56 School street, Manchester.

The camp is maintained for the financial gain of no one. It is an effort by friends of the boys to cooperate with the boys of the town for a vacation amid mountain and lake scenery under healthful and wholesome conditions. No boy in Manchester is denied its privileges and advantages.

The Red Men's picnic at Tuck's Point Thursday of last week like all of the annual outings under the auspices of this order, proved a most enjoyable occasion for the large number of members and their families that attended. The dinner consisted of fish and clam chowders, coffee, etc. Ice cream was served in the afternoon, also punch. The various athletic events were won by the following: Throwing ball, Ruth Brooks; doughnut race, George Brooks, 1st., Eddie Croteau, 2d; boys running race, won by Nelson Butler, Lawrence Croteau, 2d; girls running race, won by Miss Spry, Ruth Brooks, 2d; boys potato race, won by Revere Brooks, Lawrence Croteau, 2d; girls potato race, won by Ruth Brooks, Annie Edgecomb, 2d; nail driving, Mrs. Wade Brooks; wheelbarrow race, Mrs. E. F. Preston.

It is gratifying to note the increasing extent which is being made of the Manchester inner harbor as an anchorage for yachts, large and small, of both sail and power types. Manchester harbor is one of the safest on the coast, and yachtsmen are gradually getting to know this. The whole inner harbor has been dredged and is perfectly safe. Another noticeable thing is the increasing use of the town floats as a landing place for parties from large cruisers and yachts from the outer harbor. People motor to the pier at the park and embark on motor boats and tenders for the larger boats in the outer harbor.

THE WM. LAWRENCE CAMP

It was our pleasure a few days ago to visit the boys camp maintained by the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts, at the end of Stanwood avenue on Stanwood point, in West Gloucester. At the time we were there twenty choir boys from the St. Paul's Episcopal church in Peabody, under the charge of Rev. Allen Greene, were occupying the camp, all brown as a nut and looking as if the out-of-door life and salt water bathing was the life nature intended for boys. Separate from the main cottage is a dormitory with 15 or 20 beds in it, and the camp is equipped with row boats, a bathing float, shower bath, etc. Every two weeks a new batch of boys come to the camp. The week before the Peabody choir came, there was a group of boys from Hyde Park, and now this week there are a lot of boys from Andover. The camp is named the "William Lawrence Camp," after the Bishop of the diocese. One's thoughts evaporate into happy fancy-land in making an attempt to calculate the amount of joy such institutions as this bring to so many boy hearts.

SAY SUFFRAGISTS FEARED CLUB VOTE

Replying to a statement issued by officers of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, in which the declaration was made that the indorsement of the suffrage movement at the federation's recent annual meeting in Marion was a fair expression of opinion, a communication has been issued by Mrs. Bertrand E. Taylor, Miss Edith Melvin and Mrs. William Lowell Putnam.

They charge that the meeting was an effort of machine suffragists to capture at a master stroke the male vote in November by trying to make the men believe the majority of the women want to vote. They also characterize the meeting as being the best of arguments against woman suffrage. The letter reads:

Dear Sir: Four of the seven members of the council of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs have signed a circular letter regarding the recent annual meeting, held at Marion, which, although it lacks the signatures of the three other members of the council, nevertheless requires an answer.

It is with great regret that we learn that we were misinformed with regard to the date on which the notice of the suffrage resolution was received by the clubs. We had understood that it was received on June 1, but after careful inquiry we learn that some of the clubs received the notice during the last week in May—some of them a few days earlier—and some not at all.

By the time this notice was received the clubs had held their last meetings for the year—the number of clubs which had not done so is so small as to be insignificant as far as the principle involved is concerned. The statement made in the circular, "The object of the federation as defined in the constitution, 'To secure more thorough acquaintance among Women's clubs of Massachusetts and to unify their work along educational, sociological and humanitarian lines,'" is entirely misleading, for Art. 3, Sec. 1 defines the kind of work to be undertaken as follows: "Any woman's club in Massachusetts which is regularly organized with constitution or by-laws with objects unsectarian and non-partisan is eligible to membership in the Federation." (The italics are ours.) It is moreover difficult, according to their own limited quotation, to see how they expect to "unify" the work of the Federation by introducing a subject about which the feeling ran so high that no "educational, sociological and humanitarian" work beyond the perfunctory reading of reports was given a moment's consideration at the annual meeting.

That the convention was made up of "accredited delegates" remains to be proved, for at least one delegate present and voting at the convention still has in her pocket her ticket as delegate not countersigned by the credentials committee and not asked for at the door.

*****

This meeting was an effort on the part of the machine suffragists to capture, at a master stroke, the male vote in November by trying to make men believe that majority of women want to vote, but the meeting itself was the best argument against woman suffrage ever presented in this state; it was evident that the suffragists were afraid of the vote of the club women if they were fairly notified, just as they were afraid of the women's vote at the polls and killed the Drury bill which called for a referendum of the women as to their wishes in the matter. The attempt to befog the issue by calling this referendum a "straw vote" is the merest nonsense—the actuating motive in both cases was fear.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE NOTES.

The Manchester Equal Suffrage League held a morning meeting on Thursday of this week, at Mrs. Leach's new Tea Room. Several of the summer colony were present, and among the new members enrolled were Mrs. Frederick Dumaine, Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby, Miss Mary Stone and others. Mrs. Leach's new Tea-House was much admired, and considerable business was transacted, which included plans for the arrival of the state Campaign Canvassers on August 24th, the meeting at Mrs. Amory Eliot's on Sept. 3 (when Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale will speak) and other plans. The President spoke with sorrow and regret of the sad death of Mrs. R. H. Dana, who was a Suffragist, and in this connection also spoke of the late Mrs. Fields. Both of these rare women are a great loss to Manchester, to the Woman's Cause and to the world. And it is a significant fact that women of such fine quality and wide and deep sympathies as Mrs. Fields and Mrs. Dana are almost inevitably Suffragists. Together with their loss we must feel their inspiration.

The recent meeting of women in the Chapel at Manchester was held in a friendly "get together" spirit and in the interest of a better understanding here of the meaning of the Woman Movement (which includes the women's clubs). The Anti-Suffragists—or rather the one Anti who was present—tried to introduce the spirit of controversy with aggressive questions which were not much to the point; but the tact and dignity of Mrs. Gilson's replies (for she did reply) averted all unpleasantness. The question about the Drury Bill (the attempt to have a straw vote instead of a real vote on the Suffrage Amendment) has been answered many times and is an old story. The Antis not only have the "spirit of Split," as someone has called it, but they are clinging to the past and therefore are endlessly harping on matters which have passed into history. But the word now, as of old, is—"Tell the Israelites to go forward." We like to think that we Americans are the "chosen people" of this day, and the Suffragists are helping the country to go forward. It is true that the women of Manchester, as of other small towns, are behind-hand in the Woman Movement—or partly so. But there is a steadily growing group of thinking women here. And in time Manchester will swing into line with the rest of the state, even as Massachusetts will swing into line with the rest of the United States,—and the whole world will at last swing into line with our country in the causes of Peace and Progress, Freedom and Democracy.

Miss Prinnie Dodge, with a Normal school friend Miss May Fielding left Tuesday for a two weeks' trip to the White Mountains.

The Salem Merchants' association is to hold its annual outing at Tuck's Point, Wednesday, August 18th. A big clam-bake is to be the feature of the afternoon.

The board of assessors are working on the books and expect to be in a position to announce the tax rate about the middle of the month. No great increase is anticipated over the $10 rate of last year.

Chiefs of Police of Essex County towns and cities, to the number of 25, held an outing at Tuck's Point last Friday, as guests of Chief Sullivan of Manchester. A clam chowder was served shortly after noon.

The white markers in the shape of little monuments, introduced in Manchester streets a fortnight ago as a means of guiding traffic, are fulfilling a useful purpose. They are placed at the more dangerous corners.

THE Manchester Boy Scouts had a most delightful outing last Saturday, July 31, at the beautiful home of Miss Lila Lancashire, "Graftonwood." Thirty scouts left town at 11.55 and twenty minutes later were welcomed by Miss Lancashire at her home. The boys then learned that an extensive program of sports had been arranged for their amusement.

After enjoyment of water sports, luncheon was served on the attractive beach. When the boys had paid their respects to the delicacies daintily served for them, the races of the afternoon were run off in the following order:

Equipment race, won by Harry Baker; senior three-legged race, won by Harry Baker and Gordon Baker; junior three-legged race, won by Sidney Baker and Thomas Peters; wheelbarrow race, won by Eddie Peters and Revere Brooks; potato race, won by Carleton Needham, Edward Northrup, 2d; 100-yard dash, won by Dana Lane, Harry Baker, 2d.

After the sports, the Scouts gave their Sunrise Flag Drill, followed by their drill in the School of Squads formation, closing with their Sunset Flag Drill.

The Scouts then assembled on the lawn and gave the America yell most lustily to their generous hostess for the enjoyable outing she had made possible for them.

Miss Lancashire kindly placed her automobile at the service of the boys for their homeward trip.

MANCHESTER, 4; WATERTOWN, 1.

The Manchester baseball team kept up its good work last Saturday by defeating the Watertowns by a score of 4 to 1. Harold Grover, Manchester's popular left-handed pitcher, shut out the visitors until the last inning, when on an error one of the Watertown boys got on first, then with a couple of timely hits a run was put across home plate.

The grounds were not in the best of condition, because of the rain. In fact, up until noon it looked much as if it would not be possible to play. The Watertown boys arrived on the 3.19 train, and the game was underway a little after 3.30. A fair crowd was out. Collins, Manchester's first-sacker, and Bond, left fielder, did not showup. Crafts took Bond's place, and Jones, who has charge of the bathhouse at the Masconomo—a college player—was procured for first base. He played a great game, hitting well and covering his position in grand style.

Grover struck out 18 men. Sheridan, the visitors' twirler, fanned seven. Manchester connected for nine safe hits, while Watertown took four off Grover. The Watertown team is the best that has played at Manchester all season, with the exception of Queen Quality.

O'Leary came across with one of his customary home-runs in the third inning. The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9

Manchester will cross bats tomorrow afternoon with the strong Lynnhursts of Lynn. A good, fast game may be looked for.

The series between Manchester and Beverly, to have been started tomorrow, is off until the end of the month, when the Beverly and Maples series are over. The latter were arranged for before the Manchester-Beverly series were talked over, but as the Maples' season was slow in starting owing to their having a new field in Salem, the games are only started. It will be August 28th, at least, before Manchester and Beverly will get together.

Manchester beat the Maples, it will be recalled. Beverly won the first game of the series. Last Saturday there was no game because of grounds.

BEGINNING OF THE END.

N. S. H. S. FLOWER SHOW

RAIN FLOODS TENT—SHOW CALLED OFF. SOME BEAUTIFUL DISPLAYS.

The annual Summer flower show of the North Shore Horticultural Society opened Wednesday afternoon despite a deluge that flooded the tent where the exhibit was held on the estate of Mrs. R. C. Winthrop, West Manchester. The show was continued another day, however,—but, with no success as far as the weather was concerned.

Among the more notable displays was that of Mrs. H. L. Higginson, who had a number of small exhibits, and won first prize for the best specimen plant lilium auratum and first prize for best dinner table decoration, a rustic arrangement with a miniature tea garden for a centerpiece.

Mrs. W. D. Denegre took second prize for table decoration in sweet peas. Miss Pauline Croll also entered a table decoration in snap dragon.

Mrs. F. P. Frazier won several prizes, including a first for artistically arranged table of hardy herbaceous flowers and first for specimen plant petunia (rosy morn).

Mrs. Lester Leland received many prizes, including a first for best table of flowers arranged for effect, for which Mrs. S. P. Blake took second. Mrs. Leland took first for 12 distinct varieties of specimen plants and Mrs. Lathrop Brown second. Mrs. Leland also received a silver medal for a magnificent group of begonias, first prize for 12 achemines and a certificate for a new geranium.

The vegetable displays were particularly good, Mrs. C. S. Hanks taking first prize for a table very artistically arranged. A silver cup was given to Mrs. Frank B. Bemis for a general collection, and a special prize was awarded Mrs. H. L. Higginson.

The exhibits from the school gardens were especially notable, filling 50 feet of tables.

SUMMER ST. MAGNOLIA

MAGNOLIA

There will be no dance at the Men's club Saturday evening of this week, that date having been given up on account of the entertainment at the Women's club. The regular Wednesday evening dance will be given next week and the Ladies' orchestra of Beverly, which gave such excellent satisfaction at the dance a week ago will play. A dance will be held Saturday evening of next week with Carey's orchestra of Manchester furnishing the music. The moving picture program at the club will feature a new Charlie Chaplin picture, "The Jitney Elopement," and will have also a Lubin drama, "A Decision of the Court," and a one reel comedy, "The Professor's Painless Cure."

A busy month has opened at the Women's club with some splendid entertainments and lectures in view. The dancing class was well attended Tuesday evening and the Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoon classes continue to be popular. Tomorrow night the biggest entertainment of the season will be given to the members of the Women's club without charge. Miss Mary C. Parsons, monologist, reader, and story teller, of Columbia University and the Sargent Dramatic School of New York city, will give a partial program, supplemented by exhibition dancing by Mss Beatrice Long and by some vocal and instrumental music by out-of-town artists. Punch and crackers will be served at the close of the program. An anti-suffrage meeting with a prominent speaker is being arranged for Monday, August 9.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Village church gave its annual fair at the Oceanside hotel Wednesday. It was unfortunately the day of the big storm but the proceeds were most gratifying in spite of that. Home-made candy, aprons, fancy articles and flowers were for sale, and the proceeds amounted to about $350. Those in charge of the tables were: Domestic, Mrs. Jonathan May, Mrs. E. L. Story, and Mrs. W. B. Richardson; Grab, Miss Mary Boyd and Clara Corren; Candy, Mrs. Emma Lowe and Miss Ruth Scott; Flowers, Mrs. Frank Abbott and Miss Abbie May, assisted by Marion Scott and

The August tournaments which have been so popular in the last few seasons will open Monday and entries are being made now. These will be in bowling, pool and checkers. All the rooms at the club have been occupied at the club this week and the restaurant has been doing a rushing business, serving 45 at dinner last Sunday.

MAGNOLIA WOMEN'S CLUB.

The Boston Evening Record of Aug. 4 had a special feature article on the Magnolia Women's Club, written by Katherine Brooks, which was in part as follows:

Women's clubs, as a rule, close their season when summer comes; the city clubrooms are deserted, and the members scattered to the four corners of country, mountains, seashore and fashionable resorts. There is, however, a woman's club, not far from Boston, which is in full swing at this season; which opens its doors just at the time other club doors are closing; and has for members many who rank as clubwomen only in the summer months.

This is the Women's Club at Magnolia.

Magnolia—the name conjures up for most of us a vision of luxurious summer villas; of wooded private estates and trim boulevards; of a vacation paradise having all the charms of the country and the sea, together with all the conveniences and luxuries of the metropolis; of idle days and gay diversions for people who are care-free and who number their vacations by the month, not by the humble two weeks of the toiler—in short, of a playground for Wealth and its companions, Ease and Pleasure.

All this we see as we motor through the Spotless Town of the North Shore, or stroll along its shaded roads.

There is another side, however, that we do not see—the side that caters to all this ease, convenience and pleasure; that runs the motor cars, serves the luncheons and the dinners, fashions the fine gowns and picture hats, keeps the shops going and the villas clean. It is the side of service—that admirable service, so smooth that it effaces itself, and presents to the eyes of the visitor only the aspect of a community running noiselessly by clockwork. What of those who render this service, and who are the most vital part of this, as of all communities? They have lives to live, rest to take and hours in which to snatch occasional diversion.

It is for the women of this type—the type that works, not idles—that the Magnolia Women's Club exists.

It was founded some eight years ago, in response to an urgent need. With all the resources for the wealthy, Magnolia offered few if any resources for the employee. In the long evening after a hot day's work, when the mistress or the customer was dancing, listening to music or taking a moonlight sail, there was nothing for the maid or the little business woman to do but loiter along the shore or the shaded streets and listen to the waves.

The suggestion for a club for these young women came from a clergyman of the town, and the employer class itself became interested and took up the idea. The meetings were at first held in a room over the public library until the present clubhouse was built. It is run by a corporation. At first in debt, it has more than paid expenses, and is now in a most flourishing condition, free of encumbrance and self-supporting.

The clubhouse is situated on Lobster Lane, next door to the little white house used as a tea house and hand-work shop by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union. In front—just across the street, in fact—sparkle the blue waters of Kettle Cove, divided from the picturesque old roadway by a stretch of shore and a low sea wall. The clubhouse is a pretty building, singled, with a piazza that is to all intents and purposes an outdoors sitting room. Beautifully shaded by willow trees, adorned by growing things in garden and window box, it is a building that you would naturally look at twice, and one that would probably make you stop and inquire, "What place is that?"

Miss Helene Phillips Sherman, a Manchester girl, is the manager. Although barely out of school, Miss Sherman is very much of a business maid. She has done newspaper work, and knows the whole North Shore district like the palm of her hand.

It was she who showed me about the clubhouse, for which she apologized, as it was being made ready for a dance in the evening. She herself recalled irresistibly to mind the lines,

"She is pretty to walk with,

And witty to talk with,

And pleasant, too, to think on";

for Miss Sherman is as full of sound sense as she is deliciously ornamental to the eye.

She took me through an entrance hall and a big living-room, good for dancing, into a second and similar room, separated from the first only by a wide arch. In the arch was a piano, and in the further wall a fireplace, over which is inscribed the words of Washington:

"I have always labored to keep alive that little spark of Celestial fire called Conscience."

The hardwood floors are covered with rugs when not used for dancing; there are plenty of chairs around the walls, and a lovely "cosy corner" upholstered in an old blue shade and tufted with cushions.

Upstairs there is a pretty sewing room, facing the bay well lighted by several windows, and furnished with three sewing machines, which members are at liberty to use for their own work.

There are at present more than 200 members and sixteen residents, who pay $5 a week, or $50 a season, for single rooms. Just now the season is so busy that some of the rooms have two girls in them.

"I say, why did you name that dog of yours Gossip?"

"Because he's such a backbiter."

NORUMBEGA PARK.

"My Friend From India" the great musical farce appearing at Norumbega's famous theatre this week is meeting a brilliant success. Mr. Walter Perkins, who has made theatre-goers roar with laughter for a decade, has the title role and is as funny as ever. There is not a dull moment in the whole show. A chorus of bewitching girls punctuate every song and dance with graceful finish. Especially good are the solo dancers.

Excellent service and cuisine are found in the Grape Arbor Cafe where orchestra concerts are given every afternoon and evening. The Zoological garden with its wonders, the chalet, box-ball alleys, rifle range, merry-go-round, photo studio, canoes, launches and a host of attractions are found at this popular resort.

EQUITABLE DIVISION.

"Did you divide the cruller as I told you with your little brother?"

"Yes, ma. I gave him the hole."

WENHAM

Mr. George Burroughs has invited the Wenham boy scouts to assist at the horse-show Saturday afternoon. As the event is designed to raise funds for charitable purposes, the lads are looking forward eagerly to this opportunity for doing "a good turn." They appreciate the honor involved in their invitation.

At the Congregational church, Sunday morning the minister, Rev. F. M. Cutler, will preach on "Religious lessons of beautiful Lake George." Sunday school will meet at noon. At 7 there will be a praise service with a short sermon.

Under the skilful ministrations of Mrs. Downes and her accomplished daughter, the tea room "teakettle" is singing and the "tabby cat" purring more merrily than ever before. Wenham's old town hall has witnessed many kinds of happy gatherings. But the fashionable Saturday night "assemblies" are something new in the experience of the town.

"Thomas P. Pingree Park" sounds good, and under the will of the late Mrs. Harriet E. Pingree, is a definite possibility for Wenham. Moreover it comprizes fourteen acres of the best land in town—the old "polo field." What will the town do with it?

Lily Pond in Saugus was the destination of the Congregational Sunday school picnic. Another pleasant outing was that of the Ladies' Society on Tuesday as guests at the Ryal Side cottage of E. L. Rollins.

Rev. F. M. Cutler divided his July vacation between a tour of duty at the Boston forts with his regiment, the Coast Artillery Corps, of which he is chaplain, and a trip in company with Mrs. Cutler to Lake George

BEVERLY FARMS

Owing to the weather, the ball game scheduled to be played at the Farms playgrounds between the new Beverly Farms team and the St. Mary's of Beverly last Saturday afternoon, was postponed until tomorrow afternoon. The new Farms' team is composed mostly of local players, which fact will warrant an increased interest and a large attendance.

Good weather is all that is needed to keep up the popularity of West Beach. On pleasant days all paths seem to lead to this favorite spot, where old and young fully enjoy the privileges offered there.

After a week's lay-off, the Beverly-Beverly Farms bus last Monday resumed its trips and seems to be as popular as ever. The forced vacation of the bus was due to being run into by a taxi near Ober street a fortnight ago.

Although the bids for the new Beverly Farms Public Library were submitted last week, no report is yet given out that the contract has been awarded. It is understood that all the figures were higher than is desired. Boston parties were the lowest bidders.

Wilbur Hardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hardy, has accepted a position as a wireless operator with the Guffy Oil Company. He left Beverly yesterday morning on their out-going boat for Texas, on which craft he will commence his duties. He has been a student in wireless telegraphy for a long time, having a first-class equipment set up at his home, and for some time has been competent to accept a position.

Frederick W. Steckman, noted in Washington for his quick wit and droll manner, was remonstrating with a friend for overdrawing a bank account.

"A man like you," he said, "ought not to have a bank account. You ought to pay as you go. It is not square to the bank."

"Oh," said the friend, "banks like small and active accounts. Any banker will tell you that he prefers an active account."

"Yes," said Steckman, "but they don't want 'em to have St. Vitus' dance."—Exchange.

"I lost a dollar at the matinee this afternoon," remarked the fleshy woman to her husband, "and I never was so angry in my life."

"How'd it happen?" asked the man.

"I dropped it in the aisle," she answered shortly, "and I looked for it. That's all I could do."

"Did you look good?" persisted the head of the house.

"Did I look good?" shrilled the woman, really angry now. "I looked as good as a fat woman crawling around on all fours ever does."—Collier's Weekly.

Miss Dorothy Larcom, the popular bookkeeper at the Greenwood Avenue Farm, is having her vacation. Miss Hazel Hersey is taking her place.

Many Beverly Farms Italians are answering the Italian call to arms and nearly every day witnesses the departure of the young men, most of whom are unmarried. It is estimated that so far from fifty to sixty have left Beverly Farms, and more are going daily.

Last Friday, Jerry, the airdale owned by James E. McDonnell of West street, was severely injured by being struck by an automobile. The dog is exceptionally intelligent and is a general favorite with all.

Thus far, no events except the moving pictures are booked ahead at Neighbors' Hall for the next three weeks. The dance of the baseball committee on Thursday evening, Sept. 2, seems to be the next social affair booked to be held in the hall.

Miss Lillian Publicover of Hart street is at home after a week's enjoyable visit spent with her friend, Miss May Collins, at her new home on the Haughton estate, Pride's Hill.

Fred Bunce and family, who recently removed to Revere, have returned to Beverly Farms and are living in apartments in the Daniel Gilmartin house, High street.

Reports from Kennebunkport, Me., show that the Colonial Inn, owned and managed by John A. Morrison, is this season one of the popular summer hotels of that well-known resort and that it is patronized by about all that the Inn can accommodate. Mr. Morrison is a well-known Beverly Farms young man, who entered the hotel business for the first time last year. Mr. Morrison's success is indeed pleasing to his host of friends at Beverly Farms.

The Lawn Party in aid of St. Margaret's Church will be held next Thursday evening, Aug. 12, on the property of Patrick Barry, High street. The affair will be held in the afternoon and evening. There will be music by the Beverly Farms Band, dancing to music by Long's Orchestra and plenty of amusing features to suit all, including the sale of refreshments.

Mrs. Louise Wyatt and daughter, Miss Pearl Wyatt, have spent the past week on a vacation trip to Atlantic City, N. J.

Miss Marguerite Mitchell of Pawtucket, R. I., has been spending her vacation at Beverly Farms, the guest of Mrs. Elmer Standley, West street.

Three sessions of the registrars of voters will be held before the September primaries and after the primaries five sessions will be held before the November election. After the primaries, sessions will be held for the November elections on Sept. 24, Oct. 4, 6, 8 and 13. The session on Oct. 13 will be from 12 noon until 10 in the evening.

The regular meeting of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, will be held in Marshall's Hall this evening.

A number of young people from the local Baptist Church have spent a portion of the past week at Northfield attending the general conference of Christian Workers.

Friends of Miss Bertha Connor, a former popular teacher at the Beverly Farms School, will be pleased to learn that she has now an excellent position at the Peabody Teachers' College at Nashville, Tenn.

Notwithstanding the rather cool and damp evening, a large number enjoyed a most excellent concert on Tuesday evening last, given by the Beverly Farms Band from the band stand in Central Square. The cornet solo, "A Perfect Day," by Russell Cadigan, was a most attractive number of the program. Beverly Farms people will be pleased to know that another concert will soon be given.

Some well known Beverly Farms young ladies, a few evenings ago, were for a time prisoners—locked in the dark in the West Beach pavilion. It took a lot of noise, banging on the doors, etc., to attract the attention of someone on the outside. Two or three policemen were summoned and after it was ascertained they were only innocent maidens, locked in by mistake, they were liberated. It seems the young ladies went to the beach in the evening about 8 o'clock and went into their bathing apartments where they donned their bathing suits. They got out of the water and back into the bath-house only a short time before closing up time. The superintendent of the building not knowing the young women were in the lockers, closed up the building and went home at 9 o'clock. The young ladies will not forget their experiences, feeling their way around in the dark, trying to get out, and if they decide to go in bathing in the

Correct Footwear for Youthful Growing Feet

COULD parents be brought to realize the importance of starting the child's foot right, there would be little or no suffering in later life from foot blemishes.

AS nature forms the child's foot, each toe lies flat and straight, thus providing the human foot with the power to balance the body, and the spring to make walking easy.

UNFORTUNATELY, few children reach maturity without cramped, pinched and misshapen feet. This is usually caused by the shoes sold by unscientific shoemen to thoughtless parents.

"EDUCATOR" SHOES

are designed by students of the human foot to allow the bones and muscles to grow in the shape that nature intended.

May we have the privilege of Fitting your child to Educator Shoes?

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest
St. Jacobs Oil

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 25 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly!

Last Summer we said, "Why not buy some of your Christmas gifts in August?"

Many of our North Shore friends acted on the suggestion and they were enthusiastic over the success of the plan.

If you are interested in a happier Christmas with better gifts for less money, read this carefully.

Is it not true that some of your Christmas gifts could be selected now just as well as later? Would it not be a relief to have at least part of your Christmas shopping happily over with before the rush comes on?

We are receiving now at our Store the new things for our Fall Catalog. Many of them are things which will not be shown in other shops for months and months—some never. On all sides you will find Christmas gift suggestions for which you would give almost anything in busy December. Why not take advantage of your opportunity now while you have the time for leisurely inspection and comparison.

Nowhere will you find a finer selection of gifts of so many kinds at such moderate prices. Our Store is really a dozen gift shops in one. Nowhere will you find shopping easier; everything is on one floor, arranged for easy inspection. Gift problems disappear when you enter our door!

If you wish, you may make your selections now and we will pack the articles carefully and set them aside to be sent to you at your home whenever you desire.

THINK THIS OVER SERIOUSLY

It will mean greater originality in your giving; your gifts will fit the recipients better; and with our moderate prices and our wonderful collection of out-of-the-ordinary things, your gifts will make a much better showing for the money invested.

More and more of our North Shore friends are taking advantage of the convenient method of Christmas shopping. Why not try it yourself this summer? Christmas will have a new meaning to you when relieved of its usual burden.

Why not plan to come tomorrow?

Salem--the Historic and Mercantile Center of the North Shore

By KATHERINE GAUSS

Washington Street, Salem.

THERE are few cities on the American continent today so filled with historical and mercantile interest as the old city of Salem. From earliest times it has been known to the remotest parts of the earth, and in its early history Salem stood at the head of the East Indian trade. Like many other cities it has suffered from business depressions and disasters (like the Salem fire of a year ago), but through it all the old town has retained an assurance that, as the center of Essex county, she has a field of trade to which she must give her best at all times, in spite of local calamities. At the present time the old city is very much alive, is teeming with activity. New industries are being pushed with zeal and the successful prosecution of its varied industries gives to its retail business a strength and virility that is most gratifying, justifying a maintenance of stocks of merchandise that draw not only the local buyers, but attract into town from all the surrounding territory a host of purchasers who find satisfaction.

Building is going on in all parts of the city and the bare places and empty cellars are fast being covered, so that shortly it will be scarcely evident that the flames so recently passed over such a large territory. The dwelling houses are a credit to their owners and the latest improvements and devices have been installed. Factories have gone up, almost over night, and are already running again, in better shape than ever. The great steam cotton mill is constructing a plant that covers a large section of the point and will be well up before the snow of the winter season flies. And so throughout the town the hum of busy life reaches the ear of all who listen.

Essex street is the main thoroughfare of Salem and here are the stores that have made modern Salem famous. From Washington square to North street, with Washington street as the arms of the cross, is the section of the city that is keeping alive the old-time prestige of commercial prosperity. Although of a different nature, the business interests of today are quite as important as the foreign commerce of a century ago. Today the retail merchant of the city is handling with the same degree of enterprise and discernment, the business that is attracted here by virtue of her favorable location, as in those other days when Salem men sought out places for trade in the far east. Then Salem merchants sought trade in foreign lands, now the modern business man seeks people in other places to come to Salem to trade.

The merchants of this city carry stocks in trade that cannot be equalled in any store outside of the Hub, and in many cases the specialty shops in the town out-distance the larger shops of other places, in their particular line of merchandise. Two large department stores carry everything for the adornment of the person or the furnishing of a home. A unique Dollar store carries a multitude of things at the small prices of a cent to a dollar, and this, with the two five and ten-cent stores, gives one an opportunity for economy in small articles. Another popular store carries complete stocks of men's and women's clothing, absolutely up-to-date in every respect. And across the street is a lovely old antique shop, where one may buy old and reproduced articles of every description. Then, too, Salem has one of the largest jewelry houses in the country, and is certainly known the world over for its excellence. Here the delighted visitor may well linger over the dainty bits to be found as well as specialties only to be bought in Salem. And as the day wears on, the convenient little tea houses, here and there on the main street, furnish refreshment for the busy sightseer and shopper.

So at the end of the visitor's stay in Salem it will be duly impressed on his and her mind that Salem is not only a place of historic value, but it is a center to which it is well worth while to come for trading purposes. And Salem, the center of half a million population, was never better able to care for the vast influx of trade that is now coming to her doors, and bids fair to increase more and more as time wears on.

Explosives—Their Use and Production

Discussed by MAJ. O'HERN, U. S. A.

WHILE several million pounds of powder are being burned weekly on the battle fields of Europe, and discussion is rife on the American manufacture of the same, an article on explosives just issued by the Smithsonian Institution gives much timely information on the subject.

The paper is written by Maj. Edward P. O'Hern, of the ordnance Department, U. S. Army, and deals with the importance of the so-called explosives and the increasing extent of their use and production, as well as their composition, uses, method of employment, and the results accomplished.

"An explosive," says Maj. O'Hern, "is a substance of which the molecules are made up of a number of atoms or units rather loosely bound together in an unstable condition, ready to seek new and simpler combinations upon the furnishing of a sufficient motive force to start the operation. This is usually supplied through a primer ignited by a slow-burning fuse, or by a wire heated by an electric current. When started, the heat and shock developed will cause a continuation of the action throughout the mass of the explosive. The enormous power that can thus be developed from a comparatively small quantity of material is indicated by the thousands of fragments into which a 12-inch armor-piercing projectile was broken by the detonation of a bursting charge about  $5\frac{1}{2}$  percent of its weight."

The author divides explosives into three classes, progressive or propelling explosives, known as low explosives; detonating explosives, or high explosives; and detonators or fulminates. For all classes the effect of the explosion is dependent upon the quantity of gas and heat developed per unit of weight and volume of the explosive, the rapidity of the reaction, and the character of the confinement, if any, given the explosive charge. The rapidity of reaction varies greatly with different explosive substances and with the manner in which the explosion is started.

Black gunpowder, smokeless powder, and black blasting powders are known as low explosives, for certain of which, such as smokeless powder, the explosion does not differ in principle from the burning of a piece of wood or other combustible. The combustion is very rapid, but is a surface action proceeding from layer to layer until the grain is consumed. Such materials are known as low or progressive explosives, although the total power developed through the combustion of a unit weight may be very great and would be destructive unless properly controlled.

In high explosives such as dynamite, nitroglycerin, guncotton, some blasting powders, and most of the "permissible explosives" approved by the U. S. Bureau of Mines for use in mines where gas explosions are liable to occur, the progress of the explosive reaction is not by burning from layer to layer, but the breaking up of the initial molecules gives rise to an explosive wave which is transmitted with great velocity in all directions throughout the mass and causes its almost instantaneous conversion into gas. The velocity of propagation of the detonating wave has been determined for some materials to be more than 20,000 feet per second, or approximately four miles per second; this form of material is used in shells and for bursting purposes. The progressive emission of a gas from a low explosive such as burning gunpowder, produces a pushing effect upon a projectile, whereas the sudden conversion of an equal weight of material into gas, as would happen with a high explosive such as dynamite or nitroglycerin, would develop such high pressure and shattering effect as to rupture the gun.

The action of fulminates is much more brusque and powerful than that of the high explosives. Since they can be detonated by shock or the application of heat, they are used in primers and fuses to start action in both low and high explosives. One of the most important fulminates is fulminate of mercury, which produces a pressure of about 48,000 atmospheres.

At no time in the history of the world have explosives played such a mighty part in deciding the destiny of nations as they are playing today in the prosecution of the general European war. Their extensive use in the mighty engines of destruction such as the submarine mine, the torpedo, and in projectiles thrown from cannon to great distances with marvelous accuracy, is resulting in loss of life and destruction of property on an unprecedented scale.

Beginning with black powder, the earliest record of which in actual war was in the fourteenth century, the author follows the development of powder through its early stages of brown powder, to the two principal forms of smokeless powder for military purposes, nitrocellulose and nitroglycerin, stating that the use is quite evenly divided; the U. S. Army and Navy, the French Army and Navy, and the German Army using the former, and the British Army and Navy and the German Navy using the latter. He then gives much detailed information concerning the manufacture, life, source of supply, and tests of smokeless powder manufactured from nitrocellulose or guncotton. Following which, subjects relating to life of guns, bursting charges for projectiles, armor-piercing projectiles, high explosive shells, shrapnel, fuses, aeroplane bombs, means of igniting explosives, mines, torpedoes, and the storage and shipment of explosives in the United States are discussed.

THE CHEERFUL OPTIMIST.

"I am so pained about my husband's conduct."

"You poor dear! What has he been doing?"

"Every time he goes fishing he lies to me about his catch."

"You're a lucky woman. Why, if my husband never lied to me except when he went fishing I'd think I had a jewel."

AROUND AND ABOUT

*I'm sitting alone by the fire,
Dressed just as I came from the dance,
In a robe even you would admire—
It cost a cool thousand in France;
I'm bediamonded all out of reason,
My hair is done up in a cue;
In short sir, "the belle of the season"
Is wasting an hour upon you.*

X-X-X

DID you ever pick up a piece of advertising literature and read it through out of pure interest? Well, I did the other day, and I not only read it once, but I read it twice—clean through from cover to cover, and I am going to keep it for the information it contains, and as a work of art—for the illustrations in this booklet entitle them to be classed "a work of art." The brochure is issued by the Passenger Department of the United Fruit Company, and is called "The Story of a la Carte." It is also called "an historic gem," and I believe the man who called it that. It relates in a concise way what, and how, people ate at sea in ancient and medieval times, and coming down to modern times, it tells a very interesting story of the a la carte method as instituted at the suggestion of President Andrew W. Preston of the United Fruit Company, on the ships of the "Great White Fleet."

Whether, or not, you are contemplating a trip to "Sunny Lands" this winter this "Story of a la Carte" is bound to interest you. I know. Why? Because when you can get a newspaper person to read a booklet of that kind—well, it is some booklet.

X-X-X

I notice that the "Story of a la Carte" is copyrighted by "E. R. Grabow, General Manager of the Passenger Department of the United Fruit Company." I have known of some clever things my friend E. R. Grabow has done in the past, but I must frankly admit this "Story of a la Carte" is one of the cleverest, and to my mind explains one of the reasons why he is now at the head of the Passenger Department of this great Company.

X-X-X

Some years ago—on an order from a Canadian Magazine, also interested in the British West Indies—I wrote an article on "E. R. Grabow." It was years before he had become connected with the United Fruit Company. This magazine was interested in Mr. Grabow's work in connection with the building of two hotels in Jamaica—the Hotel Titchfield at Port Antonio, and the Myrtle Bank Hotel at Kingston. I don't remember much of what I said except the concluding paragraph which read: "He has touched a good many high spots in a short time, and is bound to touch a good many more, for he is clean, courageous, and not without the requisite confidence in himself. Ambitious too, and you never can tell where an ambitious man backed by brains and individuality will land."

Well—I think I am a fair prophet.

X-X-X

I WENT up to the Tremont Theatre the other night to see the much talked about, and much written—very much written—about "The Birth of a Nation." No, I did not go on a pass, for it cost me just two dollars and seventy cents. Two dollars for a seat in row "Q" in the Orchestra, and seventy cents for car fares.

X-X-X

If anybody had told me some years ago that I should ever pay two dollars and seventy cents to see a mere picture show I should have called it the joke of the season. But I did pay two dollars and seventy cents for one seat, and—got my money's worth.

X-X-X

The "Birth Of a Nation" is a wonderful show, and I sat from 8.10, with 8 minutes intermission, till 10.55, enthralled with the wonder of it all. The interest, the pathos and the patriotism came straight at me, and I forgot the theatre, and—myself, and lived through the times of the Civil War. I met Lincoln, Grant and Lee, I went through the Reconstruction Period, I rode with the Klu Klux Klan. I thought their thoughts, I sorrowed with their sorrows, and joyed with them in their joys. With them I cursed the horrible mad hellishness of war, and—forgot that it cost me two dollars and seventy cents, which was not the least wonderful thing either.

X-X-X

Was I surprised? Frankly, no. For when I saw D. W. Griffith's name I expected a great deal. It was in Pasadena, California, that I first met "Dave" Griffith. He was then with the Biograph Company, if my memory serves me correctly. I was not regularly introduced to him, for really he introduced himself to me, in a very forcible manner. He was "staging" a picture near the famous Hotel Green on Fair Oaks Avenue. It represented a bridal couple arriving at Pasadena, and was accompanied with all the usual stunts which some people think are funny—when they are played on somebody else. I had never seen a moving picture "staged" before, and I was much interested and wondered what it was all about. Suddenly I heard someone yell "strike," and looking around I saw a man making motions with his head, feet and hands, and in fact with all of his body at the same time, and looking straight at me—in a voice I can hear yet—yelled "Get out of the way there." Well, I got, although I never quite knew the reason why, only that he told me to.

X-X-X

That is the way I first met "Dave" Griffith. When a man without any official authority can make me move on a public street, he is a "wonder," and I think yet, that he owes me an apology, but still I paid two dollars and seventy cents to see his show, and again I say it was worth it. If you don't believe me go and see "The Birth of a Nation" yourself, and—you will.

X-X-X

I WAS talking with a young lady this morning, and she was severely berating the weather of the last few days, although the glorious sunshine was flooding the piazza, the grass and the flowers were a joy to behold after their bath, and the crisp air blowing in from the broad Atlantic had a tang to it that was a delight to breathe. I could hardly understand how anyone could feel that way on such a day, so I quoted to her the words of the lamented Elbert Hubbard:—

Yesterday is dead—forget it;
Tomorrow doesn't exist—don't worry;
The day is here—use it.

IMPORTANT among the society events of the coming week will be the annual horse show at "Rockmarge Park," Judge Wm. H. Moore's private track. This is always the most exclusive of the many out-door functions of the North Shore season, and is an invitation affair. Judge Moore has one of the finest string of show horses of any private owner in the country. The horse show at the Park will be followed by afternoon tea on the lawn at the Moore summer home.

George Denégre of New Orleans is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Denégre at Villa Crest, West Manchester. Mr. Denégre will be on the North Shore until after Labor Day.

Mrs. J. Robinson Duff of Paris, France; Father Fouir of Chicago, Lieut. Leigh, U. S. N., Miss K. Mann of Milwaukee, Wis., were house guests of the J. Henry Lancashires, at their beautiful seashore home, "Graftonwood," at Manchester over the last week-end. With Mr. and Mrs. E. Laurence White (Harriet Lancashire), Miss Lila Lancashire, and Ammi Lancashire, this party of ten covers composed one of the merriest of the score or more tables last Friday evening at the big dinner-dance at the Essex County Club.

"Blynman Farm," the Manchester home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Coolidge, has an interesting approach up the long sloping hill formed by stone steps or perrons. The ascent is brightened by many varieties of flowers along the way, the phlox being very noticeable just now. The thick hedge in front and the pretty pond near the roadside, with the graceful swans always in sight, are attractive features of this estate to the passers-by.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Blodgett of Pride's Crossing returned Thursday from a short visit in New York.

Mrs. William G. Fitch of Beverly Farms has among her house guests, Miss Mary Helen Carlisle of New York, who is a distinguished artist. Her garden views have met with great success at exhibits in New York, Newport, California and London. She is planning to exhibit at some time on the North Shore. Miss Mary Tutt of St. Louis is also visiting Mrs. Fitch.

Mrs. S. H. Fessenden of Coolidge's Point, Manchester, has her sister, Mrs. Reginald Gray of Brookline, with her for the balance of the season.

William M. Wood, Jr., and his sister, Miss Rosalind Wood, returned Tuesday from their camping trip to Moosehead lake in Maine.

Mrs. M. G. Haughton is leaving Pride's Crossing Saturday for a two weeks' absence in the country.

THE annual tennis tournament of the Essex County Club did not get started until Tuesday, because of the rain Monday afternoon. Among the pairs playing in the mixed doubles have been: Miss A. Cunningham and E. C. Fitz, Miss K. Sortwell and D. L. Pickman, Jr.; Mrs. Lewis Bremer and Thomas Ridgway, Miss Mumford and T. P. Beal, Jr.; Miss A. Thorndike and R. W. Means, Mrs. S. M. Felton and W. D. F. Beal; Mrs. Cakes Ames and H. G. Crosby, Mrs. Fabyan and John Reece; Miss E. R. Sears and L. Davis, Miss H. Curtis and M. Fabyan. In the women's handicap singles: Miss Eleonora R. Sears, Miss Charlotte Read, Mrs. Lewis Bremer, Miss K. Blodgett, Miss R. Eliot, Mrs. S. Borden, Mrs. Oakes Ames, Miss H. Curtis, Miss Alice Thorndike, Miss M. Willett, Miss Eleonora Cabot, Mrs. M. Fabyan. Playing in the men's singles were: Oakes Ames, Francis Willett, R. S. Lovering, Lawrence Foster, H. G. Crosby, John Reece, G. C. Caner, D. L. Pickman, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Reece and two children are spending August on the North Shore, with Mr. Reece's mother, Mrs. J. Babson Thomas, and Mr. Thomas, at West Manchester.

Mrs. Sydney E. Hutchinson is giving one of her song recitals in costume next Monday afternoon at "Sydith Terrace," Beverly Farms. The program will include old-fashioned songs and southern melodies. Mrs. Hutchinson is a beautiful singer and her song recitals at Beverly Farms in summer, like those at her Philadelphia home in winter, are among the most enjoyable of the many little functions which she gives during the season.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Spaulding of Pride's Crossing came down early in the week from Sugar Hill, near Franconia, N. H., where they have been spending the last three weeks. They go back again tomorrow.

Judge William Caleb Loring of Pride's Crossing has returned from a week's visit to his estate on Bartlett Island, Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge of Pride's Crossing are spending August at their country place near Ashland, N. H., on Squam lake.

Mrs. Hall McAllister is giving another of her popular musicales today, at Mrs. M. G. Haughton's, Pride's Crossing.

The thick pine forest that surrounds the attractive hilltop cottage of Miss Katharine E. Silsbee at Beverly Cove gives a rich primitive touch to this section of the Shore. The garden and vine-covered summer house at the foot of the hill form a pretty picture from the road.

NORTH SHORE SWIMMING POOL water sports are on for tomorrow. Much interest has been taken in the various events scheduled and the affair promises to be one of the most popular features of the Pool's many social activities. The Pool is the center of the social life of Magnolia every morning from ten to one o'clock. The orchestra plays, the pool itself is full of swimmers, others are taking lessons in swimming, and the balcony is lined with interested observers of it all. Many of the ladies are seen knitting industriously, while others are absorbed in a magazine until their attention is called to some particularly good stroke or feat made by a swimmer. Charles Wadsworth, 3d., is considered about the best swimmer at the Pool this season. The challenge cup was taken by him last season. His diving and long distance work are remarkable. Miss Edith Bullard of Providence, R. I., has been the guest at the Pool for the week of Mrs. F. Blackwood Fay; Mrs. Henry W. Farnum introduced for the week Mr. and Mrs. D. Loring, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cudahy and Mrs. Charles G. King of Chicago; Eugene G. Foster introduced Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Adams of New York. The following tennis tournaments will be held at the Pool: August 16, ladies' scratch singles and doubles, open to members, subscribers and their friends, and also to members of Essex County and Montserrat clubs; August 19, men's scratch singles and doubles, open to members, subscribers and their friends, entries must be sent to the tennis committee at the clubhouse, on or before August 13th, entrance fee $1.00 per person; August 23, mixed doubles, open to members, subscribers and their friends, entries close August 21st, entrance fee $1.00 per person.

Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey L. Cabot and their daughter, Miss Eleanor Cabot of Beverly Farms opened their home for a musicale last Friday afternoon and again on Tuesday. They were delightful affairs and thoroughly appreciated by the music lovers on the North Shore. The artists taking part in the first musicale were Mrs. Anne Roberts Barker, the mezzo soprano and her accompanist, Mrs. Dudley T. Fitts. Mrs. Barker is a master of German and French songs and in her superb way gave good interpretation and much expression to the many selections given. A group of eighteenth century bergeretts arranged by Weckerlin was followed by "How's my boy," by Homer. This was one of the sweetest and most touching songs of the afternoon. Mrs. Barker was dressed in black and wore a white hat with touches of black. Her only ornament was a pink rose. Mrs. Fitts looked charming in pink. Mrs. Francis Sears poured. At the Tuesday musicale, Miss Blanche Hamilton Fox, a mezzo soprano who is very popular on the Shore, gave a pleasing program, including a group of English, Scotch and Neapolitan songs and arias from Italian operas. Miss Fox sang last summer at one of the musicales given by Mrs. Robert D. Evans of Dawson Hall. She was attractively gowned in blue, Tuesday. Mr. Vincent Doyle presided at the piano. Miss Martha Willett poured. These affairs given by Mrs. Cabot nearly every summer are among the most delightful of the social events of the season. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Higginson, Miss Juliet Higginson, Mrs. S. Parkman Blake, Miss Katharine Ayer, Mrs. John Hays Hammond and son, John Hays Hammond, Jr., Mrs. Franklin Haven, Mrs. William R. Thayer, Mrs. John L. Thorndike, Mrs. Frank Morrison, Miss Eleanor Fabyan, Mrs. William Lowell Putnam, Mrs. H. K. Caner, Mrs. J. M. Jackson, Mrs. E. M. House, Mrs. George F. Willett and many other music lovers.

Along the Way

A gentleman who had climbed one of the Alpine heights without a guide, was found dead near the summit, where he had written, "It is cold and clouds shut out the view."

A youth, at break of day,
Up the steep mountain held his eager way
That from the summit he might view
The prospect grand—
Smooth sea and rugged land,
Domed with a sky of blue.
One thought possessed his soul,
One aim his feet, as less and less
The summit's distance grew,
While still his eye was fixt upon the goal.

Yet on that smiling morn, I guess,
Along his way
Fair landscapes lay,
Stretcht far and wide on either hand
In mid-summer loveliness;
Fair fields with daisies spread,
Meadows and lakes and ribboned rivers blue
Gliding the meadows through;
Flowers at his feet and overhead,
Clouds of a wondrous hue,
And close at hand,
A valley, rainbow-spanned!

Not these his eye could draw,
Nothing of these he saw:
Only the bald mountain-top whereto
His steady steps were true;
One object sole,
The shining summit, of his hopes the goal.

And now,
The end attained,
His feet at length have gained
The mountain's bare and rugged brow.
But lo! a cloud
Doth all the scene enshroud.
Its misty robes enfold
His shrinking form.
In a wild storm
The winds blow fierce and cold.
Which way his eye may turn,
Nothing can he discern,
Not even the path which led
His bleeding footsteps from the plain below,
Now blocked with snow.
All the fair landscape from his vision fled,
He sees instead,
Dull vapory seas outspread.
Ah, bitter woe!

Learn thou the lesson, O my soul,
As the fleet years unroll:
Look up, not down,
Fix high the aim and goal
Toward which thy feet are led,
And gain at length renown.
In the hard fight with fortune, fame and sin
Youth, valor, virtue in the end must win,
And thou may'st wear the crown.

Yet be not dull and dead
To every sight and sound
Beneath thee and around.
And let not stern endeavor steel thy heart
To the sweet joys Love can alone impart.

Fame sits above, but deathly cold her hand
That waits to wreath thy brow,
While here and now,
Friendship's warm grasp,
Affection's tender clasp,
The Lover's kiss,
Shall yield thee sweeter bliss.
These hinder not thy course
These will but give new force,
New strength and joy impart
Unto thy loving heart.
Remember this!

And what if thou should miss?
Fame cometh late,
Fame is a laggard oft outstript by death:
Such is the cruel mockery of fate.
Fame is not fame:
The shining peak
Our eager footsteps seek,
When reached is not the same:
The distant hills, sun-kissed,
Seem robed in amethyst,
But when thro' miles of mist
We toil,
They fade to common rock and soil!
The glory that we sought,
As we approach it, pales
And fades to nought,
Or hangs in mockery above the vales,
The happy vales we left far, far below
Where violets blow.

Whatever else shall fail Love never fails
But evermore avails
To feed the hunger of the heart.
The unbought sympathy of a soul sincere Heals sorrow's smart,
Shields from misfortune's dart,
And to the darkest night brings light and cheer.
Without it what were fame,
Or shame or blame,
Health, wealth and all the world holds dear?

Ye who have missed the best that life can give,
Who in the stress of living fail to live,
Who, in your care and serving, miss
Life's sweetest bliss,
List to the story
Of one who sought for glory
On glittering heights above,
And though the goal he did attain
Found victory vain,
Only to gain at end unprofitable goal.
Since clouds and darkness quenched the light of love,
And froze the vital current of the soul,

Scorn not thy low estate,
Rail not at stubborn fate,
Seek not the bauble of an empty name.
Work while 'tis called Today,
Strive unto noble ends,
But scorn not love of friends,

Nor miss the flowers that bloom along the way.
 Use and enjoy the moment as it flies,
 Be not too eager for the distant prize.
 Do thou each day thy best
 With no vain fears oppress
 And leave to God the rest.

—JOSEPH A. TORREY.

PRESIDENT WILSON is now giving the Alien Seaman's law a careful study. The bill passed during the last session of Congress does not seem to operate as well as was expected and some very serious problems have arisen that must be solved or American shipping interests will suffer materially. The president is studying the workings of the bill and if he is as successful in solving it as he has been in meeting our foreign problems the shipping interests of America will be fortunate.

MAGNOLIA

NEW YORK ADDRESS: 665 FIFTH AVE.

ON the grounds of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Coolidge, Summer street, Magnolia, next Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 18th, there will be a meeting in the interests of Hampton Institute of Hampton, Va. There will be plantation melodies by Hampton singers, interpreted by Miss Annie Beecher Scoville and Charles Martine, an Apache Indian, and Major Moton, of Hampton, will tell briefly of Indian and negro life, and of Hampton's work. The meeting will be at four o'clock, and in case of rain it will be held in the Coolidge bungalow on the beach. "Blynman Farm" is admirably adapted for an affair of this kind, being just off the main North Shore highway in the Magnolia section of Manchester. The patronesses include: Mrs. Henry L. Higginson, Mrs. J. L. Blair Buck, Mrs. W. H. Coolidge, Miss Margaret L. Corlies, Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Mrs. Costello C. Converse, Mrs. Dudley L. Pickman and Mrs. Washington B. Thomas.

Mrs. Fred McQuesten opened her beautiful summer home, "Questenmere," at Marblehead Neck, Wednesday afternoon, for a repetition of the recital of "Lohengrin," which Miss Frances Nevin and John Hermann Loud recently gave at Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, Jr.'s, home at Pride's Crossing. That recital netted a good sum for the war relief fund and the proceeds from the second one will be devoted to the same purpose.

Arrivals at Tunipoo Inn, Beverly Farms, are W. H. Butler and party of Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. M. T. Beady, Watertown; Earl A. Aldrich, Oberlin, O. HAMILTON was the mecca last Saturday afternoon for all motorists on the North Shore. The clouds, which were somewhat apprehensive in the morning, were banished by three o'clock, when all of the fashionable life of the Shore gathered on the fine estate of Mr. and Mrs. George Burroughs, "Green Meadows," to witness the horse show given for the benefit of Welcome House, Boston. That the interest and competition were keen in the four classes represented was shown by the large number of entries, over 100, which were published in last week's breeze. Boxes were sold and resold and chairs added, so great was the demand for seats on the pretty shady slope overlooking the field where the exhibition was given. In all about 100 boxes were taken, the ninety that were arranged all being taken by the time the show opened.

The receipts were much larger than last year, when about $1000 was realized, while this year's proceeds amount to nearly $1600. The pretty tea tables which were so very popular by five o'clock, were in charge of Mrs. Herbert W. Mason, Mrs. Howard Doughty, Mrs. Charles F. Ayer, Mrs. Richard P. Waters and Mrs. Joseph F. Woods. Mrs. Evans R. Dick, Jr., and Mrs. John S. Lawrence poured. Mrs. Gerald A. Bramwell of Magnolia was Mrs. Mason's guest and also assisted. The tables were a bright spot of color and particularly interesting were the many colored sweaters worn by the ladies over their white dresses. Mrs. Bramwell in a pink, Mrs. Waters in a bright green and Mrs. Doughty in a violet blue were very noticeable. The cigarette venders were charming, Miss Sybil Appleton in a pretty gray riding-habit and Miss Anna Flichtner in green and white. Programs were sold by the boy scouts of Wenham, who proved to be a wonderfully well-trained and energetic squad that helped in many ways to the success of the affair. They were ably assisted by Mrs. James F. Curtis of New York, who is visiting her husband's mother, Mrs. Greely S. Curtis of Manchester. Mrs. Curtis formerly lived on the North Shore and is planning to take a house for the remainder of the season. She made a very striking appearance in her handsome yellowish-green sweater and dress to match. Boxes were sold by Richard P. Waters and Mrs. John S. Lawrence. Mrs. Lawrence was charming in white with a black hat and salmon sweater, and was especially successful in selling and re-selling boxes to advantage. Selling became infectious and while the scouts passed loaves of cake which sold rapidly, the little daughter Eloise of the John S. Lawrence's, made a pretty figure in her dainty smock as she gathered in one dollar from the sale of her five-cent cakes among the boxes. Her little four-year-old brother, Amory, also started out, but his selling career was cut short by his father when the little fellow had sold five cents' worth. The committee that helped Mrs. Burroughs to make everything so successful included Mrs. Frederick J. Alley, Mrs. J. S. Lawrence, Mrs. Fred Ayer, Jr., Miss Mary Curtis, Miss Alice Thorndike and Miss Julia Appleton. In the boxes were noted many guests. The Charles P. Searles had their house-guest, Miss Katharine Thaw of New York. Mrs. F. J. Alley had Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Woods, her week-end guests from Brookline, her brother, Emil Ahlborn, and Miss Heard. Guests of the C. F. Ayers Carteret Fenno gave her box to a party of children. Mrs. Fenno and her daughters are spending a short time at Falmouth on the South Shore. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bohlen had with them their house-guest, Mrs. Robert Potter of New York. Dr. and Mrs. Nason of Newburyport were guests of Mrs. Ernest Pentacost. Mrs. W. B. Phister was over from Newburyport with a box party. Miss C. B. Dobson's party included Mrs. John Heard, Mrs. F. H. Richardson, Miss Susan Brown, Miss Wormwood and Mrs. W. S. Dunn. Cabot, Mrs. Cleveland Perkins, Mrs. William H. Moore, Miss Clark, Miss Rosalind Wood and many others.

The closing event of the show was the pony drags. Many of the guests had left, but those that stayed until nearly 6.30 were well repaid by the picturesque sight of the Myopia Hunt hounds followed by the forty or more riders pass through the grounds and out over the hills, where they made one of the prettiest sights of the day. Closely following the hounds came Miss Emma Mandell, the master of the pony drags this season, and who looked most charming in her natty gray riding-habit and little black hat. Among the riders, who were mostly in

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Reynolds Hitt of Washington are occupying one of the most secluded and attractive of the large shingled cottages set high up on a hill in the midst of pines and forest trees in Beverly Farms. The grounds of the Hitt cottage and those immediately surrounding it are extremely wild and woodsy. The group of cottages in this section includes "Cabot Lane," the pretty home of the Marshal Fabyans, surrounded with pines and maples; the big hillside cottage of the Barrett Wendell, Jrs.; the attractive shingled cottage of the Nathaniel S. Simpkins, Jrs., and the new house of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Means, which is close to the T. Jefferson Newbolds.

Mr. Clark is at the Plattsburg military camp. The Stocktons returned last week. Before leaving they enjoyed a visit from Miss Dorothy Jordan of West Manchester. Miss Mitchell of Hamilton, who is staying with Mrs. Rodolph L. Agassiz, is now a guest at the Clarks. Much entertaining will probably be in order at "Headlands," which is delightfully situated on the west side of Lake Champlain, where the motoring and motor-boating are famous. In September the Clarks will visit in Burlington, Vt., where Mr. Clark's father, who is from New York, has a large estate on the east side of Lake Champlain.

It is surrounded on the inside by a brick walk bordered with many varieties of flowers. A lower or sunken garden is filled with roses. The main garden is entered under an arch which has been heavily covered with pink ramblers lately. A large bed of old-fashioned snap-dragons are very noticeable at present.

"Round Plain Farm," at Beverly Farms, the home of Mrs. John Caswell, is being enjoyed this summer by Mrs. Caswell's sister's family, the Albert G. Milbanks of New York and Seabright, N. J. The garden on this place differs in many respects from other North Shore gardens. The vegetables as well as the flower gardens are surrounded by a tall, thick hedge, one side of the flower garden by a hedge of pine trees being particularly beautiful. The garden leads to the pine forests in the rear on a hillside, which make a rich background to the pretty garden as one views it from the front hedgeway entrance near the house.

James Jackson Cabot, Charles R. Codman, 2d., George H. Lyman, Jr., and Harcourt Amory, Jr., are among the young boys of the North Shore who entered the Plattsburg, N. Y., military training camp this week.

A SURPRISING spot of beauty on Coolidge's Point, Manchester, may be found on the estate of the Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge. It is so hidden away among the trees and hedges that the passer-by would never discover it unless he were kindly invited to enter and explore. If so, he would cross an artistic stone bridge passing over a little brook, and find himself in the midst of one of the handsomest Italian gardens to be found anywhere. On the right he would see a section devoted to old-fashioned flowers, and on the left the steps descending into the sunken garden with its geometrically planned beds of luxuriant bloom showing four beds of lavender, red, blue and white flowers, each making a striking spot of color in the general color scheme. At one end is a pretty lily pond and fountain, in which may be seen goldfish of unusual size. A little tea-house or arbor is so closely covered with vines that it has almost a twilight atmosphere. This is one of the oldest Italian gardens on the North Shore, and is one in which Mr. Coolidge takes a great deal of pleasure and interest.

Congratulations are being showered upon Mr. and Mrs. Lowell M. Chapin (Elizabeth Chalifoux) of Astor street, Chicago, and Manchester, on the birth of a son, July 29. He has been named Coolidge Mead Chapin for his grandmother Chapin, who was a Coolidge.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of "Ledgewood," Montserrat, gave a tea Tuesday afternoon in honor of eight Chinese students from Shanghai, who are staying in Newton this summer. The guests were entertained at the Puritan tea house. The tea itself was interesting from the fact that it had been gathered by one of the students. The girls were of those taking the government examinations last year and are now on their way to the Chinese conference in Middletown, Conn., after which they will enter various colleges, Vassar, Smith and Holyoke being among those chosen. Of the eleven who passed the examinations, nine were from mission schools. The girls looked very quaint and attractive in their Oriental dresses and thoroughly enjoyed the day. The tea-house was prettily decorated with poppies for the occasion. Among those present were Mrs. John Mason and daughter, Mrs. H. W. Taylor of Albany, N. Y., Mrs. Charles Price, Miss Margaret Smith, Miss McGill, Miss Protzman of Baltimore and the Misses Ferguson of Newton Centre.

HAMILTON's outdoor sports at the Myopia Hunt Club have been materially interfered with lately by the rainy weather. Miss Sarah C. Walker, daughter of Mrs. John G. Walker of "Ashleigh," Hamilton, has returned from a trip to the White Mountains.

Dr. and Mrs. John J. Thomas of "Ashleigh" cottage, Hamilton, have with them this month Miss C. L. Thomas of Columbus, O., a sister to Dr. Thomas. Dr. Thomas is planning to sail next week to join the Harvard contingent who are doing work at a British hospital. A sister to Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Richard Y. ROCK MAPLE FARM, the Hamilton home of Hon. and Mrs. George von L. Meyer, cannot help but impress the passerby with its many beautiful trees and hedges. The entire farm is noted for its fine old trees and the hedges which are seen everywhere in the garden section are exceptionally tall and close. Passing up the main driveway one sees, standing close to the main entrance, a maple tree of such size and proportions that are seldom seen. It is said to be over seventy-five years old. The house is a large red-brown cement trimmed in gray stone. Across the entire front is a stone terrace with small flower beds here and there on it. The most beautiful part of the place is seen by passing along the terrace and standing on the steps leading down into the rose garden. Looking down one sees beds of old fashioned flowers, the rose garden itself and a broad grassy walk leading into the tennis courts under beautiful arched trellis work, and from the tennis courts to green lawns and courts beyond, where the walk ends at an immense stone seat. In this view of the courts one also takes in many ornamental hedges, elms and maples. A flower urn imitating an old stone well is a pretty ornament in the rose garden, which also contains a sun-dial. Another view from the terrace is the little spot known as "on the hill." This is a very noticeable place of about an acre high up on a sloping hill, which has been hedged in with Chinese privet and mock-orange. A stone wall crosses the little lot on the uppermost part, against which fruits are trained to the flat surface. This little garden can be seen well from the sun-parlor of the house, and standing by its ornamental stone wall a fair view of the country is seen, with, on a clear day, the sea plainly visible over Ipswich way. Mr. Meyer has said that he often wishes his house had been built on this fine hill. In the rear of the house is a sunken garden, surrounded with a stone wall, against which fruit trees are trained. Pretty rustic entrances, covered with clematis vines, lead into this typically English-looking garden. Hedges of spruce and hawthorne also surround the outside wall of this garden. A fountain centers the garden, which contains mostly lawn space, grand walks and a few flowers and shrubs. On turning from the sunken garden one sees the large vegetable gardens surrounded with their arbor vitae hedges of wonderful beauty. It seems strange to think of common beans, peas, celery and other things growing in such beautiful surroundings. Each bed is bordered with flowers and all presents as interesting a sight as the front flower gardens. About five acres of orchards also are on the place. Many prizes have been taken by the flowers and vegetables from these gardens.

IPSWICH, with its historical festival at the old Whipple house, which began August 4 and lasts till the 18th, is proving to be an excellent place of entertainment nowadays. This week in the old-time kitchen Miss Elsie Heard, Miss Corinna Searle and Mrs. T. F. Waters are dispensing refreshments during the music and folk dances in the afternoons. An interesting display of pewter has been loaned by Mrs. Charles S. Tuckerman, Mrs. George Burroughs, Miss Lucy S. Jewett and Mrs. D. F. Appleton. The samplers are loaned by Miss Frances Dodge, Miss Etta Russett, Miss Abby Newman, Miss Lucy Jewett, Mrs. William Jewett, Mrs. F. E. Condon, Mrs. Frank Keyes, Miss Nellie W. Mrs. Wilson Shannon Dunn of Ipswich left Tuesday to spend two weeks at Watch Hill, R. I., where she will visit Mrs. A. S. Jewett.

Some Ipswich ladies attended a large bridge party at the home of Mrs. Frank M. Burke of Byfield last week. The Burke home, "Satherland," is one of the handsomest places in Byfield and has a large and attractive garden on it. The guests from Ipswich were Mrs. H. M. Berry, Mrs. Charles G. Dyer and Mrs. Howard Doughty.

Miss Elsie Heard of South Main street, Ipswich, entertained the Willing Workers Society of the town at her house recently. The society, of which Miss Heard is the leader, is for missionary purposes outside of Ipswich and includes in its membership girls from the various churches. Just now they are interested in work for the Belgians and some of them are on the program for fancy dancing at the Whipple house historical festival. They are the Misses Anne and Martha Bailey, Gretchen Brown, Marjorie Stone, Helen Blodgett, Pauline Woodworth, Frances Cogswell, Elizabeth James, Dorothy Kelly, Marion Safford, Hazel Savory, Dorothea Lange, Hazel Kemp, Helen Hudgens, Mary Wendel, Emma Woodbury and Eleanore Richardson.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Crane, Jr., of Castle Hill, Ipswich, left Monday for a week in Chicago. Mr. Crane gave a luncheon, Sunday, at his home for eight members of the New York Yacht club.

Y<sup>e</sup> Burnham House, Ipswich, has been as usual the scene of much entertaining the past week. Mr. and Mrs. W. Harry Brown of Beverly Cove gave a dinner for 12 last Wednesday in honor of their house party from Pittsburgh; Joe V. Meigs, 3d., of Lowell had eight guests; Clement Studebaker of Rye Beach, party of four; Mrs. L. S. Bigelow of Magnolia, four; Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Weeks and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bucklin of Brookline were among tea guests. Guests of the Oceanside find this the ideal place to motor to for tea or lunches. Many rare old dishes are for sale at the tea-house as well as other antiques. The Sunday suppers are among the popular features in this fine old house.

Y<sup>e</sup> Rogers Manse, Ipswich, has had among its diners, one given last Sunday by Dr. and Mrs. J. Henry Lancashire of "Graftonwood," Manchester. The guests were Mrs. J. Robinson Duff of Paris, France, Father Fcuir of Chicago, Lieut. Leigh, U. S. N., Miss K. Mann of Milwaukee, Wis., and Miss Lila and Ammi W. Lancashire. Another party included Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Metzel of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Taylor and daughter of Washington. Other guests have been Dr. and Mrs. Jos. Beisman and daughter, Detroit; Dr. and Mrs. Philip Kelly, Wollaston; Dr. and Mrs. Kirk Shawgo and party, Quincy, Ill.; Dr. and Mrs. A. H. St. C. Chase and Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Lock of Boston, who have spent a few days at the Inn.

A SAILOR'S BURIAL AT SEA.

*The Order was given;
The pride of the bark laid,—
A plunge! A splash! And all is o'er.*

TO tell it, I will. The Port Watch was working amidships, when Chief Rollins hailed to Jack to go aloft and clear the royal. "Aye, aye," said Jack with a smile upon his face, and up he went. He passed little Jimmie, who was splicing lower ten. As Jack leaned forward, we took a heavy sea; he missed, and when we rolled him over the smile was still upon his face. The pride of the bark had passed beyond recall.

A plunge! A splash! and all is over.

In a little village near Carlisle his sweetheart waits for him who never will return. You who have never seen, of wealth and pride, just picture this,—a sailor's burial at sea!

OCEANSIDE HOTEL MAGNOLIA

OCEANSIDE HOTEL, at Magnolia, is well filled with guests. Wednesday night every room in the main hotel was occupied, except two maids' rooms on the rear of the house, and in the score of cottages and connections there were only three other available rooms. The management is now maintaining a waiting list—people in Boston and elsewhere waiting for vacancies so that they can come to the Oceanside. The season is so far ahead of last year at the Oceanside, there is no comparison.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graves of New York returned to the Oceanside Wednesday after a week's motor trip to Lenox and Saratoga Springs.

A big crowd of young people from the Oceanside went to Bass Rocks and Hawthorne Inn for the dancing Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Breed of New York and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Farrell of Newark were among the motor parties making the Oceanside their headquarters over the week-end. Golfing at the Essex and Myopia clubs was enjoyed by the male members of the party.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hazard of Buffalo, N. Y., the former well known as head of one of the largest dry goods houses in Buffalo, arrived at the Oceanside Monday for a stay of two or three weeks.

From Dallas, Tex., this week came E. P. Duggan for a short stay at the Oceanside.

John Callery was host for a dinner party of twenty young people at the Oceanside last Saturday evening. The party remained for the dance after dinner.

Closing date at the Oceanside this year will be Saturday, Sept. 18th.

A touch of color and life was added to the dinner hour at the Oceanside Tuesday evening when Master Reginald White and 21 of his young friends came into the dining room and gathered about the family table in the farther end of the room. It was Master Reginald's thirteenth birthday, and Mrs. White arranged a little party in his honor. It was the gayest kind of a time and put everybody in the best of humor all through the dinner hour. The favors were very pretty and a bunch of little balloons floated from the center of the table during the dinner, and when released at the close glided softly over the heads of the diners to the ceiling. Mrs. White and Master Reginald's sister, Mrs. Spencer Kennard chaperoned the party. A picture was taken after the dinner and the young folk took part in the dancing the early part of the evening.

N. D. Maher and J. H. Gearhart of Roanoke, Va., are at Magnolia for their customary visit. Mr. Maher is at the head of the Norfolk and Western railroad and made the trip in his private car. Mrs. Maher and daughter will join him later to remain the balance of August. They have brought their motor along to enjoy the splendid opportunities for motoring along the North Shore.

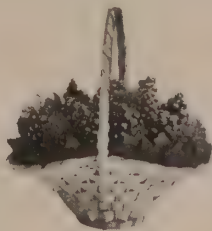

A motor party at the Oceanside over the present week-end is composed of Mrs. William Armstrong, Miss Adeline Townsend, Miss Elizabeth S. Kendell and Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Townsend. They registered Wednesday.

Mrs. Michael O'Reardon and party of eight motored from Brookline last Saturday evening and dined at the Oceanside, remaining with friends for the dance during the evening. In the party were noticed Jack Casey, John O'Day and Michael O'Reardon, Jr., all well known young men in Brookline social circles.

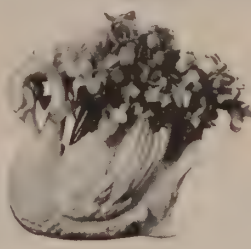

Miss Alberta A. Smith of Cherry Valley and Miss Florence Steel of Holyoke are spending a week at the Oceanside with the former's grandmother, Mrs. A. E. Smith.

Polly Prym Door Stop. This quaint little girl never tires of holding the door open or closed. She is small for her age, being only 14 inches high, but extremely reasonable for she works a life time for $5.00.

Basket of Pins. This is a new idea to make pins look like baskets of black and red berries. $1. each, or $1.50 for two.

White China Swan Flower Holder, distinctly new and ornamental. Especially appropriate to display sweet peas, pansies and lilies of the valley, etc. Price $1.50.

This Antique Gold Frame, flower basket design on top and flower design on the border is our latest creation. It is made either to stand upon an easel or hang from the back, and hold photographs, 8 x 10 inches, price $2.50.

TO enable you to buy right here in Magnolia as pretty things as you can find anywhere—that is the reason we have enlarged our exhibit here and have brought a representative line of our most ingenious ideas for our Magnolia patrons.

THE fancy dress ball at the Oceanside on Saturday evening, August 28th, will be the most brilliant social event of the summer at this famous resort. It is to be held in the spacious dining room. The matter of wearing costumes is optional, last year's ball, which was such a decided success, was one of the prettiest affairs ever held at Magnolia. Guests are already planning for this year's party and it is fair to assume that it will eclipse that of 1914. So many cottagers from all along the shore, and guests from other hotels come to the Oceanside dances, especially the formal balls, that a big crowd may be depended upon this year. There is some talk of making this year's ball for the benefit of some worthy charity, such as the Red Cross Ambulance fund, the French or Italian wounded funds or something of that sort. But this is undecided as yet. There is no question but that North Shore people would jump at the opportunity to help in some charity of this sort.

Mrs. G. P. Whitcomb and two daughters, Mrs. W. W. Brodfield of New York and Mrs. W. S. Blackwell of Omaha, are at the Oceanside for an indefinite stay.

Miss Laura Winpenny and Miss Margaret J. Scott of Baltimore arrived at the Oceanside Wednesday.

Mrs. Walter Schoellkoff, and child, governess and maid, from Buffalo, N. Y., registered at the Oceanside Wednesday for a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Elias M. Johnson entertained at dinner at the Oceanside last Saturday evening, her guests remaining for the dance afterwards. There were covers for ten.

Mrs. S. Meredith Dickinson and daughter, Miss Dickinson, of Trenton, N. J., arrived at the Oceanside Tuesday for a week's stay.

Miss Betty Murphy of Montclair, N. J., is a guest of the E. M. Johnsons of Spuyten Duyvil, N. Y., who are at the Oceanside for the summer.

ALL suffragists, or those at all interested, are cordially invited by the Gloucester Equal Suffrage League to call at the Votes for Women tent at Stage Fort Park, Gloucester Day, August 17. The tent is to be in charge of Miss Martha Brooks, president of the Gloucester League, and Mrs. G. Percival Chick, chairman of the Tent Committee, assisted by the following hostesses: Mrs. Oakes Ames, North Easton and Bay View; Mrs. Anson Mills, Mrs. Frances L. Brundage, Washington; Mrs. Winfield Scott, Overton, Wash.; Mrs. Frederick G. Hall, Mrs. Davis W. Clark, Mrs. Walter O. Adams, Easton; Miss Mary Wave Allen, Cambridge; Mrs. Philip Richardson, Miss Emily Shepard, Brookline; Miss Abby Barry, Lynn; Mrs. Lyman Gale, Weston; the Misses Winchester, Mrs. Horace J. Hayden, New York; Mrs. Max Kellner, Mrs. Stillman, Land's End; Mrs. Roland G. Usher, Mrs. Spencer Borden, Fall River; Mrs. Adelbert Ames, Mrs. Brooks Stevens, Mrs. Andrew Marshall, Lowell; Mrs. Nellie M. Parsons, Mrs. George W. Woodbury, Mrs. Maria W. Bray, Mrs. David B. Smith, Mrs. Gilbert N. Pettingill, Miss Charlotte Lane, Mrs. Ada C. Polles, Mrs. Harriet M. Homans, Mrs. Friend, Mrs. Daniel A. Robinson, Mrs. Charles T. Heberle, Mrs. Clifford B. Terry, Miss Helen Broad, Miss Marion Stickney, Miss Helen Stickney, all of Gloucester, Mrs. William Pear, Cambridge.

Manchester Tea Rooms have had among its patrons the past week many Oceanside and Gloucester parties, in spite of the rainy weather. Mrs. Henry G. Hall of Magnolia gave a luncheon for four on Wednesday. The rooms and garden are very attractive with their old antiques and pretty little pottery shop which is proving an interesting feature of the tea-house.

New Ocean House, Swampscott

NEW OCEAN HOUSE, Swampscott. The social season at the New Ocean House is at its height and the events for the remainder of the month will keep the guests occupied with a continuous round of pleasure. The arrivals during the past week outnumbered any previous high record and the house will be kept open until the 20th of September. The bathing at Whale Beach, directly opposite the New Ocean House, has been excellent this week, the temperature of the water hovering around the seventy degree mark almost constantly. Each morning scores of guests of the New Ocean House find pleasure and enjoyment in the bracing effects of the matutinal dip.

Tennis and clock golf are also among the daily activities of the guests at the New Ocean House. Since the conclusion of the tennis tournament two weeks ago, the courts have been attracting many of the devotees of this popular sport.

The fourth formal ball of the season will be held Saturday evening, Aug. 14, in the main ball room of the New Ocean House. Music will be furnished by the New Ocean House orchestra, Mr. Frederick L. Mahn, director, and the dancing will start at nine o'clock and continue until midnight. A buffet supper will be served in the tea room at the conclusion of the ball.

Undoubtedly the biggest event of the season is the Costume Party which is planned for the evening of Aug. 28th. It is to be held in the main ball room of the New Ocean House and only those in costume will be permitted to dance. Guests of the hotel have already begun preparing for this event which promises to eclipse any of the other big social events so far this season. While the affair is not to be a bal masque, prizes, however, will be given to the wearers of the prettiest costumes. A fancy dress ball was held at the New Ocean House last year also and was a decided success.

The fourth children's party this season will take place next Wednesday afternoon at 3.30 in the main ball room of the New Ocean House. As there will be but two more of these popular events during the remainder of the season it is expected that there will be a large number of the little guests of the hotel and their friends from the cottage colony present. At the last party there was a good representation in spite of the poor weather. Pupils from the school of Mr. J. Jefferson Richards, the Back Bay dancing master, will as usual assist in the afternoon's entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Fielding, season guests at the New Ocean House, entertained at dinner during the past week the following party of friends: Capt. and Mrs. H. Hamilton, Lieut. McKenna and Miss McKenna, Lieut. Washburn, Lieut. and Mrs. C. G. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Malley and Miss Malley.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. G. Kennedy of Taormina, Sicily, who have been the guests of the New Ocean House since the beginning of the season, entertained at luncheon last Monday a party of twelve. At the conclusion of luncheon, the guests played auction in the suite off the main ball room.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. C. Smith and their daughter, Miss Margaret Smith, were among the week's arrivals at the New Ocean House. Mr. Smith is the former Port Commissioner of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Shaw Safe of Newport, R. I., the well-known tourists, are registered at the New Ocean House for a few days.

Mrs. Ralph M. Arkush of New York City has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. G. Kennedy at the New Ocean House during the past week.

Included in a dinner party at the New Ocean House this week were Mrs. W. Watterson and Miss H. Moller of Boston, Mrs. Robert Kendall and Mr. J. M. Steele of New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. William Pierce of Brookline were the luncheon guests on Monday of R. P. Bennett, season guest at the New Ocean House.

Mrs. C. W. Fletcher of Jamaica Plain was the guest of Mrs. E. M. Fielding at luncheon at the New Ocean House this week.

Mrs. A. I. Culver, Miss Kathryn P. Culver and Winthrop P. Culver, all of Albany, N. Y., are registered for the month at the New Ocean House.

Dr. and Mrs. John S. Lee, season guests at the New Ocean House, entertained at luncheon Sunday D. L. Goff and Darius Goff, both of Pawtucket, R. I.

Alfred L. Baker of Chicago entertained a party of six at luncheon at the New Ocean House Sunday.

Among the week's arrivals at the New Ocean House have been the following: H. W. Pillow, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. David Eugene Smith, New York City; K. A. Landau, Toronto; Mrs. Ralph M. Arkush, New York City; Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Grant, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. C. J. Shrimpton, O. H. Stone, Mrs. L. B. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hulbut, Athol; Miss Edith Wood, George T. Weed, Buffalo, N. F. C. Sharon of Chicago is a busy visitor about the Tedesco these days. He came from the western city to enjoy the seashore, but like many others, smiles when he sees the continued rain, instead of scowling. This is perhaps because he has seen so much of it in Chicago before he left that what is experienced here is but a mere drop in the bucket.

SWAMPSCOTT comes up smiling after a week's rain. Although the ravings and rantings of the clouds on high made a big dent in the social calendar, Swampscott has "come back strong" and is determined to spend the next four weeks in the merrymaking it has planned for the fortnight just passed. The back of the season has not even been broken in that section, its residents say.

The Tedesco Country club still continues to be the whirling hub about which Swampscott society revolves. The rain soaked the golf course up in great shape, but last Tuesday, ladies' day, saw many of the fair sex with their sport coats and blazers laid aside and the glint of golf sticks in the sun which has been on a strike for so long. Never before has the grass on the Tedesco green had so much attention as this year. The mowing crew has been busy all season because of the heavy rains. Usually in the middle of the season the horse mowers are not often needed, but this year it is all the men can do to keep the green in proper condition for playing, so fast does the greensward show a new crop of down.

Tuesday night there was the regular monthly meeting and dinner of the governors of the Tedesco club. Items of interest to the members were discussed and the unusual success of the mid-summer ball a week ago Wednesday in spite of the rain was commented upon.

On Tuesday, ladies' day, Mrs. H. L. Taylor of the Swampscott colony entertained 11 guests at luncheon and cards at the club. J. M. Farquhar had a party of six at dinner that evening.

Miss Frances Cross, daughter of J. H. Cross, former shoe manufacturer of Lynn, and who is summering in Swampscott this season, plans a luncheon and whist party for 16 guests next Monday afternoon.

Wednesday's concert this week was by Sharpe's orchestra, the musicians playing for dancing during the evening. The band is only at the club occasionally this year, about once every three weeks. In former seasons it was enjoyed every week. There were 175 diners at this week's concert and a smart gathering was noticed in the ballroom for the dancing.

Tomorrow another of the popular Thés Dansants will be held at the club-house in the afternoon. This is the affair of the week for the young people and a large assembly is expected.

There is no baseball team at the Tedesco this year. The games last year were played on Saturday afternoons, before the tea dances, and the combination seemed to be an ideal one, but this year the ball tossers have decided there will be no exhibition of their prowess on the diamond.

The effect of racing week at Marblehead has crept up as far as the Lincoln house, Swampscott, where several of the yachtsmen and their families are quartered. The Lincoln has a most encouraging August ahead and this will make up for any deficiencies encountered during the rainy season.

The Stanwood Wellingtons of Chestnut Hill, with their two children, have taken the new Estabrook house on Phillips avenue, Phillips Beach, for the balance of the season.

The Oakland house, Swampscott, has no cause to complain of a scarcity of guests for this month and the first few weeks of September. Guests there for varying stays include: Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Toondy, Reading; Mrs. C. K. Perot, Philadelphia; Dr. and Mrs. A. K. Whiting, Charles and A. D. Whiting, Philadelphia; Dr. and Mrs. Bailey, Cambridge; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Miller of Passaic, N. J., guests of Mrs. Charles Mason; Miss M. E. Harrington, Somerville; E. D. Callahan, Newport; Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Effinger, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Stumpt and Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Devoe.

CLIFTON society people will turn out Saturday evening to a minstrel show by members of the summer colony there. It is an annual affair and one that always brings out some real blackface talent. Russell Ellis is in charge of the performance.

Guests arriving at the Rockaway Inn recently include Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Mercier, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Forseman, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Littlehale, Cambridge; Mrs. Katherine Greenwood, Baton Rouge, La.

The formal opening of the Kernwood Country club at Salem which was to have been held on Saturday of this week has been postponed until Saturday, August 28. The principal reason for the change in date is because of the wet grounds about the clubhouse. As a foursome match in golf between some of the best golfers in the country has been arranged as one of the big features it was thought best to postpone the entire program. Among the premier list of golfers expected to take part are the champion Francis Ouimet, McNamara, a professional, Brady, another expert with the sticks and Walter Hagan. All four are stars. A big dinner and band concert are among the other features of the house-warming.

MARBLEHEAD, with the intermittent permission of Jupiter Pluvius, has endeavored to pull off its racing week. Things did not start very auspiciously. Sunday was well enough as regards weather but Monday's thunder storm rather mixed things up a bit. It was the worst electrical storm the yachtsmen have ever encountered, so they say, and bothered the day's program considerably. The hotels are making the most of racing week, most of them having nearly full houses. Activities at the yacht clubs as a result are busier than at any time this season.

Like several thousand giant fireflies the lights of the yachts of the New York Y. C. and the craft of the clubs on this shore lent their brilliance to the festive scene on the Marblehead shore last Saturday evening. It was the official welcome to the New York fleet and it was a royal one.

There were several hundred yachts in the harbor and thousands of visitors from all parts of the North and South shores motored to the mainland or across the causeway to the Neck. Interesting visitors were the Resolute and the Vanitie, the cup defender candidates.

For the first time in three years an illumination was held. It was as good as the best of those which have passed. There were about 450 craft in the harbor, 150 of them being from New York. The yachts were not illuminated, save for their cabins and the usual night lights, but there were so many of them that they seemed like a bustling myriad of fireflies.

At 8.45 there was a lighting of several hundred red lights, which stretched clear around from the lighthouse on the Neck across the Causeway and around the mainland waterfront to old Fort Sewall. This feature lasted for about 10 minutes, filling the harbor with a ruddy glow. Against this scarlet background every craft from the tiny cat-boat to the ocean-going yacht stood out in bold relief.

Over on the Neck the Corinthian and Eastern Y. C. houses were ablaze with electric bulbs, the verandas were crowded with members and their guests and everywhere jollity reigned supreme. The visiting yachtsmen were guests at the Eastern at a special dinner, about 500 covers being laid.

Shortly after 9 o'clock a most complete fireworks display was touched off, started by a national salute of bombs, which reverberated along the entire shore. Then there followed a series of set pieces, aerials and transformation features, set off from Rock-Mere point.

On Sunday night there was an illumination of the fleet marred only by a thunder storm that persisted on intruding on the evening's display. The spars and hull of J. P. Morgan's Corsair, George F. Baker's Viking, F. G. Bourne's Alberta, Henry Walters' Narada, Morton F. Plant's Kanawha and E. C. Benedict's Oneida were outlined with incandescent lights; searchlights played from these boats throughout the night.

Last Saturday night the largest dinner of the summer for both men and women was held at the Eastern in honor of the visiting yachtsmen. Guy Lowell, the noted architect, who with his family is spending the summer at Marblehead, was one of the reception committee.

E. J. Bliss, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, with Mrs. Bliss and family, joined the New York fleet at Newport with his yacht the Cossack. Mr. Bliss is an enthusiastic yachtsman and frequently takes a trick at the wheel himself. It was not so many years ago that he won the big ocean race from Marblehead to Bermuda with the schooner yacht Verona. At this time he was lashed to the wheel for 20 hours, when a heavy storm was encountered in the southern seas.

On Tuesday night there was a men's dinner at the Eastern on their return from Gloucester, where they raced for the cups presented by Rear Commodore Harold S. Vanderbilt.

The Oceanside hotel at Marblehead Neck is sharing the prosperity of racing week in no small degree. Rear Admiral Charles C. Rogers of Winchester, Pa., and his daughter of Portsmouth, N. H., are at the Oceanside until the 19th of this month. Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Ames and two children of North Easton are among the guests for the next few days. George A. Anthony of Washington, D. C., is down on the shore with his yacht, the Adalia, for his 24th cruise with the New York Y. C., and is at the Oceanside. Mr. Anthony had an amusing experience coming up from Newport. They pulled up anchor off Marion and with it came two buoys and two lobster pots. Mr. Anthony made quite a catch. George F. Marsh of Hingham is another yachtsman at the Oceanside. Mr. and Mrs. Eric C. Dudley of Ithaca are down for an indefinite stay. W. J. Hickmott, Jr., who is there with his parents, is entertaining Miss Pauline Bidwell of Hartford, Conn., at the Oceanside. The Hickmotts come from the Connecticut city also. Miss Laura Grosvenor Marsh of New York city is entertaining Miss Helen Glover of Lowell there. Miss Marsh is a lecturer of note. Other guests there include: Dexter E. Spalding, Boston; K. P. Pond, Winchester; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wearing, Toronto; and S. W. Holmes, president of the Commonwealth Trust Co., and daughter, Boston.

The New Glover Inn on the mainland is feeling the busyness of racing week on the shore. The house is well filled for the next fortnight and Proprietor Anderson will be busy until Labor Day.

The Sea Gull tea room on the Neck is entertaining a number of permanent guests for the season, among them Mrs. George R. Gaether, Baltimore and Dr. and Mrs. George A. Fleming and daughters Marjorie and Elizabeth, also of Baltimore.

B. Devereux Barker has bought land of Paul Crocker on Ocean avenue, the Neck, and will build a cottage for his own occupancy before the fall, it is expected.

The recital of "Lohengrin" at "Questenmere," the Marblehead Neck summer home of Mrs. Fred McQuesten Wednesday afternoon was accompanied by an outpouring of society folk from all parts of the upper shore and many friends from Manchester and Magnolia way. Miss Frances Nevin and John Hermann Loud were the artists who gave the offering which was such a success at the home of Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, Jr., for the war relief fund recently. It was repeated for the same worthy object at Mrs. McQuesten's home and a comfortably large sum was realized.

Vincent Astor's steam yacht Noma is one of the luxurious craft in Marblehead harbor for racing week. It arrived Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Astor are planning an extended cruise along the coast on the Noma. This is the yacht on which the late Colonel Astor and his bride, Katherine Force spent their honeymoon, as did also Vincent Astor and his bride. Captain Dungan has a crew of 52 men on board. With the possible exception of the Hohenzollern, the Kaiser's imperial yacht, the Noma is the most luxuriously furnished boat of her class afloat.

ALL that is needed is good weather to make the fifth annual Sam-Sam or field day of the United Shoe Machinery Athletic Association one of the largest and most successful mid-summer out-of-doors gatherings ever held in Essex county. Saturday, August 14th, will be a gala day and all roads will lead to Beverly. The work of the various committees has been completed. The day's program will be prefaced by an automobile and motorcycle parade through the principal streets of Beverly and Salem.

Gov. David I. Walsh and suite will be the principal guests of the afternoon. He will be greeted by a salute of seventeen guns, after which he and his party will be escorted to a large tent on the grounds, where he will respond to an address of welcome by President Thomas Lund. On the midway will be a large new merry-go-round, Punch and Judy show, one of the best magicians in the business and a side show replete with some of the best attractions out. Those interested in poultry and flowers will find large exhibits in separate tents. Another drawing attraction will be the amateur vaudeville contest for a prize of $25. The program in this line will be filled out by several professionals who have been engaged for the afternoon and evening. The crowd will be largely augmented by a throng of the Queen Quality shoe workers, who will come for their annual outing by special train. Several trains will stop at the Balch-street crossing during the afternoon and evening for the benefit of out-of-town visitors. Earlier in the afternoon there will be track and field sports, for which appropriate prizes have been offered. During the later part of the afternoon a hose-laying contest will be run off. Several municipal and industrial fire department teams will compete in one of the most interesting contests this section has seen for years. The interest of the younger generation will be claimed during the earlier part of the afternoon by a doll carriage parade for girls eight years old or younger. A large, handsomely dressed doll as large as many of the contestants will be the prize for the best decorated carriage. There will be a penny scramble for boys of eight years. The golf and tennis fans will find their interests claimed in the tournaments during the afternoon. Band concerts afternoon and evening, with dancing in the clubhouse hall will be a feature. The closing attraction of the day will be a fine display of fireworks.

CAPE ANN. The outer harbor presented a wonderful picture both on Monday afternoon and evening, when the large number of yachts of the Massachusetts yacht racing union and the New York Yacht Club were at anchor. In the afternoon the water was alive with the white sails when the boats went over the race course. In the evening the illumination of the fleet and the additional yachts of the New York Club's fleet was a treat to the summer residents at Eastern Point and East Gloucester, the berth being inside the breakwater. The big lawn fete at the Hotel Rockaway added brilliancy to the scene, hundreds of incandescent red, white and blue lights having blazed from the lawn and verandas, while the Gloucester Yacht Clubhouse was brilliantly lighted. The visit of the M. Y. R. A. fleet was the occasion of the annual Gloucester day, when the Gloucester Yacht Club was the host. The handsome fishing vessel Maxine Elliot was chartered by ex-Commodore B. H. Colby of the local yacht club for the entertainment of the visiting yachtsmen, and although the weather was not so favorable, the day was one of great pleasure.

Gloucester Day, the big annual event of the year on Cape Ann, comes next Tuesday. A grand fete will be held at Stage Fort Park in the afternoon and evening and the proceeds of the sales at the various booths will be for the benefit of the Huntress Home for Aged Women. Many prominent people of this country and abroad will be present at the fete, as well as thousands of people expected from the North Shore and different cities. Prizes are to be offered for the most attractively decorated booth, so it can be judged that these will be well worth viewing. Josephus Daniels, secretary of the United States Navy, is expected as a guest at the fete.

Last Saturday was "Pin Day," in Gloucester, when a bevy of attractive girls appeared on the streets with buttons bearing a photo of the Huntress Home and the public were purchasers. The proceeds will be added to the fund which will be raised on Gloucester Day, for the benefit of the Huntress Home.

John Hays Hammond, Jr., of Lookout Hill, Gloucester, whose recent triumphs have astonished war experts and the scientific world, has been honored by having been selected to become an officer and director of the American Society of Aeronautic Engineers, which has been organized by the request of Thomas A. Edison. The purposes of this organization are to meet the need for a body composed entirely of aeronautic engineers and experts, to act in an advisory capacity with the advisory committee of the navy, of which Mr. Edison is chairman, this body to be capable of rendering immediate service, if necessary.

ANNISQUAM. The storm of Friday did not deter the holding of the clambake for the members of the Annisquam Yacht Club. The entertainment committee had planned the affair to be held at Annisquam island, but on account of the rain the event was carried out with great success at the clubhouse. Fires were built on the rocks nearby, where the lobsters and clams were cooked and the viands were served from a long table on the piazza to the guests in the dining room. Over a hundred people attended the clambake despite the stormy weather and the day was one of keen enjoyment and novel indeed. Beside the clams and lobsters there were sandwiches, watermelon, cake, fruit, crackers, cheese, pickles, coffee and soft drinks. Following the feast of good things for the appetite, about 6 o'clock dancing and card playing were enjoyed in the evening.

An event of interest in the Annisquam colony this week was the mid-summer fair, held in Village Hall Wednesday afternoon and evening, for the benefit of the Annisquam Universalist Church. The summer residents patronized the fair extensively. Mrs. Charles E. Cunningham was chairman of the general committee. The booths were prettily decorated under the direction of Miss Nancy Flagg. The booths included the Sewing Circle, Tuesday Club, candy, lemonade, ice cream, Sunday school and summer table, the latter being in charge of Mrs. Melbourne Hardwick, wife of the Boston artist, assisted by Mrs. Harry W. Wiggin, Miss Helen Roney and Mrs. May Crow.

Mrs. I. T. Cook and son, Carlton Cook, and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Cook, of St. Louis, are annual guests for many seasons at the Grand View, who have returned this season for an extended stay. Miss Cook is a student at Smith College, Northampton.

The F. L. Senats are at "Summerhaven" cottage, Nashua avenue, Annisquam, after a visit to Kennebunkport, Me.

Mrs. Melbourne Hardwick is entertaining Mrs. William Roney and Miss Helen Roney, of Boston, at "The Poplars," the Hardwick cottage studio.

A sketch of the Suffrage tent for Gloucester Day, Aug. 17, is now on exhibition at the Ford & Wass boot and shoe store, Gloucester. This sketch has been made by the well-known artist, Frances Lockwood Brundage of Washington, whose fame began years ago when lithography was in its infancy. At that time she worked for Louis Prang, the most prominent of the founders of lithography in America. Since then she has gained an international reputation, working for Raphael Tuck & Son of London and Wolfe of Philadelphia, New York, Boston and Berlin. Mrs. Brundage has also illustrated at least twelve books a year for Saalfield of Akron, Ohio. Mrs. Brundage is so unassuming that a lady in Annisquam, where the artist has summered for many years, was much surprised to hear Mr. Forbes of the Forbes Lithograph Company say that it was amazing what a reputation she had made for herself on both sides of the Atlantic.

modated at homes in East Gloucester, in corresponding time of season, last year, were privileged to stay on, through the efforts of Proprietor Stacy of the Inn. The present week-end will find East Gloucester the pioneer and big center of the summer resort business on the North Shore, with its season at its extreme height.

A very largely attended event on Tuesday evening at the Hawthorne Inn casino, was the cabaret held under the auspices of the Hawthorne Inn Club. The big casino was filled with people, many sitting at tables around the hall, refreshments being served. The program was as follows: Song, Jack Farnsworth and Elizabeth Estees; Valse, Miss Peggy Perry and Mr. Teddy; nigger stunts, Lucius Hill; song and dance, Lillian Hurdicks and chorus; Pavlowa Gavotte, Miss A. Butt and Jack Ross. Jack Ross, of New York, who is giving instruction in dancing at the casino this season, drilled the dancers in the exhibition. General dancing was also enjoyed during the evening. The Hawthorne Inn Club is composed of the ladies of Hawthorne Inn. Mrs. William K. Harcourt, the actress, of New York, is president and the committee of two besides the president directing entertainments are Mrs. Austin Perry and Mrs. James Marcus Dennison. Miss Arrington Butt and Miss Gladys B. Perry were the chosen committee for this week's cabaret show. A small admission fee charged at the cabarets will be turned over to the Victrola fund.

The annual bazaar at the casino in aid of the Gloucester Fisherman's Institute will not be held this week as reported, but instead Chaplain Henry Parsons of the Institute will give a very interesting illustrated lecture on "The Fisheries and Gloucester Fishermen," in the Hawthorne Inn casino. A large audience is expected this Friday evening, August 13.

The grounds of the Rockaway Hotel, Rocky Neck, were ablaze with colored lights on Monday evening, when a very pretty and novel "Lemon Squeeze" and fete was held for the benefit of the Elks' Lodge fund for the Christmas for poor children of Gloucester. The storm in the afternoon interfered with the fete and the prettily decorated booths had to be stripped of the lovely articles on sale. A tennis tournament was played in the afternoon between the Hawthorne Inn and the Rockaway players, a silver cup being offered to the winner, the Hawthorne Inn carrying away the trophy. In the evening, hundreds of people attended the fete and it was a great success. The entertainment consisted of a quartet of the summer church in Nahant, pupils of Arthur Wilson, the voice specialist, who has the "cabin" studio at the Hotel Rockaway. The quartet comprised: Martha Atwood-Baker, soprano; Edith Monroe, alto; William B. McLane, tenor, and Percy Baker, bass. Wells Weston and Walter Arno were accompanists. There were readings by Miss Dorothy Lee Bell; impersonations by William B. Griffith, and exhibition dances by Frank and Lillian McCormack of Jamaica Plain. The committee so efficiently arranging the affair comprised Mrs. Martha Atwood-Baker of Boston, assisted by Arthur Wilson of Boston, Proprietor Publicover and ladies of Gloucester, who are to have charge of the 25-cent table at the Elks' Lodge fair in the autumn.

Rev. Charles Walkley, the prominent clergyman of East Orange, N. J., and wife, were at "The Rudder" on Tuesday for luncheon.

Miss Lotta Crabtree, the noted actress, has taken a cottage at Eastern Point for the season.

Ex-Governor John L. Dix of New York is with his family at the Parsons cottage, located on Clarendon street, Rocky Neck, East Gloucester. The ex-Governor has taken the house for the season.

Miss Jones of Jamaica Plain, an illustrator, is spending a vacation at the Harbor View.

Merrill Hall guests arriving this week are: Amy A. Beard, M. D. Beard, N. T. Beard, Toronto, Can.; H. R. Knowlton, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Boute, Mrs. W. L. Quarles, Mrs. J. M. ## MR. FOSTER ---OF--- GLOUCESTER

Another of the series of musicals being held this season at the Rockaway Hotel, East Gloucester, under the direction of Arthur Wilson of Boston took place last Wednesday evening in the music room. It was very stormy, but outside people gathered as well as guests of the hotel to hear the fine program arranged by Mr. Wilson. The singers were Martha Atwood-Baker, soprano, and Lester Aldrich, baritone, both of Boston. A feature of the program was the rendering of a group of three German children's songs by Taubett, which Mrs. Baker sang with much character and tonal beauty. "The Lily Maid" cycle, from von Fielitz, was sung in a most artistic way by Mrs. Baker. Mr. Aldrich made his first appearance in Gloucester, and he sang delightfully the von Fielitz "Eliland" cycle and two other songs in contrast, "The Broken-Hearted Mariner," and "Gypsy John." Both artists sang in the closing number, a duet by Gordon Temple, and they were obliged to respond with a repetition of the selection. The piano accompanist was Walter Arno of Boston, who was sympathetic with the singers, and his work was an added pleasure to the evening's recital. Another musical will be held again soon.

On Wednesday evening of next week the Elks' indoor carnival, candy booth committee will hold a dancing party in the hall of the Gloucester Yacht Clubhouse on Rocky Neck. The Imperial orchestra will furnish music and a pleasant event is anticipated.

On Saturday evening of this week a masquerade party will be held by the guests of the Beachcroft, to be followed by a luncheon to be served by Proprietor Phillips.

Miss Grace Elliston, the actress, who has starred with Ethel Barrymore and was a favorite in "The Lion and the Mouse," and "The Governor's Lady," is a guest at the Hawthorne Inn. On Saturday night, before the ball at the Inn casino, Miss Elliston gave a dinner at "The Rudder" tea house, covers being laid for six.

Mrs. Barbour of New York gave a luncheon to twelve on Monday afternoon at "The Rudder."

Mrs. Erben of Schenectady, N. Y., gave a luncheon to twelve on Friday at "The Rudder."

There were 125 people served at "The Rudder" on Tuesday of this week.

Sargent and Mrs. Powell won, 4 up and 3 to go. A tennis tournament is now on at the club's courts. Last Sunday there was a large gallery of tennis enthusiasts and North Shore society at the morning exhibition games between Molla Bjurstedt, the Norwegian player and titled champion of America, and Harry Johnson of Boston, and Mrs. George W. Wightman, the ex-champion of this country, and her husband. Three sets were played and Mr. and Mrs. Wightman won two out of three. There was a splendid exhibition of playing and the large audience applauded enthusiastically. Miss Bjurstedt has been the week's guest of the Wightmans at the latter's cottage at Bass Rocks. On the Sunday previous there was a large gallery of prominent people at the tennis match between four of the best known tennis players of international fame at the Bass Rocks courts, Miss Bjurstedt, Norwegian champion, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Eleonora Sears of Boston; Maurice McLaughlin and Mrs. Wightman of Brookline. This coming Sunday, golf enthusiasts will watch with great interest the playing of Francis Ouimet and possibly Tewksbury, the noted professionals.

ROCKPORT. Like all other sections of the North Shore, the rains have interfered with out-door pleasures, although between times, there have been a great many players on the fine golf course of the new Rockport Country club. The Saturday night dances are well attended, especially that of last week. Fears' orchestra renders music which is giving much satisfaction.

At the Land's End colony the Straitsmouth Inn and Turk's Head Inn are well filled with guests and a great many people are expected the present week-end to remain through August and part of September.

In the Marmion Way colony, the cottagers are holding many indoor parties at bridge and tea and the log fire is appreciated these dull days.

The dense fog sweeping along the bay and shutting the land from view has caused many yachts to put into Rockport harbor for shelter. The schooner yacht Adrea, 99 tons, of New York, put in to the harbor last week-end remaining till Wednesday, on account of the thick weather. She was bound from New York to Seal Harbor, Me., having on board, Medill McCormick, the well known newspaper man of Chicago and the head of the American

The Sea

Text from FILSON YOUNG'S "Christopher Columbus"

A MAN standing on the seashore is perhaps as ancient and as primitive a symbol of wonder as the mind can conceive. Beneath his feet are the stones and grasses of an element that is his own, natural to him, in some degree belonging to him, at any rate accepted by him. He has place and condition there. Above him arches a world of immense void, fleecy sailing clouds, infinite clear blueness, shapes that change and dissolve; his day comes out of it, his source of light and warmth marches across it; night falls from it; showers and dews also, and the quiet influence of the stars. Strange that impalpable element must be, and forever unattainable by him; yet with its gifts of sun and shower, its furniture of winged life that inhabits also on the friendly soil, it has links and partnerships with life as he knows it and is a complement of earthly conditions. But at his feet there lies the fringe of another element, another condition, of a vaster and more simple unity than earth or air, which the primitive man of our picture knows to be not his at all. It is fluent and unstable yet to be touched and felt; it rises and falls, moves and frets about his very feet, as though it had a life and entity of its own, and was engaged upon some mysterious business. Unlike the silent earth and the dreaming clouds it has a voice that fills his world and, now low, now loud, echoes throughout his waking and sleeping life. Earth with her sprouting fruits behind and beneath him; sky, and larks singing, above him; before him, an eternal alien, the sea: he stands there upon the shore, arrested, wondering.

He lives, this man of our figure; he proceeds, as all must proceed, with the task and burden of life. One by one its miracles are unfolded to him; miracles of fire and cold, and pain and pleasure; the seizure of love, the terrible magic of reproduction, the sad miracle of death. He fights and lusts and endures; and, no more troubled by any wonder, sleeps at last. But throughout the days of his life, in the very act of his rude existence, this great tumultuous presence of the sea troubles and overbears him. Sometimes in its bellowing rage it terrifies him, sometimes in its tranquillity it allures him; but whatever he is doing, grubbing for roots, chipping experimentally with bones and stones, he has an eye upon it; and in his passage by the shore he pauses, looks, and wonders. His eye is led from the crumbling snow at his feet, past the clear green of the shallows, beyond the furrows of the nearer waves, to the calm blue of the distance; and in his glance there shines again that wonder, as in his breast stirs the vague longing and unrest that is the life-force of the world.

What is there beyond? It is the eternal question asked by the finite of the infinite, by the mortal of the immortal; answer to it there is none save in the unending preoccupation of life and labor. And if this old question was in truth first asked upon the sea-shore, it was asked most often and with the most painful wonder upon the western shores, whence the journeying sun was seen to go down and quench himself in the sea. The generations that followed our primitive man grew fast in knowledge, and perhaps for a time wondered the less as they knew the more; but we may be sure they never ceased to wonder at what might lie beyond the sea. How much more must they have wondered if they looked west upon the waters, and saw the sun of each succeeding day sink upon a couch of glory where they could not follow! All pain aspires to oblivion, all toil to rest, all troubled discontent with what is present to what is unfamiliar and far away; and no power of knowledge and scientific fact will ever prevent human unhappiness from reaching out towards some land of dreams of which the burning brightness of a sea sunset is an image. Is it very hard to believe, then, that in that yearning towards the miracle of a sun quenched in sea distance, felt and felt again in human hearts through countless generations, the westward stream of human activity on this planet had its rise? Is it unreasonable to picture, on an earth spinning eastward, a treadmill rush of feet to follow the sinking light? The history of man's life in this world does not, at any rate, contradict us. Wisdom, discovery, art, commerce, science, civilization, have all moved west across our world; have all in their cycles followed the sun; have all, in their day of power, risen in the East and set in the West.

ESTABROOK AND AMORY WINNERS.

While not thought of as a winning team of golfers after the first day's play in the invitation four-ball, best-ball tournament at the Essex County club, B. W. Estabrook and C. M. Amory surprised the knowing ones by performing in brilliant style last Friday and Saturday, eliminating two strong combinations, and thereby winning their way to the final against L. A. Frothingham and F. J. Alsop, both of the Brookline Country club.

Then Estabrook and Amory, who are members of both the Country and home club, but who represented the North Shore in this tourney, gratified their followers by taking into camp in the 36-holes final Saturday Frothingham and Alsop by 9 and 8. It was necessary to play only 28 of the 36 holes. The cards:

EDITORIAL

THE NORTH SHORE has known many seasons that have been wet, but this season has surpassed all others in the number of rainy days and the amount of rainfall. The reports of the Weather Bureau confirm the recollections of North Shore residents. For thirty-six days there was a fall of rain sometime during the twenty-four hours of the day. While there has been some gain to the reservoirs of water, the destruction has been great. The hotel business that flourishes during the summer months has been operating in many places at a dead loss. The summer sports and attractions have been hindered and all sorts of al fresco events have been cancelled. The season from an outdoor point of view has been a failure. The gardeners have suffered the most. Through the Connecticut Valley and along the northern portions of the State the tobacco plants have been injured, great fields of corn laid flat and home gardens ruined. In Marblehead, fields of squash and potatoes are blighted beyond hope of recovery. In the local gardens the beans are ruined by mildew and squash and potatoes injured and corn laid flat and all sorts of field truck put back. In the flower gardens beautiful delicate flowering plants have been beaten to the ground and such plants that have bloomed have had their flowers destroyed by the rain. The foliage of the trees and shrubbery has been the only redeeming good in the gardens. The amount of damage done is incalculable and it will be reflected in increased prices of foodstuffs and garden products.

THE MOST NOTABLE EVENT of the last week was President Wilson's call for a Pan-American Conference to consider the condition of affairs in Mexico and to come to a mutual agreement as to the best course for America and the other American governments to pursue to insure peace or the continent and to establish justice and equality for all in Mexico. The council indicates the unselfish interests and purposes of the United States government. The peaceful forbearance of President Wilson has been the most valuable contribution to the cause of peace in the last century. It will at once disarm all suspicion of this country in the Southern American States and will do much to make the Monroe doctrine a vital force. If President Wilson does not watch out he will be granted the Nobel Peace prize. He already deserves it.

ANOTHER COWARDLY automobile tragedy has come to the attention of the North Shore. On Saturday night a man was struck in the darkness of the night, and the operators of the car fled without giving aid. The man died in the Beverly Hospital. Accidents may happen, especially in the night; the victim may even have been careless and criminally negligent of his own safety, but flight by the operators of a motor vehicle under the circumstances is moral cowardice.

THE NEW YORK YACHT CLUB has been paying a friendly visit to our shores during the week. The early part of their stay was not pleasant. The club should try it again; perhaps next time the North Shore will be able to provide better weather and a more friendly welcome.

INTERESTING SIDE LIGHTS on world affairs and politics may often be had in the correspondence of foreign papers. The following letter was published in a Shanghai newspaper anent the present World War. The caption "Belgium says: 'I am a Country, I am not a road,'" is brilliant. "Now there is a great battle in Europe. This began because the prince of Austria went to Serbia with his wife. One man of Serbia killed him. Austria was angry and so write Serbia. Germany write a letter to Austria, 'I will help you.' Russia write a letter to Serbia, 'I will help you.' France did not want to fight, but they got ready their soldiers. Germany write a letter to France, 'You don't get ready or I will fight you in nine hours.' Germany to fight them, pass Belgium. Belgium say, 'I am a country; I am not a road.' And Belgium write a letter to England about Germany, to help him. So England help Belgium." The short choppy sentences, couched in quaint English, are interesting, but the Shanghai correspondent had the facts well in mind nevertheless.

AN ISLE OF SHOALS preacher accuses Billy Sunday of having but fifty sermons and then preaching them from place to place. He forgot to state that Sunday has the marvellous faculty of getting an audience to hear his fifty sermons. Sunday is a remarkable man and there is no gainsaying the facts, whatever view one may have of his methods and mannerisms. He has been a vital force in Philadelphia and Paterson. Why not let him do his work in his own way?

A ROMAN CATHOLIC PRIEST, the heir to millions inherited at the death of an uncle in South America and another in Australia, has refused to enter into the responsibilities of the inheritance. Contented to continue his good work, he leaves the burdens of the world for others. Why should he at sixty burden himself? The rejection of such a fortune seems surprising in these days of materialistic ambitions, but did not the priest show rare judgment and great power of will?

A BOSTON STEAMSHIP COMPANY has rendered a service to the cause of public safety that should be commended. It has been able to devise a safe mechanism for holding life rafts in place in such a manner that in an emergency twenty of them may be kicked free in a minute. Safety first is being emphasized in every public transportation enterprise. The public demands it and good business policy demonstrates its value.

WHAT THIS WORLD of ours needs is the spirit of friendliness and brotherly kindness. The world War is demonstrating beyond the peradventure of a doubt the futility and folly of martial contests.

THE LIGHTNING caused some damage to property hereabouts on Monday, but this can easily be repaired. It is fortunate that there were no personal injuries inflicted.

All aboard for Plattsburg. Drill, ye patriots, drill!

WARSAW HAS FALLEN and the German forces have taken possession, and apparently the German forces have won a victory. This is true, but the fall of Warsaw is an incident in this war and while it has a psychological power in encouraging the victors, it has a corresponding power of arousing the spirit of the Allies. Warsaw was surrendered; Russia was not able to hold it, but the Russian army was able to escape undestroyed. Germany still has to face the Russian army. In the manoeuvre Russia is brought nearer to her base of supplies and Germany is brought farther from her base of operation. Russia is gaining time for military preparation. Germany had the men, the guns, the equipment and the plan of operation; all of these Russia must get to give battle on equal terms. The military advantages have all been with the Germans. Whether these advantages can be held cannot at this early day be foreseen. The fall of Warsaw has its temporary value to Germany, but it has no immediate bearing upon the final issues of the contest.

THREE WEEKS ARE NOW sped since Germany received the American note and the United States government has received no answer. But during all the time that has expired the requests made by this government have been lived up to on the sea. Germany has a mind to grant in fact the demands made, why should America care if a reply does not come back. The activities upon the sea are evidences enough that Germany is endeavoring to prevent any movement that may be interpreted as deliberately unfriendly.

WELCOME HOUSE, a popular Boston charity, was in rare fortune at the Horse Show held in its aid on Saturday at Green Meadows, Hamilton. The committee must have been on friendly terms with the weather man. The success of the event was merited; Welcome House is doing a great work in its chosen field.

THE POPULARITY of jitneys and private automobiles is being demonstrated daily. One section of the street railroad on the North Shore has been forced to curtail its service on account of the reduction in the number of passengers.

A PEACE PROPAGANDA has started in Sweden that has broken beyond the bounds that were set for it by the militaristic forces of that nation. Aroused by the war, its cruelty, its thoughtlessness and its violation of the instincts of common humanity, Albert Wickman, a Baptist preacher, has been conducting a peace campaign that has attracted the attention of all Sweden. Albert Wickman's great plea is fundamental—it takes two to make a fight. It takes two armies for a battle. Armament is an invitation for battle and not a preventative. The movement has gained ground and despite Wickman's imprisonment it has continued.

ANOTHER AUTOMOBILE accident has occurred because of the brilliancy of a headlight on a passing motor. The State of Massachusetts should study the problem and pass a law forbidding brightly lighted automobile lamps. New Jersey has a law which requires the screening of the upper part of the light, which prevents the light rays from going up and focuses them on the ground. This gives the light where it is needed and prevents the blindness that is caused by brilliantly lighted motors.

THE NORTH SHORE Horticultural Society suffered because of the rainy weather. The carefully arranged flower show was a credit to the association. The inclement weather demonstrated the need of a building somewhere on the Shore where such exhibits may be held. Before many years a Horticultural Hall of simple design should be erected somewhere on the North Shore.

THE GERMAN NATION, through the Kaiser, has offered Russia a separate peace and Russia has declined it. The pact entered into by the Allies not to accept a separate peace is evidently operative. Germany must have known that Russia would reject the proposal. Russia has been driven back, but has not been defeated yet.

THE CONTEST for Governor is now on. It is settled that the lineup will be Walsh, McCall, Cushing and Shaw. Shaw has laid out a unique line of campaign and it is certain that he will make heavy inroads on all of the parties. It is now too early in the contest to foresee the result.

To Line State Highways with Shade Trees

MASSACHUSETTS has 320 miles of state-built, state-maintained and state-supervised highway, over which a steady stream of tourist travel pours, in season and out, not to mention the use made of these roads by citizens of the state who look with satisfaction on them as profitable investments, that reduce cost of carriage to producers of goods that are conveyed over them and that make wheeling for pleasure a reality, not a vision, says the Christian Science Monitor.

The state forestry association, plus manufacturers of vehicles, and backed by village improvement societies, is now conducting a survey, under the charge of landscape architects of good standing, which when completed will guide the association in its plan to line every rod of these state highways with trees. Once this report is in, tree buying can begin on a scale that will insure relatively low cost, preparations will be made for planting, and next spring the actual work can be started.

Along many of these state roads, where they followed the old highways trod by the colonial pioneers, there is comparatively little to be done. Splendid growths of elm, oak, maple and ash abound. On other routes there is much to do. Later settlers have not always been tree lovers. But when done in the sense that the planting is over and the first results of the change appear the traffic increase will no doubt be striking.

Trees are a fitting sort of furniture for the roadway along which humanity pours itself. Such growth adds color and refreshment to what may be a drab scene. Trees speak of stability while the ceaseless traffic passing them symbolizes change and mobility. Shade is thus given to a sun-dominating landscape and to a refreshment-seeking humanity. Let the trees stand long enough by the side of the road and they arch it over and make it still more inviting as a highway for men who walk and who ride.

Once a civic virtue left to progressive citizens, tree-planting has now become the common activity of manufacturers with countryside plants, of improvement societies, of local leaders in well doing and of departments of forestry. The Massachusetts plan is interesting for a variety of reasons, but mainly because of the diverse interests supporting it.

Immediately under the cupola on the upper floor of the structure at the time were the wife and three children of James McElhanney, the coachman. Aside from a severe shock they were not injured in the least. At the same time the stable of Gordon Abbott, nearby, was struck. Some of the casing was ripped off and electric and telephone wires were put out of commission.

TAX RATE $10.

DROP OF $1.20 IN MANCHESTER TAX RATE.

Manchester is one of the few towns and cities of the Commonwealth to show a decrease in the tax rate this year. The board of assessors, Edward S. Knight, chairman, announced the rate last Saturday,—$10 per $1000 of valuation, which is a decrease of $1.20 from last year, when the rate was $11.20.

The rate is based on a valuation of $20,000,580, which is an increase of $3,215,360 over last year. The valuation last year was $16,785,220. Practically the whole of the increase is in personal property.

The figures of valuation used by the assessors in getting the tax rate are as follows:

Residents — personal, $10,855,973; real estate, $4,168,290 (buildings $2,426,500, land $1,741,790).

Non-residents — personal, $81,292; real estate, $4,924,245 (buildings $2,200,600, land $2,723,645).

Total—personal $10,937,265; real estate, $9,092,535 (buildings $4,627,100; land $4,465,435).

Grand total .....$20,029,800
Less exemptions ..... 29,220

Total property assessed —

Apr. 1, 1915 .....$20,000,580

The town voted to raise by taxation $195,000. The assessment on the above basis will net about $200,000.

EDWARD S. BRADLEY.

Edward S. Bradley, aged 46, a Manchester business man, died Tuesday night at the Beverly Hospital as the result of taking a powerful dose of poison with suicidal intent.

Mr. Bradley bought 1½ ounces of bi-chloride of mercury at a local druggist's about 11 Tuesday morning, saying he wished to use it for a bug poison. No suspicion was aroused as he had obtained it before for a similar purpose.

He remained at home during the day not feeling well, and at 3 o'clock was taken violently ill. Dr. R. T. Glendenning was called and to him he confessed taking the poison. First aid was administered and with the assistance of Chief of Police Sullivan he was rushed to the Beverly Hospital, the trip of seven miles being made in 13 minutes.

Every means was used to save his life, but enough of the drug had been taken to kill a score of men and he died at 6.30.

Mr. Bradley had been feeling ill and despondent for some time and bad collections and business depression are thought to have weighed heavily upon his mind.

He was a native of Lawrence, but had been in Manchester some 18 years, coming here first to work for R. Robertson Co., plumbers. He afterwards engaged in general plumbing business and also operated the Manchester steam laundry. For a time the laundry prospered and then business began to fall off. The expense was heavy but Mr. Bradley tried valiantly to stem the tide which had seemingly turned against him. He did everything possible to put the laundry on a paying basis, but the effort took his time and taxed his strength, so that he was unable to give his plumbing business the time which he felt he should. This worried him. He kept his nerve until the last always hoping for a change for the better. Recently he had to dispose of his home on Pine street and moved to Central street, near his shop and laundry, but still his business worries pressed him hard.

Mr. Bradley was president of the North Shore Master Plumber's Association, a member of North Shore Lodge, A. O. U. W., and Conomo

DANIEL ALLEN DEAD.

Daniel Allen, a native of Rockport, but for many years a leading master sail-maker of Gloucester, died at his home, 10 Friend street, Gloucester, last Saturday morning, at the age of 87 years, 7 months and 13 days. He had been in poor health for several months but had been confined to the house only a short time.

He was the oldest son of Daniel and Elizabeth B. (Parsons) Allen, and was born January 25, 1828. His early life was spent in Rockport but he removed to Gloucester when a young man and with his father established the sail-making firm of Daniel Allen & Son. He was also interested with his father in the fisheries. He retired from active business twenty years ago.

For many years Mr. Allen made his home in Manchester summers, in a cottage off summer st., near Brook st.

He was a man of genial companionship, always ready to confer a favor or give a word of advice, and his memory will long be remembered outside of the immediate family circle with which he was connected.

He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Lucy Witham Parsons of Rockport, to whom he was married
Feb. 16, 1854, and who died Jan. 27,
1870, and he married Miss Harriet E.
Kitfield of Manchester, June 8, 1876, who with two daughters, Mrs. Susie
H., wife of Fred G. Pinkham, and Miss Hattie K. Allen, and one granddaughter, Harriet Pinkham, survives him. He also leaves two brothers, Benjamin F. of Reading and J. Sidney of Rockport.

MANCHESTER GROUNDS — BEST
TWO OUT OF THREE GAMES.

Baseball fans all along the North Shore are looking forward to the series between Manchester and Beverly which are to start this Saturday on the Manchester grounds.

THE MANCHESTER-LYNNHURST GAME.

1. Perkins safe at home plate.
2. Grover out at first. O'Leary's run does not count.
3. Grover delivering ball Cody smashed out for home run.

The series will be the best two out of three. The game next week will be in Beverly.

Manchester goes into the series with the strongest combination of players it has ever put on the field, with Harold Grover of Rockport, who has pitched for the Manchester team the last two seasons, in the delivery box, and Everett Perkins on the receiving end. It is conceded this combination, as a battery, is the strongest of any team in this part of the state. Manchester has won every game played this season, eleven in all. The same team beat everything in sight last year.

The series will show some of the fastest ball seen in these parts in years, for Beverly is reputed to have some of the best players to be found anywhere. The team is the former Progressive Club. It is sincerely hoped a big crowd of fans will turn out for this game tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock and help make the series a lively one.

It is understood a big crowd is coming from Gloucester and Rockport to see the opening game tomorrow.

The game last Saturday with the Lynnhursts of Lynn was the fastest and snappiest in many ways of the whole list of games this season.

Grover struck out 13 of the Shoe City boys, and would have shut them out but for Cody's home-run in the sixth, with a man on second. The Manchester boys played league ball throughout and had a good opponent in the visitors from Lynn. The infield of the Lynnhursts was as fast and sure as any combination that played here this year.

There was more "pep" in the game than in any preceding it. And that is what the crowd likes. The score:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9

Frankie Muller pitched for the Lynnhursts, pitching a good game. Whalen was catcher.

Manager Rafferty of the Beverlys was down last Saturday "lookin' 'em over," to see what he must expect in the Manchester-Beverly series.

"Who are you waving at?" yells an enthusiastic fan over on the first base line of the Lynnhurst batter fanned by Grover.

Cody's home-run was one of the prettiest such hits seen on the field this year. It went well into the air and straight landing just over the brook.

They say Jackie Gray shuts his eyes when he swings at the ball. If that is so, what would happen if he kept his eyes open? Jackie must stand pretty well up in the list of batters on the Manchester team this year. His vicious swing last Saturday tallied two of Manchester's six runs.

A big lot of fans from Gloucester take in the games at Manchester every Saturday. From Beverly, Beverly Farms, and Magnolia, too, quite a number come. At one of the games recently, twenty-six autos were count-

EQUAL SUFFRAGE NOTES

Of course the really great event of this week was the "Suffrage Day" at the Fenway Park baseball grounds! Everybody is interested in baseball, and the result of the two games on Tuesday, between the Boston "Red Sox" and the St. Louis team, was typical of the Suffrage movement. For the final result was a great victory, after the slight defeat of the first game and the delay caused by the shower. Even so the Suffrage cause is now nearing its final victory, after disappointments and delays. And the yellow flags waving there seemed a good omen both for the "Home team" and for the Cause. In the intermission Miss Margaret Foley made a brief appeal to the great crowds and was loudly cheered. Miss Foley had an article on Suffrage and Baseball in a recent issue of the Boston Record, showing many points of resemblance between the National Game and the national issue of Equal Suffrage. But we might sum it all up by saying that both are democratic and popular!

The more serious demonstration of Mass. Suffragists will take place on Saturday of this week, which will be observed as Lucy Stone's Birthday by a pilgrimage of Suffragists from all over the state to the house in West Brookfield where Lucy Stone was born. At the exercises there, two of the speakers will be Miss Alice Stone Blackwell and Mrs. Maud Wood Park. Further particulars of the Pilgrimage may be had from Miss Stanwood, Manchester.

The speaker at the open-air meeting at Manchester on the evening of Aug. 24, will be Mrs. Theresa Crowley, the brilliant Boston lawyer who did the wonderful Suffrage work with the Legislature. She will be accompanied by two state canvassers, and full particulars will be given next week.

HIS 78TH BIRTHDAY.

Former County Commissioner Elbridge C. Sawyer, one of the best known citizens of Beverly, Wednesday observed the seventy-eighth anniversary of his birth. Mr. Sawyer is one of the oldest business men in Beverly coming to Beverly from Merrimac, thirty-eight years ago. He is a carriage maker by trade and his work in all these years has included also carriage painting and repairing. Of late years he has given his attention to the automobile, which has to a certain extent supplanted the carriage.

"EXPERIENCE" AT THE SHUBERT.

Keen interest has already been aroused by the announcement that "Experience," the modern morality play which ran nine months in New York last season, would be the opening attraction at the Shubert Theatre, beginning on Saturday night, August 28th. Mail orders and telephonic inquiries have already commenced to pour into the Shubert Theatre from theatregoers who have heard of the great success of the play last season, and wish to see it as soon as it comes to Boston. The play is a modern up to the minute exposition of the trials and temptations which beset Youth when he ventures into the great world, and one reason for its enormous success is that it instinctively recalls to elderly patrons their own struggles and difficulties when they themselves were endeavoring to find "a place in the sun" in the search for success. Yet while the play is a powerful exposition of the "Experiences" which a young man acquires, each of the ten scenes abounds in either comic, dramatic or sentimental incidents.

"Experience" was written by Geo. V. Hobart.

ANDREW MACK IN "ARRAH-NA-POGUE."

The visiting star next week, every afternoon and evening, beginning Monday afternoon next, Aug. 16th, will be the famous Irish singing comedy star in his much loved interpretation of the role of Shaun in Dion Boucicault's masterpiece, "Arrah-na-Pogue." Mr. Mack is a great Boston favorite, and while he has on several occasions played engagements in this most popular play in his repertoire in this city, notable in 1903, 1906 and 1908, he has never been seen here in this play at the popular prices which prevail at the Majestic Theatre during the summer season of stock. At the daily matinees there are 1000 reserved seats at 25 cents, and at the evening performances the prices of reserved seats are: 25 cents, 50 cents and 75 cents.

The Men's Club is having a busy month in all its branches. The moving picture show tonight promises to be one of the best of the season and the new machine contributed by Eugene G. Foster of Coolidge Point will be used for the first time. The program will include a two-reel Charlie Chaplin picture, "His New Job," "A Child of the North," a story of life among the Eskimos. "The Park Honeymooners" will also be on the bill. The dance Wednesday night, with the Ladies' Orchestra of Beverly furnishing the music, was quite successful, and a similar one may be given later. The Wednesday dance of next week will be postponed until Saturday owing to the series of lectures by Col. C. H. French at the clubhouse under the auspices of the club and the Union Congregational Church. The Grand Canyon of the Colorado River and Alaska have been chosen for Monday evening's subject; the Yellowstone National Park and Japan will be shown Tuesday night; Mount Pelee, Martinique and the Destruction of St. Pierre will undoubtedly draw a record attendance Wednesday night. The bowling and checkers tournaments are proving to be of interest. P. J. Hill is a promising candidate for first place in checkers. As no pool players of distinction have appeared, that tournament may be omitted. A recital by Lady Speyer and Miss Van Dresser of the Oceanside Hotel will be given at the clubhouse Saturday evening at 9.30 o'clock. Lady Speyer is a violinist of note and Miss Van Dresser has already acquired an enviable reputation as a soloist. This recital will be for the members of the Men's and Women's clubs only, and membership cards will be required for admission.

Edward Ballou and W. B. Richardson were among the Magnolia purchasers at the auction sale of building lots at Oceanside Park Monday and Tuesday of this week. The distribution of presents and the playing of the band combined to attract a crowd, as well as the opportunity to invest in good property at reasonable rates. The sale was carried on by the Bonelli-Adams Company of Boston.

"You don't dissipate, do you?" asked the physician as he made ready for tests. "Not a fast liver, or anything of that sort?"

BEVERLY FARMS

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hull of East Taunton, for the present have taken up there residence in Beverly. Mr. Hull is a well known former Beverly Farms resident and an excellent musician. If in doubt, just go to the Lyric Theatre in Beverly where he is employed and hear him play the piano.

A lawn party to be conducted by the young people of the Beverly Farms church, will be held on the grounds of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Manning, Hadley estate, Hart st., on Tuesday, August 31, afternoon and evening.

The first game of the baseball series between Beverly and Manchester, will be played in Manchester tomorrow afternoon and it will, no doubt, attract a large number of ball fans from Beverly Farms.

The matter of street widening on Hale street, at the Bradley estate formerly Dow's greenhouses, and at the little park at the entrance to the Dexter and Bradley estates, now seems to be a matter of argument. Some time ago, as it is understood by the writer, the City transferred the little park to Mr. Bradley and in return was to receive certain land from the greenhouse estate and other considerations, such as relaying water pipe, etc., all of above to go into the street widening scheme. On May 17th, the Aldermen fixed a line of the street, abutting the Bradley estate where the so-called improvements are proposed. Now a petition is in circulation, asking that the line established in May, be made void and a new one made, which, if done, will add to the Bradley estate from 1200 to 1500 square feet, for which Mr. Pradley offers to pay. Besides Mr. Bradley, it is understood the engineer of the Mass. Highway Commission, is in favor of establishing the new line. The matter has raised much discussion and will come up at the next meeting of the Aldermen. There is no doubt, that public sentiment is strong in condemning the act, whereby the City disposed of this small park and many object to any change being made there.

The new bank at Beverly Farms is doing a very successful business and during the past week has opened numerous accounts. The service which it renders to this community is very satisfactory and all that is needed to make its relation with Beverly Farms people permanent, pleasant and profitable is to patronize the bank yourself and recommend it to your friends.

The annual picnic and outing of the St. John's Episcopal church parish will be held at Centennial Grove next Wednesday, August 18. Beverly Farms people, whether members of the parish or not, are welcome to attend if they care to go. Transportation has been arranged, for besides the train and electric car service an auto bus will leave Central square in the forenoon at 8.30, 9.30 and 10.30 for the Grove and return in the late afternoon. A fine program for the enjoyment of all has been arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon B. Rogers of Montreal, Canada, have been visitors at Beverly Farms the past week.

The Beverly Farms Band will give the second open air concert from the band stand in Central square next Tuesday evening. The concert which they gave two weeks ago was very good indeed, and was appreciated by a large audience.

At last Monday evening's meeting of the Aldermen, the nomination of Howard P. Williams for building inspector, to succeed the late John A. Ober, was held up, pending the maturing of several plans for the consolidation of city officers.

The wooden buildings and some of the old glass ones on Hale street, the property of Robert S. Bradley, formerly James B. Dow's "Sunny Side" greenhouses, have been torn down. Handsome new green-house structures have been erected a little in the rear of where the old buildings stood, and these, with the flower garden, walks and well kept grounds, is certainly a beauty spot for the traveler along Hale street to gaze upon.

William Swan and family of No. Easton are spending a week's vacation at Beverly Farms, the guests of friends. Mr. Swan was formerly the supt. of Mrs. Lathrop Brown's estate at West Manchester and the Leiter estate at Beverly Farms. He is now occupying a similar position on the John S. Ames place at North Easton.

John W. Morgan, driver of the fire tractor of the Beverly Farms fire department, is now enjoying his annual vacation of ten days, a part of which he will spend visiting relatives at Templeton, Mass., and Ossipee, N. H.

Miss Irene M. Fay of Roxbury, has been spending a portion of her vacation at Beverly Farms, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Morgan, West street.

Miss Margaret Lee has spent the past week visiting friends at Pawtucket, R. I.

Of considerable interest to many, were the three large steel oblong tanks which arrived at the Beverly Farms freight yards this week, and which are to be used for a water supply at the Pride's Crossing estate of Henry C. Frick. The tanks are each over 43 feet long, eight feet in diameter, weigh sixteen tons, and have a capacity of 16,500 gallons. It is quite an undertaking to move them from the freight yards to "Eagle Rock," permission being given to move them through the streets by the Massachusetts Highway Commission. The same methods are being used as would be necessary to move a large building, a steam road roller being used for motive power.

The new Beverly Farms ball team, last Saturday afternoon, defeated the strong St. Mary's of Beverly, at the playgrounds, by a score of 6 to 0. There was quite a large attendance of fans on hand to witness the game. There will be a game at the playgrounds tomorrow afternoon when the home team will probably have for opponents the Forest River Park team from Salem.

New regulations covering the double session at the Beverly High School have been made. Under the regulations which go into effect with the opening of the school in September, the ninth grade sessions will be held from 1.15 until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

SPORTING NOTES

Leon Paton of the Homestead club, Danvers, playing in the Boston Press club golf championship and his showing both in the qualifying round and subsequent match play was most pleasing to his many friends along the North Shore. He has been amply fulfilling the predictions made for him earlier in the season. He has been "knocking at the door" for the last few years and bids fair soon to occupy a position at or very near the top. His defeat of Coombe, the English crack in the second round Wednesday certainly was a feather in his cap.

In the competition for the governor's cup in golf at the Tedesco C. C. the following are entered for the finals: J. G. Whiting, H. H. Holton, W. R. Shrigley and A. N. Blake. Other competitors not in the running are A. H. Bradshaw, C. D. Hodges, C. H. Cross and J. I. Melanson.

At the Tedesco Country club, Swampscott, in the mixed doubles Miss Sargent and C. B. Humphrey are the winners. In the ladies' singles Mrs. Blodgett and Miss H. Sandmeyer are in the semi-finals. C. N. Jones and W. A. Bradford are playing for first place in the men's singles.

The run of the New York Y. C. fleet through the Cape Cod canal was a new experience and a welcome one. Besides having the honor of receiving the official invitation of August Belmont to make the canal a part of their route they also escaped some mighty squally weather. And with the miniature storms which have been experienced on the New England coast the last week the passage through the new cut was a wise move.

Ethereal mildness comes, but does not hasten to settle down.

PEACE IN THAT FAMILY.

A little girl, being lost, was taken to the police station, where the officers tried to learn her name. At last, after many vain efforts, one of them asked her:

"Tell me, dear, what names does your mother call your father?"

"She doesn't call him any name," the child answered innocently. "She likes him."

STRICT, ALL RIGHT.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffling, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.

SHAKE INTO YOUR SHOES

Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder for the instant relief of painful, smarting, tender, nervous feet. It takes the sting out of corns and bunions. Simply shake the contents of one of the small envelopes in each shoe. Over 100,000 packages are being used by the German and Allied troops at the front. Sold everywhere, 25c.

Habit is an internal principle which leads us to do easily, naturally, and with growing certainty, what we do often.—Webster.

Announce new prices for

f. o. b. Detroit, effective Aug. 2. 1915

Ford Runabout $390.00

Ford Touring Car 440.00

Ford Town Car 640.00

No speedometer included in this year's equipment, otherwise cars fully equipped.

There can be no assurance given against an advance in these prices at any time. We guarantee, however, that there will be no reduction in these prices prior to August 1, 1916.

Profit Sharing with Retail Buyers

On August 1, 1914 we made the announcement that if we could make and sell at retail 300,000 Ford cars between August 1, 1914 and August 1, 1915, we would share profits with the retail purchasers, to the extent of from $40 to $60 on each car. We have sold over 300,000 Ford cars in the time specified, and profit-sharing checks of $50 each will be distributed as rapidly as possible after August 15, 1915. Retail purchasers who have not yet mailed us their profit-sharing coupons, properly endorsed, should do so without delay.

Our plan to profit-share with retail purchasers of Ford cars during 1914-15 has been most successful. We thoroughly believe in it, but, realizing the uncertainty of conditions generally makes it advisable to defer any announcement of future profit-sharing until a later date.

We are, however, confident of our inability to reduce costs for several months, and therefore can offer no profit-sharing for cars delivered during August, September and October, 1915.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE— DRINK HOT TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking up a cold.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB RHEUMATISM FROM STIFF, ACHING JOINTS

Rub Soreness from joints and muscles with a small trial bottle of old St. Jacobs Oil

Stop "dosing" Rheumatism.

It's pain only; not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" right on the "tender spot," and by the time you say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain. "St. Jacob's Oil" is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache, neuralgia.

Limber up! Get a 25 cent bottle of old-time, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" from any drug store, and in a moment you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.

Salem—Pride of Historic New England

Up from the Ashes of Year Ago, and on the Way

KATHERINE GAUSS

A LITTLE over a year ago Salem, the pride of historic New England, was swept by flames which reduced over $5,000,000 worth of taxable property to ashes. A fire that swept clean the various parts of the city so that on the morning after, twisted iron and seared bricks were all that was left of factories and homes. And now, even in this short space of time that has elapsed, this busy city is up and on its way to a far more prosperous period than has ever been known before.

Millions of dollars worth of property has already been erected and the results are for a more beautiful city. Trees and scrubby aer fast making green the spots left bare by the fire and the cellars on more than eighty streets are rapidly being covered by a fine type of dwelling house which are housing many of the 2000 or more families that were burned out.

The care and good management of the rebuilding and the enforcing of stringent regulations is all toward a safe and better city. South Salem and along Lafayette street has grown up clean and vigorous. Beautiful dwellings of colonial lines have been erected where old and re-modeled houses used to stand. The wooden shingles have disappeared all over the city and space is required between all buildings, so that fire cannot get any headway, if by chance it should visit these districts again.

The "three decker" is forbidden and in its place have come substantial fireproof, brick blocks that have plenty of light and air,—tenements that hold six to eight and sometimes ten families, but well-housed and not over-crowded.

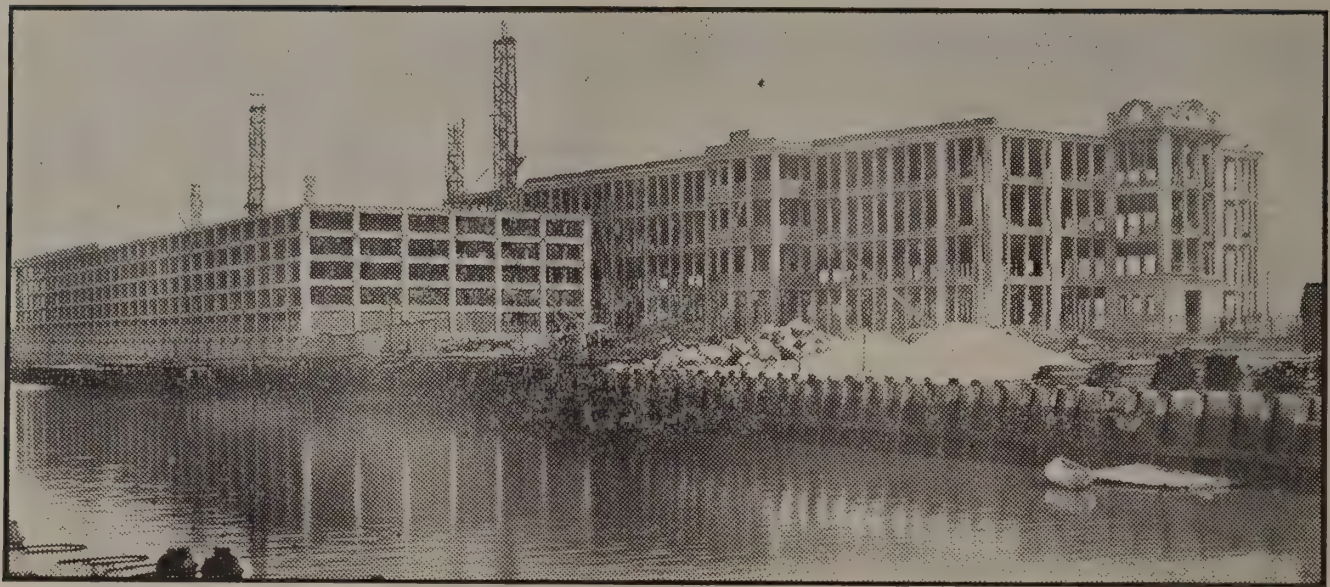

Not only in the burned area is building going on, but all over the city new land is being developed and new streets are fast filling up with new houses. Gardner Park, one of the suburbs of Salem is thriving and the Dugan estate in North Salem is spreading out. The immense property controlled by Mrs. Emma S. Almy is being laid out and will form a model French district in the near future, with a church, school and playground.

A word about the business of Salem, which is booming, even for dull times! Up near Boston street, where the fire started, leather factories have sprung up, fine brick and cement buildings a credit to any business. And on the Point the mammoth works of the Naumkeag Steam Cotton company are fast going up,—low brick sheds with glass roofs for the looms, with four and five storied cement office buildings. This company has also built a boarding house for its employes, with dining rooms, laundry and steam heating plant. A $200,000 Masonic temple is also under construction on one of the main streets, and an up-to-date business block has been erected on Washington street with two large garages on the adjoining streets. Stores and offices are being occupied as fast as they near completion,—the new and up-to-date features being great drawing cards.

Salem as a municipality is hard at work, relaying streets, putting a new water system into effect, so that never again will the city, in an emergency, fail in its water supply. A swimming pool and park are laid out in South Salem and a fine new school is rising in the same section of the city. A more efficient fire fighting force is being trained and modern apparatus is taking the place of the ancient pieces.

Although historic Salem at first draws the hundreds of visitors, their attention is soon drawn to the inspiring new Salem, which is rising day after day, a splendid monument to the courage and enthusiasm of her citizens.

Motherhood and Childhood in Sculpture

NEVER before has motherhood and childhood been so explicable manifested in varied expressions as in the work of the modern American school of modelers in clay, marble and bronze.

While over one-half the civilized world is bemoaning the loss of life, the American woman sculptor is causing the other half to rejoice over the renewal of life—as she creates motherhood and childhood in sculpture.

With such notable sculptors as Anna Coleman Ladd of Boston and Manchester in the fore they are bringing woman, in her supreme glory as a mother, and children in their finer state as potential world-makers, to the attention of the knowledge-seeking, leisure-loving and pleasure-craving populace.

How the American woman sculptor sees American motherhood and childhood is strikingly exemplified at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Not one building has omitted either in its architectural adornment or its interior equipment an opportunity for the sculptor to present some fitting reminder of woman and the part she must play in order that the work of earth must go on.

By the time the exposition is over, a large part of peaceful civilization will have visited San Francisco and carried away with it a greater enthusiasm for woman's work in the world as a result of having viewed through the sculptor's eyes the tribute that women have paid to the mother of the race and to the little child who is father or mother of the man or woman.

Anna Coleman Ladd, the Boston sculptor, has in a remarkable manner modeled in bronze the very essence of childhood. Her contribution is that of the "Triton Babies," a fountain of small bronze full of the spirit of play and the beauty of child-life. They depict childhood at its sweetest and the woman in Anna Coleman Ladd has portrayed in their faces expression that creates in the heart of all normal woman the desire to possess just such dear, playful babies as their own.

As a final triumph the Pioneer Women of California have erected a magnificent bronze statue, the work of Charles Grafly, who summers at Lanesville, in front of the Palace of Fine Arts at the entrance of the Palace of Sculpture.

It represents the pioneer mother and her little son and daughter, standing strong and powerful with face turned toward the West. After the exposition this statue will be placed in a prominent place in San Francisco's civic center, which at present is undergoing construction.

AROUND AND ABOUT

FROM her summer home the "Bungalow," Granite Bay, Short Beach, Conn., under date of July 16th, my friend Ella Wheeler Wilcox, sends me for publication especially on this page the following little poem. Mrs. Wilcox is too well-known to require any comment from me, for she has long been considered America's foremost woman writer.

LOVE AND THE SEA.

*When first we met (the Sea and I),
Like one before a King,
I stood in awe; nor felt nor saw
The sun, the winds, the earth, the sky
Or any other thing.
God's Universe to me,
Was just the Sea.*

*When next we meet the lordly Main Played but a courtier's part;
Crowned Queen was I; and earth and sky,
And sun and sea were my domain,
Since love was in my heart.
Before, beyond, above,
Was only Love.*

x-x-x

I WAS in one of Salem's up-to-date drug stores the other day, and an old lady, who apparently was in a very nervous condition, said to the druggist, "Are you sure you have that medicine mixed right?"

"No madam," said my friend the clerk, "I wouldn't go so far as that, but I've got it mixed the way the doctor ordered it."

x-x-x

THE bend in the road! The bend in the road, and then the ocean glittering under the morning sun. The sweep of the sandy shore with its dull brown rocks, and the great hotel. A riot of flowers and a greensward like velvet. Ah! but your ocean is wonderful, your hotel magnificent, it is a bit of paradise." So said my impressionable friend,—who has travelled many thousands of miles, and is an exceptionally competent judge—as he was walking along Puritan Road, Swampscott, near the New Ocean House the other day.

x-x-x

WE were talking—my friend the fisherman and I,—and once again I recognize the futility of ever getting one on a Swampscott fisherman. He was telling me some good fish stories, and I was telling one or two myself.

We were getting quite argumentative, and thinking to cap the climax, I said: "Well, anyway, there are just as big fish in the sea as have ever been caught."

"Not as big as you have caught," came back the reply, as quick as a flash.

Oh! Whats' the use?

x-x-x

I WAS talking with a gentleman recently who has made his summer home at Marblehead for many years, and while I never suspected that he was remotely interested in the automobile business, he surprised me by the wealth of his information on the subject. We were talking in a general way about the condition of trade, rather a heavy subject for me I admit.

"Conditions bad," said he. "Why, do you know the automobile business has had the best six months in its history?"

"Do you know that Ford reached his maximum of 300,000 cars for the year?"

"Do you know that some makers of high-grade cars have oversold their output already?"

"Do you know that there are five times as many automobiles in use in the United States as there are men who pay an income tax?"

"Do you know the reason that automobile men are selling cars is because they didn't get scared, and the reason that a number of men in other lines are not selling their goods is because they did get scared?"

"And," as in his enthusiasm he pounded the side of the chair with his clenched hand—"Do you know that our exports in March, April, and May exceeded by $300,000,000 the exports of the corresponding months in 1913 and 1914, and there never was a time when this country offered greater opportunities. There never was a time when it was bigger, better, or more full of power. Bad conditions, Bah!"

x-x-x

I frankly admitted that I only knew of these things in a general way, but I do know now after listening to him, and watching his face alight with enthusiasm, that it is far better to be a "booster" than a "knocker"—far better to look on the bright side than on the dark side. For the business man whose business experiences have mellowed, not soured him, whose leisure has been spent in study and travel, whose heart and intellect have broadened with the years, has much to give in the way of inspiration toward better thinking and better living. Not all the good sermons come from the pulpit.

x-x-x

OF course everybody is talking about the weather this summer. Speaking of the rain, I was in the Canadian north-west several years ago, and having to stop in a country town, was obliged to put up at a little dilapidated hotel. I rather reluctantly signed the register, and on receiving my key, asked the lady who officiated as clerk, whether there was any water in my room. "Why, there was," she replied, "but on account of the recent rains we have just had the roof fixed."

x-x-x

MY friend the Christian Scientist was telling me the other day that perhaps it is not generally known that the late Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, the author of that wonderful book "Science and Health," wrote many pages while sitting upon the rocks in the vicinity of the New Ocean House at Swampscott. When Mrs. Eddy lived on Broad Street, in Lynn, it was but a short walk to Whale Beach, and many a pleasant morning, bright and early, she was seen, armed with a huge portfolio, slowly wending her way out on the rocks, where she would pass several hours at a time. A great lover of nature in all its forms, she reveled in the grandeur of the scenery, especially on a sunshiny day, for to her a sunshiny day was an exemplification of peace and happiness, and many a simile has she drawn from her surroundings in "Science and Health."

RAYMOND BROWN, RESIDENT-MANAGER

SYDITH TERRACE, Beverly Farms, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney E. Hutchinson, was the scene of one of the prettiest and most unique musicales of the season Monday afternoon. It was unique because the hostess, Mrs. Sydney E. Hutchinson (Edith Stotesbury) gave all the musical numbers herself. She is the only American pupil of Cleofonte Campanini, musical director of the Philadelphia and Chicago Opera Company, and while studying in Paris prepared for grand opera, but has never gone on the stage. Her power lies in the original interpretation which she gives the songs. These "Chansons en costume" afternoons are frequent affairs in her winter home in Philadelphia, and this one was entirely different from the one given last summer. The first group was one of southern melodies, with Mrs. Hutchinson dressed in old-time costume of blue and white, brown wig and poke bonnet and mitts. The second group was one of old-fashioned songs given in the early Victorian costume of hooped-skirts. In the number, "I Know a Lovely Garden," she was assisted by her two little daughters, Frances and Nathalie, in flower-like costumes. The program closed with a group of French songs given in a pink chiffon springlike costume with a blond wig held with a band of rhinestones. Mrs. Hutchinson is at her best in French songs, of which she is very fond. During the first intermission the Hutchinson children passed small bunches of flowers. The little son, Edward, was his mother's assistant in "Mighty lak' a Rose." Her accompanist was Mrs. Edith Mahon of Philadelphia, who summers in Beverly Farms. Mrs. Mahon has also accompanied Miss Vera Barstowe, the noted violinist, who is visiting Mrs. Robert D. Evans at Beverly Cove. Tea was served to the seventy or more guests from small tables on the piazza. Mrs. Timothee Adamowski and Miss Margaret L. Corlies poured. Miss Corlies is of Philadelphia, but has spent the past two winters in Boston. She has just purchased a house in Magnolia, where she is spending the summer.

Mrs. Joseph Sargent of Cohasset is spending the week at Mrs. H. S. Grew's in West Manchester. Mrs. Sargent is connected with the French wounded work in Foston and Cohasset. On Monday she gave an interesting account of her work at the meeting held at Mrs. Walter D. Denégre's coach house. Several luncheons have been given in her honor the past week.

NORTH SHORE society is awaiting with keen interest the annual horse show which Judge William H. Moore of New York will give on Saturday afternoon at his driving park at Pride's Crossing. The show is always anticipated with the keenest delight. All the horses shown are from Judge Moore's own stables and have won blue ribbons and other honors in the best shows in this country and in England. During the afternoon there will be a band concert at the park and after the show Judge and Mrs. Moore will entertain at Rockmarge, their mansion house charmingly located at Pride's Crossing on the ocean front. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Small Moore of Lake Forest, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore of Tuxedo Park, New York, are here for the summer, and their children will ride and drive in the pony classes.

The meeting in the interest of Hampton Institute of Hampton, Va., held Wednesday afternoon on the grounds of the William H. Coolidge home at Magnolia was a very interesting and successful affair. Miss Annie Beecher Scoville, granddaughter of Henry Ward Beecher, discussed negro folk songs and had them illustrated by a quartette from Hampton. The talks given by Major Moton and an Apache Indian were on special features of the Institute. Miss Scoville's work was considered the most unique and interesting of anything that Hampton has presented here.

THE crowning event of the summer, the "Italian Festa," under the patronage of their excellencies, the Italian ambassador and Countess Dolores Macchi di Cellere, will be held at Lookout Hill, Gloucester, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 25, from 3 to 6 o'clock. That it will be the most brilliant affair of the season is assured from the fact that everybody is in it from Nahant to Cape Ann. While the festa lasts but three hours, it is certain of a financial success, for it is given to raise funds to aid the wives and children of New England Italian reservists who have returned to fight for their native land. It is open to the general public, admission being $3 for adults and $1 for children. The grounds of the Hammond home have been beautifully planned and decorated for the event by Eric Pape, the Boston artist, and Mrs. Maynard Ladd, the sculptor of Boston and Manchester. Everything has been done to give an out-door representation of a classic theater scene at about the end of the 16th century period. The stage around which the dances will be given will have rich tapestries for a back ground, and two pure white statues loaned by Mrs. Ladd will grace each side. Around the statues will be water and red flowers, the whole representing the Italian colors, red white and green. Tall gilt pillars around the stage will be hung with laurel. Carbone of Boston has loaned handsome vases. All of the artists have given their services for the benefit of the cause. Among those who have thus kindly volunteered their services are Marcia Van Dresser of the Chicago Grand Opera Company; Elvira Leveroni, contralto of Covent Garden, Metropolitan and Boston Grand Opera companies; Mimi Aguglia, the Sicilian tragedienne; Maria Paporello, the prima ballerina of the Boston Grand Opera company; Harrison Bennett, the basso cantante and late of the Wagner festival at Bayreuth. The orchestra under the direction of Augusto Vannini will be composed of musicians from the Boston Symphony. Lighter features will be given by actors from B. F. Keith's theatre of Boston, who will give two selected numbers; there will also be a Merry Man and a well-known magician to amuse the children. Folk songs will be sung by a band of Italian musicians accompanied by their native instruments. Elise Dufour of East Gloucester will give an interpretive dance, "The Gallant Spirit of Italy," accompanied by a group of 35 children from the North Shore. The young society people along the shore will dance the celebrated "furlana" on the green. Girls in fancy costumes will have flowers and candy for sale. The following committee has charge of the sale of tickets in the various resorts: Gloucester, Mrs. John Hays Hammond; East Gloucester, Mrs. Wm. THE annual water sports at the Manchester Yacht Club were held Tuesday afternoon. Leaden skies and showers of the morning gave place at noon to pleasant weather. There was a brisk northwest wind, in contrast to the excessive heat of the past few days. The clubhouse was well filled and the crowd enjoyed the program, which was run off in a snappy manner under the direction of Norton Wigglesworth. An orchestra, stationed in the veranda, provided music. The first of the contests was walking the pole, prizes being given for distance and best fancy costume. Sturgis Grew appeared as a swimmer in a barrel and George Hodges as an infant in a baby carriage, his brother Charles being nurse girl. George Hodges was awarded first prize and Sturgis Grew second. In walking the pole the contestants were Charles Cummings, Miss Ray Taylor, Thomas Taylor, Augustus Putnam, John Newhouse, Charles Hodges, Alfred Needham, Sturgis Grew, George Hodges and Carlton Needham. First prize was won by Sturgis Grew. In the tub race the contestants were Carlton Needham, David Sears, Frank Stoddard, Thomas Taylor, Miss Ethel Cummings and Charles Cummings. Charles Cummings won; Carlton Needham second. In the senior swimming event, John Hellier won first prize, Charles Hodges, second, and A. L. Putnam, third. In the junior swimming contest, John Newhouse was first, and Sturgis Grew second. The diving contest was won by John Newhouse, with Charles Cummings second. In the one-end canoe race, the crews were; Sturgis Grew and Augustus L. Putnam, Frank Stoddard and John Hellier, Charles Hodges and Thomas Taylor, John Newhouse and Charles Cummings. Hodges and Taylor won first prize, and Stoddard and Hellier second. The obstacle canoe race went to Hodges and Grew, with Putnam and Newhouse second. The final event was a canoe tilting contest, best three out of five heats, between Charles Hodges and Sturgis Grew and Augustus Putnam and John Newhouse. Hodges succeeded in overturning his adversary in three successive attempts and was given first prize. The prizes were silver cups, suitably inscribed. Refreshments were served in the clubhouse, Mrs. Gordon Abbott and Mrs. Henry Grew pouring. Arthur M. Merriam, Charles E. Hodges, Jr., and J. Amory Jeffries composed the committee of arrangements.

The James C. Ayers, who are spending the summer at Glen Cove, Long Island, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ayer of Pride's Crossing

Miss Virginia Wainwright's musicale yesterday afternoon was the last of the season's popular recitals that have been held on the North Shore. It was held at Mr. and Mrs. George Lee's in Beverly Farms, whose attractive summer home, "Villa al mare," with its red-tiled roof, terraced Italian garden, cypresses and high walls, is an exact reproduction of an Italian seaside villa. The artists appearing yesterday were Miss Ethel Frank, soprano; Mr. Robert Cuscaden, violinist, formerly first violinist in the Berlin Symphony Orchestra, and Mrs. Mary Pumphrey Tower, accompanist. Miss Frank was dressed in light blue satin, with scalloped overdress edged with dark blue, and her sweet singing was much enjoyed by the large and representative audience. Mrs. Tower was dressed in rose-colored crepe. Miss Wainwright was charmingly dressed in white, trimmed in white lace with green sash and touches of green on the bodice. Mrs. Lee was attractively dressed in black and white and Miss Florence Lee, who took up tickets at the door, was in all white, with lace trimmings. The day was an ideal one and Miss Wainwright and the many friends who attended feel that her concerts have been very successful and appreciated affairs this summer. Miss Wainwright has held concerts on the North Shore in previous seasons—last year at Annisquam, York Harbor and other resorts, besides those given in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Worcester. This winter she will give some of her popular affairs in Tuileries Hall, Boston, in which she will herself take part, assisted by a noted opera singer of Belgium of the Namur Opera Company, who is in this country on account of the war.

FINISTERRE, the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. John Clay at Eastern Point, Gloucester, was the scene of one of the season's largest teas and garden parties Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 7. The Clays come from Chicago and have had a summer home of their own at Eastern Point for several years. They have many friends along the Shore. About 200 attended and enjoyed the dancing and other features of entertainment Wednesday. Music was furnished by the Imperial Orchestra of Gloucester. Miss Mabel Going and some of her musicians also gave special numbers. The yard, porches and dancing platform were bright with lanterns and flags of all nations. The pretty tea tables were scattered over the lawn in many charming nooks among the rocks and flowers for which the place is noted. This place has a very unique tennis court built on the rocks directly in front of the house. The court was formerly a swimming pool, but never a success on account of the tides, so that last season it was filled up and made into a handsome court. The estate is located at the extreme end of the Point near the Eastern Point lighthouse. The Clays as usual have an interesting house-party. This week their guests include Mrs. F. H. Connor, Mr. and Mrs. J. Forest, Miss Forest and Jack Forest of Chicago, and Mrs. Finley of Warsaw, Ind. Among other guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Yerxa and party, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Shields and party, Mr. and Mrs. Littlefield and party, Rev. Joseph Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Andrew and party, Mrs. Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. Sleeper and party, Miss Cecelia Beaux, Dr. and Mrs. Jarvie, Mr. and Mrs. J. Murray Kay and party, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. The rose garden has been very productive this year, yielding from two to three bushels of roses each morning. Just now a long bed of snap-dragons and the long rows of many colored phlox are very noticeable. The garden lies in the rear of the house and its pretty walks of soft grass make it an inviting place to enter. The main walk is bordered with red and white flowers and leads past many flowers whose fragrance is very perceptible. Its approach to the house is under an attractive arbor entrance. The vegetable gardens are also an interesting and attractive sight on the place.

A GARDEN haunted by memories of the past, memories of the time when it was sought by crowds of pleasure-seekers and flower-friends from all parts of the country, may not, in a way, be a very cheerful place to visit. But such a garden exists in Beverly Farms and new-comers to the Shore could see no more beautiful spot than these deserted gardens present. One lone gardener is in charge now where once a large force was actively engaged. He has managed to keep the rose-garden in a perfect condition, and its arbors have been the finest to be seen anywhere. But the walks, the hedges, the urns and other flowers are in a deserted and uncared for condition. Some of the beautiful statues, urns and seats are completely hidden in canvass coverings, while those that are visible, when viewed from the classic looking little bridges which span the garden lake give one a faint idea of the beauties of the place in the by-gone days. When the visitor marvels at the beauty of the place nowadays, all the gardener says is, "You ought to have seen it a few years ago." The gardens were laid out nine years ago by Mrs. Foote of Marblehead and were known as the Spaulding gardens, being the property of William S. and John T. Spaulding of "Sunset Rock," Pride's Crossing. The place comprises about 16 acres of gardens and 18 acres of woodland. Frank E. Cole, who was formerly in charge of the gardens for the Spauldings, is today managing the property and running it as a commercial enterprise under the name of North Shore Nurseries & Florist Co. While the gardens may lack some of the essential features of a show place, they are nevertheless gaining a reputation among the people of the North Shore as a place where the advanced season produce, garden vegetables, vegetables and fruit from under glass, etc., may be obtained. Mr. Cole is getting wonderful results from the gardens and greenhouses along this line and is establishing an enviable reputation for himself.

The English garden painter, Miss Mary Helen Carlisle, who is visiting in Beverly Farms at the home of Mrs. W. G. Fitch, has an interesting collection of her smaller pastels and oils with her. Miss Carlisle was the pioneer in the garden painting movement and paints them in an unusual way. Many of the Newport gardens, California gardens including those of Mrs. Whitelaw Reed and the Crocker garden and scenes at Windsor Castle, England have been painted by Miss Carlisle. She has also painted Queen Victoria, Queen Mary, children of King George, Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson and also her California garden, the portrait of Cecil Rhodes and many other notables. Her California garden views attracted the notice of the English royal family and opened her successful career in England. She is on her way to York Harbor to paint the garden of Mrs. Charles Goodrich of Orange, N. J., and from there will return to her studio in Bryant Park, New York, over the Beaux Art restaurant.

Candlewood Farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Warren Mason of Boston, is one of the show places of Ipswich. Situated in the midst of the Candlewood country, and not far from the main road to Newburyport, the large, long and finely proportioned house makes a striking appearance from the main road and from the many view points from which it may be seen in Ipswich. It is white with green shutters, and closely resembles a cement house, but on nearing it, is found to be a white-shingled structure. It stands on high rolling meadow land, without trees to speak of, and has an immense terrace in the rear from the grassy bank of which one descends to the attractively laid out flower garden below. Beds of roses and old-fashioned flowers line the garden which extends the length of the terrace and back to the tennis court. The court is entered through a pretty little rustic summer-house, and is one of the much-used courts in Ipswich. The lawn in the front of the house is laid out with great beds of wild roses and clusters of shrubbery profusely banked against the house, which all forms a charming picture of white and green as one approaches it along the avenue leading up from Heartbreak road. From the terrace many interesting points are viewed. The rolling meadow is itself interesting and across it are seen Heartbreak Hill, the sand dunes, Choate Island over Essex way, and the picturesque Dutch windmill on the Arthur A. Shurtleff place on Argilla road. Nearby is one of the first houses in Ipswich, occupied at one time by Gov. Winthrop. The Masons built their house five years ago and often spend from May to December in it before settling in their town house at 14 Gloucester st. The house has a very attractive feature in a big sun-parlor built on one end, which has a very cheerful looking fire place in it. The name Candlewood is rather historic and is derived from the early settlers who gathered wood to make their candlemolds in this particular section. The Joseph Seaburys of Wayland are occupying the cottage on the Mason estate this summer. Mr. Seabury is a cousin to Mr. Mason and was prominent in the cabaret entertainment at the recent Navy festival at Beverly Farms. Miss Miriam Mason, who is now at Cohasset, and whose engagement to Franklin H. Trumbull was recently announced, is a frequent visitor to her brother's place in Ipswich.

"Heartbreak Hill," Ipswich, is the home of Samuel S. Gray of Boston. Mr. Gray purchased the property ten years ago and built the large house at the foot of the hill. Recently he has laid out a very pretty and attractive garden and tennis court. The garden is bordered with arbor vitae and clusters of phlox, the center being mostly grassy with few flowers. Mr. Gray's chief pride in the place is the hill itself which is wild and uncared for. A narrow path leads from the garden up through the brushwood and trees to the top of the hill, a height of 180 feet. The view is one of the finest in Ipswich and comprises Ipswich, Hamilton and Essex meadows, Ipswich village, Castle Hill and the larger houses seen on Argilla road, Rowley marshes, shores of Cape Ann on the Annisquam side, Little Neck, Great Neck, Plum Island, Isles of Shoals, the beautiful Ipswich river winding out to sea through the Ipswich marshes and directly at the foot of the hill the Labor-in-Vain creek and not far off the Labor-in-Vain road, which has some pretty summer cottages on it. The town hill and the Charles P. Searle place are seemingly nearby, also the Herbert W. Mason place is distinctly seen. The charm of the place is enhanced as one gazes and listens to the recital of the legend connected with the hill. The poor Indian maiden looking out at sea across the Ipswich marshes, looking and watching in vain for her soldier-lover who never returned, and finally dying of a broken heart is a pathetic little story that will always cling to this fine old Ipswich hill. Mr. Gray's daughter, Miss Hope Gray is much interested in household decorative art. The place is on Argilla road and lies close to the village section.

Y<sup>e</sup> Burnham House, Ipswich, has had among its guests Bishop Atwood of Arizona, who formerly lived in Ipswich and is now spending August in the rectory; Col. and Mrs. Geo. M. Studebaker of Rye, who entertained their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. O'Brien of South Bend, Ind.; Miss Julia Appleton, party of four; ex-Gov. Dix, five; Miss Helen Semple, five; Mrs. P. Winant, six; Mrs. E. B. Sargent, twelve; Mrs. William B. Smoot of Magnolia and Mrs. Charles O. Webb of Bass Rocks entertained visiting friends including Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Wendell of New Haven, Conn.; Miss Elizabeth H. Potts of Alexandria, Va.; and Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Caton, Baltimore. Mrs. Annie F. Tener of Eastern Point gave a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Annie D. Tallman of Wilmington, Del.

Y<sup>e</sup> Rogers Manse, Ipswich, has had among its many guests Chas. A. Mullard of Boston, who was a guest at a recent Sunday supper party; Miss E. Marion Adams of Newburyport, party of nine; Mrs. J. E. Daley, eight; Mrs. Arthur Damon, four; W. H. Porter of Haverhill, eight. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Wells of Kingston, R. I., spent a few days while motoring through to Maine.

THE valuation of the town of Manchester, as made known by the board of assessors last week, would indicate the town is one of the wealthiest in the state, and the valuation in several cases exceeds that of cities of the Commonwealth. The valuation figures are: Total valuation $20,029,800, less exempt $29,220, making the net valuation $20,000,580. Of that amount $10,937,265 is personal and $9,092,535 is real. The buildings are valued at $4,627,100. The non-resident valuation is as follows: Personal $81,292; real estate $4,924,245. Resident valuation, personal $10,855,973, real $4,168,290.

MANY of the people at the Oceanside at present plan to remain until the hotel closes and if the Management responds to the many requests the hotel will keep open until the first of October, though this is very doubtful. The North Shore is gaining popularity year after year as a place to pass the autumn, which is in many respects the most beautiful part of the year. The summer has been so bad as far as weather conditions are concerned that many would like to "make up" by remaining through the Indian summer.

Mrs. Butler Ames of Lowell, who summers at Lanesville, was at the Oceanside last Friday, a guest of Mrs. Gerald Bramwell (Faithful Ames), who is a season guest there.

Mrs. M. H. Henderson and son and daughter from Newcastle, Pa., are at the Oceanside for a short stay.

J. H. Fisher of Buffalo joined his wife at the Oceanside last Saturday to remain until the end of August.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Peabody of Albany and Dr. L. W. Whittington Gorham, also Mr. Peabody's sister, Miss Ruth Peabody arrived at the Oceanside last Saturday for a week's stay.

A motor party from Great Barrington, Mass., to stop at the Oceanside a few days this week was composed of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Fritz.

J. H. Rowland of Baltimore arrived at the Oceanside Monday to be with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rowland, for a week or two.

A Kansas City motor party to spend a few days at the Oceanside this week was that of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Downing.

Bishop and Mrs. William D. Walker are among the large Buffalo contingent at the Oceanside. They came Wednesday to remain over the week-end.

Mrs. F. E. Johnson and daughter, Miss M. D. Johnson of New York, are among the arrivals of the last few days, to remain at the Oceanside a week or so.

OCCEANSIDE, Magnolia, guests and their friends, are looking forward with keen anticipation to the Costume Party to be held in the main dining room of the hotel Saturday evening, August 28. This will be the crowning event of the summer. The party will be in charge of Mr. Albert Latscha, dancing instructor at the hotel this summer. Much speculation is being made as to the costumes, and a great deal of interest is being taken. While it is not compulsory for everyone to wear a special costume, it is generally expected that a great many will appear, as last year, when fully 100 were in fancy dress.

A crowd of young people went over to Ipswich last Monday night for a dance.

Miss Valerie Padelford and her mother Mrs. Ordway are among the recent arrivals at the Oceanside, after a few weeks at Newport with the Wm. B. Capertons. Miss Padelford is one of the sweetest girls at the hotel, most refined in manners and democratic to a degree. She is most popular among the younger set.

Dr. and Mrs. Carl Lane, the former a son of Mrs. Francis A. Lane of St. Louis, are on from New Haven, Ct., for a visit with Mrs. Lane at the Oceanside.

Mrs. William Armstrong and Misses Townsend and Kendall of New York City, who stopped at the Oceanside last week for a day or so on their way to Bar Harbor by motor, were here again Tuesday on the return trip.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lawrence and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lawrence, Jr., and family, accompanied by Charles G. Rapp of New York City, arrived at the Oceanside Tuesday for a two weeks' stay.

Polly Prym Door Stop. This quaint little girl never tires of holding the door open or closed. She is small for her age, being only 14 inches high, but extremely reasonable for she works a life time for $5.00.

The tournament will start Monday morning at nine o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Stephenson and daughter, Miss Katharine Holden, accompanied by Miss Ketterlinus, all from Philadelphia, and Miss Margaret Quinby of Pittsburgh, registered at the Oceanside Wednesday to remain the balance of the season.

Miss May Martin of Buffalo joined Mrs. Walter Schoellkopf of the same city for a visit at the Oceanside Monday. The Schoellkops have rooms in Sea Crest cottage.

Motoring to Magnolia from the Maine resorts Sunday were Mrs. C. S. Carscallen and maid, and her son, John C. Carscallen, 2d, of New York City, accompanied by the former's aunt, Mrs. E. St. John Hayes, and maid, also of New York. They have rooms in Wilkins cottage, one of the Oceanside group, and will remain the balance of August.

An old-time patron of the Oceanside to arrive this week for the balance of the summer is Mrs. Isaac G. Lombard of Chicago, accompanied by Mrs. D. J. Schuyler of the same city. Mrs. Lombard has been on the North Shore most all summer, but her apartment at the Oceanside was not available until this week.

Another of the Atlanta, Ga., colony to arrive at the Oceanside this week is James W. English, who has joined his daughter, Mrs. James D. Robinson. Mr. English was accompanied by Mrs. Robinson's son, James D., Jr., and the two will remain for a fortnight's stay.

THERE was a big crowd at the Oceanside dance last Saturday night, as usual. Cottagers from all along the shore motored over to Magnolia to join with the hotel guests in the merriment. A big party from Bass Rocks was included in the outside visitors. There was an unusual number of handsomely gowned girls and matrons on the floor. Miss Corinna Searle was over from Ipswich with a party of friends, and looked most attractive in pale lavender. Her mother was in black net. M. S. Dorothy Potter of Philadelphia, who is visiting some friends at Manchetser, was a welcome guest. She is not at the hotel this summer, as is her custom. Mrs. Spencer Kennard (Madeleine White), who always looks so attractive, wore a gown of deep pink silk and chiffon. Miss Elvina Richard was in black, with silver trimmings, and her sister wore a lavender colored gown. Miss Georgia Solari was very charming in white, and Miss Rand wore a beautiful shade of cerise.

From Waco, Texas, have come Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Bolton for a visit to the Oceanside, and, in company with Mrs. Flora B. Cameron and Mrs. F. B. Baird of Buffalo, they are settled in Lawton cottage for a fortnight's stay. Also from Waco are Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cameron and Miss Eleanor Cameron, who have rooms in the hotel proper for the rest of August.

Mrs. C. A. Hammacher and Miss B. H. Coffee of Flushing, L. I., are at the Oceanside for a fortnight's stay.

Mrs. David Briggs of New York, who has usually lived abroad summers, is at the Oceanside this summer and much to the pleasure of her many friends she is taking up the new dances, and is doing surprisingly well under the tutelage of Mr. Latscha.

Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Gribben of St. Paul, who were at the Oceanside last year, returned last Friday for a week or two.

J. C. Martin of Plainfield, N. J., arrived at Magnolia last Saturday to spend a week or two. His sister, Miss Elsie C. Martin is here with the Dohans of Plainfield, who have been at the Oceanside for some time.

Mrs. S. C. Hopper of Baltimore has been spending the week at the Oceanside.

Mrs. H. H. Brayton, her niece Miss H. B. Nichols and nephew, B. Nichols of Worcester, also J. S. Brayton, Jr., of Fall River, are at the Oceanside for a short stay. They have rooms in Sea Vista.

Miss Carlotta Nillson of New York arrived at Magnolia last week for a two weeks' stay at the Oceanside.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Bigelow of New York have been spending the week at the Oceanside.

New Ocean House, Swampscott

NEW OCEAN HOUSE, Swampscott. The fourth formal ball at the New Ocean House last Saturday evening attracted a large number of guests of the hotel and their friends along the North Shore. It was one of the prettiest parties of the season, the new music played for the first time at Saturday's affair meeting with the heartiest approval of the dancers. The season is at its height at the New Ocean House and the management has made extensive plans for the entertainment of guests during the remainder of the summer months. The demand for accommodations has been so great that it has been positively announced that the hotel will remain open until the twentieth of September. This has been made necessary through the constantly increasing demand for a longer season at this delightful spot along the shore. With the anticipation of a late summer and hot days in September, the New Ocean House and Swampscott will prove to be a pleasurable retreat from the sultry city.

Tennis and golf continue to remain popular with the guests of the hotel. The courts have never seen so much service as this summer, all of them being in use practically the entire day. Another attractive social feature of the season has been the tea dance, held every afternoon in the tango room. Not only are they well patronized by the guests of the New Ocean House, but many parties from along the cottage colony have been present during the past week for the dance hour at 4.30.

Another big event of the past week at the New Ocean House was the children's party held Wednesday afternoon in the main ball room of the hotel. The hostess was Mrs. E. R. Grabow, and in arranging the program she was assisted by Mr. J. Jefferson Richards, the Back Bay dancing master. There were almost one hundred little ones present and from 3.30 in the afternoon until luncheon at five o'clock they frolicked about, dancing and playing games. The party was one of the prettiest ever seen at the New Ocean House, the individual dancing by several of the younger ones being particularly graceful. Dainty favors were given to both the boys and the girls in the grand march.

Arrangements are being completed for the costume party to be held in the main ball room, Saturday evening, August 28th. None but those in costume will be allowed on the floor until after intermission and for those participating prizes will be awarded by the management. The affair has met with instant favor among the guests and present indications point to an affair more successful than last year's party.

Mrs. T. L. Chidbourne and Mrs. R. S. Baldwin, both of St. Augustine, Florida, Mrs. S. F. Worthington of West Palm Beach, and Mrs. J. B. Sturgis of Ashland constituted a luncheon party at the New Ocean House this week. The first three named are touring from the South.

Miss Alice Barler of Chicago was the guest of Mrs. Katherine Sager at the New Ocean House over the last week-end.

Mrs. Winthrop Ames and her children of North Easton are registered at the New Ocean House.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wentworth and Miss Wentworth of New York City are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Smith at the New Ocean House.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Nickerson, season guests at the New Ocean House, entertained at dinner during the past week Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Parsons of Springfield.

George C. Folsom of Wellesley Hills is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Lenox of Stillwater, Minn., at the New Ocean House.

Dr. and Mrs. Ward of Lowell are being entertained at the New Ocean House by Mrs. A. B. Andrews.

Miss Allison Smith of Swampscott was the dinner guest this week at the New Ocean House of Mrs. F. A. MacDonald.

The Rev. John W. McMahon of Charlestown, season guest at the New Ocean House, entertained at dinner Monday evening Thomas E. Rothwell of Boston.

Among the arrivals of the week at the New Ocean House has been Charles Pringle, son of Sir John Pringle of Jamaica, British West Indies.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hansen and Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Williams, all of Auburndale, were dinner guests at the New Ocean House this week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Stoles of Chicago, Frank W. Abbot and Arthur H. Dale of Boston were dinner guests at the New Ocean House, Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Harper of Cleveland, O., were the guests of Mrs. W. H. Walters at the ball Saturday evening at the New Ocean House.

Mrs. John F. Twombly of Brookline was the luncheon guest of Mrs. J. F. Winch, Sunday.

Among the recent arrivals at the New Ocean House have been the following: Mr. and Mrs. William Reynolds Brown, New York City; Capt. and Mrs. B. H. SWAMPSCOTT summer folk are taking the good weather of this week as a matter of course. It just had to come, they agree, after the rainy season. In the meantime the hotels and the Tedesco Country club are reaping the benefit of the daily appearances of Old Sol.

At the Tedesco last Monday Miss Frances Cross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Cross of Brooklyn, N. Y., entertained a party of 16 guests at luncheon, cards and dancing.

Tuesday, ladies day, was an off day at the club during the morning and afternoon, but many dinner parties were in evidence during the evening.

There were 150 diners at the club Wednesday evening and more arrived for the concert by Sharpe's orchestra and the dancing followed. Among those noticed at the tables were the following: J. M. Fairbanks, with a party of 14; W. S. Bigelow, 14 guests; Mrs. Seth F. Low, eight; Nathaniel Heath, nine; W. R. C. Stevenson, eight; J. N. Ladensack, eight; Ellis Hollingsworth, seven; J. H. Hyde, eight; T. P. Godding, eight; F. N. Kimball, 16.

Mark Temple Dowling of Little's point, Swampscott, entertained four guests at luncheon at the club on Thursday.

Tomorrow, Saturday, comes another of the Thés

Lieut. W. F. McMillan, son-in-law of Col. E. F. Ladd, connected with the naval hospital at Chelsea, was a visitor at the club this week. Another naval man who visited the club was Lieut. A. D. Bernhard, a guest of Mrs. Safford.

In the tennis mixed doubles at the Tedesco Miss Sargent and C. B. Humphrey have come out winners. Dr. W. A. Bradford is a winner over P. N. Jones in the men's singles. The ladies' singles resulted in a win for Mrs. J. H. Blodgett over Miss H. Sandmeyer.

Colonel E. F. Ladd of Washington won the president's cup at the Tedesco links, Saturday afternoon, defeating W. R. Shrigley in an 18-hole match. The first round results of last week were announced as follows: J. G. Whiting defeated A. H. Bradshaw, 1 up in a match going 21 holes. H. Holton defeated C. D. Hodges, 1 up and 4 to play. W. R. Shrigley defeated D. H. Crosby by default. A. N. Blake defeated J. I. Melanson, 1 up. In the handicap medal play and sweepstakes match Saturday, N. Heath, with score of 71 holes, was the winner.

The New Oakland House, Swampscott, sets the pace for dancing along the shore among the smaller hotels. Practically every afternoon and evening a gathering of some size enjoys l'art terpsichore in the cool and shady summer ballroom there. August is providing a good month at this hotel and is dispelling the doubts of many who believed that the weather had "knocked spots" out of the remainder of the season on the shore.

The Lincoln House, Swampscott, is having a busy time catering to its 150 guests. Dancing occupies the attention of the younger set on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday. Its roster of guests numbers many of the prominent families of the middle West and from all over the country. Even Turkey is represented by a lady who has lived there for some few years. Guests there include: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Willard, Philadelphia; Miss Belknap, Baltimore; Mrs. W. F. Woods, Cambridge; Mrs. H. B. Spalding, Adrian, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Barnes and daughter, Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Quigley, Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Taft, Winchester; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Haskell and party, Niagara Falls; F. C. Robinson, Winfield, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Fenn, Hartford; Dr. H. J. Harrison and daughter, Montreal.

The Eastern Yacht Club on Marblehead Neck is experiencing the lull following racing week, yet there is quite a little activity there, in spite of the unusual busyness that was had there last week. After racing goes by the boards to a degree comes the tennis tournament next week. The ladies are especially interested in this event and entries are coming in fast.

MARBLEHEAD resorters do not mind the heat wave. On the mainland and at the Neck it is as cool as one could want and be absolutely comfortable. The lull following racing week on the upper shore was expected and has shown itself as in other years. From all sides one hears of the success of the annual visit of the New York Y. C. The weather on the whole was all that could be expected and the races were brisk and full of interest and good-natured rivalry.

Despite the fact that the fleet left port a week today many of the larger yachts and sloops are still in the harbor. Among them are the Timadra of Vice Comm. D. B. Fuller of the Corinthian, and the Thayer yacht Cigarette from Boston. This has been in all season. J. P. Morgan's Corsair has left port after a fortnight spent along this coast.

Monday's dinner at the Corinthian was attended by a hundred diners and the concert by the Salem Cadet band following brought the total attendance up to about 350. It was the usual gay assembly. Tonight is ladies' night, with a dinner-dance. A gathering of nearly 500 is expected if the weather is fair.

The Oceanside continues a rest resort for many visitors to the North Shore. Recent arrivals now quartered there include the following: Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Eurckes, Waltham; Miss Hattie Stewart, Colorado Springs; Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Andrews, Toronto; L. B. Fletcher, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cheney, Brookline; Miss Royes, Winchester, Va.

The New Glover Inn continues to hold its racing week guests and numbers the following arrivals this week for extended stays: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bartley, Cambridge; Miss Mae Brown, Dorchester; Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Young, Boston.

SALEM BOSTON CAMBRIDGE

On Monday afternoon a pretty recital was given at the Peach's Point residence of Mrs. Robert S. Peabody for the Marblehead war relief fund. Misses Dorothy, Rosalind and Cynthia Fuller, commonly known as the Fuller sisters of Dorset, England were the artists. They sang a number of folk songs in pleasing manner and pleased fully as much as in their several previous appearances along the shore. Mrs. William R. Castel, Jr. Miss Edith G. Fabens and Mrs. Parker of the summer colony had charge of the entertainment. It was attended by many of the summer visitors on the upper shore.

Rev. Nicholas Van der Pyl of Haverhill, and formerly of Marblehead, found many of his former parishioners in his congregation at the Neck hall last Sunday morning at the church service.

The silver trophy won by Horace Sherman over Bradley Smith in the Oceanside tennis tournament was presented to the winner at the weekly dance last Saturday night.

One of the novel exhibits of various arts and crafts made by the Shakers was held at the Bolyston house last Monday.

ROCK-MERE Hotel on the mainland at Marblehead seems to be a local center of the tourist aggregation this summer. From the west coast and from the sunny south lands come tourists to enjoy the beauties of the Marblehead shore as evidenced by the environment of the Rock-Mere. Here they find what they seek, social entertainment and vacational diversions for young and old and a pleasurable spot at which to make their headquarters.

Wednesday afternoon's Thé Dansant at the Rock-Mere brought out nearly 150 society folk from the upper shore for a gay party which was marked by much clever dancing both by the artists who are teaching there and by the guests themselves. Dancing seems never on the wane—at least it is not showing itself on the upper shore. Wednesday's party included practically everyone of the socially prominent along the Marblehead and Clifton shores. Mr. and Mrs. Clayson Robinson of Brookline who are teaching and managing dancing at this hostelry this summer, pleased with an exhibition dance. Music was by the regular orchestra of Boston Symphony players.

Thomas G. Plant came down from his New Hampshire abode this week for a few days at the Rock-Mere. The well-known shoe manufacturer delights in the North Shore as an ideal place to enjoy the summer and get to Boston easily for business.

General Miles, U. S. A., is a visitor there for an indefinite stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. McQuesten of Marblehead Neck are stopping at this hotel while their Neck home is being altered considerably. With them are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gring, their daughter and son-in-law, as is also their son, George E. McQuesten.

Judge Seth Shepard of the supreme bench comes down from Washington, D. C., for a stay at the Rock-Mere. Another court official is Judge Loring of Springfield, a season guest.

Tomorrow evening, Saturday, one of the big events of the Rock-Mere season will take place in the mid-summer masquerade ball. All manner of newly-devised costumes have been thought out by many of the guests and it will be a party which will take precedence over any of the many successful ones held there in previous years. Some novel dancing features are also promised by Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, the dancing experts at the hotel.

GLOUCESTER DAY celebration was the great event of the season and was a splendid success at Stage Fort Park, where thousands of people gathered to witness the sports and attractions and the finely decorated booths on Tuesday afternoon. In the evening the illumination and grand fireworks display was particularly beautiful. Among the notable guests were the Italian ambassador, Count V. Macchi de Cellere, Countess Cellere and John Hays Hammond. Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels was expected but was detained at Washington. The fete was a rendezvous for many political candidates. Governor David I. Walsh graced the occasion by his presence, others being the Hon. Samuel W. McCall and Lieutenant-Governor Cushing, candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor; William Shaw, prohibition candidate for Governor; the Hon. Guy A. Ham, and the Hon. Calvin Coolidge, candidates for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-Governor; the Hon. John N. Cole and District Attorney Michael A. Sullivan; Mrs. Ralph McDaniel, Essex County advisor of the Suffragists. All these notables gave brief speeches in the late afternoon.

A big society event of the North Shore will be the Italian Festa to be held at the summer home of Mrs. John Hays Hammond, on Lookout Hill, Gloucester, Wednesday afternoon of next week. Delegates who are coming to Boston to attend the Governor's conference have been invited by Mrs. Hammond to attend the fete and thirty Governors are expected to come here on one of the big United States battleships. The entertainment will be given under the patronage of the Italian ambassador and Countess Dolores Macchi di Cellere and the program will include some of the best musicians of the country, such as Marcia Van Dresser of the Chicago Grand Opera, Elvira Leveroni, the Metropolitan and Boston Opera prima donna, and Harrison Bennett, late of the Wagner festival at Bayreuth. Maria Paporello, the prima ballerina of the Boston Opera will also perform. The Festa is for the benefit of the New England war relief fund and the list of patronesses is headed by Mrs. George von L. Meyer and Mrs. William F. Draper. There is special interest in the fete all along the shore and a large attendance is assured Mrs. Hammond and all those who are laboring so earnestly for this very worthy cause.

The Salad Bowl at 90 Middle street, Gloucester, still continues to be the fashionable rendezvous for the social set on the Cape for afternoon tea. Mrs. Fitzwilliam Sargent of Ardmore, Philadelphia, entertained at tea on Tuesday Miss Jean and Miss Theodora Lily of Haverford, Pa., who are summering at Hawthorne Inn. Miss Longstreth of St. Louis, who is a guest at the Moorland, entertained a party of five at tea early in the week at the Salad Bowl.

EAST GLOUCESTER. This section of the North Shore is now crowded with tourists and still the people come from all sections of the country. East Gloucester stands alone in its unique and exquisite beauty. When once the summer visitor stays for a time he longs to return. The summer hotel business on the North Shore began here and there are still some of those people stopping in the vicinity as they did in the pioneer days, never tiring of the ideal surroundings and the health-giving atmosphere of the place. Every year there is added to the list of summer residents at East Gloucester people famous in art, literature, music, science and the political life of the nation. The general response at the hotels at present is "Everything taken—you will have to wait for a few days until some rooms are vacated." Private homes are now profiting by accommodating the overflow.

Burleigh Parkhurst, the Boston artist, has taken the Taylor studio on Mt. Pleasant avenue and is located there with his family. The cottage was formerly owned by Ralph Henry Barbour, the author, who came to East Gloucester for some seasons before purchasing property in Manchester. Mr. Parkhurst has been coming to East Gloucester for some years and formerly stopped at the Harbor View. Mr. Parkhurst is author of "The Painter in Oil," a book published two years ago in New York, and which is filled with valuable information. Mr. Parkhurst is conducting a summer painting class here.

Miss Lotta Crabtree, the noted actress, famous in the "old Museum" days in Boston, is enjoying the season at an Eastern Point cottage. Miss Crabtree is the owner of the Hotel Brewster and other valuable real estate in Boston. She is very much interested at this time in the "twilight sleep" movement and in the founding of a hospital for that treatment in Boston.

The S. K. Ames family of Melrose is occupying the attractive new residence built for Mr. Ames during the past winter and spring at Eastern Point, near "Sunset Rock" and the Beach boulevard. The interior work was completed several weeks ago.

A military whist party was arranged for the Beachcroft guests on Wednesday evening.

Recent guests at the Beachcroft include: Mr. and Mrs. Newton B. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Palmer, Cleveland, O.; Dr. Mary J. Cochran of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Bancroft, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Herbert, New Britain, Ct.

Miss Elizabeth Sparhawk-Jones, the well-known artist of Philadelphia, is making her annual visit at the Fairview Hotel, Eastern Point, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. Sparhawk-Jones.

There will be a great many original and interesting costumes and the grand march will be a brilliant pageant.

The dance at the Rockaway on Saturday evening was a particularly enjoyable affair. The house is now filled with guests and the ball room was crowded with happy couples.

Mrs. W. J. Luker of Boston was a week-end guest at the Rockaway, joining friends at that resort.

ROCKPORT. The season at Rockport has been rather quiet socially. Outside of the good times at the Rockport Country Clubhouse and the hotel parlors, folks are content with the restful and quiet life. Golfing at the Rockport Country Club course has occupied much of the time of a great many summer residents, who speak in highest terms of the excellent course. The popularity here will increase each season and will be the means of drawing new people to summer at Land's End.

The annual lawn party of the First Congregational Society was an attractive event on the old church lawn in Rockport proper, last Saturday afternoon and evening. The shower interfered a little, but a fine supper was served in the parish house and the booths were well patronized, both by the summer folks and citizens. The lawn was brilliantly illuminated at night and music was furnished by an Italian trio, flute, violin and harp.

The John Boyle O'Reilly Club, which celebrated the anniversary of the beloved poet on Tuesday of last week at the Boston City Club, will hold its annual outing at Land's End, Rockport, on August 28. H. B. Carpenter and Credo Harris, two Hawthorne Inn guests, went out fishing one morning this week and the fishermen came home with a wonderful tale of the deep. Mr. Carpenter was just thinking he saw a submarine marked "G-Whiz 45" pass the bow of the boat, when there was an awful pull at his fishing line and almost at the same instant he "pulled in" for all he was worth. He got a fright when finally a large head, no other than that of a codfish, came up to the surface. It was a 45-pounder and it may be judged that Mr. Carpenter was proud of his lucky catch. It was a beautiful specimen of cod.

Greyledge Tea House at Gloucester, was the scene of a very pretty dancing party on Friday evening last, given by Mrs. Jones and Miss Blake to introduce Miss Mary Catharine Parsons of New York, the promising young monologist, who rendered several original and most interesting monologues which were much appreciated by those present, including the young people summering in this vicinity. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Among the young society people of the Oceanside, Magnolia, who go often to The Barnacle, at Annisquam, and who motored over again last Monday, are Miss Doris Bryan, Miss Ethel Morse, Porter Fischer and Wm. L. Shaw. Mrs. Jordan Stabler of Hawthorne Inn entertained a table of bridge lovers on Friday, at The Barnacle. Her guests were Mrs. Emerson of the Oceanside, Mrs. E. L. Du Barry of Baltimore and Mrs. E. A. Walker of Hawthorne Inn.

Between the avaricious man and the spendthrift the distance is so wide that colonies of well-considered people occupy it.

New England's Summer Business

THE golden tide which was expected to flow into New England during these summer months has been stopped somewhere and has not yet shown anything like the volume which was anticipated. A careful reading of the reports from various beautiful sections of our vacation land will show that the number of guests is if anything somewhat below normal, and that the amount of money spent does not equal what is usually poured out. Some hotels and camps have even discharged large numbers of employes and are managing to get along very well with the reduced force.

Presumably this is in part to be blamed on the weather. For such a season has seldom been known. People ask themselves why they should leave their comfortable homes to endure rain and cold in places where the facilities for pleasure in dull weather are not so good as at home. Even if the rest of August shall be full of perfect warm and dry days, the loss from this one cause can hardly be made up.

The California fairs may have taken a few of those who would otherwise have spent the summer in New England, but the number who have gone West compared with the total vacation-seeking population is so small that this element in the question may easily be put to one side.

Another and probably larger element is the general feeling of uncertainty in which people are living. They know that business has been bad and is likely to be so again. They do not know what may be the results of the European war on this country, or how far involved we are to get in trouble with Mexico. They feel, therefore, that this is no time for extravagance or for careless spending of money. Hence, many are holding on to what they have, knowing that if trouble comes the money will be useful, and if trouble does not come there will be other opportunities for vacations.

But from the standpoint of the hotelkeeper and the summer entertainers of every sort, this has been an unprofitable summer. And it has been the worse because practical experience has been such a contrast with the rosy hopes of the early summer.—Gloucester Times.

INDIAN SUMMER! Soon the crickets will be chirping their harvest home of the season, says Editor Pringle of the Cape Ann Shore. The goldenrod, nodding in the fields and by the wayside, begins to show traces of the yellow flower associated with the coming of early fall. The extraordinary weather, with a Bar Harbor fog rolling in each morning, accompanied by showers practically all of July and the opening days of August, has been most unsummerlike. The good old summer-time is associated with sunshine and high temperature, but such has not been the case this season. Summer has yet to come. When the first settlers came to New England one of the summers was damp, raw and cold, much as the present summer. The colonists complained and asked the friendly Indians regarding the matter. "Summer come bime-by," was the encouraging response. Sure enough summer came "bime-by"—in the fall and lasted well into December. Hence the term, Indian summer. Similarly it may be said of the present season that summer will come "bime-by." The autumn months, September included are the most glorious in the New England calendar. In the mountains much is made of the charms of early autumn in attracting the attention of tourists. Autumn by the sea and countryside in Essex county is fully as attractive as anywhere. Some day this fact will be realized more generally than at present.

The sun shines for all, the rain falls for all, and it is the duty of all to enjoy them in their own way just so long as they do not conflict with public morals.

IT IS NOT OFTEN the BREEZE speaks of itself, but in this case we feel the friends of the BREEZE and those who have been closely allied with it since its inception by the present management, twelve years ago, will be glad to learn of its prosperity otherwise than by its outward evidence of growth and success, in its attractive 4-color front and back cover, and its 70-odd pages of news, pictures and advertising. We allude to the gratifying and unprecedented increase in circulation this year. In going over our circulation records last week, we found that nearly 300 new names had been added to the list since the first of April, a majority being year-round subscriptions. And in that same period less than 10% of that number had been dropped from the list. These 300 new subscribers are summer residents largely, living in the territory between Nahant on one side and Little Boar's Head, N. H., on the other, and in winter from Atlanta, Ga., Texas, and Kansas City to points nearer home. And the people subscribing range from those of small means, gardeners, chauffeurs and trades-people to state and national dignitaries, heads of leading commercial enterprises and men and women prominent in the social and civic activities in all sections of the country—north, south, east and west. For a long time it has required special mail pouches to take the BREEZE to Boston and vicinity in winter—some 600 copies alone going to Back Bay, Brookline and other near-by suburbs.

The BREEZE does not often speak of these things—for it has always been our feeling that the style and quality of publication and the consistent growth and development of the enterprise—now an established North Shore institution—tells its own story.

A YOUNG MAN with the automobile fever learned a few of the mysteries of gas motors and obtained a license. A week ago he had a dream and a ticket and now he owns the Sam Sam prize motor. This young painter will have many a happy hour in his new possession. Every lover of humanity cannot but be pleased that such a young man has the pleasure. In the fitness of things how much better is that the lot fell to this young man than that it should have fallen to someone already blessed with an abundance.

ON SUNDAY, OCTOBER 24, the churches of the North Shore are to observe Hospital Sunday. On that day, the communicants of the churches are to make a special offering for the work of that humanitarian institution. The Beverly Hospital has been doing a work for the North Shore that has been invaluable. This occasion will present an opportunity for all to help. The North Shore will respond with a will.

THE WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE propagandists are up to the minute in their methods. There is not a public interest that is not seized and made to contribute to the cause. Even Plattsburg has become a field of action.

NEW ENGLAND had the weather that stirred the humorous ability of Mark Twain. What could Mark Twain have done with this year's sample?

THE TRUE AMERICAN SHRINKS from the idea of profits gained by a traffic in munitions of war; the taint of blood is on such gains. Instinctively the finer feelings of Americans are aroused and there is an impulse to end the inhuman business by law. But there is a second thought which all must take. Can America justly forbid the manufacture and exportation of munitions of war? If America's principle of neutrality is right, then the embargo that the sympathies of Americans might prompt would be a direct help to one of the belligerents in the contest; and then again there would be humane questions to consider. The refusal of this government to forbid the exportation of munitions of war is true neutrality. To place an embargo on arms and munitions would be a direct help to Germany and a direct injury to the Allies and would consequently be a violation of neutrality. Germany and the Allies may purchase all the supplies they need. If the fortunes of war should turn and Germany should be master of the sea then the neutrality conditions America has imposed would be a direct benefit to Germany. As much as Americans hate war and all martial preparations and the money thus made, there can be nothing done. The "bloody business" must go on. It is another ramification of the war's work.

THE AMERICAN WOOLEN MILLS have come into the limelight during the last few weeks. The war orders have given the business a boom that is almost unprecedented, with the result that the preferred and common shares have had increasing values for nine months. Now the preferred stock is at a high level for a five-year period. Although a corporation largely owned and operated in New England, it is not a Massachusetts corporation. It is now proposed to reorganize the enterprise and to incorporate it under the laws of the State of Massachusetts. This will give the securities a better standing, especially for Massachusetts stockholders.

THE KAISER HAS FAILED in his eastern operations. It is true that Warsaw has been evacuated and that his troops have taken possession of it, but where is the Russian Army? It is intact and safely entrenched in a new position that will try the Kaiser's patience and military ability. The destruction of that army must be the goal in the east and the German force has not yet been able to gain the mastery. It is evident that the policy of "watchful waiting" is being developed in the east and west as well as in America.

A BOSTON "COUNTRY WEEK" organization sent three children to a North Shore town this week with careless directions that caused some worry for the individuals who had the task upon their hands of finding the children's destination. The intentions were good, but the system was poor. Too much care cannot be given by our great charitable enterprises in working out the details of their work.

LAWN PARTIES appear to be the popular events this year along the shore. Despite the inclemency of the weather there have been many successes.

THERE ARE THOSE who entertain the idea that it may be possible for this Government to apprehend high officials who may have been cognizant of the facts concerning the Lusitania before it was torpedoed and prove that they were accessories before the fact and guilty of murder in the first degree. As an act of governmental discipline it would cause some interesting developments, but the real issue of the Lusitania incident is "what will be done about our demands for full reparation?" It is evident now that Germany intends to send no reply to our last note. It is well that the correspondence should end thus, but later President Wilson may be depended upon to make his request concrete. There is a happy issue of the contest in all events. Germany has not in word acceded to the demands that the United States government has made, but it has in act. No such tragic proceedings have shocked our sympathies and it is evident that the German government intends to maintain this policy. The American people are interested in the main lines of this contest. The main factor President Wilson demands of Germany must not be lost sight of. President Wilson may be depended upon to keep the main issue well in hand.

A CENTURY AGO and America was in arms against the mother country, and in the Civil War Great Britain was not friendly; yet consider the friendly instincts that have bound the Allies together in war. Is it too much to hope, to expect a day to come when men may be bound by the ties of peace? Is there any reason why the animosity between Great Britain and Germany cannot be removed and a lasting peace established? It may take a century to accomplish the growth of good feeling, but why should it be impossible?

THE PLATTSBURG CAMP is a personal triumph of General Wood, but the success is due directly to the fears occasioned by the European contest. America has a large task, to keep herself unspotted from the iniquities of militarism and yet maintain the efficiency and dignity of its national honor and position.

WHEN A GREAT ORGANIZATION finds it wise and advantageous to endeavor to influence public opinion in any particular mode of thinking it is an indication that that organization considers such an expenditure of money necessary. It is pertinent testimony to the fact that the opposing ideas are developing rapidly.

THE CRUELITIES OF WAR will abide long years after the war has ended. Hate and animosity are enduring feelings, but yet why should they be eternal? England, Germany, France and Russia are now at war. There was a time when England and France were enemies.

THE MALICIOUS NAME CARVERS on the Custom House tower have "got their names up" in a way they had not anticipated. It is about time that such malicious egoists were checked in their senseless efforts to inflict their names upon the public on public property.

THE ITALIAN RESERVISTS have had their transportation expenses paid to the home land, but the question that now troubles the authorities of New York is who is to furnish the funds to feed, clothe and house the war widows and the children.

IT WAS A TRAGIC COINCIDENCE that the writer of the Vest Pocket essays should die of appendicitis upon the very date that his little essay upon appendicitis appeared.

AUSTRIA MADE A REPRESENTATION to our government in good faith demanding that in the interests of neutrality this government place an embargo upon the exportation of arms. The United States has declined the requests made. Austria has not been altogether consistent in her activities. America bears her no malice, but it remembers that Austria was not careful to forbid such exportations to the South during the Civil War. National consistency is a hard and exacting ideal. Could America with justice for all and in the interests of neutrality have answered other than in the negative?

OUR GLOUCESTER FRIENDS were fortunate in their choice of a day for their open-air fete Tuesday in aid of the Huntress Home. The management is to be congratulated for its enterprise and efficiency. The books are not yet closed and the treasurer will welcome further contributions for the maintenance of the work of the home. Those who are enjoyers of the blessings of possessions can find no richer pleasure than the satisfaction that comes from assisting the work of a well-ordered and successful charitable enterprise.

THE PRESS HAS BEEN a great loser by this war. There has been an increase in circulation, but it has not increased in proportion to the increased expenses for news service that the war has entailed. What an anomaly! The newspapers struggling for news and the very boon that they sought has entailed a warranted but unexpected expense. It is not all smooth sailing in the journalistic world.

MISS JANE ADDAMS pays a subtle compliment to the soldiers of the old world when she asserts they are first made drunk that they may murder on the field of war. The unfortunate thing is that the statements are not in keeping with the truth, as well intentioned as Miss Addams may be.

PRESIDENT TAFT is credited with saying that our difficulties with Mexico are "bad, very bad." This we know, but no one can impute to ex-President Taft the blame. The present difficulties were not inherited from the last administration.

THE BOYS OF MANCHESTER are off for Camp Province under the direction of Scout Master Albert G. Warner. It is to be hoped that the weather conditions will be favorable. If they are Mr. Warner may be depended upon to do the rest.

"FONDLY DO WE HOPE, fervently do we pray, that this mighty scourge of war may speedily pass away." Lincoln wrote these immortal words during the Civil War, but how expressively they reflect our feelings now.

THOSE WHO ENJOYED themselves complaining about the cold damp weather have had the opportunity to perspire complaining about the hot weather. The human race is never satisfied.

IF THE PEACE OF GOD could be the ruling policy of men, the umpire of men's activities, what opportunity could there be for armed conflict.

THE WEATHER HAS FORMED some bad habits; It was a long while getting into the dry column.

MANCHESTER has reached the twenty million mark.

"EXPERIENCE" AT THE SHUBERT THEATRE, BOSTON
The Struggle of Passion and Intoxication for the Possession of Youth.

"EXPERIENCE"

"Experience," the famous modern morality drama by George V. Hobart, with the record of a nine months' run in New York last season, comes to the Shubert Theatre, Boston, Saturday night, August 28th, for a limited engagement, under the joint direction of William Elliott, F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest. The play is in ten scenes, and is acted by a company of 82 players. It is a big, gorgeous, glittering and thrilling drama of life, showing in these ten widely-contrasting scenes the different experiences and temptations which confront youth when he goes forth into the world in search of Fame and fortune. One reason for the tremendous success of the play may perhaps be found in the fact that Mr. Hobart's drama so accurately reproduces many of the actual experiences which really happen to most young men, and everyone in the audiences recognizes the truth of the portrayal. Elderly men see in the character of Youth the actual embodiment of their own selves when they were young men. Women will find interest and fascination in the characters which surround Youth, and start him on a downward career in the big scene called "The Primrose Path." How Youth is saved from a life of degradation, through the uplifting influence of a good woman's love is a strong and sentimental appeal of great power.

Friday, August 20, 1915.

Labor Day comes late this year—on Monday, Sept. 6.

Mrs. Geo. E. Scott of Irvington-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., is spending August with Mr. Scott's people Norwood ave.

Miss Dorothy Blaisdell returned last Saturday from a visit of several weeks in Maine, with some of her college mates at Wheaton.

Harry Adams, employed for so many years by the Misses Bartlett at Old Neck and in Boston, left Monday on a two-weeks vacation trip to the Provinces.

Roderick Macdonald is coming on from Springfield next week for a visit, joining Mrs. Macdonald and three children, who are with Mrs. Macdonald's mother, Mrs. May Stanley, Norwood ave., for August.

About 35 members attended the Manchester club outing at Tuck's Point last Saturday. The ball game between Manchester and Beverly cut short the customary afternoon's sports. A chowder dinner was served at noon.

Walter B. Jackson of Summit, N. J., who has been in charge of a large estate there since leaving Manchester four or five years ago, was in town over the last week-end renewing acquaintances, with headquarters at the home of Herbert W. Clark, West Manchester. Mrs. Jackson plans to visit Manchester in September.

The concern manufacturing a certain make of air-compressor drill recently offered a prize, through one of the trade papers, for a description of the most odd or un-heard of use made of the drill. Charles W. Fritz of the engineering force at Raymond C. Allen's office, won the prize. He told of the use made of the air-compressor drill last summer in blowing away a ledge under water in Manchester harbor, in connection with the out-flow pipes for Manchester's new sewerage system.

Brownland Cottages employees' dance Tuesday night in the Town Hall was a huge success. About 200 were in attendance, Manager M. B. Gilman being one of the guests. Under Miss Nellie Hurley's management the hall was gaily decorated with flowers and plants and a pendant in green and white letters spelling Brownlands hung from the ceiling. A brown scarf with Brownlands in white lettering was worn by each of the employees. Long's orchestra furnished the music. This is always one of the pleasantest semi-private parties of the season.

Among the best swimmers at Singing Beach are Miss Ruth Spry and Miss Ruth O'Brien. It is a common occurrence for Miss Spry to swim from the beach off shore to the rock, off the southern end of the beach, a distance of half a mile. Last Sunday Miss O'Brien also swam to the rock, starting from the upper part of the beach. Last Summer Miss Spry swam from Town Wharf in Manchester village, out the harbor, around Smith's Point, to Singing Beach, a distance of fully three miles.

The Lexington young man who went to Singing Beach the other night with a young woman he had made the acquaintance of, must hold some respect for the Singing sands as a safe deposit for money. At any event, when he had said "good night" to the young woman and had gone home, he missed a small roll of bills—$30 in amount. He could hardly sleep during the night, and early next morning he told his troubles to the police. As a preliminary Chief Sullivan and the young man made a trip to the beach, to the spot where he had sat enjoying the cool evening breezes with the young woman, and sure enough—there was the roll, untouched save by the morning sun. The Lexington young man will put implicit faith in Manchester banks henceforth—even beach banks.

afternoon—the second of the series between Manchester and Beverly—is scheduled to begin at 3.15. The 3.05 train reaches Montserrat at 3.20 and it is a good eight minutes walk to the grounds. Consequently many of the fans will leave on the 1.30 train.

The selection of Ralph H. Mr. Mann was the organizer of the Manchester Trust Co. and was its first treasurer.

MRS. JOHN H. CHEEVER.

Mrs. John Henry Cheever passed away last Friday, Aug. 13th, at her home on School street, Manchester, at the age of 68 years, 8 months and 11 days. She had been ill less than a week, though she had not been well for the last year or so. Her death was a great shock to her many friends in Manchester and elsewhere, who did not even know of her illness.

Mrs. Cheever was Adelaide Edwards, daughter of the late Israel O. and Cynthia (Burnham) Edwards of Beverly. She had lived in Manchester since her marriage, with the exception of fifteen years in Somerville.

She was a woman of loving, motherly disposition, a home-body and lover of her home to a degree, and had always taken her greatest pleasure and delight in doing for others, even up to her last minute. Of her it could always be said, once to know her, always love and respect her.

Funeral services were held Monday in Crowell Memorial Chapel, which was filled by friends and neighbors of the deceased. Rev. A. G. Warner of the Baptist church officiated and spoke very nicely of Mrs. Cheever and her many admirable traits.

Mrs. Cheever is survived by a husband, a former Selectman of Manchester, also two sons, Lester T. and Edward Cheever, and one brother, Israel O. Edwards of Beverly.

MRS. RICHARD LETHBRIDGE.

Mrs. Richard Lethbridge passed away Wednesday afternoon at her home on Brook street, Manchester, at the age of 76 years, after a lingering illness. He husband died two years ago.

Mrs. Lethbridge is a native of Newfoundland, where she is survived by three sisters. Her daughter, Mrs. Adam Chaulk and two grandchildren, survive her, in Manchester.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock at the Crowell Memorial Chapel.

SUFFRAGE MEETINGS PROGRAM.

Following is the schedule of the tour of the "Votes for Women Victory Campaigners" along the North Shore next week: August 23, Beverly, 8 p. m.; August 24, Magnolia, 7.15 p. m.; Manchester 8.15 p. m.; August 25, Gloucester 7.30 p. m.; August 26, Rockport 8 p. m.; August 27, South Essex 7.30 p. m.; August 28, Hamilton-Wenham 7.30 p. m.

An ounce of timely assistance is more valuable than a pound of good advice.

MANCHESTER

George H. Richmond of Boston spent the week-end in Manchester.

Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Hatch have had the former's father here from Vermont for a visit the past week.

Mrs. Henry Simpson of Brunswick, Me., is in town for a short visit with her brother, Charles E. Williams, Norwood avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hawkes of Jamaica Plain, and their little son, are in town for a visit with Mrs. Hawkes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Barry.

Miss Madolin Semons is spending a week in Salem with her aunt Mrs. Agnes Gregory. She will spend a week with another aunt, Mrs. Geo. Jewett in Lynn.

Harry P. Sparks of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company is in town for a few weeks' stay, stopping with the Misses Swanson, Washington street.

A little power boat was in the harbor a day or so ago propelled only by a fan arrangement attached to the stern of the boat. The fan did not touch the water but got its propelling force from the air.

The Boy Scouts started off Wednesday morning on the 7.30 train, thirty-one in number, for their annual two weeks' outing to Lake Province, N. H. Scout Master Rev. A. G. Warner went along with the boys, and Granville Crombie went as cook.

Miss Gertrude Ryan, who is taking a course in nursing at the Lowell General Hospital, is spending her vacation in Manchester, a guest of the T. W. Longs, Bridge street. Dr. Merrill of the hospital staff is to be in Manchester over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Woodward are on from Arizona for a week's visit, and are with Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Knight and family, Central street. Mr. Woodward is engineer with the Iron Cap Copper Company in Arizona, of which Mr. Knight is president, and he brings a good report from the mine, which is now running to capacity to meet the increased demands for copper.

The committee on matter of dump or incinerator are much enthused over what they saw in this line in Dover, N. H., last week, and yesterday a representative of the firm supplying incinerators was in town to go over the matter with the committee. It is understood a plant such as is suggested would cost to install some $4000. It is proposed to have it on the town property, off Pleasant street. The matter will come before the town for action later.

MANCHESTER

The Workman last night handed to Mrs. Bradley, widow of the late Edward S. Bradley a check for $2000, her benefit from the lodge. We speak of it here, because of the promptness with which the insurance is paid.

E. J. Neary made a valuable find one day recently—in the shape of a suit case filled with personal apparel, articles of jewelry, money, checks, etc., that had dropped from a passing auto, at the corner of Union and Washington streets. The case has since been returned to its owner, one of the Swifts of Chicago, stopping at the Oceanside hotel, Magnolia, and Mr. Neary has been rewarded for his deed.

The presence of a large power yacht at the pier at Masconomo Park yesterday noon, loading on provisions and gasoline, suggests the possibilities of the use of the town piers as a stimulus for trade from these quarters. We have noted much of this the past summer, and it is pleasing to see the increased use being made of our dredged harbor since the improvements have been made.

A report has been in circulation that John F. Scott had disposed of his plumbing and heating business. Mr. Scott asks us to state this is very much exaggerated, as he has only recently built a new shop and larger quarters at his place on Pine street and is executing at the present time several good-sized contracts. He is furthermore better equipped than ever to cater to the needs of the people in anything that requires first-class and up-to-date plumbing and heating. Mr. Scott moved from the center of town last winter so as to give better attention to his increasing business in much enlarged quarters.

KIOWA II WON.

The high northwest wind that prevailed all day Wednesday nearly caused a postponement of the race of the one-design boats of the Manchester Yacht Club in the series for the Putnam cup. Only three boats entered and two finished. Soon after starting the Asteria carried away her mainsheet and was obliged to withdraw. The Kiowa II got the best of the start and held her lead to the finish. The boats sailed once around under two reefs.

The chronic kicker deserves a kicking.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE NOTES

Tuesday, August 24, will be "Suffrage Day" in Manchester, when the "Victory Campaigners" will arrive in the morning and will do canvassing during the day. At 8.15 in the evening there will be an open-air meeting on the Common, at which Mrs. Theresa Crowley of Boston, will be the chief speaker. Mrs. Crowley is a brilliant lawyer, and is well known through the state as Chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Mass. Suffrage Ass'n. She is highly thought of at the State House, and probably knows more about the Suffrage situation in this state than any other person. All will be welcome at this meeting, especially voters. There will also be a short meeting at Magnolia, near the Post Office, at 7.15, and during the day there will be an opportunity for the members of the Manchester E. Suff. League to meet Mrs. Crowley. The party will come in their "victory car," and will receive the hospitality of Manchester Suffragists for the night.

This will be the "first gun" of the autumn campaign in Manchester, and the next will be the lecture by Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Amory Eliot, on Sept. 3d. Further particulars will be given next week.

At "Gloucester Day," on Tuesday of this week, the Suffragists had a booth where many people signed cards, and young girls in costumes of yellow and white mingled with the crowds. There was also a Suffrage speech at 4.30, by Mrs. Ralph McDaniel of Boston, who successfully held a large section of the vast crowds, talking to them through a megaphone. I heard a man on the edge of the crowd say "Anv old bum can vote, and that lady can't vote—it aint right!" An Anti-Suffrage speaker, Mrs. White of Brookline, had been announced to speak also, but she failed to appear. The Antis often do fail! But the most interesting thing the Gloucester Suffragists did was to send motor-cars for the old ladies at the Huntress Home, and bring them down to the park where the fair was going on. It was a great treat to them.

A visitor from Chicago, who is a voter there, told us what a splendid fight the women have begun against the corruption in that city.—L. R. S.

Rev. C. A. Hatch will preach at the Congregational church Sunday morning at 10.45 an "Maternity." His subject last Sunday was "Youth."

The annual picnic of the Congregational Sunday school was held Thursday at Tuck's Point, and was attended by about sixty, the number being somewhat depreciated by the absence of the boy scouts in New Hampshire. All had a most enjoyable time, swimming, playing games, and with a tug-of-war between teams of girls. Ice cream was sold by James Beaton.

BEVERLY PLAYER, WHITE, JOINS THE LOWELL N. E. TEAM.

"Billy" White, who has been covering the initial sack for the Beverly town team, has signed up with Lowell in the New England League, and is playing with the Mill City team. White played in the New England League before he went to Columbus in the American Association.

In his first game for the Ohio city team he broke his leg and had to quit baseball for a time. He has been living at Ipswich, his home town, and working in Lawrence. He has been one of the standby's of the Beverly team, and his going to Lowell puts Beverly in the hole for its second game in the North Shore championship series with Manchester at Beverly Saturday. Manager Rafferty of the Beverly team is trying to dig up a first-class first sacker today.—Boston Traveler of Thursday, August 19.

CHALLENGES WINNERS OF MANCHESTER-BEVERLY SERIES

The Ward Two Club baseball team of Gloucester of which "Pat Keating is manager, is very anxious to meet the Beverly or Manchester clubs in a series of seven games, four games to decide the winner. Manager Keating has sent in a challenge to the winner of the Beverly-Manchester series for a series for the championship of Essex county and a side bet of $200. The conditions for such a series is to split the gate receipts 50-50 and to start the games the Saturday after the present series is ended. As a guarantee of good faith, the Ward Two club manager has deposited $25 with the Gloucester Times sporting editor to back up his challenge.

MANCHESTER LOSES

FIRST GAME OF SERIES WITH BEVERLY—ALSO FIRST GAME OF SEASON.

Manchester lost the first game of the series with Beverly last Saturday at the Manchester Playgrounds, for the championship of the North Shore. The game was a fizzle, as far as Manchester is concerned, for five of the eight runs scored by Beverly was a hand-out, not a hit being made while the runs were being scored. Manchester went in the air, in other words. Stage fright!

A team that has played such brilliant ball all season, and that went through all of last season with only two defeats, and has played some of the strongest semi-pro teams in this part of the state this season, including the Maples of Salem, the Lynnhursts of Lynn, the Queen Quality and others, with not a defeat,—it seemed too bad to go to pieces in the 12th game of the season. The Beverly team is not the strongest team Manchester has met this year, but the game with them meant more, because it is a series, and means something. Grover pitched a good game, stronger the latter half than the first part of the game. Dexter Woodman, who pitched for Beverly is a good pitcher, but he is not a star of such brilliancy as to outshine many other pitchers that have already appeared on the Manchester diamond. He went to pieces altogether in the last two innings. It brought tears to the eyes of his supporters to see the way he went up in the air in these two innings,—but it brought just as many tears to the eyes of Manchester supporters because Manchester did not or could not make good when Woodman went to pieces.

Manchester has a good bunch of ball players and anyone who saw last Saturday's game know full well the team is there and can play just as good ball, and better, than Beverly. The team from one end of the field to the other went to pieces. Eight errors tells its own story.

All up for the game tomorrow at Beverly. Get off at Montserrat station. Manchester is going to win. The boys learned their lesson last week. It may be remembered Manchester lost the opening game of the Farms series last year,—but the next games came Manchester's way without much trouble.

The crowd at last Saturday's game was the largest of the season.

All this loud talk about Manchester money and the "big haul" made by the Beverlyites last Saturday is a huge joke. The knowing ones in Beverly are having a good laugh about it, though they must feel just a little bit sore they didn't have the courage to place any wagers on the game last week. The noticeable thing about the game from that standpoint, in view of the fact it was a series of games, was the absence of Beverly money. The writer knows for a fact—and he can prove it—the only real wagering done on the game, except possibly a few friendly side bets—was to the amount of $20. All this talk about $300 is a joke and the Beverly fans know it. Manager Rafferty and the rest of the Beverly supporters, had a good chance to take care of a pool of $160 just before the game started and again after it started—but, as we said above, only $20 was covered. Manchester lost the first game in the Beverly Farms series last year—but, oh! what a clean-up in the next three games of the series. The Beverly players and management are not offering many odds on the game this week, we venture to say; they know all too well what kind of a team they are up against.

WHAT EDITOR LONG OF SALEM SAYS OF THE GAME.

Sporting Editor Long of the Salem News, who refereed the bases at the Manchester-Beverly game last Saturday, made the following comment on the game in Monday's News:

"Grover twirled good ball but showed little speed in fielding his position. The Beverly nine worked two squeeze plays that a blind man could see coming. Another time the Manchester pitcher was slow in getting the ball to the initial sack after picking up a low roller.

"The Manchester management showed poor judgment. Leo Cody, who is without a doubt one of the best all around ball players around here, was in a Manchester uniform and he was kept on the bench until late in the game. When the Worcester academy star got into the game he showed the natives how the initial sack should be covered.

"Cody also had Manager Rafferty sweating blood. He was hit, received a base on balls and fanned in three trips to the plate. He hit two balls on a line that went foul by a few feet and the Beverly fans breathed easier when he was passed.

"It seemed to be more fear than anything else that beat Manchester. They are capable of playing better ball, but they had two disastrous innings that netted the Beverly team their runs.

"Deckie Woodman is one of the hardest working pitchers around here. He puts all his strength in every ball that he throws. Woodman pitched just as hard with a seven run lead and as a result of the extreme heat and the extra exertion he weakened in the eighth and ninth.

"If he relied on his fielders more he would do a lot better work. Ten of the Manchester batters hit the strike-out road to the bench.

"In the eighth bases on balls set the Manchester fans crazy with rooting, but two runs was the best the Manchester team could get.

"Manager Rafferty wanted to yank Woodman in the eighth but Capt. Burdette refused to stand for it. Burdette showed good judgment as the only other twirler was Peterson and to send an inexperienced man in at such a time would have been suicide for the Beverly team.

"The Manchester infield is one of the best infields around, but the grounds will not take care of the crowd. The Beverly management is planning on receiving a record crowd at the game this week at the spacious Beverly field."

MAGNOLIA

Miss Elizabeth Brown has been quite ill at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Brown, Magnolia avenue.

Miss Hester Gosbee of North Cambridge has returned to her home after a visit with Miss Beatrice Story at her home on Magnolia avenue. Miss Story is to return to Boston with Miss Gosbee for a short visit.

Lady Leonora Speyer and Miss Marcia van Dresser, who are spending the season at the Oceanside, gave a delightful musical at the Men's clubhouse for the members of the Men's and Women's clubs last Saturday evening. The music was of the best and the large audience was very responsive. Lady Speyer the violinist, was accompanied by Mr. Wallace Goodrich of Manchester. Her selections included Aria by Fiocco, Dvorak's Humoresque, "La Precieuse" by Couferin, rearranged by Kreisler, Solemn Melody by Walford, Viennese Waltz (Davies) by Kreisler, Aria by Hugo Becker, and the Hungarian Dance by Hobay. Miss Van Dresser, who has but recently returned from Germany, where she has been studying, sang three French songs, "Les Berceaux" and "Après un Reve" by Fauré, and "Psyché" by Paladilhé; "My Lovely Celia" and "Shepherd, Thy Demenor Vary" from the old English; and "My Star" from Rogers and "The Wind and the Leaves" by Leoni. Seldom has the membership of these two clubs been privileged to hear a well selected program by such artists, and the appreciation and gratitude has not yet waned.

The days are filled at the Women's club with rehearsals for the big event of the season, the minstrel show, which the Oceanside girls are preparing for next Thursday and Friday evenings. The minstrel show is developing nicely under the coaching of Miss Mary Powers and is to have some good music and dancing. The minstrels will be followed by two singing and dancing sketches in costume, and by a one-act comedy, "A Pan of Fudge," the latter a short sketch with plenty of action. Miss Hélène Sherman, the manager of the club, is coaching the comedy.

The moving picture show at the Men's club this evening includes two comedies, "Col. Heeza Liar Fools the Enemy" and "She's a Pippin," and a Pathé picture, "Nick Winters and the mysterious Bank." Miss Marjorie Winters and Miss Isabelle Lee of the Ladies' Orchestra of Beverly will play the piano and drum respectively, and Miss Winters will sing. Members from the same orchestra will also furnish music for the dance next week. The series of lectures, which was to have been given at the clubhouse Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of this week by Col. French were abandoned owing to the serious illness of the speaker's wife. It is hoped that he may be secured for some later date. The bowling, the chess and the checkers tournaments are arousing great interest this month. Rev. Mr. Libby, the manager is engaged in raising a fund of $2250 before September 7, upon the success of which depends the donation of $750 by a friend of the club to make up the $3000 necessary to pay the notes, which have accumulated during past years, and the interest on the mortgage for the year, as well as the three year's insurance, which is due this coming winter. If these debts are paid off the club will be enabled to start next season, encumbered only by the mortgage of $11,100. During the first year of the club's history, it was self-supporting despite its heavy mortgage, but the less favorable summer resort conditions during the last two years have resulted in losses, which Rev. Mr. Libby is trying hard to make up. His courage and perseverance will undoubtedly be rewarded by the success, which he and the club, in which he has always been interested, so richly deserve. Friends of the club are invited to rally to its support at this time.

Miss Mary Boyd is enjoying a week's camping trip with relatives in Hudson, N. H.

Robert F. Lawrence is on from New York for a two weeks' vacation which he is spending with his parents at the Smith cottage, Raymond st. Mr. Lawrence is employed at the Lincoln National Bank, New York City.

Rev. Frederick J. Libby, manager of the Men's club, returned Wednesday after a few days' trip to Maine.

Miss Marion Story is expected to return home in a day or two from her trip to the Expositions at San Francisco. The trip was by way of Canada and Miss Story's experiences have been enjoyable and varied.

"NOBODY HOME."

The social event of the year will be the opening of the Wilbur Theater, Monday evening, August 23d, with the musical comedy success "Nobody Home," which will be presented by F. Ray Comstock and Elisabeth Marbury, direct from a run of six months in New York, with the original New York cast headed by that inimitable English comedian, Lawrence Grosmith.

"Nobody Home" is best described as a wealth of delightful, syncopating music, with a dash of pretty girls, the very newest thing in modern dancing and a cast of artists. One of the principal features of the production is the dancing done by Quentin Tod and Helen Clarke, the latest find of Elizabeth Marbury, who for several years managed and was responsible for the success of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle. Mr. Tod and Miss Clarke have three feature dances—a dainty military dance, which is the reigning fad in New York at the present time, a new one-step and a cake-walk.

Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, has purchased a box for the opening performance. Governor Walsh and Mayor Curley will occupy boxes and all the smart set from the North Shore and Newport will be on hand Monday evening, August 23d.

STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE REPORT.

The annual report of the secretary of the State Board of Agriculture has just come from the press and may be obtained by application to the secretary, at 136 State House, Boston. The book this year is a volume of 687 pages of reading matter and 54 pages of illustrations. In addition to a review of the year 1914 from the farmers' standpoint, which is contained in the report of Secretary Wilfrid Wheeler, the book is full of solid and valuable information for farmers. Cranberry Growing, Rat Riddance, Farm Sewage Disposal, Cooperation in Fruit Growing in Nova Scotia, Alfalfa Growing, Farm Water Supplies from the Health Standpoint, are among the topics treated, each one by experts. There is a very brief, clear and practical article on "The Home Vegetable Garden" by Allen French, containing a map for the layout of a garden 165x100 feet, and this article should prove useful to both suburbanite and farmer.

WHY EDITORS TAKE VACATIONS.

Flowery and long is the wedding notice which the editor printeth. The minister getteth 10 bones. The groom standeth the editor off for a 12-month subscription. All flesh is grass and in time the wife is gathered into the silo. The minister getteth his bit.

The editor printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a cubit of poetry and a card of thanks. And he forgetteth to read proof on the head and the darned thing cometh out "Gone to Her Last Roasting Place." And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceeding great vigor. And they pulleth out their ads and swing the hammer unto the third and fourth generations.—Noble County Leader.

AS A REMINDER.

Frances was finding it tiresome to be kept in on a rainy day. After several futile appeals to be allowed to go out, she said emphatically: "Well, I am going to leave this house and never come back." Thinking to frighten her out of the idea I said: "Very well, then we'll pack your clothes." "No," was the calm reply, "I think I will leave them here so you can always remember just how big I was when I left."

Cummings and Weisner were business rivals. One day at the club they fell to talking.

"Do you carry any life insurance?" queried Cummings.

"Yes," was the answer, "I have $10,000."

"Made payable to your wife?" asked Cummings.

"Yes," said Weisner.

"Well," asked Cummings, "what kind of an excuse do you pull off to your wife for living?"—Exchange.

Next Thursday evening, Aug. 26th, there will be a public entertainment and dance in Neighbor's hall. The affair is under the direction of Miss Muriel Publicover, instructor at the Beverly Farms playgrounds, and is being conducted for the purpose of securing funds to give the playground children a day's outing in the near future to which their parents will be invited. Miss Publicover's efforts to give the children of the Beverly Farms playgrounds a day's pleasure out of the daily routine is most commendable and it is hoped therefore, the affair next Thursday evening will be liberally patronized.

The weather man on Wednesday was good to the members of St. John's Episcopal Church Parish because he gave them good weather for their annual picnic and outing held Centennial Grove. The affair was attended by a large number and it seemed as though everything was there needed to make the occasion a happy one.

The contract for the new Beverly Farms Public Library has been awarded to the C. S. Cunningham & Sons Co., of Boston who were the lowest bidders. Yesterday the contractors had their first lot of lumber and building material arrive at the lot in preparation of starting the building.

Dr. Cornelius J. Murray, the well known local dentist with offices in the Murphy Block, is enjoying a well earned vacation, accompanied by three other young men of Beverly. Nobody this season questions HUDSON supremacy in anything belonging to a quality Six.

Nobody criticises any part or detail. Nobody suggests how something could be bettered.

Last year some wanted more width and room. This year they get it. They wanted distinctive lines. This year they get Yacht Lines. They get Lustrous Finish, enameled leather—all the fine touches a car can have.

With them comes another $200 reduction, making $400 in 20 months. On Opening Day a thousand men bought this new car on sight.

When will you come and see it?

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest
St. Jacobs Oil

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 25 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly!

RETAIL STORE OF DANIEL LOW & CO., SALEM, MASS.

Let one of your "little journeys" in August be to "the store of delightful surprises"--"Daniel Low's".

Daniel Low buyers search every available market for the new and novel. Many of the things to be found in our Store will not be shown in other shops for months to come—some never.

Every article is plainly marked with its price, making it possible for you to wander about the Store at will and inspect things to your heart's content. Our clerks are instructed to be of every service possible, but not to bother visitors when they are "just looking around." We want you to "look around."

There are little nooks and corners here and there where you will discover interesting things that a hasty inspection does not reveal. They are just the things that make such charmingly original gifts or add that desired touch of individuality to your own personal toilette or your home appointments. New things for our Fall catalog are being received daily and you will always find something novel and interesting.

Many people find this an excellent opportunity to select some of their Christmas gifts and to anticipate for Fall weddings. Gifts so selected may be laid aside to be sent later to whatever address you wish.

Why not plan a "little journey" to our Store with some of your friends? We think you will consider the time well spent.

A Beautiful Garden of Roses

"Beautiful Garden of Roses, Kissed by the morning Dew."

UNTIL a few weeks ago I had always considered the Busch Rose Garden on Orange Grove Avenue, Pasadena, California, the finest in the world—not that I have seen all the fine gardens in the world, but it did not seem possible to me—then—that there ever could be got together a more wonderful collection of these beautiful flowers. And even at that I have seen some famous gardens, among them the rose gardens on the Isle of Wight, the rose garden at Chatsworth House and Warwick Castle in England, and some of the rose gardens that surround the old chateaux of Southern France. But I saw one last June that was the equal of any of them, and the most surprising fact about it all was, that it is right here on the North Shore, and only a few minutes walk from where I have spent the summer for the last thirteen years.

It is a peculiar fact about us Americans, who have travelled—some—that we can rave for hours at a time about what we saw in England, France, Switzerland and Europe generally—and for us Easterners, the favorite topic is what we saw in California and the West—while right at our very doors we have sights and scenes that are equal of any—anywhere, and in some cases far surpass anything that either Europe or our own West can offer.

That is the reason I went to see the wonderful rose garden at "The Arches," the charming summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Preston, at Phillips Beach. Frankly I went there with a little of that "I'm from Missouri" air, thinking to myself "well, I have seen some of the finest gardens in the world, and I hardly believe there is anything on the North Shore that can compare, etc., etc." Well, I went to be "shown," and through the courtesy of Superintendent Smith, I was "shown." For it was right there, when I entered the ornamental steel gates of the Preston garden, I got the surprise of my life. For spread out before me was one grand gorgeous mass of bloom, just think of it, over twenty thousand roses. Twenty thousand roses in full bloom, with countless buds ready to take the place of the beautiful flowers—which gave so freely of their beauty and fragrance—when their day was done, and I have not quite got over the surprise yet.

There were my favorite Irish Roses, the "Cressie McKeller" and the "Florence Hazel Veitch" that I had not seen for years, and never in this country. Superintendent Smith told me they were imported direct from Dixon, of Belfast, and had never before, so far as he knew, been successfully cultivated in this country.

Then there was the famous "Daily Mail" rose, perhaps not so well known here, but in England the first time it was exhibited it won the gold medal for the best rose produced that year. The coloring of this rose is superb and unique, running from pale pink to old gold.

Coming nearer home there in great profusion was the "Hadley" rose, which was first cultivated at Hadley, Massachusetts, and it is said that for a rose of the kind it has never been surpassed in America. I was much interested to learn that, while this rose has been extensively grown under glass, until it was tried in the Preston garden, it had never been successfully cultivated outdoors, and that furthermore the exhibit of this famous rose won the Massachusetts Horticultural Society's Gold Medal, the highest award for roses in America. The "George Dixon" is another red rose which attracts a great deal of attention, but while the flower is as fine as the "Hadley" it does not grow so free.

I asked Mr. Smith what he considered the most popular rose amongst them all, and while he would not commit himself, he said the most popular rose for the ladies this season had been the "Queen Mary." Now Mr. Smith is an Englishman, and I was a little inclined to think he might be prejudiced, but when he showed me this rose with its exquisite coloring of pink, suffused with bright yellow, I there and then voted with the ladies and declared the "Queen Mary" the best.

But that was before I had seen the "Madame Melain Supert," many of which measured eight inches across; the "Mildred Grant," with its pleasing shell pink tinge, another importation from Dixon; the ever popular "Killarney," and the indescribable "Chateau de clos Vaugéot," with its velvety red petals; the beautiful white "Kaiserine Augusta Victoria;" the "George C. Wauld," the "Gustav Regis," the "Richmond" and the "Rambler" roses from Walsh, of Woods Hole, which are now considered better than the "Crimson Rambler."

Thanks to Mr. Smith I am able to give the names of twelve roses he recommends for outdoor cultivation on the North Shore, they are:—"The Madame Melain Supert," for pinkish yellow; "Harry Kirk," for solid yellow; "Irish Fire Flame"; "Hadley" and "Richmond" for red; "Carolina Test-Out;" "Kaiserine Augusta Victoria," for white; "George C. Wauld," pinkish red; "Queen Mary;" "Pharisier," the finest pink rose in cultivation; "Gustav Regis," pale yellow; and with a little care the "Lion" will prove a great addition. I feel sure these roses will do well on the North Shore. Why? Because Mr. Smith told me so, and if there is anyone on the North Shore that knows rose cultivation from A to Z and all the way back again, it is this same John L. Smith, for he comes from a family who for generations have been florists, and has cultivated roses from the time he was able to walk, furthermore he studied the art under Veitch of London, whose name is famous the world over.

Since Mr. Smith has had charge of these gardens the Preston exhibits have won over 100 first prizes, four silver medals, a bronze medal and three silver cups, but what he is especially proud of is the fact that the Preston exhibit of twenty varieties of vegetables won the R. & J. Farquarhson cup some time ago. The Preston exhibit of Sweet Peas won the Sutton cup, presented by Sutton & Sons, of London, for the best exhibit of Sweet Peas at a recent exhibition of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society held in Boston, and at the National Flower Show of the Society of American Florists some years ago, out of eight entries the Prestons carried away seven first prizes and one second. They also won the T. Jefferson Coolidge Cup for roses at Manchester two years ago.

But it seems to me I could go on talking about this garden for ever and a day, and then think of something else to say. And if the Prestons enjoy their beautiful gardens every day as much as I did a few hours that day, they must surely feel well repaid for the great expenditure it entails. For the financier whose experiences have mellowed, not soured him, whose heart and intellect have broadened with the years, whose love of the beautiful has not been lost amid the strenuous cares of a great corporation, has much to give in the way of inspiration towards better living and better thinking, and as I quoted last week "Not all the good sermons come from the pulpit." For I listened to one the day I visited the Preston garden, the sermon of the beautiful roses and fragrant flowers, the sermon of the plants and the wonderful things that have their life and growth under the skillful direction of the gardener, and the sermon of the great outdoors, and as I reveled in the beauty of this wonderful garden I was thankful that there are some people in this world that give to others a privilege, such as I enjoyed that sunshiny day in June, in the beautiful rose gardens of "The Arches," the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Preston, at Phillips Beach.

The Rebecca Nourse House at Danvers

KATHERINE GAUSS

Rebecca Nourse House, Danvers.

THE summer visitor tiring of the commonplace and the things of the present age, and seeking for something different to interest and charm them, will do well to visit the Rebecca Nourse house in Danvers, just off the Danvers-Peabody highway.

Built in 1636 by Townsend Bishop the house was later occupied by the son of Governor Endicott, who deeded it to his wife upon his death. Mrs. Endicott married Rev. James Allen of the First church of Boston and when Mrs. Allen died, the house and land was deeded to Francis Nourse and his wife Rebecca. It is the oldest frame house in the country, according to the opinions expressed by experts, who have had to do with old houses and is in a fine state of preservation.

The story of Rebecca Nourse is soon told. At the time of the "Witchcraft Delusion" in this section of the country it became rumored about that Rebecca Nourse had been named by the Indian Tituba, as one of the four women "Who sometimes hurt the children" of the neighborhood. Several of the neighbors of Rebecca Nourse visited her about this time and found her weak and sickly, scarce able to leave her bed. Upon being told that she was spoken of as a witch, she said after an amazed silence, "If it be so, the will of the Lord be done." A warrant for her arrest was soon issued and she was cited to appear before a magistrate. Great was the confusion and consternation at her trial. But to all the questions put to her the answer was the same one of innocence.

After an infamous and iniquitous trial, she was declared not guilty, but the crowd would not have it so, and she was dragged off to jail until the day of her execution should dawn. Denounced by all but a few, Rebecca Nourse laid in jail sick and worn with worry until the day of her death, when she was carried to Witch Hill and hanged. And as usual the body was flung down in the crevice at the side of the hill with a few feet of dirt thrown over it. It is said that late that night the husband and sons went to the spot and, having found the body, conveyed it to Danvers, to the family burying ground not far from the house and there it is to be found to this day marked by a monument placed there by the descendants of Rebecca Nourse.

The actual work of restoration and the collection of antiques for the Rebecca Nourse house has been described from time to time, but there are many interesting and priceless treasures to be found there each time one visits the fine old place. Not less fascinating is a view of it at present than were the surprises that fell to the lot of those who demolished the modern improvements and found almost hourly something of interest and value. The massive hand-hewn timbers, the original boards that had been covered with lath and plaster, the newly constructed partitions, the cutting up of the massive fireplaces, measuring in the original from six to nine feet, into various smaller ones, the concealing of brick walls by clap-boards and plaster and the dozens of other innovations that robbed the house of its historic glamor but which are now eliminated, setting forth the house in its original form.

Interesting and rare are the things contained in the house—the great brass kettles, the piggins and noggins, spinning wheels, churns, looms and cooking utensils of every description. Things usually regarded as ancient have been barred from this collection as lacking in antiquity, for nothing, but articles in use at least several generations ago, are permitted to join this collection.

Of exceptional interest are a chair owned by Rebecca Nourse, a genuine Governor Bradford chair, the marvelous old sun dial, the restored handspun bed cotton and the old-time clock reel, all of which are to be seen for the asking.

The society for the preservation of the Rebecca Nourse house has spent much care and money in keeping the house in its old-time splendor, and thanks to them, one of the most charming spots in historic Essex county is near at hand for all to see.

Polly's Prize

J. H. R.

COME on, Sally, jump in quick! Let's go over to the club and have a game of tennis. I bet you a pair of gloves I'll win the game."

Such was Polly's greeting as she stopped her runabout in front of Sally's home one bright August morning, and found her working in the rose garden.

"For goodness sake, Poll, why don't you frighten anyone to death? But I'll be ready in a minute. I need the gloves."

With a laugh she ran into the house and soon emerged, wearing a broad hat and carrying her racquet.

Away they flew! Polly could not be called a careful driver, I'm afraid, and she made her little car just tear along the roads.

As they neared the clubhouse, Sally said: "I'm going to win that tournament, and gain possession of that glorious cup. Just wait and see. Two years is enough for one person to have it, and I mean to take it away from you this year."

Polly laughed, and answered: "Well, the best of players always miss, you know. It will go to the one who deserves it."

They soon reached the club. How inviting it looked with its long verandas shaded by awnings! Not many people would have passed by the comfortable chairs which were almost begging to be occupied. The tiny tea tables seemed waiting to serve refreshments, but the girls went on without even a glance at them and started on their game. Each girl worked her hardest and played her best. It was hard to tell which one would win. They were keen rivals, and there was no match for them in the neighboring towns. However, in spite of their rivalry, there was a deep friendship between them, and I would venture to say that each one felt sorry when her opponent lost. Today, however, Polly won, and the gloves were hers.

As they left the courts, they passed a young man of their acquaintance just going in to play. His companion was a tall, fair, distinguished looking young man, who was unknown to both of them.

"Rather professional looking, don't you think?" This remark came from Polly, who turned to look at the stranger. "I wonder who he is."

"I don't know, but as he is apt to be here Thursday afternoon, I wouldn't be surprised if Polly Clarke came over to the club that afternoon, in her new rose gown. Everyone takes tea on the veranda then and you will surely meet him."

"Nonsense, don't be silly! I am going to play tennis all the afternoon. You haven't forgotten that Friday is the tournament, have you?"

The conversation now turned to the tournament and the young man was completely forgotten as was everything else in view of the coming tournament.

Thursday afternoon came, and Polly, true to her word, came over to the club and took possession of one of the courts. She was going to play with Jack Hooper that afternoon and she knew she would win. Still it was practice, and that was what she needed.

The game over, they walked toward the clubhouse for some lemonade. They had almost reached it when Polly slipped and fell before Jack could prevent it. He quickly picked her up and found her wrist was injured.

As they entered the clubhouse in search of some remedy, they met the young man whom Polly had seen the day of her game with Sally. He greeted Jack and was properly introduced to Polly as Dr. Merrill. He quickly offered his assistance, and rang for the first-aid box. He declared the injury to be only a slight sprain and bandaged it neatly. Just as he was doing this, Polly caught sight of Sally passing the door and smiled a little as she looked at her white linen dress and then at the Doctor busily engaged in caring for her wrist. The meeting certainly was a different one from that Sally had planned.

With this thought came that of the tournament. She would not be able to take part, and Sally would get the cup after all. Polly could not refrain from exclaiming these last thoughts. Her two companions tried to cheer her up, but it was of no use. Dr. Merrill had to hasten away, as he was to catch the six o'clock express for New York. Polly was so absorbed by her inability to play in the tournament, that she was hardly polite in her thanks for his kindness. She cared little whether he stayed or went. The main thought in her mind was the tournament.

The tournament was won by Miss Sally Amory and Polly gave up the cup, rather reluctantly, to be sure. The two girls played tennis together for the rest of the summer, but they avoided as much as possible the tournament in their conversation, for Polly still regretted losing the cup.

One day in mid-winter Sally received a letter from Polly and it ended with these sentences.

"Do you know, Poll, today is the first day I've ever been really glad that I couldn't play in the tournament, and that you won the cup. If I hadn't sprained my wrist, I might never have met Dr. Merrill. Will you be the maid of honor?"

DESPITE a threat of rain an unusually large number of North Shore society folk attended the annual exhibition of Judge William H. Moore's noted string of English hackney bred horses at Rockmarge Driving Park last Saturday afternoon. Long before the time appointed for the opening class to be shown, several hundred guests of Judge Moore, who never miss an opportunity to see his champions perform, covered the shaded hillside and the lawns surrounding the tanbark paths. A band quartered behind a knoll played during the entire afternoon. Many of the early arrivals motored down from Boston, parking their automobiles in a space especially provided, and spent the time inspecting Judge Moore's string. Unusual interest centered in the quartet of two-year-olds, sired by the stallion Marlboro, head of Judge Moore's stud at Morristown, N. J., and bred by Judge Moore himself. These four were broken to harness this summer and are the particular pride of Judge Moore. Another horse to attract considerable attention was Bouncing Cadet, paired with Allan A'Dale in the class for pair horses not exceeding 15.2 hands. As in last year's show, none attracted so much attention as Lady Seaton, judged the best in the show at the meeting at Olympia, England, a little over two years ago. Others shown, some in several classes, were Burgomaster and Vida Fayre, tandem champions in London, Eng., and at Washington, D. C.; Bountiful and Marcel, champion pair at Washington, D. C., Bountiful also being judged champion in single harness at that show. Miss Marlboro, champion at the Royal Agricultural Society at London, Eng., and Lady and Lord Seaton paired in tandem and never beaten. Berkley Queen and Bantam Princess, sired by Berkley Bantam, prize winners in England and Madison Square Garden, in hand and in harness, were ridden by Judge Moore's grandchildren, Miss Fannie Moore and Miss Gene Moore. In the class for ponies not exceeding fourteen hands, Bantam Bracelet was driven by Master E. S. Moore, Jr., and Berkley Queen by Miss G. Moore. Judge Moore appeared in several of the classes as driver, including Roderick Dhu, in the class for champions; Bountiful, in the class for horses not exceeding 15.2 hands, and in the class for park teams. Numbered among the large number of guests from outside the North Shore was Governor Walsh. Following the events at the park, tea was served at the Moore residence.

NORTH SHORE SWIMMING POOL tennis has continued during the week, with much interest. Though the ladies' singles, men's singles were completed last Saturday and the ladies' doubles Monday, the men's doubles did not start until last Saturday, and the mixed doubles started off Tuesday. Miss Frances Brainard of Pittsburg, who is spending the summer at the Oceanside seems to be the particular tennis star among the younger element at Magnolia,—both in the Pool tournaments, and in the Oceanside tournaments which started this week. Miss Brainard won the ladies' singles at the Pool, defeating Miss Helen Penhallow of Magnolia and Jamaica Plain in the finals, in a three-set match, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2. With Miss Isabelle Wadsworth of Philadelphia and Magnolia as partner, Miss Brainard was runner-up in the ladies' doubles, being defeated by Mrs. Oakes Ames and Mrs. Spencer Borden, Jr., in the finals, 7-5, 6-3. In the mixed doubles Miss Brainard is playing with Russell Steinert of Beverly Cove. H. A. Plummer was the winner of the men's singles, beating Fred M. Olmstead in a three-set match, 6-1, 6-4, 6-1. The Swimming Pool, by the way, is the center of social life at Magnolia. Everybody goes there between eleven and one for the bath, while many line the dirt courts during the forenoon and again in the afternoon, sometimes until dark, to watch the tennis matches. These outdoor sports vie with the bridge and tea parties inside or on the spacious verandas, for popularity among the older ones. Among those who have been introduced at the Pool the past week are: Miss Harriet L. Gilbert of Hartford, Conn., by Miss Margaret Stevens; Mrs. Geo. McC. Fiske of Providence, R. I., by Mrs. F. S. Chick; F. B. Tupper of New York, by J. W. Lee, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Chapman of Washington by Ernest W. Longfellow.

THE committee for the Manchester Flower Mission thinks that those who send the flowers may be glad to come into closer touch with its work by knowing some of the pleasure their flowers have given and to quote from the feeling expressed by the Charles Street Homes and the Elizabeth Peabody House, two of those to whom the flowers are sent. The former sent word of their great appreciation of the flowers, asking us not to send them every week for fear that others may be deprived of this pleasure if they have them so often. They also tell of the inmates putting their flowers in the windows of the courtyard so that everybody may enjoy them. It is needless to say that flowers are sent to them as often as the quantity of flowers sent to the mission will permit of their being sent. Mrs. White of the Elizabeth Peabody House writes: "I can not tell you how much the flowers sent us from Manchester are welcomed by the shut-ins and aged in our district. One neighbor of eighty-eight, who has not been able to see green fields for some years now, begins in April to ask us when the flowers are coming. The weekly basket adds much to the richness of our summer work."

Mrs. W. Scott Fitz of "The Narrows," Manchester, will leave Sept. 9 for a sojourn at her mountain home at Jackson, N. H. Mrs. Edward J. Holmes has gone to spend the balance of the season with her mother, Mrs. Beaman, at Windsor, while Mr. Holmes is at the Plattsburg military camp. Mrs. Fitz's garden is a most beautiful sight at the present time. A walk leads down from the house, past the little Episcopal church and across the lawn to the Italian garden. The walk leads past one of the largest and oldest oak trees on the Shore and it is one of the most beautiful and impressive-looking trees to be found in this locality. Standing under the tree a good view of the fine garden is obtained, surrounded with its hedges and attractive arbors, and bordered on either side by rows of foreign-looking trees, which are really catalpas grafted on bungei stalks. They give a very effective appearance to the place. A pretty water garden, statues and other modes are used to make a charming spot out of this little Manchester Italian garden. A rustic bridge leads to the rose garden and attractive-looking vegetable garden beyond.

A PERFECT day for a perfect fete. Everything in the way of nature and art made the Italian Festa at the Gloucester residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond one of the most beautiful affairs ever given on the North Shore. Boston and North Shore society were out in force for the opening numbers on the program yesterday afternoon, when the festival was given from 3 to 6 on the Hammond grounds. Nothing could have been prettier than the arrangement of the grounds, the decorations being in red, white and green, the colors of Italy. Flags, canopies and garlands, and the stage itself carried out the color scheme. The affair opened with an Italian peasant dance on the green given by the Misses Lillian Hendricks, Gladys B. Perry, Flores Howard, Elizabeth Schriener, Arinton Butt, Nina M. Stockton, Margaret Howard, Theodora Elwell, Elizabeth Wood, Charlotte Dennison, Lucy Hall, Dorothy Minor, and the Messrs. John Ross, Frank G. Fennessy, Jr., Lucius T. Hill, Eugene Fish, Douglass Hall McLellan, John R. Strubing, Jr., Alexander Woodward, David S. Greenough, Jr., Alfred Jenkins, Buckner Shool, John M. Dennison, Henry Bristol, under the direction of Miss Virginia Smith. This was followed by an interpretive dance, "The Gallant Spirit of Italy," by Miss Elise Dufour, accompanied by the following children, who took their parts beautifully: Helen Patch, Virginia Ryan, Adele Ryan, Stefano Macchi Di Cellere, Agnese Macchi Di Cellere, Harriet Brazier, Philip Strubing, Jane Tucker, Emily Sears, Jane Sears, Harriet Rantoul, Mabel Rantoul, Edith Babson, Rosamond Tucker, Lois Tucker, Sally Cabot, Helen Mason, Vernon Ladd, Gabriella Ladd, Ray Laylor, Carolyn Whyland, Harlod Cook, Jack Farnsworth, Natalie Hammond, Jasper Moore, Clarence Moore, Lloyd Moore, Dorothy Hill, Anne Hill, Helen Hostetter, Hetty Forrest, Lysbeth Miller, Polly Patch, Moritz Eric Pape. Then Eddie Shaw, the Merry Man, conducted the audience to the stage, where they were entertained by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Augusto Vannini; a dance by Maria Paporello; solos by Ingo Simon and Elvira Leveroni; a native Italian band; songs by Harrison Bennett, with Henry Gideon at the piano. All of this lavish program was heard by the audience sitting and standing around the little improvised theater affecting the 16th century period of architecture, which had been arranged by Mrs. Maynard Ladd and Eric Pape, two North Shore artists from Boston. At the conclusion of the classical program the audience went to another part of the grounds and were entertained with singers and dancers and bell ringers from B. F. Keith's theater in Boston. After this enjoyable treat the audience went back to the main stage and heard the Italian band and singers. The charmingly dressed cigarette venders and flower girls, including the Misses Elizabeth Blodgett, Rosamond Eliot, Eleanor Cabot, Eleanor Fabyan, Edith Fabyan, Anne Means, Frances Moore, Anna Agassiz, Eleanor Bancroft, Julia Appleton, Sybil Appleton, Elizabeth Sabin, Ruth Anthony, Mrs. Frances P. Sears, Harriet Dexter, Margaret Thayer, Julia Meyer, Corinna Searle, Anna Carnegie, Sarah Daggett, Rosamond Merrill, led by Miss Elizabeth P. Bigelow and Miss Florence Lee, joined the Italian singers and wound through the grounds, making one of the prettiest pictures of the affair. They ended their march at the flower booth, and after the orchestra had played "Star Spangled Banner," the Italian singers sang their bewitching airs until the crowd finally dispersed. The sweet-voiced singers who led the Italian band were Miss Helen Di Platzi and Mareo Bombardi, who were congratulated at the close of their program by the Italian Ambassador. The whole affair was under the patronage of the Ambassador and Countess Dolores Macchi di Cel-lere. Noted guests whose husbands have been ambassadors were Mrs. George von L. Meyer, Mrs. William F. Draper, Mrs. Larz Anderson and Mrs. T. J. O'Brien of Michigan. Mrs. Algernon Sydney Sullivan of New York, who is a house-guest at Hammond's, was among other visitors from a distance. Secretary and Mrs. Daniels were also present. Mimi Aguglia, the Sicilian tragedienne, who took her part earlier in the program than scheduled, immediately left at the conclusion of her scene from Capuana's "Malia" and went to New York, where she took part in another Italian festival last night. Mrs. Alice Fischer-Harcourt of New York and East Gloucester had charge of some of the musical and operatic program, Eric Pape of Manchester had general charge of the whole affair. It was all a great success and Mr. and Mrs. Hammond and Miss Elizabeth Hammond, who have all worked so diligently for the affair during the past month feel that it will be a great financial success as well as the greatest social event of the season. The financial committee are not yet able to know the amount taken in. The governors of the different states who were convening in Boston were guests of the Hammonds on Wednesday, the day the festival was to have been given if the weather had not interfered. Miss Elizabeth Bigelow, who is spending the summer at Fitzwilliam, N. H., has been the guest of Miss Florence Lee of Beverly Farms for a week or more while she has been assisting in the Italian Festa at the John Hays Hammond's. Miss Bigelow was prominent as the leader of the flower venders and looked charming and quaint in her peasant costume.

THE Peace Pageant on September 17 and 18 on the Montserrat Athletic field, in which 500 people from Beverly will take part, will be one of the summer's chief events. The pageant was given at Chatauqua Thursday, and is the same as was given in June at the Panama Exposition in the Court of Ages in connection with the Congress of Missions. Miss Colburn of Newton, who saw it in the west, will have charge of the drilling. Of the participants 100 will be children. The organizing committee met last Friday at the home of Mrs. Henry W. Peabody in Montserrat. A committee of about 100 members will soon have it in charge. Mayor MacDonald of Beverly is very much interested. The pageant is for the benefit of the Beverly Y. M. C. A. and its purpose is to show the beauty of peace, the sorrows of war and the possibility of peaceful and friendly relations with all nations when Christian ideals shall prevail. The costuming, the music and scenes will be beautiful features and cannot help but impress the great lesson of the pageant. In the first scenes will be shown the spirits of peace and war, the beginning of war, at the front and after the battle, all accompanied with suitable songs and music. Then will follow scenes showing the renowned historical conquests of peace among which will be William Penn and the Indians, Commodore Perry's peaceful entrance into Japan and many missionary scenes of noted conquests. The closing scenes will show volunteers for peace, the friendship of the nations, and the Christian ideal of peace. In the friendship of the nations the children who take part will be in groups representing twelve nationalities, the forty-nine states and Columbia will be older girls. This will be one of the most interesting scenes of the pageant. The songs that will be sung by the various groups are all typical of the country represented and are catchy little airs.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of "Ledgewood," Montserrat, spent a few days in New York this week meeting with the board of governors of the women's college of Madras, India. Among her house-guests are Miss Converse, a returned missionary from Japan, Mr. and Mrs. R. Stafford and son of Shanghai, China, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Stuart MacArthur of New York. Dr. MacArthur is of Tremont Temple. Mr. and Mrs. James Church Alvord have also been recent guests. Mr. Alvord is the author of "The Iron Cross," the prize peace story published this summer by the Christian Women's Peace Movement.

AROUND AND ABOUT

THE SONG OF THE MOTORIST.

OH, the mad delight of the motor's flight
As the world goes whirling by,
And the rural scene is a blur of green
On the blue of a dwindling sky;
When under our feet the beat, beat, beat,
Of a heart of steel we feel,
And the tune and time of the pulses chime
To the song of the automobile.

Oh, the reel and jar of the flying car
As it leaves the dust behind
And rocks and swerves to the dizzy curves
Where a tangle of roads unwind!
By fields and farms, and the emerald charms
Of the virgin woods we go,
And the rustics stare as we cut the air
Like a shaft from a mighty bow.

Then speed, more speed, till the towns recede
Like motes in the distance dim,
And trees and grass, and the things we pass
In a maelstrom of motion swim.
The God-like dower of a centaur's power
Is mine as I pull the lever,
So away, away, through the night and day,
We will girdle the earth forever.

x-x-x

I WENT motoring the other evening—that is if you can call riding in a “Ford,” motoring—on an invitation from my friend the paper salesman. I always knew he was a good salesman, not that he is always talking shop, but because he has a laugh that is really wholesome, and as good as the paper he sells. One is always glad to see him—and hear him laugh anyway, and as to selling you the goods, well—he takes care of that. I should like to suggest to his firm—who by the way are one of the biggest and best known paper houses in America—that they institute a school for salesmen, with my friend as teacher. Not to teach them salesmanship, they probably know that or they would not be holding down their jobs—but just to teach them how to laugh, not “at” their customer, but “with” him. For when the salesman comes along—like my friend—and you give him the glad hand at any and all times, well—he is some salesman.

x-x-x

BUT I was talking about motoring, and on this trip something happened, for I got the laugh on my friend the salesman, and—funny thing—he enjoyed it as much as I did. It happened this way. When we started it was quite light, but as it gradually grew dark my friend pushed the button which was supposed to light the headlights, but no light was forthcoming. He tried again, and again. Still no light. Finally rather than proceed with no headlights he pulled into a garage in Salem, and with the help of a mechanic (at 75c. an hour) proceeded to look the car over. They pulled up the hood and they put it down again, they screwed up the insides and they screwed up the outsides, they started the engine and they stopped the engine I don't know how many times. Tools—well they used enough tools to build a dreadnaught, and then have some left over. We waited patiently, while they worked and sweated, till—along came one of those genial gentlemen, who are always hanging around garages, but never seem to be doing anything, and stepping up to my friend said, in the usual exasperating way:

“Headlights don't work?”

“No,” snapped my friend.

“Why don't you put on the connections?” said he.

And sure enough the connections which slip on the back of the lamps had been lifted out and left hanging. So that was the very good reason the lamps would not light.

x-x-x

Of course my friend had to explain at great length that he had just taken the car out of the garage, etc., etc., but—it cost him just fifty cents for cigars just the same. Still I know he is laughing about it yet, so probably it was worth it.

x-x-x

TALKING about lamps—what is going to be the outcome of this craze for battleship headlights on motor cars. I thought the limit had been reached when some motorists installed those high-powered electric lights on their cars, and proceeded to make motoring at night—for the other fellow—about as dangerous a pastime as there is going. But I saw some of the new lights the other night, and I had plenty of time to see them, because when a car approached with a set of them, there was nothing to do but stop the car I was in and let them pass, for the dazzling glare simply blinded me for the time being.

x-x-x

Perhaps the motorists who have these new lights enjoy and need them, but it is a sure thing the other fellow doesn't, and if they ever go to the place I wished them the other night, they certainly will not need any battleship headlights—or any other lights for that matter.

x-x-x

WHAT a charming motor trip it is from Nahant to Gloucester. Over the Nahant Speedway, along Lynn Shore Drive, through Swampscott over the new Boulevard, along Humphrey street to Lafayette street, on through quaint Salem, Beverly, to Pride's Crossing, Beverly Farms, Manchester, Magnolia, the road winds on its way. Here and there it follows the coast line, then through a stretch of meadow, on whose green bosom a stream meanders, its borders fringed with tall grasses in their summer bloom. Leaving the lowland it climbs a short rise, from the crest of which the traveller gains a view of the countryside, with the broad Atlantic stretching away into the distance. Anon the road descends the hill and sunset light turns what little dust there is into gold as it falls by the wayside. And on, and on the motor softly glides over roads, well oiled, and as smooth and well kept as any in the world.

x-x-x

I HAVE heard and read a great deal about the famous motor roads of Europe, but for wonderful roads and diversified scenery I doubt very much if you can beat the motor trip from Nahant to Gloucester, along the old North Shore of Massachusetts Bay, right here at home.

MAGNOLIA

IPSWICH historical society has had 100 or more members added to its list as the result of the recent festival. Rev. and Mrs. T. Frank Waters, who were in charge of the affair, are now spending the week at Martha's Vineyard. Charles P. Searle and Prof. Arthur Dow of Ipswich were also among the speakers at the closing banquet last Tuesday.

At "Applefield," the Ipswich home of Mrs. Charles S. Tuckerman on the Waldingfield road, Mrs. Townsend Ashmore of New York is spending a few weeks. Mrs. Tuckerman's daughter, Mrs. Charles Galt Fitzgerald of Baltimore will come on early in September for her usual visit. Her other daughter, Mrs. Louise LeB. Chapin of New York has not yet arrived as the BREEZE erroneously stated a few weeks ago, but will come late in the autumn. Mrs. Tuckerman's pretty terraced garden with its wealth of old-fashioned flowers is one of the main attractions at this home-like place. The orchard for which the place is named has some fine showy trees which just now are beginning to be things of beauty with their abundant crop of apples. The house itself is interesting and somewhat historic, having been made out of two old houses which had stood a long time in the vicinity of Appleton Farms. They were joined and made over into the picturesque shingled cottage with its low ceilings, and original rough beams showing in places.

"Sunswick," on the Waldingfield road, Ipswich, is one of the attractive places on Ipswich river. A fine view of the village of Ipswich is seen from the place and the walks along the river are very picturesque. A pretty little garden of old-fashioned flowers is laid out on the hillside near the house. The vegetable garden is also attractively planned as is found in so many of the country homes along the shore. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Evans R. Dick, Jr., who are spending the summer at the farm with Mrs. Dick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, guests for a few days have been Mr. and Mrs. William G. Wendell (Ruth Appleton) and little baby who are on their way to Portsmouth, N. H., from their home in Charles River Village.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Hay (Alice Appleton) have been occupying the "Cottage" on the Appleton Farms this season. It was formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald L. Hoyt of New York who are spending the summer in Beverly Cove on Neptune street.

Miss Caroline Ranlet, daughter of Mrs. Charles Ranlet of W. Cedar st., Boston, is spending the week with Miss Betty De Blois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. De Blois, at their Ipswich summer home.

Sen. C. Augustus Norwood has had his nephew, Augustus K. Ross of Dover, N. H., with him for several weeks at his Mill road home in Ipswich. His sister, Mrs. L. K. Ross of Dover, also spent some time with him. The Norwood home is one of the attractively situated homes along the Ipswich river. Standing between two shady roads, close to a bridge spanning the river and mill pond, and just-opposite the old mill gives the place a very picturesque appearance.

Harry E. Bailey and daughter, Miss Helen Bailey of "River Bank," Ipswich, are spending a few weeks at Rye Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Berry and daughter, Miss Katherine Berry of Lynn, who have spent the summer at the Dr. William G. Thayer place, "Holiday Hill," Ipswich, are leaving this week for California and the Expositions. They will be gone a month or more. The Berrys have done much entertaining this summer and their guests have enjoyed many rides and picnics along Ipswich river. The Thayer house is one of the attractive big white houses for which Ipswich is noted and is situated amid a forest of pines. A pretty garden is laid out in the rear.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Barnard of "River Bend Farm," Ipswich, and Mr. and Mrs. William Carrington of New York and Greenwich, Conn., left last Sunday by motor for a trip to Lenox and the Adirondack regions. They will spend about ten days in the mountains. The Barnard lawns and gardens are a beautiful sight now with all of the late summer flowers in their prime. This is one of the most admired and sightly places on the County road, which has so many of the summer residences on it from Ipswich to Hamilton. This place was chosen by the Carringtons last spring as an ideal place in which to spend their honeymoon when they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Barnard for one week.

Miss C. B. Dobson and her sister, Mrs. Wilson Shannon Dunn and their guest, Miss Susanne Brown, motored to Saratoga, N. Y., last week where they are the guests of Mrs. Spencer Trask, who has one of the show places at that resort. Miss Dobson will go on to the Adirondack mountains for a visit and Mrs. Dunn will return this week to their Ipswich home, "Windmill Hill Farm," one of the typical Ipswich homesteads. Mr. Dunn arrived from New York this week and will spend some time at the farm. Mrs. Dunn was one of the assistants in the recent historical festival at the old Whipple house in Ipswich and helped especially in making the "Widow Lumpkin's Ordinary" a success.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Richardson of "Meadow View," Ipswich, gave a small dancing party last Thursday night. Nine couples enjoyed the evening. The terrace and grounds were prettily lighted with Japanese lanterns. Out of town guests were Miss Mary Devlin and Arthur Porter of Salem and Windon Allen of Annisquam. Jerome Richardson will go with the boy scouts on their annual outing next week on the Ipswich river in charge of scout master, J. M. Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Hayward of Vine Hill, Ipswich, are spending a few weeks at Dennisport.

Among the guests at Y<sup>e</sup> Burnham House, Ipswich, have been Miss Elizabeth Fuller of Chicago, Ogden Codman of Ipswich, Mrs. C. F. Farnsworth of Bass Rocks, party of nine; Dr. Lynn Rogers, four; Dr. C. W. Richardson of Washington, six; the Clement Studebakers and Geo. M. Studebakers of Rye Beach, whose guests were Col. and Mrs. Ned Arden Flood, J. H. Walker of Amesbury and Mr. and Mrs. Taylor of Portsmouth, N. H. Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman of Ipswich, have also been guests.

Miss Anne Morgan and a party from New York were recent guests in Ipswich at the summer home of Ogden Codman, the architect, of New York.

Masconomo House, Manchester, arrivals the past week include a Baltimore party composed of R. Brent Keyser, W. McHenry Keyser, and Dr. Hugh Buckhead; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kershaw, Philadelphia; Mrs. Henry G. Nichols, Boston; Mrs. Stafford Wentworth, children and nurse of Milton; Mr. and Mrs. E. Baynard Halsted, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Peter McCarthy and party of Troy, N. Y.; Mrs. M. E. Parsons and son.

OCEANSIDE HOTEL MAGNOLIA

THE Costume Ball tomorrow night will be the crowning event of the summer at the Oceanside Hotel, Magnolia. It will be the most brilliant of the continual round of social functions at Magnolia and bring the season's gaieties to a climax. That it will be the largest attended of all the dances held on the North Shore this summer is not to be doubted. From all along the shore cottagers and their guests will come, joining with the six hundred or more people at the hotel in making a grand success of this unique affair. More than 1000 people will be on the floor during the evening and more than that number will throng the piazzas surrounding the big dining room. Though it is optional whether one appears in costume or not, it is pretty certain that some unusually attractive and unique make-ups may be expected. Admission by card only; cards may be obtained at office. The ball is being conducted under the direction of Mr. Albert Latscha of New York—the dancing expert at the Oceanside.

Mrs. W. T. White and Mrs. William Douglas chaperoned a party of Oceanside young people—two automobile loads—to Revere last Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Castner, Jr., of Philadelphia, are at the Oceanside for a fortnight's stay.

Mrs. Emil R. Adde and son William T. Adde of Tuxedo Park, accompanied by Mrs. Louis Fitzgerald of Garreson, N. Y., and Guy Richards, Jr., of Lawrence, L. I., registered at the Oceanside Monday for a week's stay. They have rooms in East Cottage.

Mrs. Mary R. Overall of St. Louis is at the Oceanside for a short stay.

THOUGH August is very nearly at an end the season will not close so early as usual, for Labor Day is really the particular date people begin to leave the resorts in large numbers to return to their home towns and cities for the opening of schools. Labor Day comes this year on Sept. 6th,—a week from next Monday, which means that many people who usually leave the last of August will remain over for just another week.

September bookings at the Oceanside are greatly in excess of former years. Many people plan to remain until the hotel closes on the 18th of September, and a great many who will not remain until the closing day will at least remain well into the month to enjoy the delightful early autumn weather.

The "help's ball" at the Oceanside Annex—quite as important to the hotel guests and the small army of employees as any other big event of the summer—is announced for Labor Day night, Sept. 6th. Last year it was a Costume Party, and it was quite a brilliant affair.

Mrs. H. P. Knowles and mother, Mrs. W. J. McDonald of New York arrived at the Oceanside Monday for a week or so.

Miss Mollie Johnson of Brooklyn joined her sister Miss Maude L. Johnson Monday for a week's stay at the Oceanside.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynford M. Dickinson of Noroton, Ct., have been spending a few days at the Oceanside this week.

Miss Elizabeth Knowlton joined her parents, Judge and Mrs. M. P. Knowlton of Springfield at the Oceanside Monday for a few days' stay.

Mrs. Lewis M. Grib and two sons Robert P. and J. F. Grib, and Mrs. Grib's mother, Mrs. Robert A. Pinkerton, from Brooklyn, N. Y., are at the Oceanside. They plan to remain a week and have rooms in Lawton cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Kent of Philadelphia have joined Mrs. Kent's mother, Mrs. Samuel Lucas for a few days at the Oceanside. They came by motor.

Colonial Maid Door Stop. This demure little lady in a bright light costume of yellow tints is a weightier person than you would suppose. In any case, her fee for lifetime service is $10.00, two for $17.50.

Bluebird Table Decoration. Bohemian Crystal, with birds of natural blue, suggestive of Peace and Happiness. Linked together by chains of glass, these vases, filled with almost any small flowers, give sparkle to linen and cutlery. Center vase 7 1-2 inches tall, others 4 1-2 inches tall. Price, complete, $3.00.

THE Oceanside Annex, Magnolia, presented a busy scene Tuesday morning when the fifty or more ladies of the hotel were busily engaged at their relief work for the French Wounded Emergency Fund. It is a pity that such work has to be done, but it is interesting to watch the care and dispatch with which the work is done. The work is systematized and each group at a table is doing practically one special thing. All bandages are six yards in length and four inches wide, and when a piece is measured the whole is torn in an unique manner by two of the workers. The strips are then raveled, pressed and folded by running through little bandage rollers. The compresses eponges, of which 500 were made this week, have ten pieces of gauze neatly folded and all placed and rolled in a strong piece of cloth and pinned securely. A full report of the summer's work and of the auto ambulance fund will be given later.

Mrs. Alice Wheelock Chambers, a guest in former years of the Oceanside Hotel, Magnolia, is again enjoying its abundant hospitality until September 1st.

W. Sharpe Kilmer and party, who were in Gloucester Harbor over the week-end in the steam yacht "Remlik," came over to the Oceanside for lunch Sunday, a guest of J. G. Day of Springfield, who is a season guest at the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Gurnee and Miss Skinner of Toronto were among last Saturday's arrivals at Magnolia to spend a couple of weeks enjoying the beauties of the North Shore with the Oceanside as headquarters. They have rooms in Somers cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Guild of Newton joined Mr. Guild's mother last Saturday for a week's stay at the Oceanside.

Miss Maude Johnson of Brooklyn, N. Y., has been spending a week at the Oceanside.

Mrs. E. W. Pargny and Mrs. A. B. Grange of Pittsburg, friends of Mrs. Callery, are at the Oceanside for a three weeks' stay.

Prominent among the New Yorkers at the Oceanside the last week have been Mr. and Mrs. James Stokes and Miss Moore, who stopped her over the week-end before touring back to Ridgefield, Conn., where the Stokes have a summer home. By coincidence, Mr. Stokes' sister, Miss Stokes, accompanied by her secretary, Miss Burges of Montague, stopped at the Oceanside over the week-end, while on a motor trip to the New England resorts.

Mrs. Charles Rand and daughter, Mrs. Stuart C. Adams of New York, also Mrs. von Juck Wellman, motored to Magnolia last Friday for a short stay at the Oceanside, joining Mrs. Rand's two daughters, Misses Helen and Florence Rand, who have been at the hotel some weeks, under the chaperonage of Mrs. Richard. The two girls are very charming and are among the most popular of the younger set.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wiard and friends, from Syracuse, N. Y., were of the motor parties at the Oceanside over the last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. George Coit, Jr., of Buffalo, joined Mrs. Coit's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis O. Chapin, at the Oceanside last Friday for a two weeks' stay.

Stephen N. Hoyer of New Haven, Ct., has been at the Oceanside for a short stay.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Leonard of Chicago, who usually come to the Oceanside for a short stay every summer, were among the motor parties here for the last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Kellough of New York have been spending the week at the Oceanside.

Women's Educational and Industrial Union are now offering in their Magnolia shop a line of new dolls, a "fitting" doll dressed exactly like the children's clothes that are on sale, some quaint little aprons with surprises in the pockets, a new Mother Goose book just published, beach bags, hilltop pictures of the seasons, and among the many Christmas cards and other things is a quaint calendar, representing an old-time sampler, with the motto:

TENNIS has been the big out-door attraction at Magnolia this week. Aside from the big tournament on at the Oceanside the closing events in the Swimming Pool tournaments have been in progress. The young people are taking hold of the Oceanside tournament in great style,—though much of the vim of the tournaments of ten or fifteen years ago at the Oceanside is not in evidence. It is expected some of the finals will be reached this week, and the rest by the middle of next week. Charles DeLong and Clay Irons are in charge of the tournament.

From Evanston, Ill., have come Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wallingford for a two weeks' stay at the Oceanside.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kuhn and daughter Miss Jane Kuhn of Cincinnati registered at the Oceanside Tuesday on their way home from Poland Springs. They will remain at Magnolia the balance of the season.

Mrs. Anna E. Walsh and daughters, the Misses Florence and Helen Walsh of Cleveland, O., came to Magnolia Tuesday to spend the balance of August and part of September at the Oceanside.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Farnam of New Haven, Conn., are spending a few days at Magnolia, with headquarters at Sea Vista, one of the Oceanside connections.

"A woman can't be in two places at the same time," snapped Mrs. Gabb.

"She can't, eh?" growled Mr. Gabb. "I notice that she can be in the house and out of it at the same time when certain people that she doesn't like ring the doorbell and try to call on her."

New Ocean House, Swampscott

NEW OCEAN HOUSE, Swampscott. The continued warm weather has made the New Ocean House an attractive retreat for scores of guests from the hot and sultry city during the past week and registrations at this delightful hotel along the North Shore surpass by far previous high records for this time of the season made in past years. The month of September is certain to be the most pleasant of the season and it is expected that the major part of the present contingent as well as a large number of expected arrivals next week will remain until the house closes September 20th.

Preparations are complete for the fancy dress ball to be held in the main ball room of the New Ocean House this Saturday evening. The management has made elaborate plans for the evening and the party is expected to rival by far the other fancy dress affairs held in previous seasons at the hotel. Invitations have been addressed to the members of the cottage colony along the North Shore and the management is making special preparations to accommodate a large number of guests at dinner on that evening.

Plans are being made for the construction of a new fireproof addition to the hotel to be ready next season. The plans for the new structure have been drawn up and if accepted the work of constructing the new building will start soon after the house closes. The addition that has met with the most favor among the guests of the hotel is a massive tower structure, ten stories high, a piece of architecture unique in this section of the country. It is to be placed on the east approach of the hotel and will be visible for miles around the surrounding territory.

Another large gathering was present at the hop last Saturday evening, many guests of the hotel entertaining at the dinner before the dance their friends from among the members of the North Shore colony.

Mrs. Clifford D. Sawyer of Dartmouth street, Boston, season guest at the New Ocean House, entertained at a bridge party given in the Tea Room of the New Ocean House last Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. F. Meisel of Boston entertained a party of five at luncheon at the New Ocean House yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Avery Cary of West Medford were the dinner guests of Mrs. Horace C. Jealous at the New Ocean House last evening.

At luncheon yesterday at the New Ocean House, F. H. Russel of Marblehead entertained a party of five and Charles A. Stowell of Lowell was the host for a party of four.

Mrs. S. L. Severance, Miss Mary H. Severance and Allen Severance, all of Cleveland, were guests at the New Ocean House during the past week on a tour from the middle West.

Included in one of the many dinner parties of the week at the New Ocean House were Miss M. Bragg of Boston, Miss E. Tuttle of Cambridge, Miss C. Huffman of Dayton, O., and Miss Cary of Wichita, Kansas.

Miss Dorothy Taylor of Pelham, N. Y., well-known to guests of the New Ocean House last season, is among the week's arrivals at the hotel. She will be in Swampscott for a week visiting Mrs. E. B. Sampson, season guest at the New Ocean House.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hall, Miss Mildred Hall of Lowell and Mr. and Mrs. Egerton Chichester of Brookline were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Travus D. Carman of New York at the New Ocean House during the past week.

Included in a dinner party at the New Ocean House Sunday evening were Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Dexter of Marblehead, Fred A. Hatch of Plymouth and Alfred McLeod of New York city.

Among the luncheon parties at the New Ocean House Sunday was one composed of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Scholdorf and Miss Lucy Penn of Niagara Falls, Mrs. E. Patterson of Detroit and Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Buck of New York city.

K. A. Murray of Boston was the guest of F. G. Carleton at the hop last Saturday evening at the New Ocean House. Mr. Carleton had as guests on Sunday Dr. and Mrs. M. Seymour of Boston.

One of the many luncheon parties Sunday at the New Ocean House included Mrs. B. L. Milliken, and the Misses Helen E., Marion E. and Louise Milliken, all of Cleveland, Ohio.

James D. Taylor of New York city was the week-end guest at the New Ocean House of Travus D. Carman.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Piersol of Boston entertained at dinner at the New Ocean House during the past week Mr. and Mrs. John F. Brown, E. C. Hammond and Mrs. P. Hammond, all of Philadelphia.

SWAMPSCOTT has experienced a moderately quiet week, although the hotels have added their full quota to the regular summer cottage contingent. It appears as though Swampscott will be on the summer social map for nearly a month longer, provided good weather can be had.

The Tedesco Country club had 235 diners on band concert night Wednesday, when the Salem Cadet band played there. There were in all about 500 about the house. Saturday's Thé Dansant may be the last of the season.

The Lincoln house is having a lively house nearly full of guests throughout the month. The dances three times a week on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday help to make things socially pleasant there, besides the many other countless little informal parties which bob up now and then. Guests for varying stays include: Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Perkins, Hartford, Conn.; Miss Helen M. Whitmore, Brunswick, Me.; Mrs. A. G. Ropes and party of three, New York; Rev. Ambrose W. NAHANT welcomes Edward Lankow, member of the late Boston Opera company, within its borders this season. During the winter he was out west further developing his wonderful voice. Now he comes to be the idol of the Nahant colony, for that is just about what he is; he is the inspiration for more than one social gathering these days.

Mrs. John Lawrence was hostess to a tea recently at which several southern college students were the entertainers. Following that Miss Stow, a niece of Henry Ward Beecher, gave an interesting talk.

Mrs. Charles P. Curtis of Nahant was visitor at the Newport casino recently. While there she entertained a dinner party of her intimate friends on the lower shore.

The Maine woods are to claim Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Lincoln of Nahant for the next three weeks.

Baltimore, Md., contributed the preacher at the Nahant church last Sunday, Rev. Alfred Hussey, pastor of the First Unitarian church in that city occupying the pulpit.

MARBLEHEAD cottagers and Mrs. Fred McQuesten in particular have reason to be elated as to the financial results of the recent recital of Lohengrin at "Questenmere" for the benefit of the war relief fund. It is announced that the recital netted $150 for the fund.

A good indication of the amount of travel by summer visitors to the Marblehead shore is shown in the fact that the receipts are greater than last summer at this time. While a portion of this increase is due to the rise of fares in the spring it seems to indicate that people have been steadily coming.

The first of a series of model yacht races was held at Red's pond, Marblehead, last Saturday afternoon. There are to be four of these races, followed by a championship sailing. Many of the boys in the summer colony who are not matured enough in years to act as skipper of a larger boat take their models and enter them in these races. They get quite as much sport out of the events and learn the rudiments of the yacht racing sport.

Miss Ella Ballard, Mrs. Raymond O. Brackett and Miss Helen Smith of Harbor View are to serve at a tea at the Lee mansion tomorrow, Saturday, from 4 to 6 o'clock. There will be general dancing and exhibition steps by professional dancers as features.

The August tennis tournament at the Oceanside hotel on the Neck has been started.

Hendricks A. Hallett of Boston, who has summered on the Marblehead shore for many seasons, held an exhibition of his paintings at the Oceanside the early part of this week. He obtains many excellent motifs for his paintings on the rock-bound North Shore.

Rev. Loren E. McDonald preached at the Neck hall last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Arthur Shuman motored to Newport last week, where they registered at The Hill Top Inn, returning Saturday to their summer home, Marblehead Neck, where they plan to stay until the latter part of September.

One of the features of the Boston Chamber of Commerce dinner to the governors at the Eastern Yacht Club Wednesday night was the participation of Governor Johnson of California in the conference of governors by long distance telephone. It was impossible for Governor Johnson to come to Boston because of the many conventions in California that required his presence there. He did, however, address the other governors over the wire. Arrangements were made whereby two hundred telephone receivers were in place at the Eastern Yacht Club that night, so that every guest at the dinner could listen to the conversation. President Bliss of the Chamber of Commerce, between 9.15 and 9.30 o'clock, called up Governor Johnson in San Francisco. After exchange of greetings Governor Johnson spoke briefly to the assemblage. Governor Walsh replied in behalf of Massachusetts and the governors' conference.

The season at the Oceanside, Marblehead Neck, is humming along at such a rate that Manager Lane is to keep open this year until Oct. 4. Several of his guests have decided to return there for an autumn stay. With such a scarcity of really warm weather this summer it would seem that some warm days might be in prospect later than usual this season. The Oceanside is enjoying a full house at present. Numbered among its long term guests are the following: Mr. and Mrs. William F. Ransom, Huntington, Ky.; the Misses Frances and Elizabeth H. Anderson, New Canaan, Conn.; William Ilgard, San Francisco; John L. and Mrs. Gill of Brockville, Ontario,

Can.; Dr. Broome, Toronto; a party composed of Miss Alice H. Holden, Portville, N. Y.; and Miss Harriet Livingston and Miss H. M. Holden of New York city; Mrs. Thomas Bethany of New York; Mrs. A. C. Atwood, Baltimore; the Misses C. N. and J. Van Brunt, Brookline, N. Y.; C. E. Fairbanks and family, Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Miles, daughter Isabel and Thomas H. Miles, Princeton, '18, Philadelphia; George S. Ewing and his mother, Mrs. D. F. Ewing, Philadelphia; J. J. H. Wright, Syracuse, N. Y.

The New Glover Inn on the mainland at Marblehead is to remain open until the middle of October this year. It is doing a flourishing August business and is well booked through September.

The Corinthian Y. C. on the Neck entertained about 50 aides of the governors visiting Boston at the club Wednesday night. They were the overflow from the big dinner and reception at the Eastern. The latter club was unable to accommodate all and the aides had a pleasant time at the Corinthian instead. At Monday's band concert there was the usual large attendance and 165 diners made merry before the concert.

An assembly of 200 composed of the governors visiting Boston and members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce who were their hosts had dinner at the Eastern Y. C. Wednesday after their day spent at Gloucester at the estate of Mrs. John Hays Hammond. There were many ladies present. Besides the 200 diners there were many who arrived afterward for the band concert. The clubhouse was crowded last evening also, the weekly concert by the Eighth Regt. band being the attraction.

CLIFTON summer residents are still discussing the method adopted by Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bryer of Wellington road, Brookline, to announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ottilie Bryer, to Dana Foss Drew of Boston. More than 50 couples were invited to a dancing party at Rockaway Inn, and as each guest arrived a rose was given, to which was attached a sealed envelope. At a given signal during the dance the envelopes were opened and the news was revealed. Mr. and Mrs. Drew were quietly married at Bellows Falls, Vt., July 19. They will remain at Clifton for the rest of the season and then locate in Vermont in the fall.

Clifton's casino is undergoing repairs as a result of the recent entertainment held for the purpose of raising funds for its improvement. Although the repairs are minor ones they are numerous and will make an appreciable difference in the exterior and interior appearance of the place. It is announced that $65 was raised by the entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Curtis of Brookline are at the Whowell bungalow, Clifton.

Miss M. Anna Maxfield is spending her 10th season at the Clifton. With her is Mrs. H. P. Terry. Both from Holyoke.

Mrs. G. A. Richards and Mrs. Jack Gordon were hostess at a large bridge party at the Clifton Heights casino a few days ago.

A district leader went to Sea Girt before the recent election to see the democratic candidate for President. In the course of an animated conversation, says Everybody's Magazine, the visitor, noticing that Governor Wilson's eyeglasses were perched perilously near the tip of his nose, remarked:

"Your glasses, Governor, are almost on your mouth."

"That's all right," was the quick response. "I want to see what I am talking about."

CAPE ANN. At the present time it is hard to find a summer hotel that is not filled with guests. Everything is taken and with the fine summer weather these remaining days of the season are being keenly enjoyed. These are the days for tramps over the hills. Everywhere the bright yellow golden rod touches the green and against the blue sky, the picture is one to fill the soul with delight. Clambakes and marshmallow roasts on the rocks are beginning to enter the itinerary of pleasure, although in September and October these diversions are especially well appreciated. Bathing is highly popular this season and the undertow this week has been rather strong along the coast. At Good Harbor Beach, near Bass Rocks the undertow was regarded the worst of the season on Sunday last and two young men, S. F. Tetreau and Oswald G. Latham, who were bathing at the smaller beach came near drowning, having been carried under by the strong tide and were rescued in time by two fellow-bathers.

The sixth annual exhibition of the Horticultural branch of the Cape Ann Scientific and Literary Association attracted summer residents and townspeople at the Y. M. C. A. building on Middle street, Thursday afternoon and evening. As usual there was a fine showing of attractive flowers, fruit and vegetables.

The booth of the Gloucester Equal Suffrage League, attracted a great deal of attention at Stage Fort Park on Gloucester Day. There were six columns of laurel and evergreen, crowned with golden glow at the entrance of the tent and the interior was draped with brown fish net, offset with yellow balloons and banners, while above the inscription "Votes for Women," floated a large American flag. Twenty young ladies, gowned in yellow and white, represented the states and countries where women now have the vote. These guides escorted Mrs. Ralph Mc-

Daniel to the grandstand, where she gave a very interesting suffrage address. Punch and sandwiches and cake were served at the tent and the local members were assisted greatly by summer residents along the North Shore interested in suffrage.

Mrs. F. G. Baldwin of Baltimore entertained at tea, at the "Salad Bowl" tea house on old Middle street, Gloucester, Monday afternoon, Mrs. J. Avery Draper and Mrs. Dudley Riggs of Baltimore and Mrs. John Knox Shaw of Wilmington, Del.

ANNISQUAM. The season is at its height at Annisquam. Yachting and tennis are the leading pastimes. The regular weekly races of the yacht club are being held and the tennis courts are almost continuously in use. Several things of social interest are scheduled for this week. On Saturday, the summer home of Mrs. Hollis French will be thrown open for a benefit musical, the proceeds to swell the emergency fund for the French wounded.

The second pop concert of the season will be held at the Annisquam Yacht clubhouse this Saturday evening.

On Tuesday afternoon, a pretty little out-door play was presented on the grounds of Mrs. Clinton P. Townsend on Adams road. The play entitled "A Citizen of Columbia," was written for children by Miss Olga Linguard of Annisquam. The children impersonated the various attributes of love of country, patriotism, strength, courage, loyalty, etc., all speaking in rhyme. Miss Dorothy Satler of Cincinnati, who is a guest of Miss Linguard, directed the play and Mrs. Townsend and Mrs. Harriet Hyatt Mayer assisted in the costuming and accessories. Mrs. Hollis French, the only adult in the play, assumed the role of "Miss Columbia." The children taking part were: Katherine Brantz, Bettie Bradley, Hollis and Alden French, Esther Williams, Alexander McNutt, Barbara Mayer, Ruth French, Blake Townsend and June Gale.

The third concert of the Cape Ann Orchestral club was given in Village hall, Annisquam on Monday evening, before a large audience. Director Williams and his young musicians were heartily applauded after each selection. The Mozart String Quartet was a feature of the program and the Rigoletto, Quartet, Opus 5, No. 4, Pogojeff was most pleasingly rendered.

On Monday evening, August 30, a community meeting will be held in Village hall, when citizens and summer residents are cordially invited to attend. A report will be given and prizes for children's gardens awarded.

A bridge whist party Wednesday evening of last week was held at the Annisquam Yacht clubhouse and eighty members played. Mrs. D. P. Thomas and Mrs. W. A. Rice were the committee in charge.

William Gillette, the actor, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Warner of Annisquam, Mrs. Warner being a sister of Mr. Gillette. The yacht of the actor, which has been at anchor, in Gloucester harbor, is a palatial craft, being 150 feet long.

Postmaster-General Burleson has been a recent guest at Beach cottage, Cambridge avenue, Annisquam.

ROCKPORT. Everything in this section of Cape Ann is now filled with summer people and for the next two weeks, tourists will take advantage of the opportunities for pleasure that old Rockport affords. There is much boating and fishing now-a-days. Last Saturday a party of guests at Straitsmouth Inn numbering fifteen, fourteen of them being ladies, were on their way to the Isles of Shoals, on an excursion when their boat "Vanguard," the 36-foot power launch owned by Captain Hodgkins of Annisquam, ran on the ledge in front of the Coast Guard station. The ledge is out of water at half tide, but at about 9 o'clock, when the party started, the ledge was submerged. The passengers were taken off in dories by Capt. Aubin and crew of the Straitsmouth Coast Guard. The launch rested easily on the ledge, high and dry when the tide had left and on the following high tide she floated without damage. There were many disappointments because the excursion was necessarily postponed.

Miss Marietta Sundlaws of Washington is a guest at the Merrill Seaways cottage for the next two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cheney of New York are at Land's End for the remainder of the month and the first week of September.

A suffrage meeting will be held at the Turk's Head Inn, Land's End, Rockport, on Wednesday evening, September 1. Mrs. Virginia W. Speel of Washington and others will speak and the addresses will be followed by discussion. The committee consists of Miss Mary Ware Allen and Mrs. Max Kellner of Cambridge, and Mrs. Clara Gruening Stillman of New York.

BASS ROCKS. There is another array of handsome cups at the Bass Rocks Golf Clubhouse, offered by the club for the tournament now on, ending this Saturday. On Monday afternoon, at the clubhouse, Mrs. Bosler of the Moorland entertained seventeen people at tea and it was a very pleasant affair.

An important real estate transaction at Bass Rocks this week was the purchase of the R. T. Farnsworth estate, situated on Harbor Road, leading to the beach from the Thorwald, by T. C. Powell of Cincinnati, O. Mr. Powell is the vice president of the Cincinnati, New Orleans, Texas & Pacific Railroad Corporation. Mr. and Mrs. Powell are now guests at the Thorwald. The Farnsworths will remain at their Bass Rocks cottage till autumn.

The leading social event of the week at Bass Rocks was the annual ball at Hotel Thorwald on Tuesday evening. It was a very brilliant and attractive occasion, four hundred people attending, guests being present from all along the North Shore. The spacious dining and reception rooms were beautifully decorated by Everett Jackman, green vines, flowers of the season and many Japanese lanterns being used with splendid effect. The rooms were a bower of beauty. Sewall's augmented orchestra of the Thorwald rendered fine music. The lawn and verandas on the southeasterly side of the hotel were brilliantly lighted with electric lights and ice cream was served on the lawn by a number of young ladies prettily gowned, making a charming picture in the moonlight. General dancing was enjoyed and the hospitality of the hotel management was keenly enjoyed.

On Thursday evening of last week, the Misses Tomlinson of Kansas City, guests at the Thorwald, arranged a Dago party. Over sixty young people of the hotel and Bass Rocks cottages came in the reception room for a good time. There was a great deal of amusement. The dancers were in Italian costume, a hurdy-gurdy furnished music and during the evening Newland Merideth of Detroit appeared, costumed as an organ grinder and he had his music and a monkey. Charles Edwards gave clever readings in Italian dialect. The refreshments consisted of lemonade, marshmallows, "lolly pops" and Italian cakes. The party was novel, enjoyed by the dancers and large numbers of spectators.

On Monday evening at the Thorwald a book party was an event of much pleasure, the prime movers being Mrs. Ralph Booth and Charles Edwards. There were forty contestants and seven of these not guessed won prizes. Two clever titles were those worn by Frederick Banks and Miss Peggy Cox. Mr. Banks wore a sheet of paper with a black cat on it—this represented "Woman's Home Companion." Miss Cox wore a paper with the name "Theodore Roosevelt," and the years 1904, 1908 and 1916, the latter year crossed out. This title was "It Can Never Happen Again."

Miss Elizabeth Humble of Fort Worth, Tex., has Ruth Carter Grant of Lunenburg as her guest.

A political club has been formed at the Thorwald among the gentlemen, whereby each member has an official title, and at good times and club meetings these officials are addressed with the sanction of Judge George Worden and Prosecuting Attorney Newland Merideth.

The next band concert by the Eighth Regiment Band at the Moorland Hotel will be given this Friday evening, a dance to follow the program.

Recent Moorland arrivals include: Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Miller of Pittsburg, Mrs. W. W. Martin, maid and child, Richmond, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Stoepel, maid and chauffeur, Detroit, Mich.; Miss Foulke, Philadelphia; Mrs. J. R. Rae, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Knight, F. B. Knight, Jr., Chicago; Miss M. W. Kennedy, Warrington, Va.; Miss Marie Stead, Miss Eleanor Stead, Miss R. H. Smith, New Orleans; R. B. Sherwood, Cambridge; Miss M. E. Dandridge, Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Zaeder, Worcester.

EAST GLOUCESTER. This section of the North Shore is filled to overflowing and present indications point to a very successful September, for tourists have engaged hotel apartments well into the coming month, in many cases with the understanding that the rooms may be kept longer. Things are also lively socially in various forms of entertainment.

Last Saturday evening at the Hawthorne Inn Casino the annual "bal masque" of the Hawthorne Inn, the leading social event of the summer season here, was a grand success. The spacious hall was occupied to its very limit with dancers and spectators, who came not only from the Inn but the surrounding cottages in the colony, and from all along the North Shore. Promptly at 8.30 o'clock, William K. Harcourt, the actor, of New York City, a guest of the Inn, announced the arrival of the Queen, and there was a hush and a wave of expectancy over the large audience. Miss Gladys B. Perry of Haverhill made a charming queen in her stately robe of rich red, trimmed with white and ermine. Miss Perry was chosen as queen for the festival by popular vote of the hotel guests, for some weeks past. Michael Jacobs, of Washington, D. C., an artist of prominence, who is now painting state department people at the Capital, was the King of the festival. Young Jack Farnsworth, nephew of the late General Farnsworth of Albany, N. Y., was the Page. The throne was quite an elaborate affair, with its royal canopy, brilliantly lighted with many electric lights, the pillars of gilt adding a rich tone to the draperies and general setting. The grand march was a brilliant pageant, led by Miss Lillian Hendrick and Jack Ross of New York. The casino was beautifully decorated with green bay and yellow golden glow, and the gorgeous costumes of the dancers made a veritable kaleidoscope of color. There were Japanese and Chinese maidens, Roman senators, sailors, soldiers, Turkish ladies, Scotch dancers and a hundred or more other character costumes, grotesque, attractive and interesting. The prizes were awarded by ex-Governor John L. Dix of New York to the following: Most original costumes, Miss Arrinton Butt, of England, and her partner, Edward Fennessy of Brookline. Handsomest woman's costume, Mrs. Cooper, wife of Captain Cooper of the U. S. S. Louisiana. Handsomest man's costume, Mr. Edwards of Kansas City. Most grotesque man's costume, Mr. Papazain. Most grotesque woman's costume, Mrs. Louise Butler of New York. Best child's costume, Master Jack Farnsworth. In the decision of the handsomest woman's costume, it was difficult for the committee to report on the costumes of Mrs. Cooper, who wore a handsome costume of a Chinese Mandarin's daughter, and the exquisite Persian harem costume worn by Miss Marjorie Dyrenford, of Chicago. Miss Dyrenford has recently returned from abroad. The costume she wore, perfect in Persian harem representation in every detail, captured the prize twice in Europe, once in Berlin and once in Paris, at carnivals held in these cities. The costume was made especially for a grand opera singer and is very valuable. The judges at the "bal masqué" were: Ex-Governor and Mrs. John L. Dix of New York, Captain Francis Gibson of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Flash of Staten Island and Dr. and Mrs. William Bryan, also of Staten Island, N. Y. The cakewalk was a great feature. This was led by Scott O'Connor and Barrett Ridgley, with twelve people following: Miss Mabel Vickery of Baltimore and William Wallock of Chicago, Miss Olive Hughes of New York and Mr. Notman of Brooklyn, Mrs. Hill of Washington and Stephen Vickery of Baltimore, Mrs. Wayland of Summerville, S. C., and Dr. Locke of New York City. Miss Arrinton Butt and Jack Ross danced the gavotte effectively. There was general dancing during the evening. Much credit is due Mrs. Alice (Fischer) Harcourt, the actress, wife of W. K. Harcourt, the actor, of New York City. Mrs. Harcourt was a leading spirit in the arrangements and the success of this carnival, and the voice of appreciation was expressed, while hands waved enthusiastically for Mrs. Harcourt at one time during the picturesque bal masqué.

Mrs. Clara L. Harrington of Boston, for her eighteenth season, is at her studio building, located at the beginning of Eastern Point Road, near Rocky Neck avenue, East Gloucester. Mrs. Harrington is the pioneer in the gift shop world in this section of the North Shore. Nearly twenty years ago she began purchasing several buildings along East Main street and converted them into a number of studios, which have been appreciated by artists, as studios are difficult to obtain. These buildings are all painted the conventional studio red. At the present time Mrs. Harrington's own display rooms are the center of interest for summer people. Mrs. Harrington has for a great many years been interested in securing antiques. In her splendid exhibition now open to the public may be noted an extraordinary three chair settle of Chippendale, a very old Beau Brummel dresser, and among many other things a fine card table of Chinese Chippendale. An old Georgian silver teapot and a Bristol tea set marked 1798 and an old French empire gilt clock from New Orleans are of special interest. Among the handsome jewelry antiques are a Hungarian barette, a French pendant of platinum and pink enamel, set with small pearls, emeralds and amethysts, and a pair of old paste shoe buckles. The exhibits of India, Chinese and Japanese embroideries are exquisite and very interesting.

Rev. Dr. Van Etten of New York City has taken the charming "Gray Gables" cottage at Grape Vine Cove, owned by the Williamsons of Lansing, Mich. Dr. Van Etten is entertaining a house party of young people from his parish.

THE Thorndike club of Beverly, founded by Mrs. Charles T. Parker of "Cotshabbie," Wenham, is one of the growing institutions of Beverly. With quarters over the Almy, Bigelow & Washburn store, it has grown since January from a membership of half a dozen to the three hundred now enrolled. Mrs. Parker is a member of the Women's Civic Federation of Boston and is an all-year-round resident of Wenham, and from her close associations with the town of Beverly saw that there was need of such an organization there. The three hundred members who pay ten cents a month in dues represent twenty-seven lines of employment. The club now has three pleasant rooms, in which the girls meet for a social evening each Wednesday. A small kitchen equipment is in one of the rooms so that refreshments may be served. Once a month an entertainment of some kind is given to raise funds. The rooms are open each evening and on Sundays also during the winter season. An embroidery exchange is a special feature of the place. The matron, Miss Bessie M. Hurlburt, is also the teacher of embroidery and the girls have a fine line on exhibition. Order work is also taken. Other classes give instruction in dressmaking, millinery, dancing, gymnasium work and literary work. A course of health talks will be given this winter. In the spring a large party was given to the girls by Mrs. Parker. The affair was held in the Town hall and about 500 attended. This summer a lawn party was given by the girls. Mrs. Parker always aims to be present at the social affairs of the club. A camp has been managed this summer at Woodbury's Crossing in Hamilton which was well patronized by the girls. The cosy reading room of the club is an ideal place for the lonely boarding-house girl to drop in for a pleasant hour, or for the girl who has worked all day in the kitchen, the store or factory. It is the ambition of the club to have a house in Beverly where ample provision can be made for the many lines of work such a club can take up. The present quarters are entirely too small for the scope of the work. The officers include, beside Mrs. Parker, the secretary, Miss Kathleen McKiernan; vice-presidents, Miss Myrtie Carr, Miss Anna O'Toole, Miss Jennie Kane.

NORTH SHORE BRANCH of the French wounded Fund.—No definite time was planned for this work, but the response to the demands for funds have so far exceeded the expectations of the committee that it is found to be possible to continue the work through the fall. No more perfect place could have been found for workrooms than Mrs. Denégre's coach house, which she so generously gave for the meetings. The thanks and deep appreciation of the committee and all who have been to the meetings are due Mr. and Mrs. Denégre for making the meetings a delightful memory, and everything possible has been done for the comfort of the workers. Mrs. Edward S. Grew has kindly offered her coach house for the work this fall and the committee has gratefully accepted this offer, feeling it was best to divide the care and trouble between these two most generous offers. No words can express the feeling of gratitude which we all have for the help which has been given us through these offers of workrooms. The first meeting was at Mrs. Edward S. MANCHESTER WINS

SECOND GAME OF BEVERLY SERIES—WILL PLAY RUBBER GAME
TOMORROW.

In one of the best and most sensational ball games ever played in this section Manchester won over the Beverly team last Saturday afternoon on the high school field at Montserrat, with a score of 3-2. It was the second game in the Beverly-Manchester series. The first game, the week previous, Beverly won. The rubber game will be played at Beverly tomorrow afternoon.

It was a wonderful game of ball throughout, running to ten innings. Manchester was in brilliant form, and so was Beverly, but Manchester's superior stick work and wonderful fielding won the game for her. Right off the reel, in the opening inning Manchester took the kink out of Beverly by stopping all attempts at bunting. Like a flash Collins was in on Peterson's bunt and snapped it back to O'Connell at first. This and Gray's catch in the eighth, when the ball sailed far out over his position, were the particular star plays of the day for Manchester.

One of the most pleasing things about the game as far as Manchester fans were concerned was the decision of the management to play the same team, unchanged in lineup, as has played all this summer. With the exception of Marty Donovan at short the lineup was identically the same. Collins played a wonderful game. Bond, O'Connell, McCarthy, O'Leary,—in fact every man on the team played grand ball.

The game started with the Manchester team first at bat. With three and two on Donovan he was retired on a called strike. Collins was thrown out by Burdette. Bond received a pass and stole second. O'Leary was hit by a pitched ball. On the next ball Bond had a big lead off second. Woodman started to wind up and when Hopkins hollered the pitcher turned and threw to third. Deering called Bond out, but the decision was so rank, and the balk was so plain, Umpire Long had to reverse the decision and called Bond safe at third. O'Leary had advanced to second on the same balk. McCarthy then came across with a safe bunt that scored Bond with the first run of the game. The large gathering of Manchester fans went wild with enthusiasm. Gray struck out, thus retiring the side.

In the second inning O'Connell was out on a fly to short left field, which Hopkins fielded safely. Perkins, the old reliable catcher, met one square in the nose that went over Woodman's head in left field. A good runner would have made a home-run, the way the ball was played, as Woodman was slow in recovering it, but the old war-horse had to be satisfied with a three-bagger, the only one of the day, on either side. Grover struck out. Marty Donovan then cracked the ball through Hopkins, allowing Perkins to score. The Beverly scorer counted it as an error for Hopkins while the official scorer for the Manchester team credited Donovan with a hit.

With a two-run lead, the Manchester rooters got busy and kept up a continual din. In Beverly's half of the second inning Hopkins fanned. P. Woodman's tap was gathered by Collins. L. Burdette then received a base on balls. D. Woodman secured a hit to short, the ball taking a slow roll and Donovan took a chance to get Woodman. He was off his balance when he threw the ball and as a result Woodman beat the throw and Burdette went to third. Collins fumbled the ball and while he was looking for it Burdette took a big chance and made for home. Collin's delay allowed the former Yale catcher to score with Beverly's first run.

Beverly tied the game up in the fifth inning. L. Burdette received his second base on balls, D. Woodman sacrificed, O'Connell to Collins and Peterson singled, scoring Burdette. Waterhouse was out on a fielder's choice and E. Burdette ended the inning, O'Connell to Collins.

The game then went even until the 10th inning. Grover, who had been giving a fine exhibition of pitching, secured a hit to right field. Donovan hit to Collins and beat the return to first for an attempted double play. Donovan then stole second. Collins received a base on balls and Bond hit a single to right field. Mack played the ball poorly and it got by him. Before the ball could be returned Donovan had crossed the plate with what proved to be the winning run of the game. O'Leary than fanned and McCarthy hit to Babson for the final out of the inning.

In the 10th inning Grover showed the stuff that he was made of. After passing Burdette for the third time in the game he fanned Deckie Woodman and Peterson in quick succession. Waterhouse ended the inning by flying to McCarthy in right.

The game was featured throughout by spectacular fielding. L. Burdette caught a foul fly and turned a complete somersault but retained the ball. Gray in center for the Manchester team took a backward flop and came up with the ball in his hands while Collins on first also made a great one-handed stop. There were several fast fielding plays that would look wonderful in an ordinary game but did not keep up to the above mentioned. O'Leary made the prettiest fielding play of the game when he came in on a hard hit ball and made a hurried throw to first and nailed the runner.

The lineup tomorrow will be the same for Manchester, though it is generally reported Beverly will have four or five new players. Manchester's shortstop position has been open all summer. Another new man will fill the position tomorrow, as Donovan will be unable to play.

A big crowd plans to go to Beverly tomorrow. Last week fully four hundred Manchester fans were on deck. The Royal Rooters and others of the fair sex were on hand in large numbers.

THE ARABIC INCIDENT is not closed nor can it be closed for some days to come, but a crisis has been passed, with the Imperial German Government in a "sympathetic" mood, and with our patient President Woodrow Wilson there can now be no doubt of the fact that the American Government can adjust its differences with the Imperial German Government. Germany asks the United States to hear all the facts from both sides and to waive action until the facts are in hand. Such a demand is honorable and worthy of consideration. It is but elementary justice for this government to proceed with caution and patience and take such action as may be necessary when the facts are known. Germany officially announces that it disavows any intention of taking the lives of American citizens and that it "would deeply regret the fact and begs to tender sincere sympathies to the American government." Such a communication is entirely new in spirit and while not as satisfactory as would be desired in the light of the Lusitania incident, it does indicate that progress is being made and that our differences may be adjusted without the necessity of even severing diplomatic relations. Germany has not impressed this government in its conduct during the last year and while the legal position of the country is neutral the sentiment of the American people is against militarism and the processes of progress to which the German government has committed itself. America believes in arbitration and in the use of peaceful means to settle its difficulties with other powers. Now is a time to demonstrate the effectiveness of the American principle as against the Germanic appeal to arms, which is contrary to the fundamental laws of human well-being and progress. President Wilson has shown his temperance and poise and has earned the affection and regard of every American for his patience and forbearance in the heat of this debate. Germany has made an admirable move not only for her own good, but for this country. It affords President Wilson an opportunity to wait with patience before he is forced to execute the edicts of his notes to Germany. Every lover of peace, with honor, welcomes the turn of events because it affords the country another opportunity to maintain peaceful relations with Germany and to readjust the difficulties now existing. Germany made a drastic mistake in torpedoing the Lusitania and she officially acknowledged and attempted to defend the destruction of that vessel. As to the Arabic, it officially disavows any intention of taking the lives of Americans and extends sympathies to this government if American lives were lost. This indicates a change of spirit and may it not be but a forerunner of Germany's admissions of our demands? How unfortunate it is that Germany did not disavow unfriendly intention immediately after the sinking of the Lusitania!

IF THE JINGOES could be forced to lead on the firing line their cries would be checked somewhat. It makes a difference whose boy goes into the line of battle.

THE MANCHESTER BASEBALL TEAM made good last Saturday. Tomorrow they have another opportunity and a record attendance is certain.

THE WAR SPIRIT that has been dominating the leading dailies of New England is a discredit to us. The spirit of jingoism is always condemnable, but when the press with a precision and persistency that seems to be a malice aforethought arouses public feeling it abdicates its high position of leadership for a lower social status of disturbers of the peace. These are times that will try the souls of men. Malice, hatred, envy, cruelty and barbarism are rampant. The function and mission of the press is to lift men's ideals and not to lower them. In stirring up factions, partisan spirit and international hatreds the press of New England has not been careful enough. The Lusitania and the Arabic incidents had in them grave possibilities and everyone recognized that in magnifying the incidents and endeavoring to stir up public opinion the press has committed a wrong unworthy of American ideals. Peace is America's ideal. Not peace at any price, but peace with honor and in the line of progress. The cross fires of newspaper malice and hatred tend to kill that spirit and arouse the lower passions of hate and malice. Patience is what the newspapers must teach. The journals of America must lead, but if they continue in their headlong demands for reparation, eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, they are not leaders. It is time for American journalism to uphold the President and not hinder him in the work by jingoistic policies.

IN THESE DAYS when so much is being said about national honor and the maintenance of our dignity before the world, what is to be said concerning the national injustice being done our railroads? If a corporation violates the terms of a contract and fails in its obligations the injured party may obtain redress by suit. If a man tricks another man in a business deal and robs him of an honorable due the injured party may appeal to the law. Yet the United States government has saddled onto the railroads of the country a parcel post system without additional payment. Now the treasury department has discovered a scheme whereby it will be possible to ship gold more economically for that department, but really at the expense of the railroads. It is impossible to obtain something for nothing in a world of labor and trade, and yet the government is violating the fundamental laws of true economics in demanding so much and paying so little. It is time our government showed a little honor in dealing with the transportation companies.

THE BLUE JACKETS made an imposing appearance at the mobilization of the State troops in Boston Thursday, but how thankful all ought to feel that the mobilization was an entertainment provided for visiting Governors and not a real call to arms.

A SCHOOL FOR OFFICERS in Plattsburg and a mobilization of militia in Boston seems to indicate that the military interests in America were having their innings.

ONE ISSUE IS NOW ASSURED—all parties will agree to increase our naval force.

THE DESTRUCTION of a large German naval force by Russian forces at Riga was a surprise to Russia, to Germany and to the whole world. The defeat is a great gain for the Allies and a corresponding loss to the Germans. Riga is absolutely necessary to both Russia and Germany. It was Napoleon's failure to gain and hold Riga that caused in no small degree his famous defeat and retreat. While Russia holds this key, Germany must make her military plans with caution. The Russian generals are playing a masterly game. They have retired with their armies intact and have entrenched in new positions to await the time that advances can be made with a thoroughly equipped ammunition supply. Russia's first battle must be won in the Dardanelles. The Allies are hammering away at the straits and if their hopes can be realized and a way opened through to Russia, Russia will then be able to obtain supplies to continue the conflict on more even terms. Germany is making the gains that preparations have provided. Russia cannot afford to make progressive movements until ammunition can be abundantly and steadily supplied. When the Dardanelles have been opened then Russia will be able to move and not until then.

IT IS NOT DIFFICULT to see the Georgian viewpoint in the lynching of Frank, nor was it necessary to have the vision of a seer to foresee that his lynchers would never be brought to justice. The whole nation deplores the lynching as a violation of the moral law and as a disgrace to the nation. Frank was found guilty by the courts and sentenced to be hanged and the Governor committed him to prison for life because of an alleged doubt in his mind of Frank's guilt. Frank was in the care of the state. He was taken from prison and hanged, and despite the pious feeling of the lynchers he was murdered by them. Only the regularly appointed officers of the state, upon direction of the courts, could have executed his sentence. Georgia does not seem to regret the lynching nor to seek to bring the murderers to justice. The whole affair has been repellant and disgraceful. The Frank incident is ended, but what if it should sometime be proven that he was not the murderer of Mary Phagan?

IT IS NOT TO BE GAINSAID that America must defend the rights of neutrals and maintain the integrity of the nation, but those American citizens who travel between this country and the old world ought to have patriotic spirit enough to stay at home or take passage upon an American ship. There is a war on and such Americans ought not to jeopardize the interests of this country by their headstrong thoughtlessness. It may not be advisable for this country to forbid Americans to travel otherwise than on neutral ships, but it ought nevertheless be the moral obligation of every individual American to follow such a policy.

IT IS TIME for the public men who are seeking the approbation of the public to stand on high moral ground relative to the question of preparedness. It is folly to avoid the issue and it is more than folly to make it more than one issue of our national life. America should have a broad policy of preparedness, but it should avoid the pitfalls of militarism.

THE FOREFATHERS of the present generation of Americans came to America to avoid the oppressions and wars and violations of liberties of the old world. Why should this generation undo by hasty actions the great gains made for humanity and freedom in the past?

ONE OF THE MARKED disadvantages of the war has been particularly felt by the manufacturers of medical supplies. Many of the commonest remedies and medicines and appurtenances used by chemists, druggists and physicians have been needed and the American market has been unable to supply the demand. Now, however, the American capitalists are turning toward this branch of industry. Germany has held the markets of the world so long and has been able so efficiently to manufacture articles used by the trade at a lower price than they could be produced in America the operations of the simplest laws of supply and demand made the German people the merchants of the world in this line of trade. America now enjoys a "protected period." German goods are not coming in and the demand must be supplied. During the last year millions of dollars have been placed by American capitalists for the manufacture of drugs and druggist supplies formerly made in Germany. If these supplies can be economically made and if the American capitalists can hold the world market after the war is over there will be at least one advantage that has accrued from the war, but at what a price!

DOES ANY MOTHER wish her son given up as a sacrifice to the war gods? Is it not possible for a mother to feel that she did not raise her boy to be a soldier without being guilty of treason? It is possible for a patriotic mother to hate war and its sacrifices and to object to being mother of soldiers to fight and fight only with sword or arms. Yet such a mother when a conflict arose might with true patriotic sacrifice give up her own life and that of all dear to her for the cause of her country. The sacrifices of peace are as honorable as the sacrifices of war and the heroes and heroines of peace are as worthy as the heroes and heroines of war. It is the mother's instinct to shield her children. Who can blame a mother from such objections to war and its bloody sacrifices. The very mother who feels like singing the song, "I didn't raise my boy to be a soldier," could and would probably be the first to send her boy into an honorable strife. But are such strifes necessary?

THE LOYAL EFFORTS of Americans and Italians to raise funds to care for the families of the Italian soldiers who have returned to fight for their colors are being richly rewarded. The humanitarian instincts thus expressed are not misplaced. The Festa on the Hammond Estate was the success that it was hoped for. The fund has made a good beginning, but the treasurer would doubtless be glad to increase it.

THE BOSTON AND MAINE RAILROAD has another six months to meet the extended notes. It may be possible for the corporation to avoid a receivership, but a receivership might in the end mean much for the rehabilitation of the companies.

THE TREE PLANTING movement has always been a part of the policy of the residents of the North Shore and progress has been made. Gloucester, Beverly and Manchester have not been remiss in this way.

THE WAR HAS GIVEN us new rules for spelling Petrograd and Serbia for St. Petersburg and Servia. The spelling comes easy but the map makers are having the hard task.

WHAT ERRATIC MOVEMENTS international events cause in the marketing world?

MANCHESTER SECTION

Friday, August 27, 1915.

The last band concert of the summer is scheduled for next Friday night,—Sept. 3.

Manchester schools will open for the fall term Tuesday, Sept. 7th,—a week from next Tuesday.

Manchester baseball fans will turn out for the last game of the Manchester-Beverly series at Montserrat tomorrow afternoon. Admission will be 25 cents for all tomorrow, and not 25c. for men and 15c. for ladies as last week. Manchester gets half the receipts this week.

The Relief Corps bazaar held in the Town hall last week, for three days, was quite successful despite the counter attractions. Mrs. Tappan says she expects to put $200 in the bank as the net result of the affair, to be used for the worthy work of the organization.

Mrs. Briggs of Norwood, who was one of the speakers at the Suffrage meeting on the Common Tuesday night is a sister of Miss Mazie Whiting, a former school teacher at the High School. In the account of the rally on page 46 we have thoughtlessly omitted Miss Whiting's name.

The children who have worked and played at the beach all summer under the direction of Miss Jean Dallett, physical instructor, will give a demonstration and exhibition at the Common, next Tuesday afternoon, August 31, at 2.30 o'clock. There will be a parade, forming on Brook-street extension, thence marching through Summer, Washington and Union streets to the Common. Among other features will be an exhibition table of industrial work, and the afternoon's program will include games, races, folk dancing, etc. It is hoped that all parents and other people interested will show their appreciation of what has been done this summer and gather at the Common to witness the events. In case of rain the exhibition will be held the next fair day.

A TENSE MOMENT IN THE MANCHESTER-BEVERLY GAME SATURDAY

Bond scoring Manchester's run in the first inning. Showing Burdette (of Yale) at home plate, Umpire Long, Phil Woodman in the outfield and "Deckie" Woodman at the right. O'Leary, who had made third on the infield hit by McCarthy that scored Bond, cannot be seen. Collins is in the coacher's box at third.

Mrs. William J. Johnson entertained the auction bridge club of ladies at her summer home in Brier Neck, Gloucester, yesterday.

The lawn party held on the Sacred Heart church grounds last week, was quite a financial success. About $1200 was realized.

In the first game played by the Boy Scouts at their camp in New Hampshire, the Manchester boys defeated South Effingham 11 to 4. H. Baker pitched a good game after the second inning, while H. Brooks deserves mention for several fine catches in right field. The line-up of the Scouts: Beaton c, Lane 3b, Foster cf, Amaral 2b, Miguel 1b, Brooks rf, H. Baker p, McNeil ss, and Needham lf. The score:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Scouts	0	0	1	2	8	0	0	0	—11
S. Effingham	0	3	0	0	0	0	0	1	—4

In their second game with Lord's Hill, the Scouts were defeated by a score of 7 to 3. Leavitt, a Bates College pitcher, proved too much for the Scouts.

An account of the Manchester-Beverly ball game last Saturday will be found on page 41.

The Park Board Wednesday night awarded the contract to furnish top-soil for Masconomo Park to Austin Morley, whose figure was $1.19 per cu. yard. Others bidding were Semons & Littlefield, $1.23; S. Albert Sinnicks, $1.50, Domnick Flatley, $1.33; Daniel Edgecomb, $1.33½; Connolly Bros., $1.50. The figures are much under last year, when the lowest bid was about $1.85.

We understand the committee of the North Shore Horticultural Society having in charge the matter of a new building will be ready to report in the near future, just as soon as a few more preliminary details are consummated. That the North Shore people and public in general will be glad of the opportunity of helping the cause along is evidenced by the fact that already, unsolicited, some $1500 or more has been subscribed toward the purchase of some suitable site and the construction of some attractive building.

MANCHESTER

Mr. and Mrs. Hession of Lowell were in town yesterday to spend the day. Mrs. Hession will be best remembered by her Manchester friends as Miss Keefe, the New York dress-maker, who came here for so many summers.

"Stuffy" McInnes, of Gloucester, the star first-baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, who is home on account of the illness of his mother, has been putting in some time at the Manchester playground diamond this week, keeping in trim and incidentally giving the Manchester boys some timely instructions on how to play the game. "Stuffy" was on Manchester's bench at last Saturday's game, and he probably will be again tomorrow.

One of the largest dancing parties of the summer was the invitation party given in the Town Hall Wednesday evening by Mrs. Filbee, whose husband is butler at the McMillan summer home in Manchester. Mrs. Filbee proved a charming hostess and everyone had a most delightful evening. The music was excellent and the dancing was greatly enjoyed. Miss McDonald of the Oceanside Hotel, Magnolia, one of the most accomplished dancers seen in the Town Hall this season, gave a splendid and most artistic interpretation of some of the latest steps, with Mr. Kerr of the Oceanside as partner. Miss McDonald is considered one of the finest dancers of these modern steps, outside the professionals, in Magnolia this summer, and she has been taking lessons of Latscha, the New York teacher. She was applauded again and again for her performance Wednesday evening.

"Stuffy" McInnis, who is home on account of the serious illness of his mother, watched the game from the Manchester bench and did some coaching that was of material assistance to the Manchester team. There was considerable conjecture in some quarters as to who this well posted stranger was, and it was not until the game was nearly over that they learned that it was the best first baseman in baseball, a man who has been on the championship team for four years, and under Connie Mack, one of the greatest managers the game has ever known, for six years that was aiding them in climbing to victory. Such is fame!—Gloucester Times.

UMPIRE LONG'S NOTES ON THE MANCHESTER-BEVERLY GAME.

Sporting Editor Long of the Salem News, who umpired behind the bat, comments on the Beverly-Manchester game last Saturday, as follows:

Fans who are missing the Manchester and Beverly series do not know what they are passing up. The writer has seen college and High school cheering sections but if any of them have anything on the incessant rooting of the Manchester contingent, he has to be shown.

Whether their team is behind or in front the Manchester fans are there strong with the vocal chords and it is worth the price of admission to listen to them root. One sitting in the stands cannot help being caught in the wave of enthusiasm and root for Manchester.

It might be thought by an outsider that the rooting comes from the male element, but of the crowd of 1500 there must have been 500 of the gentler sex in attendance at the game and they were not quiet either. Horns and other noise producing implements were in season and they were used.

Each player on the Manchester team was applauded when he came to the bat. Such a following and such rooting makes it a pleasure to play for the Manchesters and the players appreciate the spirit.

The Manchester team of Saturday was a different team from the one of a week previous. They went after the game at the start and their playing for bunts was a caution. Not a bunt got through the infield yesterday.

Even Grover, who is a star twirler but woefully weak on fielding his position, showed a decided improvement. He still had the fault of picking up a grounder and then running to first but tossing the ball before he reached the bag.

The Manchester fans had heart failure twice when the big twirler pulled off that stunt. If he would pick the ball up and throw it with some speed to first it would look better for him and also be safer. Many ball games have been lost on those little tosses to first. Safety first is a good motto.

The fielding stunts performed Saturday may have been equalled in the big leagues but they will remain in the minds of the fans who witnessed the game.

Considerable sugar changed hands again and when the next game is played at Beverly Saturday there should be some action. Manchester is an exceptional town for a ball team and after last week's game the players can have the best that is procurable.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE NEWS.

Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale will speak on the Suffrage question at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Amory Eliot, Old Neck road, Manchester, on Friday, Sept. 3d, at five o'clock. Mrs. Eliot has set the hour late in the afternoon in order to give the men an opportunity to come, but she cordially invites both women and men to be present. The Manchester League will supply a "Bus" which will run from the Square to the Eliot house between 4.30 and 5 o'clock, to carry any of the towns people who may care to go and to bring them back after the meeting. Nobody should miss this one opportunity to hear Mrs. Hale in Manchester,—very likely the only chance to hear her on this shore at all, for she is now the speaker who is most in demand, and her home is in New York. Mrs. Hale was the beautiful Beatrice Forbes-Robertson, a niece of the famous actor, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson; after her marriage to Swinburn Hale of New York she retired from the stage and devoted her time to domestic life and writing, with occasional lectures. Her many experiences of life have made her an authority on the Woman question, and besides a fascinating personality she has a brilliant mind. Those who cannot obtain Mrs. Hale's wonderful book, "What Women Want," should at least read her short article on the same subject in the September McClure's, which has also a good picture of Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale.

The Campaign Canvassers and Speaker had very successful meetings on the evening of Tuesday of this week, both at Manchester and Magnolia. The speaker was Mrs. Charles Briggs, of Norwood, instead of Mrs. Crowley, who finds that she cannot speak every night. We were fortunate, for Mrs. Briggs is one of the chief speakers of the Massachusetts campaign. And by a pleasant coincidence her sister, Miss..... who came with her, was formerly a school teacher in Manchester. Both sisters are deeply interested in educational and civic work, and both were warmly welcomed here. The whole group of "Campaigners" expressed their appreciation of Manchester hospitality. The crowd on the Common was notably large and interest and perfect order was maintained. Mr. Francis M. Stanwood introduced Mrs. Briggs. Many Suffrage cards were signed by some of our best citizens, and many Bluebirds were sold. We suffragists wish to thank the town authorities and the chief of police for their kind attention and assistance.

The various groups of Canvassers and Campaigners through the state give most encouraging reports of the progress of the campaign and we all hope and pray that no "wars and rumors of wars" may interrupt the enfranchisement of American women (for war always interrupts progress). As Mrs. Briggs said, we ask the men of Massachusetts to stand by us now, in our time of need, and we will stand by the men—as we always have done—in peace or in war!

The North Shore Base Ball Association of Gloucester was beaten in a slugging match by the Masconomo hotel nine at the Brook street playground, Tuesday afternoon by a score of 22 to 18. Merchant and Slade were the opposing pitchers and were not hit so hard as the score would indicate, bad fielding being responsible for many of the runs. Parkhurst, who played with the North Shore team, hit two home runs.

Alex. H. Sjolund, the plumber, has constructed a motor boat suited for a toy for some wealthy youngster, that is far beyond the average for such contrivances. The boat measures five feet eight inches and is equipped with every conceivable improvement that makes for speed and comfort on a real motorboat. Batteries concealed in the hull provide the power for the spark, the electric searchlight and board light. The model will get up a speed faster than one would want to row in a row-boat and it will go either in a straight line or any given direction without change. The model may be seen in Mr. Sjolund's shop on Union street. It is a wonder.

"NOBODY HOME" AT WILBUR

The most phenomenal success in a musical way occurred at the Wilbur Theatre last Monday evening when F. Ray Comstock and Elisabeth Marbury presented "Nobody Home," the smartest musical comedy ever seen in Boston. It took the city by storm with its catchy, syncopating music and its cast of artists.

"Nobody Home" was attended on the opening night by Governor Walsh and Mayor Curley, and society was so well represented that it far surpassed the most brilliant grand opera opening. The play came here well indorsed by a run of six months at the Princess and Maxine Elliott Theatres, New York, and according to the reception of the past week, it will double the run in Boston.

Cosmo Hamilton's great morality play, "The Blindness of Virtue," which created an enormous furore on the legitimate stage, has been made into a giant six-part photo-play with Edna Mayo and Bryant Washburn in the principal roles. An additional complaint will be entered in this court against a very noisy racing boat, and the State Police forbid its taking part in the race. This case will be heard in the Marblehead Court in the near future.

At Nahant,—Libby P. Richards, 185 Chestnut st., Lynn, William S. Dodge, 12 Sachem st., Lynn, Henry Frederick, Sea View ave., Nahant, Thomas Williams, 68 Orchard st., Lynn, James S. Lenox, 36 Touro st., Medford, Williard M. Whitman, 9 Fuller Terrace, Swampscott, and W. F. Fitzpatrick, 7 Bicknell road, North Weymouth, all placed on file; Hugh Jones, launch of the steam yacht "Arcady," Marblehead, fined $10.

The court ordered that the cases which were placed on file should install proper mufflers, and report to Captain Grady for inspection. The court fixed the time of this inspection as Thursday, August 26, from 2 until 5 at the Relay House Landing in Nahant. The court requested that the newspaper men present notify their readers through their papers of this inspection, and that all boats at Nahant should present themselves for inspection at this time, and if after that any boats are complained of, the court would then deal with them without any leniency whatever.

At Gloucester, additional complaints will be entered within a very few days.

MAGNOLIA

The Lawn Party in aid of St. Joseph's Parish, was a repetition of the success of previous years. The sum of $650 was taken in above expenses. The committee is very grateful to those whose generosity made this possible. The following had charge of the various tables: Ice-cream, Mrs. John J. Chane, Miss Catherine Daley; fancy, Mrs. D. C. Ballou, Miss Lillian Smith; tonic, Misses Rose McEllinny and Mary Watson; refreshments, Mrs. T. McCarthy, Mrs. John Commerford. Charles Hunt and Leo Chane had charge of the Hoop-la; John Chane, the African Dodger; Mr. Rose, the Teddy bears; William Hunt, canes. The decorating was the work of Arthur J. Edwards and was greatly admired. Through the kindness of Rev. F. J. Libby, manager of the Men's club, the Ladies aid of St. Joseph's Parish will hold a Cake Walk and dance on Saturday evening, Sept. 4. There will be plain and fancy dancing with good music. Tickets 25 cents.

Miss Marion Story returned from her California trip the first of the week and has resumed her work at the postoffice. Miss Story was one of a party of about twenty New England girls that won in the newspaper contest in the early summer. Together with a party of Canadian girls and others from other newspaper contests the trip was made by special train, returning by way of the Canadian north west and Niagara Falls.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Village church is to hold a sale of aprons at the Women's clubhouse Wednesday afternoon, September 1, from 2 o'clock into the evening. The aprons are all of good quality, home-made, and reasonably priced, so that the sale will undoubtedly be well patronized.

The 14 little girls of Magnolia who have enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Thornton at the bungalow she built for them early in the season, have voted to continue their club through the winter months meeting once each week. They will be known as "the Thornton club" and will continue to work for children who are

On Friday afternoon, September 3, from 3-5 they are giving an entertainment and sale at the bungalow, the proceeds to be used for the children of Labrador. There will be a short play, some folk dancing and a grab bag. It is hoped many will come to encourage the children. Admission 15 cents.

Interest in the tennis tournament which opened yesterday is overshadowing the interest in bowling and checkers. There were 18 entries in the singles, and 8 in the doubles. The moving picture show this evening is especially fine. "Charlie Chaplin Growing Up" will enliven the program and another "Col. Heeza Liar" picture will furnish further amusement. There will also be a Pathé drama "Rods of Wrath," a 3-reel picture of stirring interest.

The week has been an exceptionally busy one at the Women's club, with preparations and rehearsals for the Minstrel Show, Gentlemen's Night, Wednesday evening and the first performance of the Minstrels last night. Besides the minstrel show Dutch and Japanese songs and dances were given in costume and a one-act comedy, "A Pan of Fudge," was presented. A full account will be given in next week's BREEZE. The second performance will be given to-night at 9.30 at the clubhouse and will undoubtedly be largely attended. Miss Beatrice Long of Manchester will be able to take charge of her dancing class Tuesday evening of next week. Admission 25 cents. Col. French is to give two lectures each evening, the first beginning at 8.15, the second at 9.30. Monday evening the first lecture will be on Alaska, the second on Our Yellowstone National Park. One of the lectures Tuesday evening will be on Mont Pelee and the great disaster that took place there. The lectures will be fully illustrated by lantern slides by one of the world's greatest artists, Tamamura of Yokohama, Japan. Admission to these talks is the modest sum of 25 cents each with the privilege of hearing 3 for 50 cents. Children will be admitted for 15 cents.

Congressman Gardner's Reception to His Constituents

Hamilton, Mass., August 25, 1915

To my present and former Constituents:—

Regardless of party, and regardless of whether or not you agree with me as to the proper candidates to support in the coming Primaries, I invite you one and all to visit my home at Hamilton on Saturday afternoon, September 4th, to meet the Lieutenant Governor of this Commonwealth, Honorable Grafton D. Cushing. I shall endeavor to make the time pass pleasantly with the help of some music, a light lunch, plenty of good fellowship, and a very limited amount of oratory.

Cordially yours,

Monday, August 30, will be the date of the annual picnic of the Congregational Sunday School. Automobiles will leave Stanley's corner at 9 o'clock a. m. for Salem Willows and will start from the Willows on the return trip at 5 o'clock p. m. Expenses will be paid for all members of the Sunday School; the charges for others will be 50 cents for the round trip. The opportunity for such a pleasant outing comes through the courtesy of a friend of the Sunday School. If Monday should be stormy the picnic will be held on the next pleasant date.

BIG OUTING AT "SAGAMORE FARM," SEPTEMBER 4.

The second big event of the season at "Sagamore Farm," Hamilton, Congressman Gardner's home, will be the Republican outing September 4, in honor of Lieutenant-Governor Cushing.

"Sagamore Farm" is still reminiscent of the great Republican rally, when former President Taft was the honor guest, then welcomed 1500 people.

The September 4 outing will be a monster rally for the Lieutenant-Governor, who was an usher at the Minot-

OLD-TIME COLD CURE— DRINK HOT TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking up a cold.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB RHEUMATISM FROM STIFF, ACHING JOINTS

Rub Soreness from joints and muscles with a small trial bottle of
old St. Jacobs Oil

Stop "dosing" Rheumatism.

It's pain only; not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" right on the "tender spot," and by the time you say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain. "St. Jacob's Oil" is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache, neuralgia.

Limber up! Get a 25 cent bottle of old-time, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" from any drug store, and in a moment you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.

RETAIL STORE OF DANIEL LOW & CO., SALEM, MASS.

Before you leave the North Shore be sure to visit "the store of delightful surprises"--- "Daniel Low's"

Daniel Low buyers search every available market for the new and novel. Many of the things to be found in our Store will not be shown in other shops for months to come—some never.

Every article is plainly marked with its price, making it possible for you to wander about the Store at will and inspect things to your heart's content. Our clerks are instructed to be of every service possible, but not to bother visitors when they are "just looking around." We want you to "look around."

There are little nooks and corners here and there where you will discover interesting things that a hasty inspection does not reveal. They are just the things that make such charmingly original gifts or add that desired touch of individuality to your own personal toilette or your home appointments. New things for our Fall catalog are being received daily and you will always find something novel and interesting.

Many people find this an excellent opportunity to select some of their Christmas gifts and to anticipate for Fall weddings. Gifts so selected may be laid aside to be sent later to whatever address you wish.

Be sure to plan a trip to our store before you leave. We are sure you will consider the time well spent.
